PUDDLE PASTIME

Paul Mureiko has discovered joy in a mud puddle in front of his home in Hanover Park, Ill. The youngster yesterday delighted in slogging through the muck which forms after each rain but his joy is usually shortlived as his parents and neighbors usually work quickly to remove the 2-year-old's personal heaven.

McGovern Continues To Search

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, rated a top prospect for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, said today he has urged George S. McGovern to look elsewhere for a running mate.

Asked if he would accept the nomination if it was tendered, Church said "I don't anticipate he will do that."

Church said he made several suggestions to McGovern by telephone Monday. He declined to reveal the names he suggested but said McGovern "must reach into the big cities and industrial areas to win."

As McGovern cautiously sought a candidate to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, who withdrew, the Democratic National Committee was summoned to meet in Washington next Tuesday to formally name a successor.

Although the national committee can make its own decision, it was expected to accept McGovern's recommendation.

Among those being mentioned for the post, in addition to Church, are Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 runningmate; Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law who served in two administrations; and former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Gary Hart, McGovern's campaign manager, said, in addition, "a name or two" may be considered.

Once the front-runner for the nomination, Muskie kept a discreet silence on whether he would again go on the party's ticket. He told reporters he had not been in contact with McGovern and smilingly said "I have no comment" when asked if he would accept.

A national committee spokesman said its members will begin arriving in Washington Sunday to attend meetings of the credentials committee Monday on challenges —about six at present —to committee seats. The meeting to choose McGovern's running mate will follow the next day.

The major networks cancelled a planned appearance by McGovern Tuesday night when it became evident that he would not be ready to name a successor to Eagleton.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. were asked to provide 15 minutes of prime evening air time for a "major announcement." When it developed that McGovern wanted to speak about the Eagleton decision rather than announce his recommendation for a vice presidential candidate, the networks declined to clear air time, but agreed to set up equipment that could be used either to broadcast the statement live or record it for later use on regular news broadcasts.

There is no need for McGovern to make his recommendation quickly, Hart told a reporter Tuesday. Hart also said that delaying the naming of the nominee would keep the national committee from "shooting it down in advance."

At the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, McGovern said the time he could have spent selecting a vice presidential candidate was spent fighting the California delegate challenge.

McGovern has said that this time he will move carefully and cautiously. His campaign staff said in cancelling a planned

Thousands Evacuate Big Sur Park Blaze

Flames Out Of Control; Illegal Campfire Blamed

BIG SUR (AP) — Big Sur State Park, a sanctuary for California's famed redwood trees, was threatened today by windlashed flames that have already blackened about 3,000 acres and forced the evacuation of thousands of vacationers.

The blaze, which broke out yesterday in Los Padres National Forest, raced into the confines of the state park late last night.

"The fire is critical, not contained or controlled," said Art Jaseau, fire information officer for the California Division of Forestry.

"About 30 per cent of the fire is contained, but the rest is still burning out of control," said Gary Munsey, information officer for the California Division of Forestry.

"It is unlikely that we'll get the whole thing contained today," he added.

"It has burned some small redwood stands, but the major stands — second growth redwoods, magnificent trees —are along Highway 1 near the park's entrance and some distance away from the flames. We are concentrating men and pumpers in this area to protect these groves as well as the camps and motels, but have men on all sides of the fire."

"The entire 817-acre park could be in jeopardy," said Tim Huff, another state information officer.

The fire has been blamed on an illegal campfire. Fire fighters from as far away as San Diego, about 400 miles to the south, were manning fire lines.

The firemen — who early today numbered more than 700 — have been battling the flames in high temperatures, high winds and low humidity. Similar conditions were expected to conticue throughout the day.

Shortly after the fire broke out after noon yesterday, some four miles north of here, authorities ordered the evacuation of about 4,500 persons from the park. Also evacuated were others at private campgrounds, motels and small villages in the area.

The fire danger, heavy smoke and need for access by equipment resulted in Highway 1 — the Coast Highway — being closed to all but limited local traffic for a time.

Later, the highway was open to traffic under California Highway Patrol escort.

Eleven aerial tankers have been dropping fire retardant chemicals on the flames, along with two helicopters.

At least 12 fire engines and eight bulldozers were being used on the ground and officials said more equipment was being brought in.

A crack squad of 21 U.S. Forest Service men based at Redding arrived in Monterey by air last night. One of their members, Rick Russell, said they planned to work at least 12 hours, possibly 18, today. Their last fire was against a 2,000-acre heavy timber blaze near Cedar City, Utah.

Story Of Bremer's Kill Plan—Nixon Or Wallace

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—Arthur Bremer, described by a psychoanalyst as a classic "shut-in personality," decided about March 1 to assassinate either President Nixon or Gov. George Wallace of Alabama,criss-crossing the country in pursuit of his goal.

It was 2 ½ months later that Bremer, 21, was arrested following the shooting of Wallace at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

The psychoanalyst, Dr. Eugene Brody, chairman of the psychiatry department at the University of Maryland medical school, was the first defens witness to address the jury as Bremer's trial went into its third day.

Brody said Bremer told him he had fantasized "being a big shot, perhaps because I am small."

Brody said he asked Bremer if he was referring to his stature.

Bremer answered, "No, my future is small. My past an insult to any human being."

Throughout a discussion of his mental condition, Bremer sat in his chair in the courtroom facing Brody, periodically leaning over to cradle his head in his arms on the defense table.

Brody spoke slowly and in a monotone while describing his interview with Bremer three weeks after the May 15 shooting. He said Bremer became progressively more alienated after losing his girlfriend —the only person he felt he ever had a close relationship with —in mid-January.

Bremer then fluctuated between homicidal and suicidal tendencies, his personal stress apparently ending about March 1 when he made his decision to murder either Nixon or Wallace.

The doctor said Bremer's fanatic pursuit of his goal was "impulsive and erratic," with the former Milwaukee busboy showing great attention to detail on some minor points while missing seemingly obvious major points. For example, Brady said, Bremer took his automobile through a carwash to eliminate the odor of gunpowder so that police dogs would not be alerted.

But, Brady sody said, he went through Canadian customs tracking Nixon to Ottawa, carrying a .38 caliber revolver in his pocket, and completely forgetting that he had loaded the gun so that he fired it accidentally in a motel room.

"Mr. Bremer lacked both the capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct or conform his conduct to the requirements of the law," Brody told the Prince Georges Circuit Court.

"Mr. Bremer was suffering from schizophrenia on May 15," he added.

Brody said psychological tests as much a decade ago showed Bremer felt himself to be different and isolated from others and that he behaved within a private frame of reference.

He said he fitted the classic description of a "shut in personality" who achieves stability by withdrawal, repressing feelings of disappointment, and engaging in "wishful fantasies."

Brody acknowledged that at the time Bremer wanted to commit suicide —by throwing himself under a train —but said he did this out of a feeling of inability to relate to others and not depression.

"He had the feeling of being nothing to the rest of the world," Brody said.

Defense lawyer Benjamin Lipsitz said he called Brody in an attempt to prove Bremer was insane when Wallace was gunned down during a campaign appearance.

Behr Rivers Bill Is Facing Defeat

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — A long battle by conservationists to preserve North Coast "wild rivers" today appeared facing defeat for a second year.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, whose SB 107 is backed by virtually every conservation and wildlife group in the state, conceded his bill was in deep trouble after key committee votes yesterday approving both his bill and a rival one, SB 4 by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The votes by the Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee sent both bills to the ways and means committee. The chairman of the powerful fiscal committee Willie L. Brown Jr. D-San Francisco, is close to Collier, who chairs the counterpart in the upper house.

Behr acknowledged that even if his bill survives the ways and means committee and gets to the governor's desk with Collier's bill, his bill then will confront its biggest hurdle — the state agencies opposing his bill and supporting Collier's. Only one can be signed into law and the state agency heads are certain to lobby hard for the governor's veto of Behr's bill.

The committee's approval of both bills was contrary to the scenario worked out before the meeting hastily called by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood. The Speaker, furious since Collier's committee last week rejected the Reagan-Moretti tax package, openly lobbied natural resources committee members as they arrived for the meeting.

Collier angrily told persons in the hallway that Moretti was "trying to force my vote" on the tax package by ransoming his wild rivers bill.

Committee members, many of them still waiting for Collier's committee to act on their own bills, bolted Moretti and unanimously approved Collier's bill.

Balloting on Behr's bill came first, but was deadlocked 6-6 temporarily because of the abstention of Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando. After an aide from Moretti went up and handed Keysor a note, he gave Behr the needed seventh vote to get his bill out of the committee.

Behr greeted Collier after the vote with a "congratulations, Randy." Collier's loud response: "Bullxxx."

The hearing was arranged by Moretti on an hour's notice.

The major difference between the Behr and Collier bills is in their handling of the Eel River. Behr would impose a 20-year moratorium on any planning for new dams on the river, while Collier would limit only construction of dams to five years.

Behr argued that the water bill not be needed for many years, if ever, while Collier argued new dams were needed to stop flooding.

Opposing Behr's bill and supporting Collier's were the Eel River Water Council, the state Resources Agency, Irrigation Districts Association and Metropolitan Water District of Southern California.

Sausalito To Lobby For Federal Area

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council unanimously agreed last night to ask congress to include most of the city's Wolfback Ridge in the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 6.)

The council also decied to send a delegation of city officials to Washington, D.C. to lobby for that inclusion. Who will go, for how long and what it will cost will be decided later.

The action came after Edward R. Fitzsimmons — who has been trying to develop a subdivision of 160 acres of the ridge for the past two years — suggested the city council postpone action on his tentative subdivision map which was up for consideration at the session.

Fitzsimmons, who owns the

A Hell's Angel Intruder Ends Up Pistol Whipped

A Hell's Angel, who reportedly tried to hold up several young people at their Lucas Valley home early today, was stripped of his gun and was given a thorough pistol whipping.

The Hell's Angel, who was taken to Marin General Hospital to have his scalp cuts stiched, refused to give his name but was later identified as Michael Lyn Tankersley, 25, also known as "Little Mike."

After being treated, he was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon as well as suspicion of concealing stolen property after his weapon turned out to have been stolen.

Sheriff's Deputy Robert Barner gave this account of the early morning events at 561 Idylberry Road, where eight young persons share a house.

Tankersley arrived there shortly after 5 a.m., the householders told the officer. They did not know how he got in, but they said he first woke up two

Supervisors Vote To Require Physicals Of New Employees

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted 4-0 to require that all future county employees must pass rigorous health examinations before getting a job. (Other Supervisors stories, page 8.)

However, three supervisors discovered that they were too portly to qualify for employment and promptly amended the motion to require revision of the weight limit tables recommended by the relatively lean County Administrator, John F. Barrows.

The board action overrode protests by spokesmen for the Marin County Employees Association and Social Workers Union Local 535. Both groups voiced fears that the health exam requirements might someday be made retroactive to cover employees already on the county payroll.

"This is overkill. The employees are scared," said the associations executive director, Frank X. O'Connell.

"I ran into a lot of flack from the unions," Barrows admitted. He said he had "tried to start" with requiring physicals for both new and current employees, to cut down on the county's disability insurance expense, but encountered "a great deal of concern."

Barrows said "we've got a long row to hoe" before recommendations for physical exams for existing employees will be ready for the board's discussion.

"No one goes to work for a corporation of any size without a physical exam," Supervisor John F. McInnis said. "It's reasonable for Marin County, employing 1,500 people, to have physicals."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, leafing through the bulky packet of proposed medical standards, protested that the height-weight tables were unreasonable "for anyone over 35." Amid considerable bantering, Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed the tables must be changed.

Protestant, Catholic Mobs Fight In Street

BELFAST (UPI) — Fighting broke out between Protestant and Roman Catholic mobs in East Belfast today when snipers shot two Protestant workers in the city's docks area.

Makeshift barricades sprouted in the streets and roving crowds hurled stones and bottles.

A British Army spokesman said troops poured into the area to act as a buffer, but angry Protestants flooded past their flanks to seal off a Catholic neighborhood with barricades.

The confrontation came as Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen struck back against the British Army's occupation of their strongholds Monday.

In a flurry of predawn incidents, the IRA shot at British troops at least 25 times in Belfast and Londonderry and set off seven bombs.

An Army spokesman said the gunmen missed their targets, but that soldiers returning fire claimed they hit five urban guerrillas.

In another clash, troops saw a man carrying a pistol in a Catholic funeral procession in Beflast's Ardoyne district and charged into the crowd to capture him.

As they thrust through the cortege, men and women mourners attacked the soldiers while the gunman escaped in a nearby car.

The fighting in East Belfast erupted when snipers picked off two Protestant workers on the roof of the Sirocco Engineering Plant, a predominantly Protestant factory inside a small Catholic enclave.

Infuriated by the shooting, mobs of Protestant workers quickly charged into the streets where they met rivals head-on.

Hundreds of troops plunged between the fighting factions, but not before the Protestants had sealed the Catholics in their neighborhood with barricades of stolen cars and trucks.

Sources close to the IRA said the shooting incidents were indicative of new tactics militant Catholics planned to adopt in reaction to the British takeover of their strongholds.

"The bomb attacks will probably taper off, but you are going to see more hit-and-run type guerrilla attacks in the coming days," one said.

Five leaders of Ulster's opposition Social Democratic and Labor party (SDLP) meanwhile flew back to Belfast after holding surprise midnight talks with Irish Republic Premier Jack Lynch.

Former Governor Stunned In Kansas Primary Vote

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI)— Morris Kay, 40, Kansas House majority leader, stunned former Gov. John Anderson Jr. Tuesday to win a four-way race for the Republican nominationor governor.

With 90 per cent of the vote counted, Kay, the underdog when he entered the race June 20 just before the filing deadline, got 46 per cent to Anderson's 30 per cent. There are no runoffs in Kansas primary elections. The candidate with the plurality of votes is the nominee.

Former State Farm Bureau Director Ray Frisbie managed only 15 per cent, flopping in urban areas, and Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz received 8 per cent of the total vote, finishing a distant fourth.

Kay had a 43,317-vote lead.

Kay used a barrage of television ads to place his athletic face in front of many Kansans for the first time. Professionally produced and directed, the ads bought Kay the statewide attention his older and more established opponents carried into the campaign and took for granted.

Kay, in a state where rising taxes were the main issue, said he would abolish the sales tax on food and medicine, giving citizens immediate tax relief. For the elderly, he promised a new state agency to deal with their concerns, and for the property taxpayer, he proposed a constitutional amendment to place a lid on property taxes.

Traditional Drive Pays Off In Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— The traditional campaign of Democrat Paul Franzenburg won out over some new style politicking Tuesday as the longtime Democratic leader easily captured the party's nomination for governor.

Franzenburg, 55, of Ames defeated state Sen. John Tapscott of Des Moines by nearly 23,000 votes.

The Tapscott campaign was called a people's movement, seeking support from the poor, the young and the disadvantaged. Because of its similarities to the campaign of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, the Tapscott drive was regarded by some in the state as an indication of McGovern's farmland strength.

Unofficial returns gave Franzenburg 58.2 per cent of the total Democratic vote, with Tapscott tallying 41.8 per cent. The key Franzenburg support came from rural areas. Tapscott's drive faltered when the urban areas on which he had relied most heavily failed to substantially narrow the gap.

Tapscott, 42, maintained that his campaign addressed itself to the same issues on a state level that McGovern was meeting on the national ticket. Even in defeat, Tapscott refused to fully endorse Franzenburg until he has guarantees that the nominee will incorporate certain "people priorities" into his campaign.

Franzenburg, who carried the party standard in 1968, but lost to Republican Gov. Robert D. Ray, will now meet Ray again in November. Ray was unopposed in his bid for the GOP nomination for a third straight term.

Melted down, all the iron in Paris' 1,056-foot Eiffel Tower would fill a cube only 33-feet on a side — or the size of a three-story house.

Egypt-Libya Possible Merger On Horizon

BEIRUT (UPI)—Egypt's semiofficial Middle East News Agency said today that Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Moammar Khadafy of Libya had ended talks on a possible merger of their two countries and that a "historic" statement would be issued tonight.

The agency, in a dispatch from Benghazi, Libya, where the talks were being held, said the two presidents were greeted by shouts of "Unity! Unity!" from thousands of Libyans gathered outside the guest palace and that both shook hands with many of them.

MENA said the two presidents later telephoned President Hafez Assad of Syria to tell him the results of the meeting. Syria, Libya and Egypt already are loosely associated in the Federation of Arab Republics.

Arab newspapers earlier published a reported blueprint of plans for a complete merger of Egypt and Libya which they said would enable them to face up to Israel.

In a commentary on talks under way in Benghazi between the two countries' leaders, the government-controlled Tripoli Radio said their meetings will "produce important and positive results.

North Vietnamese Skies Host Old-Time Dogfight

SAIGON (UPI) — Two Soviet-built MIG21 jet fighters shot down a U.S. Air Force Phantom F4 in a dogfight over North Vietnam and then fell victim themselves to other U.S. Phantoms, the U.S. command said today.

The dogfight occurred Saturday. A second Phantom was downed by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missiles Sunday, the command said. The four crewmen of the two downed planes were officially listed as missing and North Vietnamese news releases said the crews may be in Communist hands.

Downing of the MIGs northeast of Hanoi had been announced on Sunday. The U.S. command withheld reports of the Phantom losses pending the outcome of search and rescue operations.

The (North) Vietnamese News Agency Tuesday gave the names of four pilots it said were shot down in two aircraft. It said the men were captured Saturday and Sunday.

The U.S. command also reported the death of an American adviser, killed Saturday when the South Vietnamese air force helicopter he was riding in was shot down in Vietnam's southern delta region.

Government forces in the 35-day-old campaign to recapture Quang Tri City Saigon's northernmost provincial capital Tuesday reported killing 69 North Vietnamese soldiers one mile from the city.

The U.S. command said B52 bombers flew 14 missions Monday and Tuesday in support of the 20,000-man operation to recapture Quang Tri.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Irwin Retires

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — James B. Irwin, who became the eighth man to walk on the moon during the Apollo 15 mission last summer, retired from the Air Force and the space program yesterday, his career clouded by the "moon mail" incident.

Irwin announced plans to form a nonprofit evangelistic foundation called "High Flight" in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Irwin, a colonel, was reprimanded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration last month for taking 400 unauthorized stamped and autographed envelopes to the moon with the intention of selling them after the Apollo program.

Walks Death Valley

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Boris Yankoff, who says that when a child his family walked across Siberia to escape the Communist goverment, yesterday completed his fifth summer crossing on foot of Death Valley — this time to dramatize the plight of U.S. prisoners in Southeast Asia.

"I suffered here in just a few days," Yankoff said. "But I didn't suffer quite as bad as the POWs. . ."

Yankoff, 58, a Sacramento, physical fitness buff, walked 222 miles from Scotty's Castle to Las Vegas in six days and 22 hours. He said he lost 23 pounds.

To Original Owner

DALLAS (UPI) — The Texas School Book Depository yesterday reverted back to its original owner when the Republic National Bank foreclosed on a Nashville, Tenn., businessman who had planned to turn the historic building into a Kennedy museum.

D. Harold Byrd, who sold the building to businessman Aubrey Mayhew in 1970 for $650,000, was the only bidder at the foreclosure sale.

Byrd said he planned to resell the building from which Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963.

Meals For Elderly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has set a goal of serving 10,000 subsidized meals five days a week to needy elderly persons by Oct. 1. It wants to expand the number to 250,000 by next July 1.

The program, which was approved by Congress, will allow some aged persons to use food stamps for the first time toward payment for home delivered meals.

Wider Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate last night approved 80 to 3 a bill designed to increase U.S. trade with Communist nations.

The legislation would relax export controls on U.S. products which are available to Communist countries from other western nations.

The bill directs the Commerce Department to remove controls from any item controlled unilaterally by the United States and available from other sources "unless adequate evidence is presented that decontrolling the item would threaten the national security."

Sets Rule Change

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The secretary of Harrisburg Moose Lodge 107 says it will change its rules to bar all guests rather than comply with a court order requiring it to drop its "white only" policy for guests.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Monday that if the lodge admits guests it cannot exclude any on the basis of race.

Nixon Fund Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office has asked for the campaign finance records of President Nixon's reelection committee following a reported link to the alleged bugging attempt at Democratic national headquarters.

GAO official Philip S. Hughes said the audit will be made because of a Washington Post story that one of the five bugging suspects cashed a $25,000 check apparently intended for Nixon's campaign chest.

Boom Reported In Eagleton Stickers

FERNDALE, N.Y. (UPI)— Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's withdrawal as the Democratic vice presidential candidate has sparked an unexpected boom in the sale of campaign buttons, bumper stickers and pens bearing his name.

Votes Unlimited Corp. had made half-a-million such items and "we were worried we would have to eat this stuff" when Eagleton withdrew, David Ross, president of the parent company Ross Industries, said Tuesday.

The entire inventory has been sold and another 100,000 McGovern-Eagleton buttons are being printed, he said.

Quick Assembly Nod To Tax Shift Seen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A compromise $1.2 billion bill—supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and carried by Democrats—to increase the sales tax, reduce property taxes and provide more money for schools reached the full Assembly today.

The negotiated settlement, put together by Reagan aides and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, was expected to be voted swift Assembly passage but seemed to face another struggle in the Senate as the legislature agreed to recess Friday for a three-month vacation.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said either the Senate Revenue and Taxation or Finance Committee would first hear the bill before it could be sent to the Senate floor. The Finance Committee already has killed a similar Moretti-Reagan shift and school finance program.

The proposal, actually a hybrid grafted into a Senate-passed bill by Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena, would raise $519 million for schools during the first full year of implementation starting next July and produce $575 million in property tax relief for homeowners, businesses and renters.

Moretti forecast that under the bill the average California homeowner would recieve a $200 a year reduction in his tax burden.

Starting Jan. 1, it would increase the statewide sales tax from a nickel to six cents on the dollar (6 1-2 cents in Bay Area Rapid Transit District counties); boost bank and corporation taxes from 7.6 to 9 per cent; raise motor vehicle licnese fees from 2 to 2.85 per cent; and hike personal income taxes .35 per cent across-the-board, unless federal revenue sharing came through.

On the flip side, the current homeowner's tax exemption would be increased from $750 to $1,750 this year and to $1,850 in 1974-75; renters would be granted property tax credit on their income taxes; business inventory tax exemptions would be upped from 30 to 45 per cent next year; and welfare families would receive an extra $2 a month to offset the increase in sales taxes.

For schools, beginning next July, $454 million would be spent in extra aid to begin to equalize state support between wealthy and poor districts. The measure authorizes $25 million for early childhood education and another $40 million for big city schools such as in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

persons, Clifford Scott and Joy Simpson, who were sleeping in the living room.

They said he threatened them with a loaded .44magnum revolver and ripped out telephone and lamp cords and stereo wires forcing Scott to tie up Miss Simpson with them.

Then, they said, he went to the master bedroom, where he awakened James L. Thalhammer, 31.

Thalhammer was told to come out of the bedroom and when he asked if he could put his pants on, Tankersley allegedly took the pants and removed a wallet and about $30.

Thalhammer became angered when Tankersley hit him a couple of times, saying he was moving too slowly, so he grabbed the Hell's Angel's gun, according to Deputy Barner.

In the meantime, a young woman, thought to be asleep, phoned for help from a bedroom phone.

When the officers arrived, Thalhammer, his younger brother George and another man, Jerry Gannon, were wrestling with Tankersley on the kitchen floor. The officers said Tankersley had "been pretty well worked over."

The older Thalhammer brother told the officer that Tankersley, whom he said he had never seen before, had remarked that he had chosen this house because there were a lot of cars parked outside.

After Tankersley was arrested, officers found his car nearby. They said it bore various registrations and identifications.

Tankersley, identified from fingerprints as a man with a long criminal record, was held in jail to appear in municipal court today.

Officers said his gun had been stolen last January in a burglary in San Mateo County, where motorcycle parts were also taken.

Reed School Adopts Final Budget Plan

The Reed School District board last night adopted a final budget of $2,857,196 for 1972-1973, up about $600,000 over last year's budget.

According to District Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the tax rate has not been determined but he hopes to lower the existing rate by about six cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Currently, the tax rate is $3.615 per $100 assessed valuation.

At last night's meeting, the school board reinstated about $16,000 in expenses that had been removed from the budget during previous pruning sessions. The board restored funds to pave the parking lots and playgrounds at Belvedere, Granada, Bel Aire and Del Mar Schools and repaint the exterior of the school district's administrative offices.

In other action, the board hired Elaine Lowery as a teacher's aide at Granada School and accepted the resignation of Lorraine Anderson, a teacher's aide at Bel Aire.

Kissinger Returns From Paris Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Washington Tuesday night from his 15th private meeting in Paris with North Vietnamese negotiators, but did not immediately confer with President Nixon about the latest mission.

Both American and North Vietnamese officials were silent about the content of the talks.

land in conjunction with Frank Lynch, had presented the map which incorporates the most recent changes recommended by the council, planning commission and city open space committee. The map was approved by the planning commission last month.

But when Councilman Stephen A. Fraser and several members of the audience insisted the ridge remain completely undeveloped in public open space, Fitzsimmons asked the council to postpone its decision on the map for 90 days. The council agreed to do so.

He explained there was no reason for haste in the matter, since the foreclosure proceedings against his partner Lynch had been settled by obtaining a long-term note on Lynch's portion of the land. "Mr. Lynch is no longer in danger of immediate foreclosure," he said.

Fitzsimmons said he would be "more than willing" to defer the matter to give city officials time to see if his property can indeed be placed in the national recreation area. "If it is destined to be open space, all we want is just compensation for our land," he said.

But Fitzsimmons urged that, if the city is unable to persuade congress to include the ridge in the area, the council again consider the subdivision map and "work reasonably with us."

Prior to the request for the postponement, the council heard several statements from persons in the audience, including former mayor Alexander R. Imlay, asking the tentative map not be approved.

Imlay said the 269-unit density of the proposed development conflicts with the city's general plan for no more than one residential unit per acre on the ridge.

"The overwhelming majority of the people in Sausalito would like to keep the area in open sapce," the ex-mayor added.

Others complained that the population increase created by the subdivision would hike taxes for present residents and dilute existing city services. One man noted that the approximately 57 acres of open space proposed in the development would not be public, but for the private use of subdivision residents.

Fitzsimmons suggested the city make a study of what the development will cost the city for additional services and the like during the 90-day period.

He also offered to pay the cost of sending one person to Washington to lobby for expansion of the national recreation area over the ridge, but the council did not take him up on the offer.

Mayor Robin Sweeny warned that the 90-day defereal does not mean the council will act favorably on the subdivision plan when it is again presented.

DEMOS

"major announcement" Tuesday night that McGovern would announce his recommendation for vice president "within the next few days."

The controversy over the vice presidency, touched off by the revelation that Eagleton had a history of psychiatric treatment, already has consumed more than a week of the campaign. However, McGovern aides said the Republican National Convention will not begin for 2-1-2 weeks and the traditional Labor Day starting date for the fall campaign is one month off.

One high source in the McGovern camp listed the strengths and weaknesses of the prime candidates:

O'Brien—Former top aide to President John F. Kennedy, former cabinet officer for President Lyndon B. Johnson and former Democratic national chairman, with the strong ties to Democratic regulars and organized labor that McGovern lacks. "But he has never been elected to anything," the source said, "and he is linked to the 'old politics.'"

Muskie—The 1968 vice presidential nominee and one of McGovern's top contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. But he refused to drop out of the race before the convention and his nomination would repel a lot of McGovern supporters. He also has a certain testiness that might not wear well during the campaign.

Shriver—He is married to the former Eunice Kennedy and has been director of the Peace Corps and ambassador to France. But he never has been elected to anything either.

Lucey—An early supporter of the Kennedys and a stalwart in the recent McGovern campaigns. But he doesn't project a great image and is not a great speaker.

Church—"A good speaker and TV-type," a weakness of McGovern. But he comes from a state with few electoral votes and as an early opponent of the Vietnam war, appeals to essentially the same constituency as McGovern.

All of them are Catholics except Church.

Others took themselves out of contention, among them Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, and Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida. Hart said one reported possibility, Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, was not under consideration.

McGovern planned to spend the day at the Capitol, just as he did Tuesday.

Nader Proposes Mandatory Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader today proposed that voting in national elections be made mandatory.

Addressing a League of Women Voters meeting, Nader also proposed that election day be scheduled for Veterans Day.

But the most important step, he said, would be to make voting mandatory. In Australia, where it is, the voting percentage reaches 92 and there is no big controversy about the requirement.

"We no longer can relax in the happy belief that we need not express our voting preferences," Nader said. "We've got to consider our citizen obligations."

City Will Replace Diseased Birch Trees

Petaluma residents whose birch trees have died or been damaged by blight can receive help from the city.

Many birch trees throughout the city have been killed by a disease and city workers will remove trees that are along the street lines and will replace them. Residents may chose between the Japanese flowering plum or liquid amber trees as the replacement.

Prison To Feature Lasley Day Pow-Wow

The fifth annual Walter Lasley Day Pow-Wow will be held 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday at San Quentin Prison.

It will feature a program of Indian dancing and music.

The pow wow is a tribute to the late Walter Lasley of Oakland who helped organize the Indian Cultural Group at the prison.

Subdivision Asked

An application from Star of the Sea Catholic Church to subdivide land located at 180 Harrison Avenue will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today in City Hall. The church wishes the lot split for the site of its former church.

New York Becoming A Center Of Trees

By DAVID WINDER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — East Side, West Side, all around the town, summer on the streets of New York City now is cooler, greener, and shadier. And it has nothing to do with the thermometer.

Trees are fast becoming something of a habit — one might almost say an ecological fad — in this asphalt jungle.

Latter day Johnny Appleseeds, planting large instant trees instead of the humbler, slower-growing seeds, are at work for instance on Third Avenue just above 86th Street.

What explains the surprising sight for Manhattan of earth pits dug deep into the concrete sidewalks?

It's a project by residents that will line up with another column of commercially sponsored instant trees down that busy East 86th Street area which shelters small German shops, restaurants, and bakeries.

"Then we will try for other areas in our community," says La Follette Becker, chairman of the East Mid-Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, which vows to make the commercial area, at $100 a tree, a "prettier place for people to shop and live in."

According to Jack Mac Bean of the New York Visitors and Convention Bureau, some 4,000 citywide block associations are either onto a tree-planting project or about to begin.

Mac Bean, who knows practically every street and alley in New York City like the back of his hand, awards the ecology prize to Greenwich-Chelsea residents on the West Side "who are planting trees like crazy."

The city's parks department reports that in 1971, 750 new trees or replacements were planted in Manhattan. Brooklyn's tally was 350, Staten Island 250, Bronx 234, and Queens 124.

Turning hard concrete sidewalks into cool oases of refreshment is catching on fast.

One of the more recent gems — it is celebrating its first summer of outdoor devotees — is the Greenacre vest-pocket park. On East 51st Street between Second and Third Avenues, it gives an illusion of a forest glade as ferny-leaved locust trees and banks of shrubs lead down to a below-street-level area.

Here a high waterfall tumbles down glistening, jagged rock-simulated blocks and swirls into a pool. Water also drips through one of the side brick walls like a natural spring. Only bird calls are missing.

"I'm happiest here," says Mrs. Christine Baro in a cheerful purple dress as she sunned herself near the splashing water. "I used to have to go down to the East River on 50th Street to get a little sunshine."

Judging by the crowds which flock to the vest-pocket park, most New Yorkers are happiest here.

For those who can't make it, there are other oases like Paley Park between Madison and Fifth Avenues on East 53rd Street, a little overshadowed now by Greenacre Park.

Or, less known, the Sallie Franklin Cheatham Park, a three-tiered miniature delight with decorative iron seats, planters of pink begonias, tiny falls of water and small bubbling fountains hugging the side of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church at Park Avenue and 51st Street.

Previously it was a dingy neglected site and its rapid and skillful transformation won it one of five architectural awards last month.

Commercial enterprises too are becoming increasingly more sensitive to the need to soften the overwhelming mass of skyscraper architecture with ankle-deep green shadings of trees and shrubs.

Park Avenue aorund the 50s is a spectacular example of skyscrapers with low-level walls acting as lunchtime benches under sycamore or locust tree shade.

With low walls and seven large shade trees, the building demurely describing itself only as 345 Park Avenue at East 52nd Street could recently count as many as 150 lunchtime sandwich munchers, a girl flower seller with a cart with bright yellow daisy wheels, a hotdog vendor, and the ubiquitous good-humor man.

By 2:30 p.m. the crowd had been absorbed back into the complex of giant buildings behind it, and the good-humor man moved reluctantly on to await another day for hundreds of outdoor lunch eaters looking for a low wall to sit on and a shady tree and, hopefully, an ice cream treat to eat.

New Party Chief Eyes Campaigning

By Godfrey Sperling Jr.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — The new chairman or chairwoman (or chair-person as woman's libbers prefer) of the Democratic National Committee has made it clear that the McGovern forces will deal persuasively and courteously with dissident leaders — but not forever.

In a quiet, husky voice Mrs. Jean Westwood told a group of reporters over breakfast that "we've made a number of offers" to Richard J. Daley for a McGovern get-together with the Chicago mayor.

But, she said, the next move is up to him. In other words, she said, if nothing more were heard from Daley, there would be no "summit". (Daley has said he would support the ticket.)

She also said that "if some people think they can find a refuge in Larry O'Brien, they are entirely wrong".

By this, she said, she meant the presidential candidate will be wanting much more than communication (through his new liaison with the old guard, O'Brien) with those powerful Democrats among the mayors, governors, members of Congress, and in labor who have, up to now, been less than enthusiastic about the McGovern candidacy.

Mrs. Westwood, the first woman ever to head a major U.S. political party, said that these leaders would, at some point, have to enter enthusiastically into the McGovern campaign.

For example, she said that if Mayor Daley never really committed his organization to Senator McGovern, then the McGovern people were prepared to send in their own organization in Illinois.

Mrs. Westwood also made these disclosures on McGovern planning for the road ahead:

She estimated that there would be approximately 500,000 volunteer workers involved in the McGovern campaign. She said there were 100,000 volunteers who participated in Senator McGovern's effort in the primaries.

Without naming the states she had in mind, she said that Senator McGovern would have to win "seven out of the 10 biggest industrial states" if he were to win in November.

"We expect to take New York, California, and Wisconsin" she said. Then she added: "We will have to take some of these states — Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Texas."

She said that it was the feeling within the McGovern camp that "the old Franklin D. Roosevelt coalition — of farm, labor, and ethnic groups —is still the basis of the Democratic party."

"But," she added, "we are opening the party to others, too."

She said that the McGovern spending goal for the campaign was $20 million to $25 million. "This would be enough for us to win on," she said. She added that the McGovernites could carry on a more effective campaign if they could raise $36 million, which is about what the Nixon forces will be spending.

She said she was encouraged by "the issue" in the campaign. "I hope they try an abusive campaign," she said. "The voters react negatively to this. We found this out during the primaries."

City Named After A Vice President

CHICAGO (UPI)—The 11th U.S. vice president has the distinction of being the least known statesman with one of the best known names. Prior to the vice presidency, he had been minister to Russia and a U.S. senator. Later, at the outbreak of the Civil War, he was minister to Great Britain. But, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, George Mifflin Dallas is best known because the settlers of a Texas hamlet named the town in his honor.

Pieta Aftermath

ROME (UPI)—The recent attack on Michelangelo's "Pieta" in St. Peter's underscored the security problems of the vast basilica which is normally visited by 12,000 persons a day. Up to 500,000 persons have crowded into the church's piazza on special occasions such as Easter.

OBITUARIES

Cesarina Galetti Dies At 80

Cesarina Galetti of Fairfax died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Galetti, who was 80, was born in Tonco, Monferatto-Asti Province in Italy. She moved to San Francisco in 1912, and in 1920 came to Sausalito where her late husband, Ambrose J. Galetti operated a restaurant. Mrs. Galetti made her home for the last 42 years at 57 Dominga Avenue in Fairfax.

She is survived by her sons, Peter J. and Louie Galetti, both of San Anselmo; five grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax. Rosary will be recited at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills.

Entombment at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

Memorial gifts to the Marin Community Workshop Annex are preferred by the family.

LOIS WILKE

Lois Wilke of Mill Valley, former San Francisco restaurateur, died yesterday at her home after a long illness. She was 59.

A native of Del Norte, Colo., Mrs. Wilke had lived in California 32 years and in Marin County 21 years, residing at 345 Linda Way. With her late husband, Carl, she operated several Carl Wilke restaurants, and coffee shops in San Francisco prior to her retirement from the business. Wilke died in January 1971.

Mrs. Wilke is survived by two sisters, Ladine Woodring of Tacoma, Wash., and Mrs. Charles Goe of Roseburg, Ore., and a brother, John O. Ferguson of Columbia City, Ore.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

MRS. MAJORS

Private funeral for Lillian F. Majors, 87, longtime Petaluma resident, was held today in Petaluma.

Mrs. Majors died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born and reared in Fort Bragg and moved to Petaluma 40 years ago. She formerly lived at 1410 Skillman Lane.

She is survived by two daughters, Gladys Larson and Mildred Johnson of Petaluma; two grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

MRS. CARPENTER

Lillian E. Carpenter, 72, died yesterday at a local hospital after collapsing at her home at 5 Coady Court, Petaluma.

Mrs. Carpenter was born in Chicago and moved to Petaluma as a youngster 66 years ago. She attended business college and had worked for the J. C. Penney Co. and Denton's Apparel, Petaluma.

She is survived by her husband, Elbert J. Carpenter; a daughter, La Verne Vogensen of San Rafael; a son, Elbert J. Carpenter Jr. of Santa Rosa; a sister, Florence Brauer of San Francisco, and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Family Mix To Hold Open Forum

Family Mix, a cooperative educational center in San Anselmo, will hold an open forum tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. to discuss its role in the community. The meeting will be held at 43 Mariposa Avenue.

Among other things, Family Mix operates the Switchboard which aids callers in finding jobs, housing and solutions to other problems.

The nonprofit organization recently published a "resource director" of Marin County groups and organizations offering assistance to the public. Copies may be obtained from the Family Mix at 43 Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo.

One Bank Cuts Lending Rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—A major New York bank today shaved its prime lending rate.

Bankers Trust Co., which has a "floating" rate, said that effective immediately its lending rate would be 5 ¼ per cent, a quarter point drop from the previous rate of 5 ½ per cent.

The prime rate is available generally to top corporate borrowers. Other lending rates usually but not necessarily are keyed to this level.

Maine Governor Bets On Muskie

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)—Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis said today he believes that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will be George McGovern's choice for his vice presidential running mate.

"If I were out betting money I'd bet on Muskie today," Curtis said.

Curtis, who played golf with Muskie Monday, said talk of Muskie as a replacement for Sen. Thomas Eagleton "is more than just speculation."

Malfatti Named Marinwood Captain

Promotion of Marinwood fireman Raymond Malfatti to captain was announced at last night's meeting of the Marinwood Firemen's Association. Malfatti will succeed Robert Miller, who has retired, according to Gerald A. Falbo, association secretary.

The firemen completed plans for a public barbecue to be held Sept. 3 behind the Marinwood Community Center, Falbo reported.

Barge Dwellers Go; City Donates Guard

Residents of two dilapidated barges on the Sausalito waterfront who left their belongings behind when forced to move out by the city got a break last night when the city council agreed to allow a live-in watchman to remain on the premises. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 1.)

Gordon Wright, attorney for barge owner Byron Edwards, said the guard was needed to prevent vandalism, thefts and arson to the structures and the property of those who hope to return when the barges have been brought up to city codes.

The last remaining barge dwellers left quietly yesterday afternoon when Sausalito Police appeared with warrants for the arrest of anyone still in residence. No arrest was made, according to Police Capt. R. David Malkin, who said the displaced residents had been "very cooperative and helpful.

A request from Wright that boards blocking entrances to the barges, put up by the city yesterday, be removed was also approved. The barricades were placed at entrances to protect property left on the barges, according to City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger.

The council has ordered the barges renovated or removed after hearing sworn testimony from several city staff members and a representative of the county health department that they are hazards to health and safety.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

NAPA PIER — Voted 3-2, with councilmen Robin Sweeny and Earl F. Dunphy dissenting, to give residents of the Napa Street Pier an additional 30 days to leave the pier which the city has ordered vacated until repairs are made. A court hearing on a request by the residents for more time before moving from the pier is scheduled to be heard Thursday in Marin Superior Court, but Attorney Jordan said that hearing may not be necessary in light of the council action.

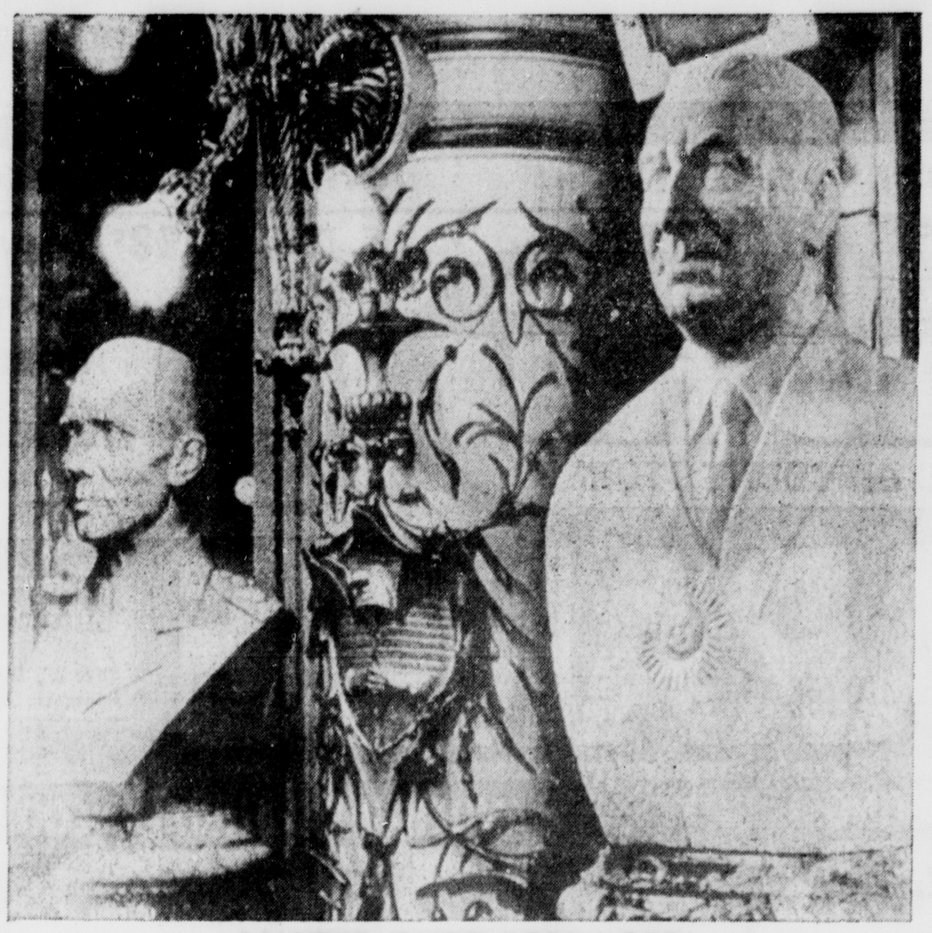
RESTAURANT — Approved a conditional use permit to allow the Harbor Inn Restaurant on Gate Five Road to expand its seating capacity by adding an outside deck and provide additional parking required on property owned by the nearby Mohawk service station.

ZONE CHANGE — Denied an appeal by Donald Dittmar on a planning commission refusal to grant him a zone change on two small parcels of land between Bridgeway and Martin Luther King School. Dittmar, who has an option to lease the land from the state division of highways, had wanted the designation changed from the current "public" zone to a neighborhood commercial district in order to build a complex of professional offices and shops on the land.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Dorothy Gibson, a Sausalito social worker, to fill a seat on the city planning commission vacated by the resignation of William McDermott.

EXHIBIT — Refused to permit the Emperor's Gate Gallery to hold an exhibition of sculpture in Princess Park. The council suggested the applicant, James R. Moffat, seek another site because of problems of traffic congestion and precedent for other businesses to hold exhibits on city land. Moffat had offered to share profits from the sale following the exhibit to the city as the beginning of a special fund to establish an art museum.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session with its attorney to discuss pending litigation.



BUSTED BUST REPLACED

A new bust of former president of Argentina Juan Peron (right), was placed in the White Gallery of the presidential palace in Buenos Aires yesterday. The bust replaces one which was destroyed after Peron was deposed in 1955. A bust of the man who deposed him, Eduardo Leonardi, is on the left. (UPI Telephoto)

Novato City Council Waits On Pacheco Ranch Plan

The Novato City Council last night heard about elaborate plans for the Pacheco Ranch, but could not decide whether to accept them. Instead, it set a tour of the property for 10 a.m. Sunday to see how the plans fit the terrain.

The council shortly before that voted to prezone to planned community and agricultural 664 acres west of Highway 101, north of Big Rock Ridge, scheduled for annexation to the city.

The 519-acre Pacheco Ranch is the largest portion of the proposed annexation which has been approved by the local agency formation commission.

Plans presented by the U.S. Development Corp. show 650 to 700 housing units on 138 acres in the valley to the west of Highway 101. The remaining 381 acres would be deeded free to the city of Novato for parks and open spaces. It was estimated that this amount of land would be valued at $2 - 3 million dollars.

The Frontage Road, Alameda Del Prado, would be extended along the property, but not connected to Marinwood just over the hill until some future date. It would also have a bicycle path beside it.

In the area nearest the highway would be offices and light industry, a motel and restaurant and convenience shopping areas. The houses would be mostly townhouses or cluster houses hidden in the trees in the valley.

The plans showed a park along the creek with houses averaging 50 feet from the creek.

Councilman David Price Jones wanted more single family homes in the project and representatives of the company said that they could alter their plans for this but it would mean moving farther up the hillsides to get the spaces. This would mean less open space for the city and more scarring of hills, they said.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said that the master plan called for 70 acres of school sites and the remainder developed into single family homes. He said that school district officials now feel that the students from the development could be accommodated in the present schools.

Mattson said that there was nothing in the master plan for offices, industry or business in the area.

The developer plans to preserve five Indian mounds on the property.

The council set the meeting Sunday to inspect the site and also continued the public hearing on the development plans until 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

McClellan Urged As Ellender Replacement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has been recommended by the Senate Democratic Steering Committee for the chairmanship of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Senate Democratic caucus and the full Senate are expected to approve the recommendation routinely. McClellan will succeed Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who died last week.

San Rafael Commission Urges Citizens To Become Involved

The San Rafael Planning Commission in an adjourned meeting last night urged more citizen involvement in the city's redevelopment plans.

The call came amid confusion on the part of some residents as to how they could contribute to the city's plan to revitalize the ailing downtown area.

"Just how do citizens' groups get any input into all this?" asked Mary Dekker, chairman of the San Rafael Historical Preservation Committee. She was told that William J. Bielser, redevelopment executive director as well as San Rafael's assistant city manager, would field all suggestions for possible projects within the scope of redevelopment.

Sue D. Lifschiz of the San Rafael Town Meeting urged appointment of a citizen redevelopment advisory board and said that she would bring the proposal before the city council, which acts as the redevelopment agency's board of directors.

Redevelopment consultants Thomas R. Owens, an Oakland attorney, and William M. Bryant, an urban planner, appeared at the meeting to brief the commission on the current status of the redevelopment proposal.

Bryant said that a redevelopment "survey area" had already been drawn up — extending roughly from Fourth and H streets in the west and along Point San Pedro Road in the north and on both sides of Francisco Boulevard in the south.

Bryant said that the next step is commission review of a preliminary project plan. The plan, along with commission suggestions, then goes to the agency's board of directors for consideration. After further review by both the commission and the board, the project plan will come up for adoption at a redevelopment agency public hearing, he said.

If adopted, the agency will file the plan with the county and freeze assessed valuation within redevelopment boundaries. Increases over the frozen level may be sued for redevelopment purposes, he said.

Bielser told a group of citizens after the meeting that acquisition of the Dollar Estate property for use as a city park will be proposed as one redevelopment project.

Commissioner Ben C. Albritton was absent from the 90-minute briefing.

Petaluma Theft Yields Arrest

Arizona police yesterday arrested three young people in a pick-up truck that had been stolen July 17 in Petaluma according to Petaluma police.

Coconico County sheriff's deputies said they stopped the pick-up truck near Flagstaff at 2:15 p.m. and found the vehicle had been reported stolen. Arrested were William J. Denne, 19; Karin E. Pimentel, 21, and a 17-year-old boy police refused to identify.

No addresses were known, but all are believed to be from the Petaluma area. Extradition proceedings were to begin today.

The truck owned by Robert Hudson, 125 Rocca Drive, Petaluma, was stolen from the Lucky Supermarket parking lot.

Condemnation Set By Novato Council

The Novato City Council last night ordered condemnation of a piece of property to help a neighbor develop his land.

It ordered condemnation of a strip of property 15 by 30 feet, valued at $115 in the estate of Pearl L. Lieb. Her son, Wilfred Lieb of 1521 Hill Road, protested the condemnation of his property.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said that it was a "misuse of city powers" and that the city could not condemn one man's property to help another.

The other property owner is Paul Pickart who has city approval for apartments on 5.9 acres adjacent to Hill Junior High School.

The trouble is that Hill Road is only 20 feet wide where it dead ends at the Pickart property but the city requires a 24 foot width. It had asked Novato Unified School District trustees to donate the necessary right-of-way, but they refused last week.

Last night's action (start of condemnation of the Lieb property on the other side of the road) will give Pickart the required width of road into his property.

The vote was 3-1 with Sartain against and Councilman David Price Jones vacating his chair because of a conflict of interest.

The Novato City Council Also:

APPLICATION — Approved an application to housing and urban renewal for $40,000 to develop Pioneer Memorial Park for open space.

LAND DIVISION — Tabled a request by the Marin County Planning Commission for an opinion on requiring a 42-foot-road dedication in the division of 15 acres on McClay road opposite the Indian Valley Nursery for Thomas Keena. The city had asked for the dedication as an extension of Canyon Road. City staff did not have exact plans where the road would go and the council tabled the item.

TAMALPAIS AVENUE — Voted to create an assessment district on Tamalpais Avenue between Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 18 acres at the end of Cherry Street from agricultural to planned residential for 18 dwelling units for Donald Perry.

DUST — Received a petition with 51 signatures from Steven F. Buffo of 2378 Vineyard Road complaining of the dust blowing from adjacent Tamak Estates during construction. The council ordered the city staff to see that more sprinkling was done to keep down the dust during the afternoons when the wind blows.

JOINT USE — Set 8 p.m. Aug. 21 for a meeting to discuss the joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base with the county, city and chamber of commerce airport committees.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 10 a.m. Sunday to go to the Pacheco Ranch; 8 p.m., Monday for another joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission on the master plan and Tuesday to complete items on the agenda.

New Agency Is Delayed In Novato

Creation of a redevelopment agency for the city of Novato was postponed again last night by the city council until next Tuesday night but may be delayed even more.

At the beginning of its meeting, the council voted to postpone the item for one week.

Later in the meeting, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown read a letter from Ronald D. Schenck, president of the Novato Unified School District trustees, asking for a joint meeting with all the other governing bodies to discuss the impact of a redevelopment agency.

He suggested that the meeting include not only the school district board but also the boards of the North Marin County Water District, Novato Sanitary District and the Novato Fire District.

Phillip Coady, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce said that the chamber would have representatives at the meeting.

The council asked Brown to try to set up a joint meeting of these governing bodies for next Wednesday or Thursday.

Requirement In Abortions Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—A city requirement that an abortion patient's name be included in the death certificate of the fetus is unconstitutional because it invades a woman's right to privacy, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Such a requirement was against public policy since it served "no compelling public purpose," State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Spiegel said.

"Single and married women by this directive would suffer an invasion of their right of privacy since they would be forced to identify themselves and become part of an abortion register against their will," Spiegel said.

Public Hearing For Ross School Budget

Ross School District's $622,581 1972-73 budget will be presented for adoption at a public hearing Monday at 7:45 p.m. at the Ross School library.

Trustees will also be recommended to approve four interdistrict attendance agreements, and to employ Geraldine Gottbrath as intermediate math and science teacher.

See-Saw Title To Two Texans

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Two 15-year-old girls ended 200 straight hours on a see-saw Tuesday night, claiming a new world record.

Karen Jaynes and Priscilla Wittman, got off their cushioned, canopied teeter-totter at 9 p.m long after surpassing a mark of 132 hours set several weeks ago by two Tacoma, Wash., boys..

The girls were allowed five-minute rest periods every hour, but one had to remain on the board at all times. They took turns sleeping at night when they moved to another see-saw inside a house. Each got about four hours sleep a night.

Job Bias Against Handicapped Barred

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill signed into law Tuesday a bill which makes it illegal for would-be employers to discriminate against a physically handicapped person.

The measure was drafted by Deputy Attorney General Bertram P. Goltz, a cerebral palsy victim.

Millionaire Will Wed Alabama Woman

OSLO (UPI) — Millionaire Norwegian shipowner Niels Onstad, 63, and twice widowed Susan Anne Robinson Bacon, 51, of Mobile, Ala., will be married soon, a friend of the couple said Tuesday.

Mrs. Robinson Bacon was formerly married to the heir to the Goodyear fortune, Thomas R. Goodyear, and later to the banker Robert Bacon of Mobile. Onstad is the widower of the late figure skating star Sonia Heinie.

Checks By Welfare Are Held Valid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 3rd District Court of Appeal yesterday refused to halt the Reagan administration's new system of computer checks on welfare recipients' income without their permission.

The court ruled that the system does not violate federal welfare regulations on obtaining eligibility information or the recipients' constitutional right of privacy.

In May, the appellate court dissolved a Superior Court order obtained by the Golden Gate Welfare Rights Organization Inc. to halt the computer checks. The ruling allowed the state to resume the checks pending its final ruling in the case.

Under the computer system, the state Social Welfare Department sends social security numbers of Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients to the Department of Human Resources Development which matches the numbers with its files on wages paid by employers. The system is designed to make sure recipients are reporting outside income.

The appellate court today said it is "simply common sense ... for the executive branch of the State of California to verify the legality of past AFDC payments by recourse to information which it has lawfully acquired and which is lawfully available for that purpose.

Airplanes In Museum Are A Hazard

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Give a 6th grader a pad of 8 12-by-11-inch lined paper and sooner or later he is bound to make a paper airplane.

But explain to him the principles of flight, help him fold the paper into time-tested, aerodynamically sound models, and what happens?

Two members of the Harrisburg Civil Air Patrol unit took the 29 students in their summer aerodynamics class to the 45-foot high balcony of the William Penn Museum Monday to find out.

The idea was to construct a plane, zing it off the balcony, watch it glide the 75-foot path down to the floor and hit an 18-foot bronze statue of William Penn.

The prize was a citation and having the winners' names placed on the summer school honor roll.

"They are supposed to use all of the aerodynamic principles we teach them in the classroom," said Chief Warrant Officer Marshall Stauffer, 24.

He side-stepped a wayward airplane and hollered "cut it out" to a group of "junior birdmen" who had decided he was a more exciting target than the brooding William Penn.

"We showed them some designs out of a book and helped them fold the paper, but most of them used the standard design they fly in school when the teacher isn't looking," Stauffer said.

Some passersby were aghast as they ducked to avoid the paper airplanes that zoomed over the escalators and plummeted from the balcony.

Stauffer darted from side to side, covered his head and shook his fist as a white projectile crashed into his forehead and dropped to the floor, its point dented.

On the first mass attempt, 29 airplanes were shot off the balcony, only to fall straight to the floor. Stauffer then offered some advice.

"You have to throw it hard enough to avoid the turbulence coming out of the air conditioning duct," Stauffer said.

By the end of the hour, nine students had won citations and Stauffer was "all done in."

William Penn seemed to remain passive, but someone suggested that instead of clutching the symbol of an infant state to his chest, he had heartburn.

Apartment Plan Finally Approved

A proposed Tennessee Valley apartment project, kicked back and forth between county agencies for nearly a year, was finally approved yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Revised plans for the project, which is actually a renovation and expansion of the Villa Marin apartments on Tennessee Valley Road, won swift approval amid praise from several supervisors who in March rejected the development as too dense.

"I think I'm at the wrong meeting," commented architect Norman T. Gilroy of Mill Valley as the board prepared to approve the development.

Gilroy presented plans last year for expanding the apartment complex by 135 units but ran into stiff opposition from Tamalpais Valley residents.

The county planning commission rejected the plan and suggested the number be reduced to 90 new units on the 9.6 acre site which already has 41 units.

The architect returned a month later and won commission approval for 95 new units but that plan was rejected in March by supervisors who ordered the number reduced even more.

Last month, Gilroy returned to the planning commission with plans for 55 new units, most of which will be gained by remodeling buildings already on the site. The commission approved the plan after winning assurances much of the land would remain in open space.

County supervisors yesterday swiftly approved the revised plan after hearing mild objection from George W. Kemp Jr., whose home lies below the hilly Villa Marin site.

Kemp, who has maintained in the past that the development would make his home and property unsalable, requested and was given assurance by the board his land would be rezoned to allow construction of apartment buildings.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

OPEN SPACE — Continued to Aug. 15 a request to place the proposed countywide park district on the November ballot. The continuance was urged by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney who said the action should not be taken until the governor signs enabling legislation for the district.

LIBRARY FEES — Increased library fees for out-of-county residents from $5 per year to a new total of $12 per year. Also overdue book fines were raised from 5 cents to 10 cents per day for adults and from 2 cents to 3 cents for children.

OTHER FEES — Increased special election fees about 20 per cent but took no action on increasing fees charged by the planning department for processing development proposals.

TAX RATE J — Acting as the Marin County Transit District Board, set a tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation which will raise about $355,000 for the district during fiscal 1972-73.

FAIR Agreed to request $72,000 in state funds for construction of sewer and rest room facilities and the county fair grounds.

CRUSADE — Endorsed the goals of the Bay Area United Crusade and urged county employees to donate.

AGREEMENTS — Approved contracts with the Marin City Community Services District authorizing $60,000 to the district for operation of Manzanita Center and several recreation programs.

YOUTH COORDINATOR — Established hiring procedures for a new youth coordinator for the county youth commission. Applications will be accepted through Aug. 16 with final selection to be made by the commission and the director of human rights.

VETERAN — Agreed to hire Horace White, a former youth worker with the human rights department, as a three-quarter-time group counselor with the probation department. White returned after military duty to find his old job with the human rights department abolished and demanded a comparable position as provided by state law.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Lilly Whittle of Santa Venetia and Rev. J. Arton Sarjeant of the Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito to the county human rights commission and Katherine Donery to the county family and children's services advisory committee.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Geraldine Shone from the county mental health advisory board.

TRAINING — Authorized the county staff to begin developing a training program for mid-management and supervisory employees.

SURVIVAL, INC. — Again postponed consideration of the nonprofit recycling firm's request for $25,000 support in the county budget, to Aug. 8.

FLOOD ZONE — Voted unanimously to transfer $6,000 from the general fund to repay Ross Valley Flood Zone for a loan to Flood Zone 9-A. Zone 9 chairman Edward W. Colthurst protested the board's earlier decision to add a half-cent to the tax rate so all Ross Valley zone property owners could repay the sum.

SOLID WASTE — Revised and approved a proposal by Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. to establish a solid waste management committee, consisting of one county official, two appointees by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen from the ranks of the City-County Planning Council, one member of the League of Women Voters, two special district representatives and three each from private industries connected with waste, and environmental groups. The appointments will be made later.

NURSING HOMES — Adopted 15 recommendations proposed by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, for improving conditions in nursing homes through better pay for employees, more inspections, new complaint procedures and revised rules for reporting violations.

Marin Deputies Win Stay Of Demotion

Three Marin County sheriff's officers, faced with demotion because of cuts in the department's budget, persuaded county supervisors yesterday to forestall the action another six months.

The three men — Lt. Arthur Disterheft and Inspectors Garrett McDonald and Kenneth Froberg — were to have been demoted to lower ranks on Friday as a result of the board's decision last month to reduce the number of mid-level deputies and their positions.

But the trio's attorney, Christopher Burdick of San Francisco, appealed to the board yesterday to reconsider the "devastating financial effect" on the three men and their families, some of whom were seated in the audience.

For example, he said, the demotion of Froberg to a deputy II position would mean a $250 reduction in his monthly pay check and probable loss of his home.

Similar hardship would face the other two, he added. Disterheft would suffer a 7.5 per cent reduction in pay if demoted to the rank of inspector and McDonald would lose 15 per cent if reduced to a deputy II.

Burdick pleaded it was unfair to penalize three deputies for economic savings that he contended could be made through normal attrition.

The board, after mulling the situation over, agreed unanimously (supervisor Louis H. Baar was absent) to keep the men at their present ranks for six months to provide additonal time for retirements and resignations to open existing slots held by other mid-level deputies.

County Administrator John F. Barrows, who opposed the extension, cautioned that the next mandatory retirement of a mid-level deputy was four years away. Several, however, will be eligible to retire by January.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimated the cost of keeping the men at their present ranks for six months at about $7,000 more than if they were demoted as provided by the budget.

Supervisor John F. McInnisn, who attended yesterday's morning session, said he felt six months was reasonable if only to give the men time to adjust personal finances in case there is no retirement or resignation.

He drew support from the others including Michael Wornum who first opposed the extension and later proposed it be granted for a year.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he felt it was a fair solution for both taxpayers and the deputies while Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he didn't want the deputies to "think the board is insensitive."

New Limits Put On City Buildings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Limits on the height and bulk of buildings in San Francisco have been adopted unanimously by the Board of Supervisors which claimed they were a model for cities in the nation.

The city-wide controls impose a height limit of 40 feet in most residential areas and a maximum of 700 feet in the downtown area.

The Planning Commission's proposals were adopted Monday unanimously and intact after two years of study of building controls.

Several amendments that were proposed before the meeting were shelved when officials warned of legal problems that could threaten the entire ordinance.

28 Die In Boat Fire

MANILA (UPI)—A passenger boat carrying 190 persons caught fire Tuesday off the southernmost Basilan Island, killing 28 passengers, the Philippine News Service reported today.

Safety Cars Wait In Distant Future

CHICAGO (UPI)—The federal government is looking for prototype safety cars—cars that can let their occupants walk away from a 50 mile-an-hour collision "in spite of themselves."

But it will apparently be a while—if ever—before they will be within reach of the ordinary American family, a magazine published by the National Safety council reported.

The National Safety Council, in its July issue of Traffic Safety magazine, says the government has contracted with four American companies — AMF Inc., General Motors, Fairchild Industries and Ford— and signed agreements with Germany, Japan and Sweden for development of "experimental safety vehicles."

Only Ford said its safety car can be mass-produced with today's techniques. Mercedes-Benz said its model will cost twice as much as the current Mercedes-Benz. And a GM spokesman said flatly, "the cost of manufacturing a vehicle of this type obviously would be prohibitive."

So far the Department of Transportation has awarded contracts totalling nearly $7.8 million to AMF and Fairchild for their safety car models, and GM and Ford agreed to build their for a token $1 apiece.

Public Hearing Set On Nicasio Budget

Nicasio School District trustees will hold a public hearing and vote on adoption of the district's 1972-73 budget at 8 p.m. today in the Nicasio School.

The budget will be $64,250. Although some $4,000 higher than last year, the total is not expected to change the district tax rate of 88 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Beverly A. Alberigi, board secretary.

Day Care Center Plea Due Study

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider a use permit for a day care facility proposed for 241 Los Angeles Boulevard when it meets in city hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

Linda Hersh has applied for the permit to allow use of an existing building on the site as a day care facility for 3 to 6 year olds, according to Charles R. Leitzell, planning director.

The commission will consider an application for a three-lot subdivision on Red Hill Avenue and a two-lot subdivision at 91 Redwood Road.

14 Killed As Jet Plows Into Viet Bus

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese A37 Dragonfly jet fighterbomber trying a forced landing plowed into a civilian motorcycle bus today.

Fourteen civilians were killed, military sources said. The pilot was thrown out of the plane in the crash and badly injured.

Demand, Price Increase May Bring Gas Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The demand for gasoline has caused a price increase and may cause a shortage of gasoline by late summer, Assistant Interior Secretary Hollis M. Dole said Tuesday.

Dole told a House subcommittee the nation is "beginning to feel the pinch on energy in certain forms" and the scarcity "will widen as time goes by to include nearly every form and category of energy."

He said the price of gasoline, for example, has increased four times during recent months with demand up 6 per cent east of the Rocky Mountains and 10 per cent in western states.

"There are unmistakable signs that even gasoline — which most people take for granted just as much as the air they breathe —may become in tight supply in certain sections of the country by late summer of this year," Dole said.

Dole said total use of energy by the year 2000 may be three times more than in 1970. America is becoming increasingly dependent on foreign oil supplies.

Dole urged new efforts to find oil and gas along the Atlantic coastal plain. He said there may be 19 billion barrels of oil and 46 trillion cubic feet of gas in that area.

Another government official, Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas, said brownouts and blackouts probably will continue to plague the Atlantic seaboard and the upper Midwest.

Nassikas told a House Public Works subcommmittee that delays in construction of nuclear power plants have meant that "available capacity is not adequate to meet loads and proyide satisfactory reserve margins."

The trouble spots identified by Nassikas included New England, New York, Virginia, Carolinas, Florida, northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

However, the nation as a whole "should be able to get by on the short term," Nassikas said.

Resolute's new captain

Coast Guard Ship Gets New Skipper

Cmdr. John F. Flaherty Jr., today took command of the Coast Guard Cutter Resolute in ceremonies at Yerba Buena Island.

Flaherty, 38, replaces Cmdr. John M. Wilkinson who has commanded the vessel for the past two years.

The Resolute's new captain is a 1957 graduate of the Coast Guard Academy. For the past two years he has been chief of the Readiness Branch on the staff of the commander of the 12th Coast Guard District in San Francisco.

Flaherty lives at 222 W. Kelly Drive at Hamilton Air Force Base with his wife Ruth and four children.

Cmdr. Wilkinson of Hayward will become the executive officer of the Coast Guard Training and Supply Center in Alameda.

His mother, Mrs. Grace I. Wilkinson, lives at 92 Corte Encanto in Larkspur.

Programs For Senior Citizens

Two special recreation programs for elderly people have been announced by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's Goldenaires Senior Citizen Club.

A fish and chips luncheon is set for noon on Aug. 16 at the Community Recreation Center, 1011 Fifth Avenue. Deadline for reservations is Aug. 11.

A one-day bus trip to the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum to see the Oakland A's play the Cleveland Indians is set for Aug. 28. The cost of the trip will include chartered bus transportation and reserved seats between first base and home plate.

The buses will leave San Rafael at 6:15 p.m. and return at 11 p.m. Reservations must be made by Aug. 18.

Two Burglary Suspects Plead

Two San Francisco men charged with burglary of a San Rafael restaurant last week have entered innocent pleas in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 15 for Demetrius Chris Tsiodoelus, 35, and Veselin George Radunovich, 42.

They were arrested after police went to the Jim Jam's restaurant at 810 Third Street following a report there was a burglary in progress. Police said they found Tsiodoelus and Radunovich behind the restaurant.

Although the restaurant had not been entered, police said pry marks were found on the rear door. In the men's car police said they found tools, flashlights and a pistol.

400 Women Are GOP Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost one-third of the Republican National convention delegates who will meet at Miami Beach this month to renominate President Nixon will be women.

The National Women's Political Caucus said Tuesday there will be 400 women delegates at the Aug. 21-23 convention. They will represent 29.9 per cent of the 1,337 delegates.

At the 1968 convention, 17 per cent of the delegates were women.

Courtroom Security For Redwood City

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — County officials said Tuesday they are installing a $250,000 electronic courtroom security system at the Hall of Justice here but they acknowledged they had hoped to keep it a secret.

Richard Lee, assistant building director for San Mateo County, told newsmen who noticed the closed-circuit television cameras being put in each of the 16 courtrooms that no public announcement was made because officials felt "it would serve no purpose."

"It was intended to keep the camera system mysterious from those who might interfere," Lee added.

He said contracts for the system had been let piecemeal so that no single contractor would know the overall security arrangements.

He said the closed-circuit television network, set for completion Friday, was inspired by the August, 1970, breakout attempt from the Marin County courthouse in which four persons died, including a judge.

The cameras will allow the sheriff's patrol desk to monitor all courtrooms, judges' chambers, and several corridors in the complex. In addition, each judge will be able by pressing a button alongside his bench to activate an alarm at the sheriff's headquarters.

In addition to the camera system, Lee said an "electronic intrusion detection screen" would be installed by the end of the year around the building's exterior. When this is completed, Lee said, anyone approaching the Hall of Justice at night would set off a silent alarm.

Experiment At Macomb Tried By 600 Persons

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — About 600 persons have benefitted from the 43 courses offered by a free university, an experiment in education started in Macomb the first of the year.

The free university offers continuing education to persons of any age and background who may not be able to enroll in an organized school.

It provides an alternate source of learning for students and is not designed as an anti-institutional source.

Courses range from gardening, piano and upholstering to women's studies, auto repair and winemaking.

Senior Citizens To Get Tax Help

A representative of the Franchise Tax Board will be in San Rafael from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 16 to help elderly people claim benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

The tax man will be at the Whistlestop at 930 Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael.

The law provides reimbursement of a portion of the property tax for Californians over 62 years old who live in the house they own, who have paid the property tax for the current year, and who have incomes of less than $10,000.

Claims must be filed no later than Oct. 15.

Dock Finger Pier Is Given Approval

Although it adopted a policy of not allowing finger piers on docks or floats at its June 13 meeting, the Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved a 20-foot finger pier on a floating dock for 12 condominiums on South Eliseo Drive.

The decision was on a 4-1 vote, reported Graham Lang, city community development enforcement officer. Commissioner Benton A. Sifford Jr., dissented, while commissioners Otto Hoefler, Leonard S. Rubin, Charles H. Curley and Earl O. Grady approved the architectural supervision application.

The pier is to be constructed on a floating dock at the Nara Gardens condominiums. At the July 12 meeting of the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission, Mrs. John Moran told members she felt that people buying $75,000 to $80,000 homes should be allowed to have finger piers.

And she presented photos of the Corte Madera Creek showing the difference between homes with and without docks.

Lang said commissioners came to the conclusion last night "that finger piers are not really as bad as they had thought."

Commissioners gave approval subject to the dock's width being 50 per cent of the total lot width, said Lang, and not 60 per cent as requested by Moran.

They also concurred with the architectural review committee's recommendation that a landscaping plan for the buildings' rear should be submitted for review.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

APARTMENTS — Approved an 11-unit apartment complex by Broughton and Horne at 505 Larkspur Plaza Road, subject to conditions recommended by the architectural review committee.

MILLBRAE — Referred back to the committee an architectural supervision application by Millbrae Highlands for landscape plans and revised elevations because of questions on exterior treatments.

LOCUST — Approved six apartments at 40 Locust Avenue by Otis and Miltner, with minor screen and color conditions.

SIGN — Approved an illuminated sign for Ross Valley Savings and Loan at 511 Sir Francis Drake subject to the sign's intensity not exceeding that shown by one adjacent at United California Bank.

TELEPHONE — Approved additions to Pacific Telephone and Telegraph's equipment building at 7 King Street. Conditions included four parking spaces and planting of former parking area.

FEE SCHEDULE — Recommended the city council adopt a fee schedule for architectural supervision applications with a minimum fee of $200. At present no fees are charged.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Instructed staff to work on proposed city sign ordinance and continued discussion to the next meeting Aug. 8.

Airbase Joint Use Talk Set

The joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base will be discussed by a panel and the public at a meeting of the San Marin Improvement Association at 8 p.m. Thursday at the San Marin High School library.

A panel of four persons will discuss joint use of the base. Then the general public will join in discussion, according to Diane Ryken, secretary.

Ned Dean, former president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, will speak in favor of joint use. Joseph Forest, chairman of the Novato Airport Committee; Joyce Applen, the Novato Homeowners Association's representative on the airport committee, and Arthur Knutson of Marin Conservation League will speak against.

Witness To Hit-Run Asked To Call CHP

The California Highway Patrol has issued a special request that the person who originally reported a hit-and-run accident Tuesday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — which sent a 16-year-old bicyclist to the hospital — immediately contact the patrol.

According to a patrol spokesman, Bruce Pawlotsky of Philadelphia, Pa., was injured at 6:55 p.m. on Sir Francis Drake, almost one mile east of San Geronimo Road.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken collar bone, a cut right elbow and multiple scrapes.

Pawlotsky was riding his bicycle on the right edge of the road when a car ran into the rear of the bike and threw the youth about 75 feet along the asphalt, according to the patrol.

The driver did not stop to aid the injured boy or present identification.

Moments later, the highway patrol received a call from an unidentified witness to the accident. The witness reported the details of the accident, but forgot to leave a name.

The patrol has asked that witness to aid its investigation by contacting the highway patrol office.

San Rafael School Budgets Approved

The San Rafael Board of Education last night adopted budgets totaling more than $11.6 million in the elementary and high school districts for 1972-73.

The board adopted a high school district budget of $6,007,598, up from last year's $5,337,903 high school spending program. Also adopted was the elementary school district's $5,661,985 budget, up from last year's $5,542,299 elementary budget.

The high schools tax rate will increase 2.4 cents to $2.354 per $100 assessed valuation and the elementary schools rate is up 10.2 cents to $3.417, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

He said that the high school district budget includes $4.07 million for instruction, $373,000 for plant operation and $162,000 for maintenance, while the figures in the elementary district for the same categories are $3.89 million, $370,000 and $172,000.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

CHILD CARE — Endorsed a child care project proposed by the Marin branch of the YMCA that would provide for the care of children of working parents after school hours at Gallinas and MacPhail schools, but offered no funding for the program.

SICK LEAVE — Heard personnel coordinator Jerry Gill report that employees of the two districts use 70 per cent of sick leave allotments, but that only 2 per cent use the entire sick leave allotment.

MAINTENANCE — Reported that summer operation and maintenance of the districts' school facilities was on schedule.

SPECIAL EDUCATION — Voted to apply for $140,000 in federal funds to hire special teachers for educationally disadvantaged students in the districts. If the funds are approved, three elementary specialists and 12 aides will be hired for the elementary district, as well as a school community worker and a high school psychologist for the high school district, Plank said.

TERRA LINDA HIGH — Approved the creation of a special ourse at Terra Linda High School for deaf and hard of hearing students and decided to hire a special teacher for the program. Plank estimated cost of an instructor and materials for the course to be about $15,000.

TEACHERS — Postponed until Aug. 29 consideration of a proposal by teachers that they be docked only a portion of their daily salary when absent on personal business, because no teacher appeared at the meeting, Plank said. Teachers have also requested continued tenure when transferring within the district from elementary to high school positions, he said.

PERSONNEL — Appointed Louise Latham as a Hebrew teacher in the high school district for an hour a day at $856 per year. The board approved Patricia Miller's request for a leave of absence but postponed action on Shirley Barden's request for a second year of leave of absence.

PAINTING — Awarded a $9,500 contract to North Bay Painting, Inc. for exterior painting at Santa Venetia Middle School.

LIBRARY SYSTEM — Approved a $2,400 per year lease purchase contract for four years for a library book detection system offered by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. The detection system will require small slabs of metal to be slipped into book jackets to enable a machine to detect books being taken out of the library, Plank said.

CLAIM — Rejected Richard L. Phillips' claim for $480 as compensation for a trumpet stolen in a burglary at Santa Venetia School.

NOMINEE — Nominated John Schmitz of Glenwood as the districts' candidate for a vacant position on the Marin County Committee for School District Organization.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Aug. 29.

Walker Burglary Trial Ordered

Ronald Walker, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday was ordered to stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing a Fairfax residence on May 3.

Another man, John Lauren Mott, 20, also of San Rafael, was awaiting trial in Superior Court on the same charge. Police said they found Mott and Walker, who also uses the name of Ronald Rogers, inside a residence on Cascade Drive.

Walker is to be arraigned next Wednesday in Superior Court.

He also is awaiting a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael apartment on July 2.

11 Marin Students Win Chico Honors

Eleven students from Marin County have been named to the Dean's Honor List at California State University, Chico.

The students are: Lauren Noel M. Thomas and Nancy J. Vogl, both of Corte Madera; Patricia J. Anderson of Greenbrae; Linda B. Christison of Mill Valley; Valerie L. Lyons of Novato; Elaine L. Ahnemann of San Anselmo and Mark M. Miller, Richard J. Bowen, Mary E. Carbone, Mary L. Hoffman, and Nancy J. Kemper, all of San Rafael.

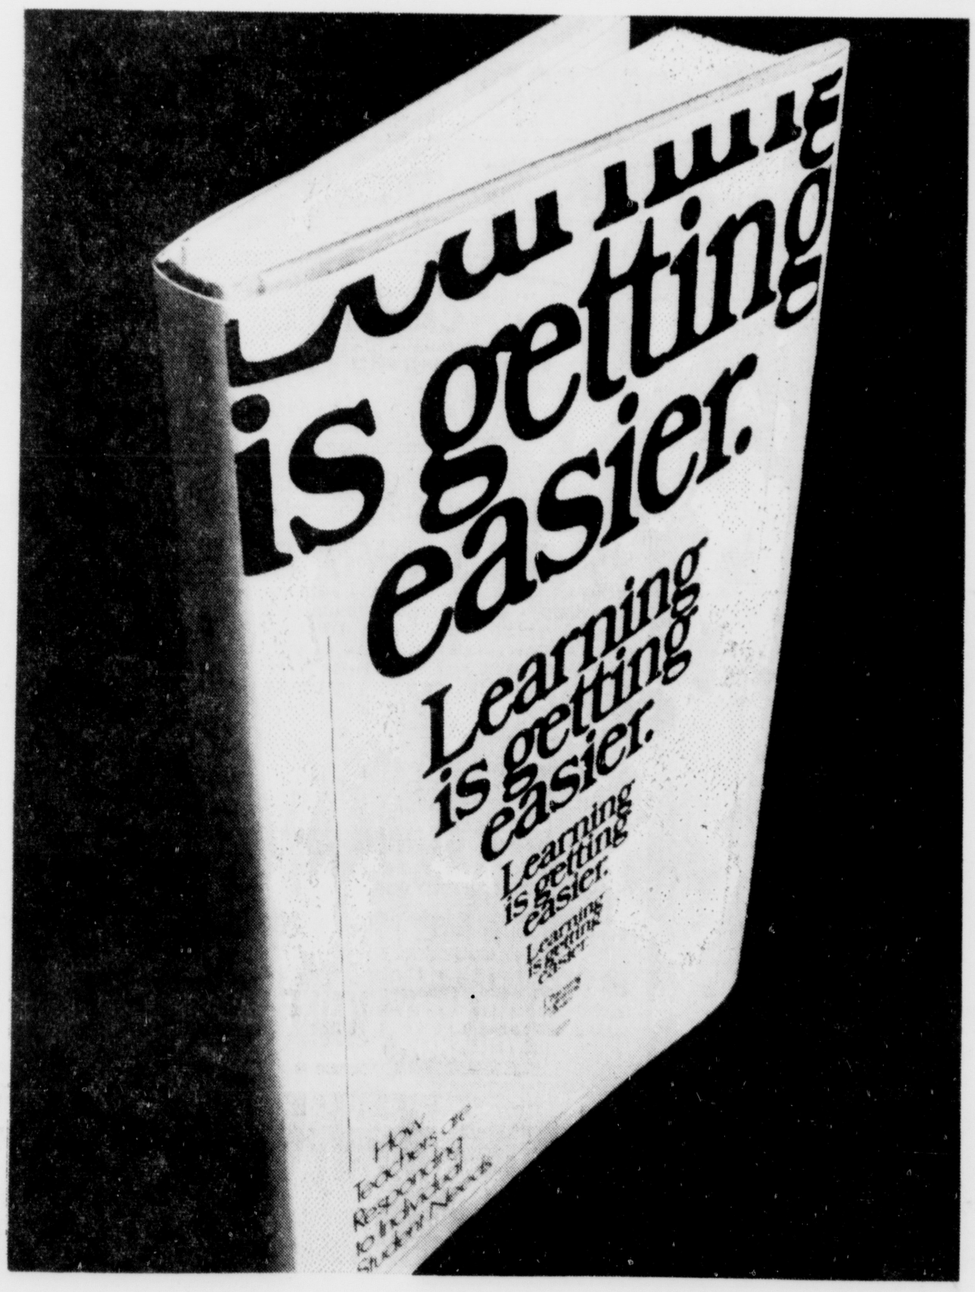
51-Thousand Marin teachers are asleep!

This is the book that could wake them up.
Once you've read it, you may want to make some noise...

When Marin schools open this fall, 51-thousand specially qualified teachers will not teach. They'll go to class, but they will not teach.

It will be a waste of scandalous proportions. In human resources. In tax money. And above all—in quality of education. For these 51-thousand idle teachers already know the special capacities and motivations and eccentricities of their students better than anyone else in the world. Who are these sleeping teachers?

They are the students themselves—all 51-thousand of them—and each potentially his or her own best teacher!



Academic baloney? Hardly.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are self-teaching their way through school—at all levels—right now! (Not at home—but in class, on campus). In fact, at the college level alone, over 160 thousand young men and women—on 1,203 major campuses throughout the country—are self-pacing, self-teaching, and self-testing their way to straight A's! How did it all happen?

Thousands of instructors quietly 'introduced a revolutionary idea into their classrooms. Victimized for voicing important educational problems—criticized without being given answers—these instructors have now found and applied a potential solution for all schools. It is a new individual learning system.

Originally conceived to meet an isolated set of teaching problems, its extraordinary potential was almost immediately evident. And soon the system was spreading—from class to class and school to school. Today it is sending rumbles throughout the entire U.S. educational system. Because it works. Because it is compatible with the existing system. Because it is welcomed by both faculty and students.

Learn about it. Read, "Learning is Getting Easier." An important book.

Fluoridation Urged For North Marin

The North Marin County Water District board last night was urged by several dentists and doctors to fluoridate the water, but took no action.

The issue may be placed on the November general election ballot after a public forum, said Mgr. Eugene Churchill.

Drs. Michael A. Harris, John Kassenbrock and William Heisler, all dentists, spoke in favor of it. Dr. Zachary Stadt, assistant health officer of Contra Costa County, who has made a study of fluoridation, presented the scientific background in favor of it, Churchill said.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer and Dr. Gregory Graham, Novato dentist, sent statements to the board in favor of it.

Joseph Doherty, vice president of the Novato Jaycees, volunteered to have that organization hold a public forum on the subject with a time and place to be set later.

After that, the board may decide to place it on the November ballot to get public opinion, Churchill said.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

AGREEMENTS — Approved in principal, agreements with the Marin Municipal Water District to connect a 24-inch aqueduct of the North Marin district to a 34-inch aqueduct of Marin Municipal District at Hamilton Air Force Base and for release from Nicasio Reservoir of a maximum of 150 acre feet per year into Papermill Creek to supply water for the north Marin system. These now go to the Marin Municipal Water District board for approval.

EMERGENCY WATER — Approved giving a limited amount of water on an emergency basis to Inverness Park water system because it is running low on water for 70 homes in the Paradise Ranch Estates.

TESTING — Approved an agreement to do the laboratory testing for Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

REPRESENTATIVE — Named Churchill as its representative to meet with representatives of Sonoma, Mendocino and Humboldt counties on diversion of water from the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. plant, now going into the Russian River, into the Eel River. The Department of Fish and Game, and Humboldt County Supervisors want the diversion to the Eel River. This would affect the supply of water to the Russian River on which Sonoma and North Marin are dependent for water.

IRRIGATION — Denied a request by Patricia Healy to irrigate two acres of organic vegetables from the Point Reyes system.

SEWAGE — Heard a report from Churchill that he is working with residents of Point Reyes Station to see if the sewer plant, to be constructed for 36 houses for the coast guard, could be enlarged to include a portion of the town.

SANTA ROSA — Sent a letter to Santa Rosa thanking the city for activating some wells to put between five and six million gallons of water into their system to help alleviate the transmission trouble during the recent hot weather.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Aug. 15 at the district office.

Michigan Expects Good Perch Year

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)— Fisherman with a taste for perch should find delightful fishing off Lake Michigan breakwaters, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources which is predicting an excellent perch fishing year as the species makes a major comeback.

The supply of perch was depleted in the lake after the population explosion of alewives robbed the perch of food. But 1969 was the best spawning year for yellow perch in Lake Michigan in more than a decade and these will be reaching catchable size this summer.

Cotati Council, Manager Discuss Communication

The Cotati City Council met in closed session last night in an effort to improve communication with City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen and planned another closed session for tomorrow to consider firing City Atty. William Cutler.

Councilman Geoffrey Dunham said the council told Salfen it wanted better communication and cooperation from him. Dunham said the council also raised some problems the police department has reported with Salfen and directed him to be more cooperative with officers.

Dunham said no move was made to fire Salfen, but that the council did give him some general directives that it hopes will bring more cooperation.

Dunham said the closed session tomorrow with Cutler will include consideration of asking for his resignation. Several councilmen have complained that since Cutler has his law offices in Santa Rosa he is not always available when needed.

During the open session at the meeting, the council continued review of the proposed 1972-73 budget of $439,136. Under the engineering department, the council refused to grant a salary increase to the part-time city engineer. His retainer fee would have gone from $2,400 to $3,000.

The council also cut $5,900 from the water department budget that would have provided a new truck and $300 from the equipment fund of the building inspection department.

The council added $2,000 to the parks department to boost funds for park development from the proposed $8,000 to $10,000.

Mill Valley Budget Is Accepted

The Mill Valley School District board last night adopted a final budget for 1972-1973 of $4,216,261, up almost $200,000 over last year's budget.

The tax rate was also increased, from $3.46 to $3.61 per $100 assessed valuation.

According to director of business services Carroll Killingsworth, the tax rate might have jumped more than 25 cents were it not for a recent increase in the assessed valuation of the school district.

In other action, the school board appropriated $7,700 to install an automatic sprinkler system under the playing field north of Corte Madera Creek at the new middle school.

It also agreed to accept completion of the middle school on Aug. 16, despite the fact that about 35 minor construction jobs remain incomplete. The school district, under terms of the contract, will withhold five times the cost of all uncompleted jobs until the entire construction job is finished.

Cave On Rocks, Music Can't Be

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — There's piped music throughout Meramec Caverns on U.S. 66 here but you won't hear any rock and roll.

Bob Hudson, cave manager, states that type of music interferes with the tours.

"When tourists hear rock and roll they tend to rush things and get in an excited mood which makes it extremely difficult for the cave guides," Hudson says. "The guides lost control of tourists.

"The cave is on the rocks and the music can't be," he adds.

MERRILL'S GUARANTEES SATISFACTION ON EVERY ITEM

NOW 6 MERRILL'S DRUG AND DISCOUNT CENTERS TO SERVE YOU BETTER - IN DOWNTOWN SAN FRANCISCO, SAN RAFAEL, VALLEJO AND NAPA

LET GUESTS slip on to skewers whatever appeals most. Label the skewers and broil over hot charcoals. The sweet and sour beef kebabs can be completed with mushrooms, pepper squares, small cooked potatoes, tomato chunks, zucchini and pineapple.

SOME VARIATIONS

Integrate Your Guests With A 'Sword' Cookout

The modern barbecue chef, with his battery of salt, seasonings and Worcestershire sauce, may seem to be a product of suburbia, but "sword-cooking," as the broiling of skewered meats is called in the Middle East, is one of the very oldest culinary arts.

Even as far back as the time of Homer's Odyssey there is mention of a king, a prince and three generals having joined forces in skewering and grilling lamb, goat and pork chunks.

Since helping is such a part of the fun of patio partying, let each guest select and slip onto the skewer whatever appeals most. In addition to the meats and vegetables mentioned in the following recipes, you can provide other favorites such as small, cooked potatoes; mushrooms; par-boiled whole onions and zucchini.

SWEET AND SOUR BEEF KEBABS

1 can (8 oz.) pineapple cubes
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 garlic clove, crushed
2 pounds lean, tender beef cubes, about 1½ inches thick
Tomato squares
Green pepper wedges
Small whole mushrooms

Drain pineapple cubes; reserve one-half cup syrup and cubes for later use. Combine pineapple syrup, Worcestershire sauce, honey, vinegar, salt and garlic. Place beef cubes in a snug-fitting bowl or double plastic bag. Pour Worcestershire sauce mixture over all. Cover or seal; refrigerate about eight hours, mixing once. Arrange meat, vegetables and reserved pineapple cubes alternately on skewers. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for five to eight minutes or until done as desired, turning once. Serve over rice, if desired. Serves six.

MEATBALL KEBABS

1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 cup dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup minced onion
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
1 egg, lightly beaten
1½ teaspoons salt
Green pepper cubes
Cherry tomatoes

Lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, onion, relish, water, Worcestershire sauce, egg and salt. Shape into about 18 meatballs. Arrange on skewers alternately with green pepper and cherry tomatoes. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for eight to 10 minutes or until done as desired, turning occasionally. Serves six.

Meat Usually Favorite Food For Charcoal Fire

The mouth-watering aroma of meat cooking over a charcoal fire is commonplace in Marin County.

Whether one uses a simple method such as a grill over a hollow spot in the ground or an elaborate rotisserie or kettle type unit, meat is usually the favorite food for grilling.

Beef, pork and lamb all are popular for outdoor cooking. Anything that can be broiled, pan fried, braised or even roasted indoors can be cooked outdoors. The same cooking methods apply.

Beef offers a great variety for outdoor cooking. From Chateaubriand to hamburger the creative cook will never run out of ideas. The new covered cookers turn out delicious meat loaf, stuffed peppers and even casserole dishes. Some of the less tender cuts of beef are delicious when flavored with a marinade and cooked in the outdoor kettles to the rare or medium stage.

PORK IS also tops for outdoor cooking. There is nothing new about roast pork. The Pacific Islanders have roasted pig for centuries. From bacon to spareribs, barbecued pork is elegant. And don't forget ham and sausages. Prepare a whole ham on a spit, slices on a grill or chunks for kabobs. Weiners, bologna, knockwurst and smoked links are other popular items.

For some people, lamb has no equal when it comes to outdoor cooking. Almost any cut of lamb can be cooked over the coals.

Variety meats, too, are at their best when broiled over charcoal. Liver and lamb and veal kidneys may be broiled from the raw state.

Each year more meat cuts are designated or suggested for the outdoor grill. In the frozen food case, one can find various combinations of kabobs especially prepared for skewer cooking.

There is an almost endless variety of herbs, spices, wines and fruit juices that can be used to add zing to marinades. With so many meats available, the possibilities are endless.

Cold Fruit Juice Drinks Ideal For Warm Weather

Cold drinks made with fruit juices are the perfect remedy for the hot weather wearies. Because fruit juices contain vitamins and natural fruit sugars for quick energy, they are a wise choice for meals, snacks and entertaining.

Serve juices over crushed ice, combined with carbonated or alcoholic beverages and in punches. Party Creme Cooler, a delicious blend of peach and apricot nectars, is perfect for guests who prefer a non-alcoholic beverage. And remember, frozen juice cubes keep drinks fresh longer. To make cubes just pour your choice of fruit juice fruit drink or nectar into ice cube trays and freeze.

PARTY CREME COOLER

2 cans (5½-oz. each) chilled peach nectar
2 cans (5½-oz. each) chilled apricot nectar
2 ounces liquid from maraschino cherries
16 ounces chilled creme soda

Combine all ingredients except creme soda. Whir briefly in blender, if desired. Pour into pitcher or punch bowl. At serving time add creme soda and frozen fruit juice cubes made with additional peach and apricot nectars. Garnish with fresh mint or maraschino cherries. Yields eight (5-oz.) or five (8-oz.) servings.

QUICK TO FIX

A Chocolate Spice Cake Excellent Outing Dessert

Chocolate spice cake offers more old-fashioned goodness that travels well on summer outings. And in keeping with the carefree mood of summer, it's quick to fix and can be frozen to have on hand for unexpected outdoor fun and food occasions.

This moist and tender cake is as fragrant as grandma's spice cupboard and mellow with buttermilk, butter and eggs. To make it unique among spice cakes, a little grated chocolate goes right into the batter.

Bake chocolate spice cake in an easy to carry pan and top with a simple butter cream frosting sprinkled with shaved or grated chocolate. Milk makes the best tote-along go-along for this delicious portable picnic dessert.

CHOCOLATE SPICE CAKE

½ cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1¼ cups buttermilk
1 square (1 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, grated

BUTTER FROSTING:

2 tablespoons butter softened
1 cup confectioners sugar
5 teaspoons milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Grated chocolate

In a mixing bowl cream butter, gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, nutmeg and cinnamon; add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk. Fold in chocolate. Spread evenly in nine inch buttered square pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 35-40 minutes. Cool completely on wire rack before frosting top of cake. To prepare Frosting: In a mixing bowl beat together butter, sugar, milk and vanilla until light and fluffy. Spread over top of cake. Garnish with chocolate.

Note: Cake may be frozen either frosted or unfrosted.

Good Soup Spice

When you are heating a can of condensed cheddar cheese soup you may want to add a little chili powder.

BACK-TO-EARTH FOOD

Modern Cook's Advantage Over Grandma

By DONALD B. THACKREY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Even the strongest back-to-earth advocates of natural foods have to admit modern cooks have advantages over Grandma in whipping up tasty treats of unblemished organic origin.

Although Grandma could get fresh, unrefined and unprocessed ingredients such as honey, fruits, vegetables, eggs and grains by taking only a short walk, she had probably never cooked with soybean products, millet or seaweeds, if indeed she had ever heard of them.

Jean Hewitt, home economiyfor the New York Times, combines the exotic and the home-grown in the 700 recipes she presents in her best-selling "New York Times Natural Foods Cookbook."

It all started several years ago when Mrs. Hewitt was doing research on natural foods for a Times story.

"PEOPLE WHO are interested in the natural foods movement are the most friendly in the world," she said recently in a San Francisco interview. "They all are most generous and want to share their discoveries and recipes with you.

"And they do. I got more than 3,000 recipes just by letting it become known in natural food circles that I was interested in them."

In addition to the well-known and the imported natural foods, the recipes in her book include such ingredients as alfalfa sprouts, wheat germ, yougurt and sunflower seed kernels, once exclusively the province of the faddists.

Mrs. Hewitt makes no claims that natural and organic foods are miracle cures for any diseases or conditions.

"They just taste better," she says. "And another thing is the texture. Natural foods have a much more pleasing texture than processed foods.

"And after all eating is — or should be — a pleasure process appealing to other senses than just taste. Food is better if it looks good. And if the texture of a food, such as a grain, is more pleasing, then the eating of that food is more pleasing."

AND, SHE insists, these are some of the advantages of natural foods without even taking into consideration their probable nutritional superiority.

"Regrettably," she writes in the introduction to her book, "there is no official well-publicized proof that all organically grown produce — that is, grown without chemical fertilizers, sprays or dusts — is nutritionally superior.

"It is hoped that extensive testing and analyses will be carried out before long by a respected independent laboratory of government agency to determine whether there are nutritional pluses to organically grown foods in addition to their proven advantages."

The book, published by the Quadrangle Press of the New York Times, sold more than 25,000 copies at $9.95 each during its firstthree months in New York alone.

But it is probable that few, if any, of the purchasers were enticed into buying it by one of the recipes for Fruit Bat Soup and starts out with: 3 fruit bats, well washed but neither skinned nor eviscerated.'

The three fruit bats are supposed to yield enough soup for four persons.

Vegetable Prices Haven't Gone Up

Consumers, concerned with the cost of food they feed their families should turn their attention toward the fresh vegetable counters of their supermarkets according to Mike Schultz, president of Western Growers Association.

"We asked our Consumer Relations Department to review the fresh produce ads for a weekend in July, and compared comparable prices for a like period over 10 years," Schultz said.

"We found that, with some variations, fresh vegetables are selling for pretty much the same price they were in 1962."

Tomatoes sell for 29 to 39 cents per pound, just about where they have been for the past 10 years. Sweet corn is up a little at about 9 cents an ear, but it is just about the same as it was four years ago.

"The most remarkable comparisons we found were in the wholesale costs. When we compared the prices vegetable growers are receiving today with 10 years ago, we found out who it is that has really been holding the line against high food costs," Schultz said.

Iceberg lettuce, at about 13 cents a head to the grower, is up a little over the 11.5 cents from last year, but it is lower than it was for most of the decade, and it only recently advanced to that price from a depressed 4.5 cents a head.

Cucumbers bring 25 per cent less to the grower today than ten years ago; celery is down; carrots about the same; cantaloupe and sweet corn are up, but just barely.

Tomatoes are down sharply from last year and are less than the level of 10 years ago for the same period of the season.

California white rose potatoes have remained steady at 4 cents a pound retail for over five years.

"The key to making sure that you are getticg the best bargain is to look for the most plentiful fresh vegetables, melons and strawberries. The fresh produce industry is one of the few left which operate on a strict supply and demand basis. When produce is plentiful, it is reasonably priced. This also is the time when the quality is the highest and the produce is the best for you," Schultz said.

"The nutritional value of fresh vegetables is accepted everywhere. Consumers can prove to themselves that it also is a bargain by shopping in the fresh produce section of their markets. They will be surprised at how much they can lower their total food bill by eating more fresh vegetables," he said.

Western Growers is a trade association which represents the fresh vegetable, melon, potato and strawberry industries of California and Arizona.

Nectarines Great With Cookies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Fresh nectarines taste delicious eaten out of hand. But they also are great to serve sliced and slightly sugared with accompanying cookies.

For the cookies you might like to offer Sesame Shortbread. When we made this shortbread at our house all our tasters were enthusiastic about it. But one note: Sesame Shortbread cookies are sweeter than traditional shortbread. This way they talste particularly good with the nectarines.

SESAME SHORTBREAD WITH NECTARINES

1 cup sifted flour
¼ cup sifted cornstarch
¾ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ginger
½ cup butter
3 tablespoons sesame seeds
6 fresh nectarines
¼ cup granulated sugar
Whipped cream, if desired

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour cornstarch, confectioners' sugar, salt and ginger. With your fingers work in butter until mixture holds together.

On a large cookie sheet with a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out dough to a rectangle about 10½ by seven and one half inches. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cut into six squares each three and one half by three and one half inches. Cut each square in half and with a wide metal spatula separate slightly.

Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until a light golden brown — 20 to 25 minutes.

With a wide metal spatula remove to wire rack to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

When ready to serve cut nectarines in half and remove pits; slice and mix with granulated sugar. Top individual portions of nectarines with whipped cream, if used, and accompany with the Sesame Shortbread.

Makes six servings.

HOME PICKLE makers know that the secret to making good pickles is in the seasoning. The amount and kinds of seasoning are a matter of personal taste.

For Good Pickles The Secret Is Seasoning To Suit Taste

Strange it is that so many home pickle makers search for new recipes when all one needs is two or three up-to-date ones. The secret is in the seasoning. Mrs. A and Mrs. B use the same recipe. Both make good pickles, but the flavor is different because each seasons to her own taste.

The only cucumber worth pickling is grown for that purpose, and it is no good unless firm, strictly fresh and blessed with tiny seeds.

Persons involved in scientific research recommend that jars of pickles and relishes be processed (cooked) a few minutes in a boiling-water bath canner. Temperamental may be a strange word to apply to pickles, but that is the way unprocesses ones tend to behave. They may keep one year and spoil the next.

If you haven't been happy with your pickes, you might try our recipe. Do change the amount and kind of seasonings to please your taste, but please don't tinker with the vinegar.

EASY TO MAKE PICKLES

Leave pickles whole or cut into thick slices or "sticks" before canning. If you want them sweeter, add more sugar in installments. Adding too much at a time causes shriveling. If you want two or three more cups of sugar, add about half of it, and let stand a day or two before adding the rest.

For three or four pints of pickes use:

8 or 9 pounds 3 to 5 inch long fresh, firm, pickling cucumbers
¾ cup pure granulated salt
3 cups vinegar of 5 per cent acidity — check bottle lable
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices and 1 large clove of garlic tied in thin piece of cloth to make "spice bag"

For each pint jar of pickle you will need:

1 teaspoon light mustard seed
1 small hot red pepper
1 large or 2 small heads of fresh dill or 2 teaspoons dried dill

Thoroughly wash and drain cucumbers. Watch for and discard blossoms. Put cucumbers in a non-metallic container and cover with brine made by dissolving the three quarters cup salt in four quarts of water. Use dinner plate or glass pie pan to hold cucumbers under brine. Let stand one or two days. Pour the vinegar, sugar, and four and one half cups water into kettle. Add spice bag and let simmer 20 minutes or until well flavored. If using fresh dill, wash it in cool salted water, rinse in plain water and drain. (Omit this step and you may pickle bugs.)

Put mustard seed and dill in jars; add well drained cucumbers to one-half inch of top of jars. Pour boiling hot pickling solution over cucumbers. Solution should come to about one-quarter inch of top of jar. Wipe top and threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight. Process pints 15 minutes, quarts 20 minutes in boiling-water bath. Begin counting the time as soon as jars are placed in the boiling water.

A Hearty Mexican Dish For Big Group

For a kitchen-help-yourself party or a more formal-but-fun buffet supper, with Mexican pottery and accessories to add atmosphere, serve chili beans, south-of-the-border style. It starts with a chili bean recipe, and guests do the rest!

From bowls of shredded lettuce, green pepper rings and thin-sliced sweet onion, shredded cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese, with bowls arranged around a casserole of piping hot chili beans, party-folk serve themselves. First the lettuce, then the green pepper and onion rings, topping these with the hot beans, then a liberal sprinkling of the cheese. Corn chips, ripe olives, a cool beverage, and fruit or a custard-type dessert or sherbet and butter cookies round out this exciting but easy-to-do meal.

SOUTH-OF-THE-BORDER CHILI BEAN PLATE
(12 or more hearty servings)

First step:

2 pounds (4 rounded cups) Idaho Pink, Pinto, or Red Beans soaked in 12 cups (3 quarts) water
1 large whole peeled onion
1 large bay leaf
1 fat clove garlic, thin-sliced

Add onion, bay leaf, garlic to beans and soaking water. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat. Cover tightly. Simmer about two hours or until not quite tender. Remove onion and bay leaf.

Second step: 4 tablespoons oil or chopped suet
1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 cup water, beef stock, or tomato juice
4 teaspoons salt
3 to 4 tablespoons good chili powder
1½ teaspoons ground cumin seed

Brown meat quickly in oil or chopped suet, breaking ground beef into small chunks. Add to beans. Heat liquid in the frying pan to bring up the browning bits and drippings. Stir into beans and meat. Measure salt, three tablespoons of the chili powder, and the cumin into a small dish. Mix to a smooth paste, using some of the liquid from the bean pot. Stir into beans.

Bring to boiling point; reduce heat. Cover tightly and slow-cook for one to one and a half hours. Taste to see if more salt and chili powder are needed. May be made ahead to be heated when needed. Note: if beans need to be thicker, mix two tablespoons or so of flour with a little water until you have a smooth paste. Carefully stir into the beans and cook a few minutes longer over low heat.

Leftover Chili Beans freeze easily. But they will keep several days in the refrigerator, covered well. You may like to make a hot sandwich by heaping on a toasted hamburger bun — half the makings of yesterday's "plate." Sprinkle the hot beans liberally with cheese. Place low under broiler and broil until the cheese is melted.

INVERNESS MUSIC Festival president Carole Berg works in the office of her home in Kentfield. The two telephones on her desk often ring at the same time, and she answers questions about the festival, does the bookkeeping and makes arrangements while her three small children entertain themselves.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

NOT MUCH SLEEP

A Busy Festival President

By JOAN LISETOR

"I sleep three hours a day if I'm lucky. I do my best work between 9 at night and 3 in the morning. I get up at 6:30 or 7 to get two good hours of work done before the phone starts, which works until somebody finds out you get up at 7."

Carole Berg, president of the 1972 Inverness Music Festival, sat at the desk in the office in her home. A roll of paper is on the floor by the desk.

"If I have work to do during the day the children (Mollie, 8, Lisa, 4, and Rivka, 10 months) just pull some paper off the roll and draw pictures," she said.

With most of her efforts going into preparations for the festival, which will be held Aug. 12, 13, 19 and 20 at St. Columba's Church and amphitheater in Inverness, Carole has had to slow down on her other activities, the Environmental Action Committee and Columbia Park Boys Club. But she is involved in the formation of a Marin County Fine Arts Commission and is working on the culture platform for a Marin County supervisorial canidate.

She also is a member of the Marin Symphony Association board of directors and soon after the Inverness Festival will prepare a dinner for 20 which was bought at the last symphony association auction.

ON HER DESK are two telephones: they often ring at the same time. Callers ask for information on the festival. She answers, sends out brochures, sells advertising for the program, arranges fund-raising events, seeks donations, does the bookkeeping, organizes rehearsals, finds staff members and lodging and rides for performers.

"Maybe it's because I live in a central location," she explained.

Last year Mrs. Berg organized a successful campaign to keep Mollie's teacher from being fired from Wolfe Grade School.

"Whatever my activities, the kids are part of it," she said. "I don't take on anything in which the children cannot be involved."

A 10-year resident of Marin, Carole grew up in San Francisco. She began at College of the Pacific as a music major but soon discovered, despite eight years of piano lessons, that she didn't have musical talent, so switched her major to psychology. She graduated with a degree in psychology from University of the Pacific, the school having also made some changes while she as a student.

A year and a half in the graduate school of education at the University of California at Los Angeles followed. She is just short of a master's degree, but will probably forsake it, she said, and if she does further graduate work it will be in law. She hopes to attend Hastings College of Law next year.

"I want to enjoy the baby one more year," she said. "I applied to Hastings nine years ago and made the mistake of telling the dean I was pregnant. He said, 'Out of my office, and go home and take care of the diapers and dishes.' So that was the end of that for awhile, but I'll go back next year."

HER INVOLVEMENT in the festival began two years ago when she made a donation and later discovered the festival at no federal tax exemption. She worked for a year with the Internal Revenue Service getting the non-profit status for the festival and agreed to serve on the board in 1970. She was immediately elected president.

The following year she was unable to accept the presidency because she was pregnant, she explained, so she was elected treasurer. She now is serving her second term as president.

While working on the festival she met Sandor Salgo, director of the Marin Symphony. Through him she became a member of the symphony board. This year, when Fae McNally longtime director of the festival, resigned, Carole asked Salgo to direct the festival.

"I was driving with Sandor the other day and we were discussng music. I told him I liked Johnny Cash, and he said, 'My dear, you have such a sense of humor,'" she said. "I love music. I guess I would not be on the boards if I had the talent to be a musician."

She has discovered in recent years a hidden talent for painting. Her other hobby is cooking, and she said after law school she might like to attend a Cordon Bleu cooking school in France.

CAROLE BERG discovered a talent for art one sleepless night a few years ago. Usually she paints on canvas, but her 8-year-old daugter, Mollie, requested funny animals on her closet door. Four-year-old Lisa has butterflies painted on her walls.

FOUR WHO RETURNED

School And The Over-30 Mother

By LUANNE W. PRYOR
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LONG BEACH — "Going back to school when you're over 30 means you are serious and you really want that education," said Alison Averill, 33, mother of three and one of 3,000 "mature women students" at California State University, Long Beach.

She and her husband, Ted, moved to California nine years ago. Three years ago, Mrs. Averill decided to go back to school.

"When I started back I had to learn how to study all over again," she said. "The kids and Ted had to put up with crazy hours, my running off to the library and my miserable disposition when I had a final coming up.

"My house was a mess," she added. "But I decided that a dusty house wasn't going to matter that much.

"Of course I had to study a lot at night and often early in the morning. I have found, though, that the more I do, the more I can do.

"OUR HOME life is different. Somehow it is more valuable. We've all learned not to dissipate our time so that our activities aren't as frivolous as they used to be."

Another student at the Long Beach campus, Irene Marsi, mother of four, said, "My husband and my children make it possible for me to continue at the university and hold down a job, too."

Mrs. Marsi works daily at a parttime job from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. She already has one degree and is enrolled in an education course.

When asked how she manages all her activities, she answered: "Well, there is the sock that dangles from the chandelier — the result of an ill-aimed hook shot; there are mornings when no one but no one has clean underwear; there is the wrecking of the budget when university fees are due at the beginning of the semester; and there is the planning and organization required so that I can sit down for a relaxed chat with my husband."

She said her children leave for school when their father does. She is always home in the afternoon. The children do a large part of the housekeeping and yard work and, for the most part, do it willingly and cheerfully.

"If they did not," she said, "I simply could not manage it by myself. I have to have time to study."

Jacquelyn Kimmich commutes daily to the campus where she's working toward a master's degree and a junior high school teaching credential.

"LAST YEAR I did my student teaching while taking classes at the university, too. It was rather difficult at times, especially those nights I was up until 3 in the morning studying and grading papers," she said.

Recently divorced and the mother of two girls, Mrs. Kimmich chose school over the business world, where she once was an executive secretary.

"Sometimes the pressure is terrific," she admitted, "and then, on top of it, I have the added responsibility of being a single parent."

She is always home when her girls return from school. They swap stories about the day and then go about their business.

"The girls have activities of their own now," Mrs. Kimmich said, "and that leaves me some time to study. Sometimes, though, I'm washing the kitchn floors pretty late at night. But I don't care. You learn when you return to school that the chores aren't anywhere nearly as important as you once made them out to be."

With graduation just a few months away, Harriet Danufsky said she often feels sad that her college career is almost over.

"I've had the opportunity to do all the things I always wanted to and never could," she said. "I've sung in the college chorus, taken folk dancing, piano, swimming and sailing. Imagine all that, in addition to a full academic schedule."

Mrs. Danufsky will receive a B.A. in English from the university. She has a 3.25 grade point average — around a B-plus.

HER HUSBAND has helped her the most by not applying pressure.

"He doesn't insist upon fancy meals or a perfect house," she said.

However, she is quidk to say that her college career hasn't all been easy.

"One night I took out the typewriter — to write a letter, mind you — and the girls, Shoshana, 9, and Tomar, 7, said, 'Oh, Mom, you aren't going to write another term paper!'"

"What it amounts to," she said, "is that the kids get upset when they think my schooling interferes with them. But on the other hand, they see me as an individual instead of as a servant."

Former Treasurer Elected President Of Marin Hospital Volunteer Branch

Mrs. Robert G. Ballachey of Terra Linda has been elected president of the Poplar Branch of Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

A former treasurer of the organization, she has been a member for 11 years. The branch, through an annual fund raising activity, assists with support for the hospital's Linear Accelerator, cobalt and Nephroscope funds. In addition they have monthly luncheons and plan an annual barbecue for members and their husbands.

Residents of Sleepy Hollow are eligible for membership. Mrs. Ballachey belongs to the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, is Sleepy Hollow Bowling Team president, and honorary member of the Sleepy Hollow Guild of Sunny Hills.

The new president has lived in Marin county for 38 years. Her husband is president of the Elder Construction Supply Company. They have three grown children, Mrs. William Perry, Mrs. Joseph Womack and John Ballachey.

She enjoys playing bridge and belongs to a bridge group, and lists travel and gardening as favorite pastimes.

Other incoming officers are the Mmes. Richard Keith, first vice president; Edna Merideth, second vice president; Arthur Roth, corresponding secretary; Robert Salles, recording secretary, and Robert Bogenreif, treasurer.

Orr, Cunningham Wed In Larkspur Church

Mrs. Margaret Barry Cunningham of Larkspur and Dr. Robert T. Orr of San Francisco were married at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at Redwood Presbyterian Churchin Larkspur. Following the wedding a buffet supper was held at the home of the bride.

The bride is the widow of the late John Robert Cunningham. She was attended by her older daughter, Mrs. David Crittenden, and Miss Virginia Ross. The groom, who is Associate Director of the California Academy of Sciences, was attended by his son in law, Richard A. Davis, and Dr. George E. Lindsay. Dr. Orr's daughter, Nancy Davis, and two granddaughters from Portland attended the wedding. The bride's grandson and twin granddaughters were in the wedding party. Her other children, Mrs. Richard Bacon and James Cunningham, were unable to attend.

Following a brief wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will return to their home in Marin County for several weeks before leaving on a California Academy of Sciences tour of East Africa.

Program To Help Children In Fire

According to national surveys, small children often hide under their beds or in closets instead of evacuating the house when fire breaks out. Consequently, these children suffocate before the firemen have a chance to find them.

"Operation Red Ball" is a program to help save children's lives in the event of fire. With the knowledge and acceptance of the local fire department, the red balls are placed in a window of each child's bedroom. If a fire occurs, the red ball points out where children most liekly can be found and therefore aids in their quick rescue.

She is a student at San Rafael High School. Her hobbies are sewing, swimming, gardening and reading.

Pucci's Opinion

"Haute couture is dead," said Italian designer Emilio Pucci, "except for coronations, and as a research laboratory when it has timely, universal value, and when new ideas, fabrics and construction techniques are utilized."

Coast Guard To Offer Course In Basic Training For Women

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — For the first time in more than 25 years, the U.S. Coast Guard is embarking on a basic military training course for enlisted women petty officers.

Applicants for enlistment in the Women's Reserve for this specialized program must be between 20 and 35 years of age and able to pass qualifying examinations as well as meet physical standards. Those selected to be SPARs — the Coast Guard's women's corps — will be given ratings as yeomen or storekeepers, commensurate with their secretarial or accounting abilities.

Each SPAR petty officer will immediately be assigned to two weeks intensive schooling at the Coast Guard's Reserve Training Center in Yorktown, Va., during August.

Following the initial familiarization with Coast Guard history, customs and its modern humanitarian missions, the SPARs will be assigned to reserve training units near their homes. One weekend a month these SPARs will assist their units. They will receive additional training during two weeks active duty each year.

The Coast Guard Reserve has recently altered its training concept by placing most of the enlisted reservists at many Coast Guard operational units rather than in classrooms for their weekend drills. This augmentation of regular forces increases the clerical workload at the units, and they are, as a result, seeking women for duty in their administrative forces.

Pucci's Uniforms For Stewardesses

Emilio Pucci, Italian fashion designer, created new uniforms for hostesses of the Braniff International Air Line.

"I could dress hostesses in plastic uniforms," Pucci said in New York, "but they would be automatons. Instead I try to inject a pleasant element on a plane; well-behaved, well-groomed, conveying the presence of a human being. With this kind of look their service is both psychological and spiritual. It conveys a sense of trust. How would people react if the plane's captain appeared in dungarees and a polka dot shirt?"

Miss Howard Grad Of Modeling School

A recent graduate of the Barbizon School of modeling in San Francisco is Mable Howard, daughter of Mrs. Willie Mae Howard of Marin City.

Mable is a student at California State University, San Francisco. She is considering a career in fashion modeling.

Fall Fashion To Feature Pump

This fall fashion has revitalized the pump, both in line and leather treatment. Many new pumps will be standing on a platform sole. Most of these are slim leather-covered platforms, though some are fairly thick.

However, the very deep "Carmen Miranda"-style platform is not being revived. Double soles, two trim platforms together, and a "stacked" platform sole look will be shown.

Dentists Emphasize Plaque Control

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — New signs that dentists are changing their views about tooth care became apparent last week on two fronts.

One was a meeting of 20 dental specialists, health educators and government officials at the headquarters of the American Dental Association in Chicago. Represented at the meeting were the ADA, the American Academy of Periodontology and the U.S. Public Health Service.

The conference was called by the ADA Bureau of Public Information in an effort to help clear up confusion caused by the clash of new attitudes against traditional concepts regarding dental care.

The group drew up a statement emphasizing the central role of plaque in tooth decay and gum disease. Plaque is a sticky, colorless film of bacteria that is constantly building up and attacking tooth enamel and gum tissues, especially where the tooth meets the gum.

After many generations of simplistic campaigns implying that proper tooth care consists of little more than brushing the teeth twice a day and seeing a dentist twice a year, leaders of the profession now want to root out the old slogans and warn the public of their dangers.

BRUSHING IS just not enough to do the job, they say now. Dental floss is also necessary, and so is the use of disclosure dye to identify the plaque.

People who can't find time to brush two or three times a day can now relax. One good thorough cleaning a day may be enough.

The statement released by the dental experts said, "To help prevent dental decay and gum diseases, bacterial plaque should be removed from all tooth surfaces a minimum of once a day. To do this thoroughly, use of dental floss and a toothbrush are necessary.

"For some people, more frequent plaque removal may be recommended by their dentist. Children and decay-prone adults should regularly use a fluoride toothpaste in addition to drinking fluoridated water. The intake of sweets, particularly sweet snacks, should be limited."

The group said it wanted to emphasize that plaque contains bacteria that are harmful and are constantly attacking the teeth and gums. It also wanted to put stress on the use of floss as the best way to clean between teeth where most decay forms.

THE STATEMENT was released a few days before the second annual convention of the American Society for Preventive Dentistry began in Chicago. Some 12,000 people attended the sessions.

Scientific papers and informal talks at the parley underscored the earlier statement on tooth care. Dr. Sumter S. Arnim, dean emeritus of the University of Texas School of Biomedical Sciences, called plaque the Number One culprit of dental disease. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the population in this country suffers from tooth decay or gum disease or both.

Like many dentists today, Dr. Arnim suggests using a soft-bristle brush so that germs near the gums may be removed without injuring the gums. And like many of the new breed of dentists, he urges use of a harmless dye, available at most drug stores, to identify plaque for complete removal daily.

Other speakers praised the value of fluorides in reducing decay and the need for proper nutrition, such as the reduction in intake of sugar and increase in calcium which many people require.

Real Vanilla

Real vanilla is derived from an orchid, "vanilla planifolia." The vanilla flavor is locked in a "bean" which develops when the beautiful flower is pollinated. This bean-like fruit undergoes a long curing process before the vanilla flavor is extracted.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Son, Girl Friend Live Together —Their Visit Will Bring Problem

DEAR HELEN:

My son and his girl friend are living together. Both are adult, away attending college part time, have jobs, and feel that "marriage should wait until we're sure."

I think this is somewhat ridiculous — when can you be completely "sure" of anything in life? But it's their decision and it doesn't bother me. At least, I've accepted it. I like his girl very much and wish she were my real daughter-in-law.

Here's the problem. "Accepting" long distance is one thing, but facing a non-marriage in my own house, where my own child is concerned, is something else. This would be saying to the younger children still at home, "Pre-marital sex is okay." I'm not that modern, or that sure.

Always before when my son has brought his girl home for short visits, they've had separate bedrooms, but now that they've tole me they're openly living together (I haven't told the kids), they'll no doubt expect just one room. Should I play the hypocrite and put them in two?

Actually, it would be so much simpler if our "liberated" offspring were a little less honest so that we could all play the game of "knowing but pretending not to know." KNOWING AND WISHING I DIDN'T

DEAR KAWID:

You won't "play the hypocrite" if you tell your son and his girlfriend your honest reasons for their separate bedrooms. And I'm sure they'll accept them, just as you accept (though you don't understand or wholeheartedly approve) their no-contract partnership.

You aren't avoiding facts when you lay down certain rules in your own home. You're simply saying, "I still vote for marriage." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband admitted to an affair with another woman but told me he ended it. We agreed to forgive and forget, but how can I forget when he still wears the clothes she gave him?

He returned the jewelry, but says it's silly not to use the shirts, ties and pants until they wear out, as she would have no use for them and why throw them away? If he replaced them, he points out, he'd have less money to spend on us.

I know he loves only me now, and she's "past" — and he does need the clothes — but they're constant reminders. Should I make an issue of it? — TRYING TO FORGET

DEAR TRYING:

Why not consider the clothes payment for past miseries? Or warnings that you'll never let it happen again?

If they still bother you, try embroidering your name on the inside labels. And remember, a man is more apt to destroy "reminders" if he is afraid of the past — not over it. — H.

John C. Faustine, Miss Noel Will Wed In Spring

A spring wedding is planned by Mary Cathrine Noel and John Carrillo Faustine, both of San Rafael, whose engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Noel of San Rafael.

Mary is the sister of Bernadette, Margaret Rose and Barney Noel of San Rafael and George and Linda Noel of Novato.

Mrs. Margaret Corcoran of San Francisco is her grandmother. She graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed by Marin Surplus in San Rafael.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faustine of San Rafael are John's parents. He is the brother of Lisa Faustine of San Rafael and Lee and Suzie Faustine of Petaluma. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paulsen of San Rafael are his grandparents.

He also graduated from Terra Linda High School. John is employed by RB Furniture in San Rafael and is a bass player with the Marin Banjo Band.

Fire Safety Instructions

Instruct family members on what to do if clothing should catch fire, the National Safety Council urges. Never run. Running fans the flame and accelerates burning. Always drop into a horizontal position wherever you are. Remaining in a standing position allows flame and smoke to rise upward over the face and to get into the lungs.

Remove clothing if possible. Roll a rug or any other heavy fabric over yourself, or simply roll on the floor or ground. Anything that can smother or extinguish the fire — such as water, sand, or a heavy fabric wrapped around the body — will help to minimize the extent of injury.

Food And Drug Asks Extention

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed that child protection packaging standards be extended to cover all human prescription drugs in oral dosage forms.

"It is apparent from available evidence that orally administered prescription drugs pose a special hazard to children, by the very nature of their availability and present packaging," Commissioner Charles Edwards said.

Under the proposal, prescription drugs for oral administration would have to be packaged with closures having a child-restraint effectiveness of not less than 8 per cent without a demonstration and 80 per cent after demonstration of the proper method of opening the closure.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Good Player Reviews His Mistakes To Avoid Disasters

All bridge players make mistakes. The good players review their blunders in order to ask the vital question: "How could I tell what to do?" If that question is answered satisfactorily, theplayer may avoid making the same kind of mistake the next time he encounters the same kind of problem. Take today's hand, played in the recent World Bridge Olympiad in the match between France and India.

FIRST ACTION

West opened the three of spades, and dummy won with the king. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and queen, cashed the ace of spades and then led the six of clubs toward dummy.

West stepped up with the ace of clubs, rather foolishly, and switched to the deuce of diamonds. East took the king of diamonds and followed with the ace of diamonds. That ended the defense, because declarer could now discard a club on dummy's established jack of diamonds.

SHOULD PLAY LOW

It's easy to see that the defenders could have defeated the contract if West had played a low club when that suit was first led or if East had shifted back to clubs on taking the king of diamonds.

In the other room of this match, in fact, Jean Paul Klotz, of the French team, played a low club with the West cards when South first led that suit. The defenders then easily took two diamonds and two clubs to defeat the contract of four hearts.

"How could I tell that South wasn't leading a singleton club?" West asked when his teammates reproached him for putting up the ace of clubs.

QUITE CLEAR

It was quite clear that South had started with six hearts and two spades. If South had a singleton club, he surely held four diamonds and could not lose more than one club and two diamonds no matter how the defense went.

This kind of careful analysis would show West what to do, but the old rule of "second hand low" would suffice if West didn't want to think too deeply.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - Q J 8 7 2
♥ - 8
♦ - A K 9 4
♣ - J 5 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Most experts would pass this borderline hand, but some would open one spade.

More would open the hand if the jack of clubs were a less doubtful point. For example, East might have three low clubs and a spade suit headed by K-J instead of by Q-J; or he might even have three low clubs and A-K-J-x of diamonds. Either such hand would be more useful than the actual hand.

MUSIC REVIEW

Gifted Pianist In First Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The debut recital last night of pianist Robert Krupnick showed him to be a gifted and sensitive young musician with considerable technical facility and individuality of style marked by some unusual rhythmic idiosyncrasies.

One of a short series of summer concerts sponsored by the College of Marin theater arts department, the concert was presented at what is now known as the College of Marin Theater III. It was formerly the festival theater on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. At one time a gymnasium, the small theater is good for small productions that would be lost in the college's fine arts theater, and it is especially suited to recitals.

It made possible an intimate atmosphere that was just right for the recital last night with an audience of only 40 to 50 people.

The recital got off to a low start 15 minutes late with the Bach Partita No. 4 in D, a suite of seven parts, mostly ancient dance forms, that took a half-hour to perform. This was too long for an opening number.

Krupnick has the kind of temperament that requires physical expression in much weaving and swaying and other mannerisms and an extraordinary sense of rhythm. The partita was far from purist in style and played with a rhythm that was almost syncopated. Most successful was the final gigue in a fast tempo that allowed no time to linger over accents.

On the plus side, the young pianist played with remarkable digital dexterity with the control of each finger so necessary in Bach, and the result was a sparkling clarity of each note. This effect was enhanced by very little pedal and what little there was tastefully applied.

The same style was carried over into the next number, "Serenade En La" by Stravinsky, making for a somewhat monotonous first half of the program.

In the second half of the program consisting of the Haydn Variations in F Minor and Schubert Sonata in A Minor, Opus 43, rhythmic idiosyncrasies were again evident. Krupnick seems to have an inner compulsion toward a one-two beat or pulse with accent sometimes on the first and sometimes on the second beat. Nevertheless, he did at times produce a smoothly flowing legato in some passages.

In the Shubert sonata the first allegro giusto was too slow for that tempo marking, but the last allegro vivace was beautifully performed in the right tempo with great agility.

Krupnich closed his program with a brief Couperin work as an encore.

He played everything using the music instead of from memory — a practice I do not like in public performance.

Baritone Thomas Bruckner will present the next program in the series Tuesday at 8 p.m. in this theater.

Tracing Of Tippling To Early Teens

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— The results of a 37-year study of problem drinkers show they can be identified by personality traits in their early teens—years before the problem with alcohol surfaces.

Mary Cover Jones, a research associate at the Institute of Human Development at the University of California, said Tuesday the results of her research turned up identifiable traits centered around unstable, unpredictable, impulsive behavior.

Junior high school boys who tend to become problem drinkers in later life show too much emphasis on masculinity, possibly reflecting their concern about the male role, Mrs. Jones said.

Women who drink too much—and there are fewer of them—tend to be depressed, self-negating and distrustful as teenagers, she said.

"In our culture, we tend to protect women from becoming problem drinkers," Mrs. Jones said. "Those who do go overboard tend to be more disturbed."

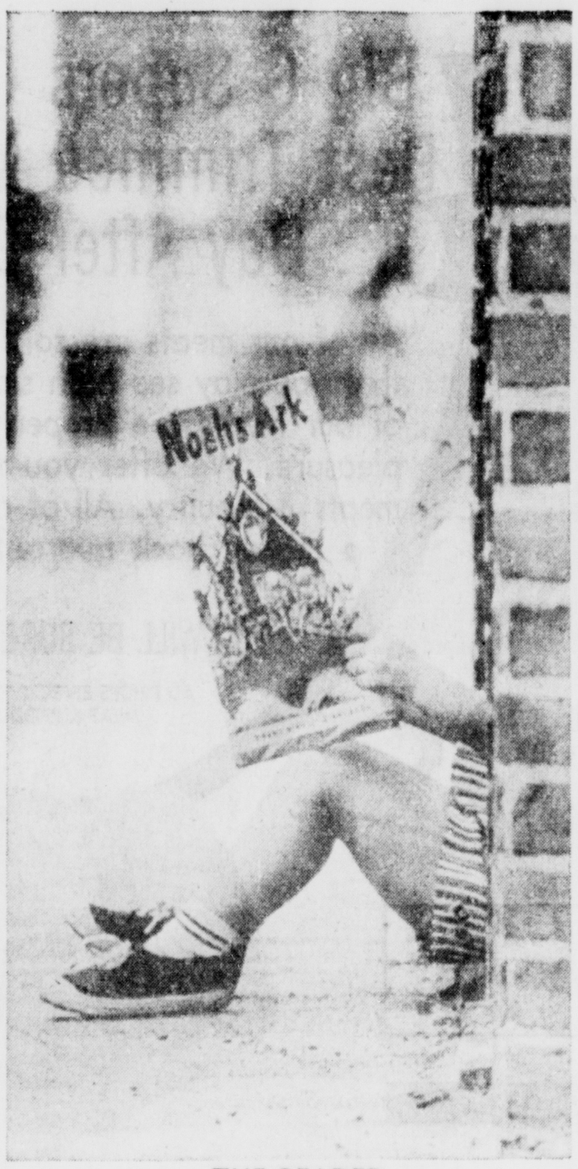
She said fewer girls may become problem drinkers because they often learn to drink under more favorable circumstances.

"Girls more often report taking their first drink at home with the family," she said. "We know from other studies that male problem drinkers report more often taking their first drink away from home to prove manliness or express rebellion, and they tend more often to become drunk on the first occasion."

"We tried to find out if the personality traits known to be associated with problem drinkers were a product of their drinking habits, or if the traits existed efore compulsive drinking began," Mrs. Jones said.

"We learned that the traits preceded the drinking."

She said prediction of later drinking problems from personality characteristics may point the way to mental health approaches that would help reduce irresponsible use of alcohol.



THE READER

Sometimes it's difficult to find a quiet place to read. This girl, though, found her spot in a window well of an Englewood, N.J., school. Maybe her thoughts are on the start of school which, once again, begins next month.

$1 Million Hijackers May Not Gain Asylum

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian authorities have impounded the record $1 million ransom brought here by the air pirates who hijacked a Delta passenger jet from Miami, an Information Ministry official said today.

The official said the money, in $50 and $100 notes, was "in a safe place" and that Algerian government officials would now decide whether to hand it back to Delta Airlines. "It is under seal," he said.

There was still no official word if Algeria would grant political asylum to the seven black hijackers—three men, two women, and two children.

They were whisked away to an unknown destination after conferring with Algerian officials at the airport where the commandeered DC8 jet made a safe landing Tuesday morning.

Members of the exiled Black Panther group here said they feared for the welfare of the hijackers, who apparently requested asylum after handing over the ransom in a blue suitcase to armed Algerian officials.

"We are concerned about the welfare of our comrades," Peter O'Neill, director of the Algiers "International Section" of the Black Panther party, said.

The United States called for the return of the hijackers as well as the money, and a Panther official in New York said she was informed the Algerians were "seriously considering" meeting the first request.

As for the return of the ransom, Alan Davis, U.S.Mission chief in Algiers said, "We have high hopes they'll do the right thing."

When two young hijackers diverted a Western airliner to Algiers June 3, the government handed over the $500,000 ransom to the airlines but let the hijackers live with the Panthers pending investigation of a political asylum request.

Asked if he had an idea of the whereabouts of the latest hijackers, O'Neill replied "None whatsoever. We were there (at the airport), but we were not allowed to talk with them."

He called for the hijackers, identified as Detroit members of the Black Liberation Army, military arm of the Panthers, to be treated with respect.

The Delta DC8 crew of four men and three hostesses stayed in Barcelona, Spain, Tuesday night before a scheduled morning departure for home. Capt. William May of Miami, Fla., said he and his crew were under orders not to discuss the hijacking.

Spanish police ringed the plane after it landed in Barcelona Tuesday afternoon from Algiers and let no one except airline and consular officials get closer than 300 yards.

The air pirates took control of the plane Monday night over Florida, picked up the ransom and released the passengers in Miami, then forced the flight to Algiers by way of Boston.

Russians Share Cancer Chemical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of American cancer specialists has returned from the Soviet Union with Russian chemicals that may be helpful in treating cancer.

Elliot L. Richardson, the secretary of Health Education and Welfare, reported the development Tuesday.

Richardson said the chemicals have been tested and tried by Soviet scientists and "are new to us and seem to have promise."

Four Marinites On Colorado Honor List

Four students from Marin County have been named to the President's Honor List at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.

The students are Danuta P. Rylko of Greenbrae, Donna J. Dorward of Kentfield, Ann Elliott of Ross and Michael J. Slottow of Tiburon.

Highway Work Slated For 101

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways. Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Waldo Grade, northbound near Marin City, inside lane closed 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for guard rail work.

2. Near Greenbrae, near Sir Francis Drake off-ramp, northbound outside lane closed 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for slab removal.

3. South of Cotati, northbound between Railroad Avenue and Sierra Avenue, outside lane closed 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for slab removal.

Films On Houseboats Set Friday, Saturday

"The Youniversal Joint Effort" and "Waldo Point," two houseboat films, will be shown at 8 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Sausalito Art Center, 630 Nevada Street.

"Joint Effort," by Dian Allen and Seth Hill, is a documentary depicting a young couple's attempt to build a houseboat out of salvaged materials. "Waldo Point," which won awards at the Monterey and Ann Arbor film festivals, is the story of a Sausalito houseboat community which forms a "people's navy."

BART Real Estate Has Earned $4.4 Million

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Bay Area Rapid Transit's real estate operations have earned it $4.4 million so far, directors were told Tuesday.

District real estate manager Wallace D. Mersereau said that figure should rise to $7.6 million by the end of the current fiscal year.

The real estate income comes from sales and leases of property which, after original negotiations or because of subsequent changes in plans, BART found it did not need for its own rapid transit system.

For example, a piece of land only 75 feet square above part of BART's subway at Ninth and Webster Streets in Oakland was leased for 55 years at a starting rate of $275 a month, subject to periodic future reappraisals, Mersereau said. The same piece of land, if sold today, would be worth only $40,000, BART directors were told. Lease income at the beginning rate would return $181,500 over the period of the lease.

Mersereau said the district still has 20 more pieces of property that should be leased this year for another $200,000 of annual income, and another 200 parcels are expected to be sold by mid-1973, for an additional $3 million.

Four Marinites Called By Draft

Four men were inducted into the armed services in July by the Marin Selective Service Board, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported today.

Forty six men had been ordered to report for induction July 19.

Mrs. Kinzer said 20 of these failed to report, one refused induction, five were canceled, nine were rejected after physical examinations, two delayed pending physicals, two postponed, one reordered and two enlsited.

Names of those who failed to report or who refused induction were withheld pending possible court action.

The four men inducted were Jacque London and Robert Vogensen of Novato, Russell Hecht of San Rafael and Ricky Kafka of Corte Madera.

Would-Be Customer In Long Road Test

A most finicky customer showed up at Stan Wisnes GMC-Honda at Fourth and E streets in San Rafael yesterday and insisted upon road-testing a car he said he wanted to buy.

According to police, neither the customer nor the bright orange Mustang he took with him have returned from the test run.

VINEYARD NEAR HAMILTON

Bringing Back A Bit Of Old Marin

By JEFF GREER

With jets roaring overhead and freeway traffic nearby, Herbert Rowland Sr. is toiling to restore some of Marin's gracious past.

Rowland has planted 1,200 grapevines, with an eye toward Cabernet Sauvignon wine, on acreage almost opposite the main gate of Hamilton Air Force Base. The vineyard is planned to grow around two sides of the elegant Victorian mansion built in the 1880s by Gumesindo Pacheco, Rowland's grandfather.

Rowland — if the weather, tax officials and deer cooperate — expects to market his first crop next summer. Already the bright green vines are boasting fat clusters of grapes, but there won't be enough of a harvest this year to interest the vintners in buying, Rowland said.

Only one other true vineyard exists in Marin — on the steep slopes on Quail Hill above Northgate shopping center. Deer and grass fires have dealt it severe blows.

Rowland has built an eight-foot-high chain link fence around his vineyard, and takes great care to see that the big gate to his driveway always is closed.

"The deer come right down the road here to check out that gate about three times a week," Rowland said, chuckling and puffing on an old briar pipe.

Rowland, his wife and son Herbert Jr. toiled in the hot sunshine over the weekend to water the young vines, hauling water by tractor from an old spring.

Once the vines mature, "I won't give them any more water . . . the grapes will be better," Rowland explained. He said he chose Cabernet grapes after much discussion with such wine experts as Louis Martini, and help from the county farm adviser in picking a variety suited to Ignacio's weather.

Hamilton Air Force Base weather records for more than three decades helped in the decision, Rowland noted. "We almost never get frost here," he said.

It's not the first time grapes have grown next to the mansion. "My grandfather had a couple acres of grapes" at the base of the hill west of the home, Rowland explained. Gumesindo Pacheco also had a large experimental orchard with "apples, pears, lemons, oranges, you name it," his grandson said. Most of the orchard was wiped out by highway land acquisitions.

A gnarled, 20-foot lemon tree beside the driveway still produces thin-skinned, juicy lemons that intrigue experts at University of California at Davis. They have no name for the variety. The Rowlands believe the tree to be at least 80 years old, like the towering Norfolk pine and other ornamental trees that shadow the big old mansion.

The mansion, its vineyard and the horse pastures on the steep, oak-studded slopes above, are in danger of being engulfed by the City of Novato. Other, adjoining portions of former Pacheco family holdings are scheduled for residential development. Rowland wants to keep his home and acreage as open space and a reminder of Marin as it was in his grandfather's time.

The fate of the vineyard, according to Rowland, depends on whether the county assessor agrees to designation of the land as open space and allows the correspondingly lower assessment than for residential land.

The house itself is full of history. When it was constructed of heavy redwood about 90 years ago, it was expected to cost between $3,500 and $4,000, but actually cost nearer $6,000, according to yellowed newspaper clippings of the day. Gumesindo Pacheco's new two-story home was one of the first in Marin with two indoor bathrooms.

"The electrician almost went crazy" wiring the house, Mrs. Rowland said. "He said there was enough lumber in the walls to build two more houses." The home originally was lighted with gas lamps burning carbide gas such as miners' lamps once used. The Rowlands were unable to find any of the old gas fixtures, which were ripped out when electricity first was installed prior to World War I.

But they did find in the attic two brass and glass oil lamps that now grace the high ceilings of two sitting rooms. They blended perfectly with Victorian furniture that originally furnished the mansion or was collected by Mrs. Rowland.

Many mementos of the mansion's first owner have gone into museums, including the purple and white racing silks the Pacheco jockeys wore on Bay Area racetracks. Gumesindo was married to a daughter of the Tanforan family, who owned much land on the San Francisco Peninsula. Pacheco was a county supervisor for some 14 years.

Pacheco's stables were west of the mansion and a training track was located on what now is the air base.

The Rowlands also no longer have any original portraits of Ignacio Pacheco, Gumesindo's father and pioneer Marin landowner.

But the whole Rowland family is steeped in the history and charms of early Marin, and determined to see them preserved in their home, Rowland and his wife said. The grapes are one way of keeping the old days alive.

CABERNET, SOMEDAY — Herbert Rowland examines some of the grapes he has planted in hopes of returning vineyards to Marin County.

WATERING TIME — Mrs. Herbert Rowland drives a tractor hauling a watering tank through the carefully tended grapevines growing opposite Hamilton Air Force Base. In the background, the elegant Gumesindo Pacheco mansion, now the Rowlands' home, is seen above a high, dense cedar hedge.

Dixie School Adopts $5,266,938 Budget

Dixie School District board last night adopted its fiscal 1972-73 budget of $5,266,938 after a public hearing at which no member of the public appeared.

The budget total is made up of $4,799,000 total expenditures plus a reserve of $467,938, and requires a tax rate of $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation, the same as the rate for 1971-72.

Dist. Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the budget includes provisions for 13 fewer teachers than the current year and one less administrator, due to continued dropping enrollment within the district.

Board members spent considerable time discussing the district's decentralized budget for schools, reported Supt. Campbell. Under this system, unique in elementary schools, principals of individual schools are allocated funds to spend on specialized teachers, field trips, supplies, conferences and projects.

The decentralizing system, whicp allocates approximately $450,000 to the district's ten schools, was judged eminently successful, he said.

Fairfax School Budget Expected To Trim Tax

Fairfax School District trustees last night adopted a budget for 1972-73 totaling $1,308,114, following a final public hearing.

Although the budget is higher than last year's $1,186,279, reduced override costs and an increasej tax base are expected to trim a few cents from the property tax rate, according to Gwyneth R. McGee, secretary to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

Last year's tax rate was $3.93 per $100 assessed valuation.

The final tax rate will be computed by the county auditor after the state delivers the assessment roll for public utilities in the district later this month.

The Fairfax School District Board Also:

BIDS — Awarded a contract to build a new, prefabricated district warehouse behind the district offices at 58 Park Road. Low among five bidders was Romac-Pacific Co. of San Rafael, with a total bid of $14,616.

TRACTOR — Opened three bids for a tractor for the district and awarded the contract to the low firm, Central California Equipment Co. of Delano.

DELEGATE — Seconded other Marin school district boards in nominating Sally Ann Rakow of Ross as delegate to the California School Boards Association.

ROOF — Received a report that rock patterns are being tested on the roof of Manor School. The white roof — designed to cut down heat in the classrooms — had brought complaints of glare from hillside neighbors above the school.

Law Books Are Source For Humor

VANCOUVER (AP) — Gouging humor out of the law is like digging for gold — tough but rewarding, says David Huberman, professor of law at the University of British Columbia.

He's devoted years to sifting out what little humor there is in the mills of justice and plans to write a book about it.

At one time he was chairman of admissions to the UBC law faculty and he recalled a couple of answers to admission questions, turned in by law students and student accountants.

Question: Define union check-off dues.
Answer: "A famous European author."
Question: "Define a quorum."
Answers: "A place for crushing rock." "A place where the Romans used to sacrifice the Christians." "For a quorum, the directors have to be odd."

"If you really want to laugh," he said, "you'd better remember that some of these people might be your lawyers, your accountants."

Prof. Huberman also has a file devoted to letters addressed to lawyers. One says:

"Thank you for offering to represent me in court, but I don't need a lawyer. I'm going to tell the truth."

$1,000 Settlement In Kennedy Shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ira M. Goldstein, a reporter wounded in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, accepted a $1,000 settlement of his suit against the Ambassador Hotel.

Goldstein was hit in the left leg by a bullet in the barrage of shots that cut down Kennedy at the hotel on June 5, 1968. Goldstein, covering Kennedy for the Continental News Co., sued for $250,000, charging the hotel failed to provide protection for Kennedy and those around him.

The suit was to have gone to trial this month.

Magazine Advertising Up Over Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The first four months of 1972 saw magazine advertising revenue up 8 per cent over the same period a year ago, according to the Magazine Publishers Assn.

Stephen E. Kelly, president of the association, said this was the largest January-to-April revenue in magazine history. He said the number of advertising pages for the same period totaled 25,738, up 852 pages, or 3 per cent. The revenue figure was $394,745,864, a gain of $30,674,167 over '71.

Tax Election Conflict Hits School Board

The Petaluma Board of Education last night heard conflicting recommendations on whether to call another tax rate increase election.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said teacher organizations recommended the board try another election, saying it would probably be the only way the district will get the money it needs for operation.

Meyer said that lay organizations, however, advised against another election predicting it would fail as two others have. They said they would join the educators in urging the state legislature to pass the revised school finance bill to increase state support for local school districts.

Meyer said the board also received a petition with 300 names calling for an increase in psychological services for students if additional state funds are received.

Representatives of the Northern District advisory board urged the board to use extra funds to resume busing services for students at Penngrove School. They said narrow country roads in the area would make walking to school very dangerous for children.

American Tourists Are In For Treat

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Americans who visit Florence this summer will have the opportunity to enjoy a view of the most comprehensive exhibition ever staged of the works of Henry Moore, widely regarded as the world's greatest living sculptor.

Fifty years of Moore's productive effort — including 160 sculptures and 100 drawings dating from 1922 to 1971 selected by the artist himself — have been assembled and transported with infinite effort (considering their size and value) by the Commune of Florence and are magnificently displayed on the lawns and terraces and within the palace of the historic Forte di Belvedere.

Teacher Job Ruling Held Unconstitutional

CINCINNATI (UPI)—It is unconstitutional to make pregnant public school teachers take an extended leave of absence from their jobs, a federal appeals court has ruled.

Two Cleveland teachers had contested the regulation of the Cleveland Board of Education that pregnant teachers quit classroom work at least five months before childbirth and not resume instruction for at least three months after giving birth.

Meeting Set To Discuss Civilian Use Of Base

The Marin County Aviation Commission deferred action last night on a proposed plan for joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base pending completion of a study by the county planning and public works departments.

Commission Chairman William W. Schwarzer said today a special meeting has been tentatively set for Aug. 29 to consider the staff study.

The study, which deals with the environmental impact of joint use among other things, is to be considered by the county planning commission Aug. 28.

A preliminary draft of the study indicates the county planning department has no serious objection to limited civilian use of the air base (20 flights per day) but recommends the matter be studied further with an eye on long-range projections.

Schwarzer said his commission will meet earlier than Aug. 29 if the study is finished earlier than expected.

Joint use of the air base has stirred controversy for years and lately has prompted protest from some Novato residents who say the city should have a voice in joint-use planning.

Other residents and groups oppose civilian use of the air base as promoting noise and air pollution.

Jury Fails To Reach Verdict In Shooting Of Two Cousins

A jury in Marin Superior Court failed to reach agreement yesterday on whether William Jerry Williams, 45, of no fixed address, was guilty of shooting two cousins during a San Rafael bar argument last March.

Judge E. Warren McGuire declared a mistrial after it was reported the jury was hung 10 to two after two days of deliberation. It was not reported whether the majority favored conviction or acquittal.

Williams was accused of shooting Harvey M. McGuire, 23, of Ohio, and his cousin, James R. McGuire, 29, of Kentucky during a disagreement which took place at the Fleur De France Tavern on March 6.

Both men recovered from their wounds.

Williams has served time in a federal prison for the 1969 robbery of the Point Reyes Station branch of the Bank of America.

He is to return to court Aug. 14 for resetting of his case.

Sesame Street Has Started In Poland

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sesame Street" has gone behind the Iron Curtain for the first time.

The prize-winning television show for preschoolers, which is already being seen in nearly 50 English-speaking countires, is being viewed this year in experimental showings in Poland and Yugoslavia, where the titles are translated "Ulica Sezama," and "Sessam Ulica," respectively.

The national television networks of both countries superimpose occasional brief narration over the English sound track to set the stage for various scenes, but the shows are otherwise unchanged from the form in which they were first seen in the U.S.

Jobless List For Major Cities Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The list of major U.S. cities with substantial unemployment of 6 per cent or more declined by one to 53 during July.

It matched the lowest point in the past 15 months, a Labor Department report showed Monday.

Dropped from the list when their jobless rates fell below 6 per cent last month were Canton and Youngstown-Warren, Ohio. However, Boston was added when its unemployment rate went over the mark.

Scholar Is Studying Yiddish Relationship

NEW YORK (AP) — An Irish scholar is studying Yiddish at Yeshiva University to determine whether there is any relation between the fate of the Irish language and the trend in usage of Yiddish in the United States.

"There has been a clearly discernible trend in America for the Yiddish-English bilingual (person) to abandon Yiddish in favor of English," says Alan J. Hudson, the Irish scholar.

"In Ireland a similar development has been occurring; that is, the adoption of English over the Gaelic language."

The scholar says, "I would like to expand this investigation into the history and current status of the Irish language situation with a view to helping formulate national language policy."

The student, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, of Baile Atha Cliath, Ireland, has been doing graduate work here since 1968.

Col. Williams Is Retired At Presidio

Col. Robert C. Williams of 62 Calypso Shores Novato, retired from the Army this week after 30 years of military service.

In ceremonies at the Presidio of San Francisco Thursday, he received the Legion of Merit for service as Deputy Chief of Public Affairs, Sixth U.S. Army and was honored at a Retreat Honor Guard ceremony.

Williams began his military career as an aviation cadet in 1942.

During World War II, he flew 51 combat missions as a bombardier and received two Distinguished Flying Cross awards and six awards of the Air Medal.

During the Korean War, he served with the 65th Infantry Regiment of the 3rd Infantry Division.

He also has served as chief of protocol, United Nations Command and U.S. Forces Korea, and planner and management analyst in the Office of the Army Chief of Staff in the Pentagon.

Playground Trip To Reef Planned

The San Rafael Playground Program has scheduled a trip to Duxbury Reef off Bolinas Beach for Aug. 10, according to Tina Slosky, program aide.

Other events planned are a "splash day" on Aug. 15, a trip to a San Francisco Giants' game on Aug. 16 and an overnight campout at Headland State Park on Aug. 17 and 18.

She said information on the program is available at the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, city hall.

STATION WAGON

Here's a really clean one-owner little Volkswagen squareback station wagon that we just took in trade on a new Buick Skylark.

Retired Marin couple originally took delivery in Europe and toured for over a year before returning home. Clean as a whistle inside and out. A real buy at this price. Kelley blue book shows this wagon should sell for over $1400 but we'll sell for only $895. ZIW 349.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10 a.m., Tuesday, August 22, 1972, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 3,770 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances, fire hydrants and service connections. The work to be done lies in various city streets, roads and rights-of-way all located in the cities of Belvedere and Tiburon, Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) per cent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Bond Project No. 7" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

3 Youths Jailed In Sniper Killing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three teen-agers were arrested today in connection with the death of a carpenter who was hit by a sniper's bullet while repairing a roof.

Jerry Sowers, 36, was working with two other carpenters Tuesday on the roof of a home that had been gutted by arson.

After the shooting nearly 200 police hunted for the sniper and found a number of empty 22-caliber shell casings in a nearby yard.

Officers were refused permission to search the house and returned later with a warrant. Inside they confiscated two .22-caliber revolvers.

When Donald R. Ballard, 18, returned to the home with two juvenile companions after a swimming excursion at the beach, all were arrested and booked on suspicion of murder.

The victim's two fellow workers, Webster Knox, 45, and John Wagner, 58, told police they heard a series of sharp noises and remarked that it sounded like firecrackers popping.

"It sounds like shots to me," they quoted Sowers.

The men said a moment later Sowers staggered and fell, saying "I've been shot" just before he died from a bullet wound in the back.

Sounding Board Schedule Set

Whether the level of flouride in the Marin municipal water supply should be raised will be discussed tomorrow at 9 a.m. on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program.

Dentists John T. Smith and G. A. Darling will speak in favor of flouridation and opposed will be Dr. Stephen A. Duff, a former member of the Marin County Pure Water Committee, and Wynn Westover, a scientist who at one time did research for the United States Public Health Service.

Questions may be phoned during the broadcast which will be repeated by tape-recording, Sunday at 10:05 a.m.

FAA Announces Hijack Measures

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Aviation Administration, declaring an emergency exists, has ordered airlines to search any passenger who fits the "profile" of a hijacker.

The FAA also said it plans to begin Monday placing metal detecting devices that will eventually protect 9,000 air terminal gates.

The search order Tuesday followed the year's 28th hijacking, in which five adults and three children commandeered a Delta Airlines plane and demanded a record $1 million ransom.

There were 27 hijackings in 1971.

FAA Administrator John Shaffer said in a statement:

"Because of the continuing menace of air piracy and other crimes aboard aircraft and because of the serious nature of this threat to the safety of persons and property. I find that an emergency exists requiring immediate action."

Shaffer said airlines will be required to prevent from boarding a plane any ticket holder who fits the FAA's "security profile" unless he submits himself and his luggage to a search.

FAA officials have refused to disclose what constitutes the profile, but a spokesman said Tuesday that, "We don't rely on the fact that someone thinks a guy looks sneaky."

The metal detectors will be coupled with the searches and the profiles to increase security measures, Shaffer said.

The detectors will be installed first at the busiest airports. They will be placed at the remaining air terminals after Congress approves about a $3.5 million bill to pay for them, Shaffer said.

The FAA had to move ahead on the detectors because of the slowness of airlines in taking the protective step unilaterally. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has asked the airlines to cooperate in the past.

Fruit Rots In Port As Strike Continues

LONDON (UPI)—Fruit vendors at London's Covent Garden displayed signs saying: "Yes, we have no bananas today."

Bananas and other fruit began rotting in the holds of hundreds of idled ships. In the Channel Islands farmers discarded tons of tomatoes. But West German wine flowed into the country.

Government sources said Tuesday Prime Minister Edward Heath's administration has decided to proclaim a state of emergency if no end to Britain's six-day-old longshoremen's strike is in sight within a week.

The sources said the decision does not mean the government is seriously alarmed about essential food supplies. They said the decision was "precautionary" because of the coming parliamentary recess.

Employment Secretary Maurice MacMillan told Parliament Tuesday: "The docks stoppage is a very serious and damaging problem. But it is not yet a disaster—and don't let us pretend it is so."

But the National Federation of Fruit and Potato Trades said the supply of perishable food is rapidly dwindling. A spokesman said most vendors at Covent Garden sold their last banana today and supplies of the fruit would run out in other shops Thursday. Grapes and oranges were expected to run out by the end of the week.

A state of emergency would give the government powers to use troops to unload ships, control food prices, conserve food supplies and requisition transport to move esential goods.

Britain's 42,000 longshoremen walked out to back demands for guarantees they will handle all cargo unloading and loading at the nation's growing number of container depots.

The Ministry of Agriculture said huge quantities of fruit are close to rotting in the holds of about 600 cargo ships idled by the strike.

In the Channel Island of Guernsey, heavily dependent on British markets for its farm produce, 240 truckloads of tomatoes have been dumped on a rubbish heap because growers have been unable to ship them to British ports.

But at London's Tilbury docks, longshoremen unloaded thousands of gallons of wine from West Germany Tuesday when experts warned that it would soon start giving off gas and could explode unless it went to bottling sellers in London.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Fate Of Milk Depends On Sterilization And Refrigeration

Milk properly refrigerated keeps its flavor and stays fresh longer. It takes more than six hours for pasteurized milk to sour at room temperature (72 or more degrees Fahrenheit). Milk delivered to homes, schools, or restaurants usually arrives at its destination at about 40 degrees.

The fate of milk depends upon sterilization and refrigeration. Pasteurization reduces the bacterial content of raw milk by 97 to 99.9 per cent. Modern dairies are sanitary and most milk is of high quality. The bacteria that remain grow slowly and take at least six hours to multiply sufficiently at room temperature to induce souring. The majority of these organisms are not harmful to man and are well tolerated.

These germs do not reproduce when milk is chilled, but they are not killed. The critters start increasing in number when the milk warms. Therefore, the longer the container is kept out of the refrigerator, the sooner it loses flavor and palatability, and it sours.

HOMEMAKERS SHOULD keep in mind that refrigerators vary; some are warmer than the recommended 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit. In addition, every time the door is opened, the temperature rises.

The situation changes when bacteria, such as streptococci or staphylococci, get into the milk after the container has been opened. They are deposited by breathing on or coughing over the milk or touching it with contaminated fingers. These microorganisms also increase in number when the milk is warm and hibernate when the milk is cold. They become a threat when they multiply enough to induce food poisoning.

WHAT HAS BEEN said of milk applies also to other dairy products. Butter, cheese, ice cream, fresh evaporated milk, and dry milk must be handled properly by producer, merchandiser, and housewife. Evaporated and dry milks last much longer, but once the can is opened or the dry milk is liquefied, the product ought to be refrigerated.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

HEART AWARENESS

N. L. writes: Since recovering from a heart attack, the slightest touch on the left side of my body gives me creeping chills. Is this sensation related to the heart condition.?

REPLY

Only in that the attack has made you extremely conscious of your heart. The symptom is not cardiac in origin and pressure will not cause further damage to the old ticker.

STANDING ON THE HEAD

A reader writes: Is it true that standing on the head would help a person whose hair is thinning out?

REPLY

No. Improving the circulation to the scalp does not stop the balding process. And more important, standing on the head does not necessarily improve the circulation.

EATS FROZEN FOOD

S. S. writes: My sister, who is 21 years old, constantly eats frozen foods, such as orange juice, frozen strawberries, and all kinds of ices. Is there any harm in eating items that have not been thawed or reconstituted?

REPLY

No, provided the cold does not lead to gastrointestinal distress.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Man Recovers After Accident

A man from New York City was injured at 7:10 a.m. yesterday on Shoreline Highway, about 1,200 feet south of the Green Gulch Ranch, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Robert D. Russell, 26, was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital after being treated for a broken ankle, bruises and a cut face.

According to the highway patrol, his car ran off the road, skidded over an embankment and rolled over.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Penal Institution Proposals Cleared

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A four-bill package designed to upgrade the training and status of correctional officers in California was given final legislative approval Tuesday by the Senate.

The package was sent to the governor after its author, Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, declared "this legislation is long overdue and sorely needed."

The keystone proposal would create a state Commission on Correctional Manpower Development to regulate the training and qualifications of correctional employes in local and state facilities. It was approved on a 23-0 vote without debate.

But a second measure, which appropriates $450,000 to set up a training program for prison personnel, was criticized by one senator before winning 31-4 approval.

"You are going to have a dissension problem in the ranks of correctional officers if you pass this bill," warned Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia.

He charged the bill does not guarantee that the 300 persons to be appointed by the Department of Corrections to supervise the training would come from the ranks of correctional officers.

"It opens the way for college graduates with social-welfare backgrounds to become supervisors instead of correctional officers who have the experience," Richardson said.

The other bills appropriate $175,000 to the California Youth Authority to create a training program for its personnel and require the authority and the Department of Corrections to set up a joint training program. They were approved on 34-0 and 25-0 votes, respectively.

CUTS COUNCIL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —With some reluctance, the Senate has approved a bill replacing the 30-member, part-time California Council on Criminal Justice with a full-time, five-member board.

Republicans, led by Sen. George Deukmejian of Long Beach, defended the current council but said passage of the measure was crucial because of tricky lacguage in the 1972-73 budget.

The language, composed by the legislature's budget conference committee, states that if the council is not replaced, the entire California crime control program would be scuttled.

With only one vote to spare, the measure by Assemblyman Robert D. Crown, Alameda, was approved on a 22-13 vote and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

FATHER AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The all-male Senate has passed a measure making it easier for fathers to secure custody of their children in divorce cases.

Current law provides that the mother will become the guardian instead of the father, if "other things" are equal.

Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, noted Tuesday that the law makes it extremely difficult for a father to keep his children unless he proves that his ex-wife would be a totally incompetent guardian.

Under the bill by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa, Moscone said the court would make the decision on which parent would keep the offspring on the basis of which person could make the better home for the child.

TEEN CHECKS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has narrowly passed a bill allowing teen-agers to obtain contraceptives without parental consent.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was sent to the Assembly Tuesday night on a 21-17 vote, the bare minimum required. Similar versions of the proposal have been vetoed twice by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Beilenson's bill allows minors determined by a doctor to be "sexually active" to obtain pills and other birth control devices without consent of their parents.

WORKERS DROP

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Water Resources Director William R. Gianelli reports civil service work for the department has been reduced more than 40 per cent since 1967 as construction of the State Water Project nears completion.

Gianelli announced Tuesday that the number of civil service employes was cut by 412 during the last fiscal year, bringing to 1,859 the reductions made since 1967 to coincide with the decreasing Water Project workload.

At the peak staffing level in July, 1967, the department had 4,476 employes.

PRISON MAIL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill designed to insure that convicts have the right to engage in personal correspondence was defeated by the Senate Tuesday after an opponent argued it was a matter prison authorities should decide.

The Senate refused on a 10-15 vote to accept Assembly amendments to the measure by Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, who said the proposal would "allow prisoners to correspond with their friends in a humane fashion."

A two-house conference committee will be named in an effort to iron out differences.

PHONE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has unanimously passed a bill requiring cities and towns to establish 911 emergency telephone systems.

Under the 911 systems, a person needing emergency assistance by police, firemen or other rescue officials could dial the telephone number 911 and be connected almost instantly to the proper authority.

A person dialing for help from a phone booth also would not be required to deposit a dime to call the 911 number.

Stinson Fire Board Will Have Survey

The Stinson Beach Fire Protection District board agreed yesterday, at a special meeting, to pay up to $3,500 for a survey of the Stinson Beach water Company's distribution facilities, properties and rates.

Commissioners John L. Jones said the study will be made by the Marin Municipal Water District which has been asked by several community organizations to take over operation of George P. Leonard's water company.

The fire district and other groups, including the Stinson Beach County Water District, favors the sale because the water company system does not have enough water pressure to provide adequate fire protection.

Leonard has offered to sell the firm to the water district for approximately $100,000, cost of improvements made to the system since he purchased it in 1956.

'n May, Marin Municipal dictors said the district could t consider the purchase until tudy of the system had been npleted. It was first thought at the county water district would pay for the survey, but Jones said it has since been determined that the fire district is better able to pay the cost since the water district has many outstandin debts for plans for a proposed sewage disposal system for Stinson.

Workers Back On Job In Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP) — Settlement of a 21-day city employees strike, which idled 400 persons and left streets lined with garbage, has been announced by negotiators for the city council.

Members of three striking unions reported back to work today, city officials said.

Mayor Warren Widener said yesterday that wage increases for striking garbage collectors, meter maids, park and public works employees, health and librarian workers and city electricians will cost between $500,000 and $750,000.

Union spokesman Paul Varacalli said the 250-member United Public Employees Local 390 voted 7-1 yesterday to approve the proposed settlement.

He saidthe monthly income of union members ranges from $600 to $1,000 and the settlement averages a 6 per cent increase. Pay for garbage collectors will be boosted to $837 a month nd $892 for drivers.

City negotiators said a $67.50 raise for refuse collectors was designed to bring them in line with employees "doing comparable work in neighboring communities."

The pact provides a $45 monthly pay hike for most other city employees. Librarians get a $32.50 monthly increase, and electrical workers get $48.

The raises are retroactive to July 1 in a one-year contract.

Under the contract, part-time workers will receive fringe benefits for the first time.

State GOP To Go After The Young 'Blue Collars'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A group of California Republicans have launched a voter registration drive aimed at capturing the "blue collar" youth vote to help reelect President Nixon.

Leaders of the Young Voters for the President also declared at a news conference Tuesday that Sen. George McGovern is losing his "Pied Piper" hold on the youth vote and predicted many college students would support Nixon in November.

But Tom Hayden, chairman of the group, said the organization would focus its registration effgrt on the working, nonstudent youth vote.

"That's the only thing that's left," Hayden said. "Most of the students on the campuses are registered."

Hayden, 31, a Los Angeles film producer, also said nonstudents "more easily identify with the President because they are concerned about the economy and taxes."

Kent Clemence, 21, University of Southern California student body president, said many students were switching from McGovern to Nixon.

However, Harry Lehmann, a University of San Francisco law student, said young Nixon supporters were encountering some hostility on campuses because of "peer group pressure."

Hayden said the GOP youth organization was "encouraging" Nixon to campaign on California campuses, "and we've received some indications that he might do this."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and Assembly minority leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy appeared at the news conference with leaders of the young voters organization.

"We aren't the radicals. We aren't beating to get out of Vietnam," Reinecke said. "But I think young people are realizing the Republican party offers a great deal more for them in terms of the future."

Democrats in California have initiated a drive to register 1 million new voters, primarily young people, minorities and senior citizens.

Grover McKean, press secretary for the Democratic State Central Committee, said Democrats don't have a formal youth organization because "the young people are incorporated into the regular party structure so they don't need their own organization."

Innocent Plea Entered In Two Bank Robberies

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sammi Lee Smith, whose banking habits don't necessarily make him a good customer, has pleaded innocent in San Francisco Municipal Court to two counts of bank robbery.

Smith is being held on suspicion of robbing a branch of the Bank of America on July 21 and a branch of Wells Fargo July 25.

The 29-year-old New York musician was freed from federal custody after being judged insane three weeks ago at the time of a series of successful and attempted bank holdups in Marin and San Francisco.

A preliminary hearing was to be held today in San Francisco Municipal Court for Smith's latest alleged robberies.

Innocent Plea In Felony Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — La Pierre Harvey, 24, of Marin City, has pleaded innocent in San Francisco Superior Court to felony narcotics charges.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that Harvey had pleaded guilty to selling $250 worth of heroin to a police informant.

He is to appear in Superior Court for trial Sept. 25.

Five Persons Sentenced On Drunken Driving

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Friday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Odas Wayland Griffin, 41, of San Francisco, arrested May 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Leslie Jeff Howard, 47, of 3 Capri Court, San Rafael, arrested May 11 in Terra Linda, placed on probation for six months, and fined $302.

Harry Wilson Sundt, 40, of Tucson, Ariz., arrested June 21 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Sentenced Monday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Thomas Arthur Peterson, 23, of North Mankato, Minn., arrested July 29 in San Rafael, given a suspended 30-day jail sentence and a suspended $500 fine, placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Ralph Dennis Snow, 27, 1111 Second Street, San Rafael, arrested July 24 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Spaak Buried

BRUSSELS (AP) — Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian statesman who ranked as an early pioneer of European unity and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was buried today at a private family ceremony in suburban Braine l'Alleude. Spaak died Monday at age 73.

Eagleton's Ordeal Made Him 'Stronger'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If the Democratic Presidential nominee in(61976 asks Sen. Thomas F Eagleton to be his running mate, Eagleton will say, "Do you know about my health problem?"

His joking response to a question during an interview Tuesday reflected both his mood and his only regret after a harrowing week that ended with his resignation as Sen. George S. McGovern's running mate.

Eagleton said he might have regretted more a decision to reject McGovern's offer at the convention and continue to keep his medical past a secret.

"If I had declined the offer, I think I might have gone through the rest of my life kicking myself. I think I would have ruminated."

His decision to quit now history, his transition back into regular Senate duties begun, Eagleton leaned back in his chair, propped his feet against his desk, chain-smoked and spoke with a few newsmen in his office Tuesday.

The past week had been his "trial by fire," he said, but he feels he emerged with more pluses than minuses. "I feel I am a stronger person than I was a week ago today."

He said, "not that I have become smuggly complacent with myself, but I feel better having undergone some degree of adversity and I survived it rather well."

A furor that eventually led to his resignation from the McGovern-Eagleton ticket developed last week when Eagleton revealed to newsmen in South Dakota he had been hospitalized three times in the 1960s for psychiatric treatment, including shock therapy.

Many of those who supported him in the controversy nevertheless criticized him for not telling McGovern ahead of time.

"If I made a mistake, it was on the intensity of how it would have been publicized," Eagleton said in the interview. "I probably wanted to believe that it wouldn't be that much of an issue. Call it wishful thinking, perhaps."

His leaving the ticket probably would have no adverse effect on McGovern's chances for election three months away, he said. "I should think by that time the Eagleton story will have become history."

Some of the telegrams received by Eagleton's office after his Monday night announcement show, however, that many Eagleton supporters believe differently.

Eagleton himself appeared to be taking the situation cheerfully, constantly joking with newsmen and describing himself as "relaxed, not morose." Even his staff members appeared relieved the ordeal was over.

Innocent Plea To Smuggling

Ruby Bonita Medina, 35-year-old Santa Rosa woman accused of smuggling drugs and liquor into San Quentin during a visit with her inmate husband, entered an innocent plea yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 22.

She was arrested after she was reportedly found carrying a half-consumed bottle of bourbon and three balloons of what appeared to be cocaine.

The arrest occurred July 24 when Mrs. Medina and her infant daughter were on a family visit at the prison.

Napa Man Treated After Tar Accident

A workman was burned by hot tar yesterday at 11:15 a.m. at a construction site on La Cresta Drive, Petaluma.

Edward Fisk, 21, of Napa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for tar burns of the face and arms. He was transferred in satisfactory condition to Queen of the Valley Hospital, Napa. No details on how the accident occurred were available.

Burglary Suspect Changes His Plea

One of the two men charged with burglarizing a Novato market June 4 has changed his plea to guilty in Marin Superior Court.

Admitting that he had burglarized the Cala Market on Center Road was William Guy Pannell, 24, of San Pablo.

Another man similarly charged, Warren Arthur Rhodes, 36, of no known address, is due for pretrial conference tomorrow.

Pannell was told by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner that if a probation report shows no further criminal record than one prior felony conviction, he will receive nine months in the county jail.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 11.

A Mobile Home Plea By Romney

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Housing Secretary George Romney asked 31 governors today to relax their state highway laws so that government-purchased mobile homes can be delivered quicker to East Coast victims of Hurricane Agnes.

Betweem 10,000 and 15,000 house trailers bought by the Department of Housing and Urban Development as emergency housing for flood victims will be heading toward the Atlantic Seaboard in the next three months, the department said.

Romney asked the governors in a telegram to waive traffic restrictions so that trailers can roll without waiting for special permits, escort vehicles and the proper hours. Laws on hauling trailers vary from state to state.

Holtzman Heading Toward 1st 20-Win Season

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI)—Ken Holtzman is back on schedule toward a 20-victory season, something he'd like only a little less than helping the Oakland A's win the American League pennant.

Holtzman, the stylish lefthander the A's got from the Chicago Cubs last winter in exchange for Rick Monday, pitched a three-hit 4-0 shutout over the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night for his 14th victory.

Holtzman lost two starts in a row before notching the victory which put him in good shape toward his first big league 20-victory season. Winning 20 games is something Holtzman doesn't often talk about because it's his second goal.

"Winning the pennant is bigger than any individual record," he said after beating the Royals. "Sure, I'd like to win 20 games. Who wouldn't?"

This is Ken's seventh year in the majors. His previous six all were spent with the Cubs and his victory high stands at 17.

"I had a shot at 20 twice before," he said, "but something always happened. Now, I think I have a chance to do it. For me, the perfect season would be if the team wins the pennant and I get my 20 victories."

The A's treated Holtzman to 11 hits against the Royals. But more important, they got him an early 2-0 lead on a two-run single by Sal Bando in the third. Then Reggie Jackson drilled his 21st homer with Joe Rudi aboard in the fifth to make it easy.

"In my last four or five starts I've had little to work with," said Holtzman. "It seems that I never had more than a run lead or was in a scoreless tie. This time they got me the lead and I was able to go from there."

A pair of singles by Paul Schaal and a double by Lou Piniella were the only hits Holtzman gave the Royals, who lead the American League in batting with a team mark of .261.

But the Royals are one team Holtzman has been able to handle. He's had three starts against them now and has beaten them all three times.

"I don't know why I do so well against them," said Holtzman. "It's just one of those baseball things you can't explain."

There has been some criticism of A's batters of late for not delivering in the clutch, but no one can pin that rap on Bando or Jackson. Bando's two RBIs Tuesday gave him 54 for the season and Jackson's two increased his total to 61. Jackson's homer gave the A's 91 for the season, which is tops in the A.L.

Jim Hunter tries to match Holtzman's victory total tonight when he pitches against Dick Drago in the windup game of the two-game series with the Royals.

The A's will be idle Thursday and then go on the road for four games with Minnesota and three with Kansas City.

Fuentes Rubs Salt In Dodger Wound

Sports
Independent-Journal, 33
Wednesday, August 2, 1972

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tito Fuentes, who scored the winning run, rubbed a little salt in the wound.

After the San Francisco Giants overcame a 3-0 deficit to edge Los Angeles 4-3 Tuesday night, Fuentes said: "The Dodgers are playing very badly and that's the way it was going for us early."

For the Giants, it was their 23rd victory in 32 games. For the Dodgers, it was their fifth loss in a row.

"Our entire club is playing the game a lot better in every way, shape and form," said Giant Manager Charlie Fox. "Fuentes, in particular, has been playing great ball. Since the bad start for us, the bullpen has been outstanding."

San Francisco scored its winning run in the eighth inning and it was unearned as the Dodgers committed their 101st error of the season. Fuentes opened with a bloop double off reliever Jim Brewer and Alan Gallagher sacrificed the runner to third. But Dodger second baseman Lee Lacy, covering first, dropped Brewer's throw and Gallagher was safe.

After Dave Rader popped out, Ken Henderson hit a dunker that Lacy caught with his back to the plate. Fuentes scampered home to snap a 3-3 tie.

Frank Robinson was coming in on the play but Los Angeles skipper Walter Alston refused to fault his rookie second baseman.

"Lacy made a great play just getting to the ball," Alston said. "I don't think Robinson would have caught it."

Fuentes said he hit a Brewer screwball, adding: "I normally don't him him that well so I was happy to take anything I could get. I broke my bat on that pitch."

Coupled with pace-setting Cincinnati's 3-1 victory over Houston Tuesday night, the loss dropped the Dodgers, preseason favorites in the National League West, 9 1-2 games back

GRAND LARCENY — Bert Campaneris of Oakland stole second base in the third inning yesterday while Kansas City's Cookie Rojas help up an empty glove in frustration. Throw from catcher Ed Kirkpatrick was late. Oakland won the game at the Coliseum, 4-0.

NORTH-SOUTH GRID

Eight Added To Rosters

While the players have been lifting weights to develop their strength, the coaches for the upcoming North-South all-star football game apparently have been juggling rosters to develop their agility.

Five replacements have been added to the South and three to the North for the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club's annual game, scheduled for Aug. 18 at San Rafael High School.

A team of top graduated seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League area will meet a team from the four southern schools.

Additions to the South are guard Rick White and end Steve Urban from Drake High, fullback-end Jay Lehman and end Gary O'Neal of Redwood and end Jack Stahl of Marin Catholic.

The new Northerners are backs Terry Johnson and Leo Magers from Novato and lineman Bob Brown of San Rafael.

Previously selected to play for the North, but unable to make the game, are guards Greg Amussen of Novato and Mike Couch of San Marin.

Southern players who dropped out are fullback-linebacker Marc Asiano and endlnebacker Steve McGee of Redwood and three Tamalpais players — backs Clifford Hall and Pat Locey and end Greg Biber. Hall signed a professional baseball contract in June.

The North now has a full squad of 25 players. South coaches have 24 and may pick one more man at a later date.

Ross Valley Kiwanis also announced the officials for game would be referee Dick Hart, umpire Bob Fitzhenry, linesman Mike Convis and field judge Verle Sorgen.

Tickets for the game cost $3 for adults and $2.50 for students and are available at 17 locations throughout Marin County. Locations include Big Five Sporting Goods in the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael and the 7-Eleven food store in Corte Madera, instead of the Sports Land Corp. and the San Anselmo 7-Eleven, as previously announced.

VICE PRESIDENT

Glover Returns To Seals

OAKLAND (UPI)—It's hard to tell how the other owners in the National Hockey League feel about the new World Hockey Association, but one man who doesn't expect to stand still is Charlie Finley of the California Golden Seals.

Finley, who lost two players to the Cleveland Crusaders of the WHA in four days, got a measure of revenge and added a little egg to his face Tuesday when he signed Fred Glover on as executive vice president.

If you came in late, Glover worked three and a half seasons as coach of the Seals for Finley only to get fired last year. Glover hooked on as coach of the Los Angeles Kings and then "jumped" to the Crusaders as director of player personnel.

But after only three weeks with the Crusaders, Glover figured he had enough of the new league and quit. He no sooner became unemployed when Finley hired him back.

In signing Glover Finley couldn't resist the opportunity to get in a shot at the Crusaders in particular and the WHA in general.

"Here they get a fine man like Glover," said Finley of the Crusaders, "and they couldn't keep him around for more than three weeks. That ought to give you an idea of what a league that is. They'll be hearing from us, I'll guarantee you that much.

Finley is especially disturbed that Cleveland grabbed "jumpers" Gerry Pinder (a wing) and Paul Shmyr (a defenseman) from his Seals, and he promised that the situation is not closed.

"That's only the first round," said the outspoken Seals owner. "Don't be surprised if I get them back. I don't plan to stand by and watch what has been going on lately."

Still, Finley of all the NHL owners has been hurt the most. In all, six of his players have jumped to WHA teams, and he also doesn't have a coach as of the moment.

Getting a coach is the No. 1 item on Finley's schedule. He said he will sit down with Glover and general manager Garry Young in the next few days and decide on a coach. Then, he plans to go after the WHA, but he didn't say how.

Novato's Ruth '9' Triumphs

I-J Special Report

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Novato pecked away for single runs in five different innings and pitcher Bill Parmenter made the tallies stand up for a 5-4 victory over Lompoc yesterday in the Babe Ruth 13-year-old Northern California State baseball tournament here.

Novato, the only remaining unbeaten team in the double-elimination tourney, will face San Carlos tonight at 7:30.

Phil Sorenson walked, stole second and scored on a two-out double to right center field by Tim Wilson as Novato broke a 4-4 tie with a run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The right-handed Parmenter struck out 10, walked two and scattered five hits. He gave up only one earned run and survived seven errors behind him.

Novato scored in the first on an RBI single by Kurt Sears, in the second on a single by Bob Haskell, in the third on a balk and in the fourth on an infield out by Matt Listman.

If Novato wins tonight, it will play again Saturday for the championship. If it loses, it will play Friday.

Lutz In Stunner Over Newcombe

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—For thousands of tennis fans, Bob Lutz of Tiburon will always be known as a doubles player—the "little man" who teamed with fellow Californian Stan Smith to clinch the Davis Cup for the U.S. three times between 1968-1970.

But while those fans have looked the other way, that little man—who is only an inch under six feet and weighs 180 pounds—has become one of the best singles players in the world.

The 24-year-old Lutz demonstrated that fact again Tuesday when he fought off two match points and the won a tiebreak game in the final set to upset top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 7-6, in the $50,000 U.S. Professional tennis championships at the Longwood Cricket Club.

In another three-set struggle Tuesday, third seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., eliminated defending champion Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5.

The 37-year-old Rosewall, who has been off form since winning the world's title in May, showed his shotmaking was below par.

Riessen had triple match point on Rosewall's serve in the 10th game of the third set, but the Australian won five straight points to take the game.

However, Riessen rallied to win the set, 7-5, and capture the match. Rosewall netted a backhand in the 12th game of the third set to give the American the victory.

Between them, Rosewall and fellow Australian Rod Laver have lost eight of the last nine U.S. pro titles, and Laver too almost went down to defeat Monday.

But the redhaired left-hander, who is one week away from his 34th birthday, fought back brilliantly to defeat eighth seeded Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

It was Lutz' first victory over over Newcombe, a three-time Wimbleton champion, but the Californian bristled at the suggestion that the victory should lay to rest the idea he is only a doubles player.

"If people want to think of me as a doubles player, that's their business," he said. "I think my record speaks for itself. I earned more than $50,000 on the tour last year. I have won plenty of big matches.

Sanderson To Sign For $2.625 Million

BOSTON (UPI) — Center Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins will sign a five-year contract with the Philadelphia Blazers of the New World Hockey Association on Thursday, his attorney announced Tuesday.

Robert Woolf said published reports that Sanderson would receive $2.625 million for five years were "reasonably close," but he declined to discuss details of the contract.

"There is no question in my mind that he will be the highest paid athlete in America today and conceivably in the world," Woolf said. "It would be absurd not to accept it."

Woolf said details of the contract were worked out in Philadelphia Monday night. The Blazers scheduled an 11 a.m. news conference for Thursday to formally announce the signing.

49ers Get Ready For Jets Game

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—The work load starts decreasing today for the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Since camp opened last month the squad has been worked twice a day in an effort to weed out the players who won't be around when the season starts on Sept. 17.

Starting today, the work will be cut in half, mostly because the exhibition season begins on Saturday.

A long workout is on tap for today and then on Thursday the team flies to Jacksonville, Fla., for Saturday night's game against the New York Jets.

"I couldn't be happier with the condition of the squad," said Head Coach Dick Nolan. "They've all worked pretty hard and now we start playing games. That should give us a good idea of who will stick and who won't."

Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner who has been playing in John Brodie's shadow for five seasons, will start against the Jets at quarterback Saturday and Joe Reed will be used in what Nolan calls "special situations." That means Brodie will watch from the sidelines and offers suggestions.

All 58 men on the squad will make the trip to Jacksonville, but three of them — veteran defensive end Cedrick Hardman, rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley and second year linebacker Marty Huff — won't see action.

Hardman is coming back from off-season knee surgery while Huff is being kept out of Saturday's game because of bumps and bruises. Beasley has a broken toe.

Raiders Loading Up On Wide Receivers

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The Oakland Raiders diversified briefly into the shipping and receiving business — dispatching two players and getting five — as they prepared for Saturday night's preseason opener against the New England Patriots at Oakland.

One of the trades will increase Coach John Madden's wealth of wide receivers.

The Raiders picked up wide receiver Gloster Richardson, a six-foot, 200 pounder, from the Dallas Cowboys for a future draft choice.

Sent to Houston was wide receiver Rod Sherman, who has not signed a contract, did not report for training and asked to be traded. In exchange, Oakland gets 6-8, 290-pound tackle Gene Ferguson who also has been having contract difficulties.

Along with Richardson, Madden now has Warren Wells, Fred Biletnikoff, Drew Buie, Mike Siani and Cliff Branch to choose from in giving opposing secondaries headaches.

The other departure was that of veteran linebacker Duane Benson, 27, to the Atlanta Falcons in return for a future draft choice. Benson had started in the last six games in the previous season.

The Raiders got Jeff Queen, running back and tight end who led San Diego in rushing two years ago, by giving the Chargers a No. 3 draft choice next year.

Quarterback Don Milan, with the Raiders most of last year's training season, came back from Kansas City for "future consideration."

Rookie defensive end Otis Sistrunk was picked up from the Los Angeles Rams for a draft choice.

The Raiders also got some draft selections in the transactions.

Playful Ali Toys With Peralta

BARCELONA (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali Monday night toyed with Argentina's ageing Goyo Peralta in a 16-minute exhibition which left his face make-up perfectly preserved.

Nobody got hurt, nobody got knocked down, and the estimated 15,000 fans who paid between $2.50 to $33 seemed to think Ali gave them their money's worth.

The best comedy in the exhibition of eight two-minute rounds with 13 oz. gloves came when Ali, wearing an old white and yellow robe and his lips painted a bright red, was asked to shake hands with European heavyweight champion Jose Manuel Ibar Urtain, one of several European fighters introduced before the bout.

Ali refused to greet the huge Basque, a former weightlifter, and ran away from him in mock disgust.

Utain grabbed Ali and lifted him into the air. Ali wiggled lose, he faked an attack and helpers had to "restrain" him from hitting Urtain.

Record Night For Colbert

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Nate Colbert's record-setting performance Tuesday night rekindled fond childhood remembrances for the San Diego slugger but for Atlanta Manager Luman Harris, it was the kind of night that leads to premature aging.

Colbert set a major league record when he drove in 13 runs on five homers, including a grand slammer, and a single in leading the Padres to a doubleheader sweep over the Braves, 9-0 and 11-7.

The old major league record of 11 RBIs in a doubleheader was held jointly by Earl Averill, Jim Tabor and Boog Powell. Jim Bottomley once drove in 12 runs in a single game on Sept 16, 1924, as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Colbert's five home runs tied him with Stan Musial for most home runs in a doubleheader.

Colbert, originally from St. Louis, was in the old St. Louis ballpark, Sportman's Park, the day that Musial set the record. "When I hit the last homer I knew it was the record and all I could think of was remembering Musial's five homers. It was unreal," said Colbert. "He was my first baseball hero."

Colbert's feat, which gave him the major league lead in home runs with 30 and in RBIs with 82, saw him hit two homers in the first game and three in the second, driving in five runs in the opener and eight in the nightcap.

The San Diego first baseman, who has hit 16 homers in the past 32 days, remarked earlier in the season that Atlanta had the sort of ballpark he would enjoy playing in on a daily basis.

"I would like to play one season in New York, Philadelphia or Atlanta and see how many home runs I could hit. It's a lot easier in those parks than it is in ours (San Diego Stadium)," Colbert said.

In other National League games New York and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, the Mets winning the opener in 18 innings 3-2 and the Phillies capturing the nightcap 4-1, Montreal edged Chicago 3-2 in 10 innings, Cincinnati downed Houston 3-1, St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 7-4, and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 4-3.

Joe Morgan, traded to the Reds during the off-season, hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning to support the seven-hit pitching of Wayne Simpson. The Reds, who have beaten the Astros seven out of 11 times this season, lead the second place Astros by six ull games in the National league West.

Bill Robinson's three-run double in the ninth and Steve Carlton's five-hit pitching earned the Phils a split of their doubleheader with New York after the Mets won the opener on a bases-loaded single by Cleon Jones. It was Carlton's 16th victory and his 11th in a row.

Matty Alou drove in three runs in leading St. Louis past Pittsburgh. Alou's double highlighted a six-run Cardinal fifth. He also doubled in St. Louis' first run in the third inning.

Tim Foli's sacrifice fly drove home Carl Morton with the winning run with two out in the 10th inning to lead Montreal over Chicago. Morton was running for Ron Fairly, who had gotton on base on a fielder's choice after Clyde Mashore had opened the inning with a single.

Dodgers Put Dietz On Disabled List

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Catcher Dick Dietz has been put on the disabled list by the Los Angeles Dodgers after it was discovered he had a fractured right wrist.

Dietz was hit on the wrist by a foul tip Sunday in a game at Atlanta. While he is on the disabled list for three weeks his spot on the roster will be filled by catcher Steve Yeager, brought up from Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Perry Sets Sights On Feller's Mark

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

While Mickey Lolich is trying to catch Hal Newhouser, Gaylord Perry is zeroing in on Bob Feller.

Lolich and Perry, dueling for the American League lead in victories the way Newhouser and Feller did a generation ago, both stand at 18 this season. Lolich made it Monday night and Perry followed in his footsteps Tuesday with a two-hitter that gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and boosted his record to 18-8.

Lolich and Perry both have outside shots at the 30-victory mark although Denny McLain had 21 victories at this point in 1968 when he went on to 31 victories.

But Lolich and Perry have other marks in their grasp. Lolich, who won 25 last year, can become the first American Leaguer to turn in back-to-back 25-game victory seasons since Newhouser did it in 1944, 45 and 46.

Perry can break the Cleveland record for most victories set by Feller in 1940 when he won 27.

"This is the sharpest game I've pitched all year," Perry said, "I feel I've pitched more consistently this year than I have ever pitched before."

Perry was obtained by the Indians from San Francisco in the Sam McDowell deal last November. He never won more than 23 for the Giants and last year he won only 16.

"Last year I pitched only once a week but I like to pitch every fourth day which I'm doing this season," Perry said.

Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte said, "I'm not going to project how many games Perry will win this season because I don't want to jinx him. I just hope he has a fantastic year. He's a great pitcher. He's not the type who gets tired. As the game goes on, he picks up momentum and gets tougher. He thrives on three days rest and I told him before the season started that's how I would pitch him before the season started."

Rookie Buddy Bell gave Perry all the help he needed by hitting a two-run homer off Dave McNally, who's now 10-9 and may have his string of four straight 20-game victory seasons snapped.

In other AL games, Milwaukee blanked Detroit 9-0 in a six-inning rain-abbreviated game, New York ripped Boston 10-4, Minnesota blanked Texas 3-0, Oakland beat Kansas City 4-0 and the California at Chicago game was rained out.

Skip Lockwood pitched a one-hitter as Milwaukee beat Detroit. Mickey Stanley's sixth-inning double was the only Detroit hit. The game almost turned into a travesty in the rain in the fifth inning when Milwaukee, which had a 7-0 lead, was trying to speed up the game while Detroit was trying to slow it down. The umpires finally had to call out both managers so Milwaukee would stop trying to make outs and Detroit would stop deliberately making errors.

The Yankee-Red Sox game was scoreless for five innings but New York scored 10 runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings to rout Boston. Roy White singled in a run in the sixth and stole home, John Callison hit a two-run single in the five-run fifth and Bobby Murcer hit a three-run homer in the eighth.

Dick Woodson pitched a three-hitter for his first shutout and Danny Thompson hit a two-run triple as Minnesota topped Texas. It was the 15th time this season the Rangers have failed to score.

Satchel's Mark

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Satchel Paige is the only pitcher in baseball's Hall of Fame who has a less-than.500 won-lost record for his career. Paige's major league totals were 28-31.

in the division race, only two games over .500.

Los Angeles piled up a 3-0 lead and seven hits off San Francisco starter Ron Bryant in the first three innings but only could get three more hits off Randy Moffitt and Jerry Johnson in the last six.

Johnson checked the Dodgers on two hits over the last four innings for his seventh victory against five defeats. Brewer, who replaced Dodger starter Al Downing in the eighth, was tagged with the loss to make his record 6-5.

The Dodgers had men at second and third with none out and failed to score in the seventh. Manny Mota lined into a doubleplay to end the inning.

The Dodgers scored on a two-run single by Wes Parker in the first inning and singles by Mota, Parker and Bobby Valentine in the third.

Singles by Fuentes, Rader and Henderson earned the Giants their first run in the fourth. Batting for Moffitt in the sixth, Bernie Williams slammed his third homer with Henderson on base.

In the second game of a three-contest televised series tonight (Channel 2, 8 o'clock), Don Sutton (12-6) goes for Los Angeles against Steve Stone (4-7).

LPGA To Rule In Palmer Case

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Ladies Professional Golf Association today will discuss the case of pro golfer Sandra Palmer, in the doghouse with the LPGA for her vocal support of fellow pro Jane Blalock.

Miss Palmer was to be represented by Atlanta Attorney Gene Partain at the hearing.

The LPGA suspended Miss Blalock for a year for alleged violation of the group's code of ethics. Affidavits were filed accusing Miss Blalock with illegally moving her ball on the putting surface during tournaments.

Miss Palmer was quoted as saying she did not believe the charges and that one of the affidavits was false.

A $5 million suit was filed against the LPGA by Miss Blalock because of the suspension. She won a restraining order against the suspension pending trial of the case in court.

The lady pros continued to practice on the 6,300-yard Deane Hill Country Club course, site of this weekend's $25,000 Knoxville Ladies Golf Classic.

Tennis

CINCINNATI — Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong breezed through her first match in the 85th Western Tennis Championships last night, beating Cathie Anderson of Lafayette, Calif., 6-0, 6-1.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — Defending champion and top ranked Gus Palafox of Little Rock, Ark., and second seeded Bobby Riggs of Newport Beach, Calif., moved to easy wins yesterday in the opening round of the National Senior Clay Court Championship.

Palafox won, 6-0, 6-1, over Frank Sample of Arlington, Va., while Riggs topped Ray Stratton of Springfield, Tenn., 6-2, 6-3.

The biggest upset of the day game when fourth seeded Al Bunis of Cincinnati lost to Phillippe Ness of Washington, D.C., 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Baseball

NEW YORK — Willie Mays and Rusty Staub of the New York Mets were selected yesterday as co-winners of the New York Catholic Youth Organization's annual "Most Popular Met Player Award" in voting among the 301,000 CYO members of the New York Arch Diosesan CYO.

Another Met, first-baseman outfielder Jim Beauchamp, was reactivated from the disabled list yesterday and catcher-first baseman Bill Sudakis was optioned to Memphis in the Texas League.

Basketball

DETROIT — Jimmy Walker was traded by the Detroit Pistons to the Houston Rockets for Stu Lantz yesterday in exchange of guards by the National Basketball Association teams.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Most Windshields Have Tender Skin

You could describe the windshield found on most runabout pleasure boats as a thermoplasticacrylic, platen pressed, duo-curved, multi-axially stretched superstructure. It may have a tough body, but it's got a tender skin.

This tender skin often makes it the most abused fixture on a boat. And this is especially true of boats that are trailered.

It's not uncommon to find at the end of a long haul, that the windshield is covered with dead bugs, dust, grit and oil.

I've seen skippers try to remove this guck with a dirty old rag they haul out of the trunk of the car. It's easy to take five years off the life of the windshield with such abuse.

The plastic scratches easily under even the slightest abrasive, and although the scratches may not be too noticeable at the time, they will finally destroy the usefulness of the windshield.

Scratches aren't bad when the light is coming from behind, but try heading into the sun with a scratched and scuffed windshield and you'll be blinded by the reflection and refraction.

All this concern for windshields was brought on by a couple of odd questions I've been asked this summer:

Q. How do you wash a Plexi windshield?

A. Don't use a cloth. Use your bare hands to splash on water and detergent. Then you can feel any damaging grit or abrasive, adhering to the plastic. Polish it up with a clean damp chamois or a very soft cloth. It's a good idea to keep a soft cloth just especially for the job in a plastic bag somewhere in the boat.

Q. I trailered a boat 1,870 miles. On the last 20-mile stretch the windsh ield crumbled into pieces about the size of a dollar. What gives?

A. Two manufacturers of plastics tell me this just couldn't happen. (The only trouble is, it did.) Other "experts" believe it's due to internal stresses created in the plastic by the tightness of the frame. After a lot of vibration, the stresses just shatter the entire structure.

Q. The plastic "glass" portholes on my sailboat developed small cracks which are called "crazing." Why?

A. The same "experts" mentioned above think this is just a modification of the shattering phenomenon.
tioned above think this is just a modification of the shattering phenomenon.

Q. Is it possible to stop cracks developing in plastic windshields?

A. Check the neoprene weatherstripping around the frame. If it becomes hardened, its cushion effect is lost, and vibration will start cracks. If a crac should develop it can be stopped by drilling a fine hole with a No. 30 or 50 drill at the tip of the fracture. The crack won't run any farther.

Q. Can I restore the "sparkle" to my windshield?

A. If it isn't too scratched a thin coat of water emulsion wax (the stuff sold as "self-polishing") is a help. But if it has to be resurfaced, there is a very fine abrasive cloth sold for the job.

Q. Is there a right and wrong cleaner and wax for plastic?

A. The aircraft industry has done a lot more research on plastic "glass" than anyone else, and I use the material sold at airports for cleaning and polishing the windshields of light aircraft.

Nicklaus Not Upset By Idea Of Letdown

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI —It's beginning to sound as though the only letdown Jack Nicklaus can suffer will come if he doesn't win the 54th annual Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Nicklaus and his highly scrutinized no-pain right index finger look for their third straight "pretty good" practice round today in the final tuneups for Thursday's tournament start.

"I'm surprised," Nicklaus said after his second tournament week tour over Oakland Hills Country Club's 7,054-yard layout for which par has been set at 70. "I'm coming along quite good. I played pretty good again."

Will there be a letdown because the grand slam possibility is gone? Nicklaus then destroyed his built-in alibi as calmly as he's decimated golf courses on his way to becoming the game's all-time leading dollar accumulator.

"I learned a long time ago when I lost an entire season because of a letdown," Nicklaus said. "It was 1964, when I finished second in the Masters. It was a letdown mentally thereafter.

"I feel each tournament stands on its own two feet," he said.

So he clearly feels he has a decent chance to sweep the PGA off its feet and supplant Bobby Jones as the winner of the most major tournaments with his 14th such triumph.

Thundershowers which were expected to slow up the greens and lower the practice scores hit the course during the night. More were forecast for today and a partly cloudy prediction was made for the start of the $200,000 tournament.

"This is the greatest course they've ever had the PGA on," Gary Player. "It's a fair test. It's very difficult but very fair. I think scoring will be very high," said Player, who many figure has an excellent chance because the course is complementary to his game.

"I think a 284 will win it. They say that's four over par, but I think it's really four under."

Namath Signs Rich Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the fairest quarterback of them all?

Joe Namath took a good look in the mirror Tuesday and, with all due modesty, he gave what he considers is the truthful answer.

"I think I'm the best quarterback in football and those who don't think so, well, we'll wait and see," Namath said as he signed a contract that is supposed to make him football's highest paid player.

Terms weren't revealed but it is a two-year pact in the neighborhood of $250,000 a season. That may be only pocket money for sports' newest millionaires like Bobby Hull and Derek Sanderson but it is supposed to be a record salary for pro football.

If Namath stays healthy, the Jets are supposed to be in the Eastern Division race with Miami and Baltimore.

Elsewhere, Harland Svare seems to be determined to take George Allen's title as the NFL's No. 1 wheeler-dealer. The San Diego Chargers' coach has now made 15 deals.

His most celebrated was the 12th one when he picked up controversial Duane Thomas from Dllas. But he continued by giving up his No. 1 1973 draft choice to Philadelphia for linebacker Tim Rossovich. He then dealt running back Jeff Queen to Oakland for a thirdround draft choice and then picked up defensive tackle Dave Costa from Denver for fullback Eddie Ray and a third round pick.

Svare can now trade only with AFC teams since the deadline for deals with NFC clubs was midnight Monday.

The new San Diego head seems to be specializing in players who were having problems with their old clubs. Costa, for example, had been suspended by Denver Coach john Ralston for complaining about training camp. And no one needs to be told about Thomas' problems.

Svare said, "my gut reaction was to take a chance on Thomas. You have to roll the dice. Thomas is a rare talent, a superior player."

If Thomas gets the kind of contract he wants, it may not be a gamble at all. Contract troubles started all the problems with Dallas and a change of scenery could mean all the difference in the world.

Minnesta, which is considered a leading contender to win the Super Bowl, managed to come to terms with four free agents—John Henderson, Gene Washington, Clint Jones and Charlie West. They all signed their 1972 contracts and are expected to be in camp today.

Greenbrae Girl Wins In Tennis

Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae won her girls 16 match in the Blossom Hill Junior tennis tournament in Los Gatos yesterday, overwhelming Ann Drew, 6-0, 6-0.

In the same tournament, Andrea Goldfien of Mill Valley was beaten by Stacey Naugle, 6-1, 6-0.

Elsewhere in tennis, John Zwieg of Greenbrae is seeded fourth in men's singles for the San Francisco City championships, which open Saturday in Golden Gate Park. Sue Beatty of Tiburon is seeded third in girls 18 and fourth in girls 16 in the tournament.

Triton Regatta Set On Bay Sept. 2-4

The seventh annual national Triton Regatta boat race, hosted by the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere, will be held Sept. 2-4 on San Francisco Bay.

A total of five races, each of about 10 miles, will be held for the 28-foot sloops — two each on Sept. 2 and 3 and one on Sept. 4. Social events connected with the regatta begin Sept. 1.

Auto Rallye Slated

The Marin Ralley Association will stage an automobile rallye Saturday from 6-9 p.m., beginning at the Corte Madera Center and ending at the Straw Hat Pizza Parlor in Novato. Trophies will be awarded in five classes ranging from expert to first-timer. For further information, contact Tom Dillon at 88 Western Drive, Novato, or Richard Lowenthal, 140 Del Casa Drive, Mill Valley.

Dempsey Leads Marin Drivers In Petaluma

Jack Dempsey, fighting his way back to the top, will be seeking his third feature victory in his six-week-old comeback Friday in modified sportsman auto racing at Petaluma Speedway.

Dempsey led an impressive San Rafael contingent last Friday with his triumph. Roy Victor was second, Gary Ramsier eighth and Kirk Edison 10th.

In addition to the sportsmen, Friday's card will have early model stockers and Bay Cities Racing Association super midgets. Qualifying on the quarter-mile dirt oval is set for 7 p.m., with the first race slated for 8.

Basketball Results

In Drake Summer League high school basketball games yesterday, Shaw's Ice Cream defeated Bob's Cats, 46-34; the Crusaders beat the Wildcats, 56-26; and McGillicuddy Construction downed Chuck Moore Insurance, 61-52.

Deadline Sunday For Mill Valley Net

Deadline for entries for the 14th annual Marin County Junior Hardcourt Championships, scheduled for Aug. 14-18 at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, will be Sunday at 6 p.m., tournament officials have announced.

Play will be held in boys and girls singles and doubles. Entry fee is $4 for singles players and $5 for doubles teams, and should be sent to Mrs. Kenneth Stevens, 8 Vasco Dr., Mill Valley, 94941.

Third Base Problem Still Plagues Giants

CINCINNATI — Ever since Jim Davenport retired, third base has been a defensive problem for the Giants. Beginning with Jim Ray Hart, there's been a steady stream of third base candidates. And the search still goes on.

Dave Kingman started at third this season. The big fellow, with the big bat, moved to first after the fourth game in which Willie McCovey's right arm was broken.

ALAN GALLAGHER then moved back to third. Dirty Al's third base style delights the fans but his dives into the dirt for grounders, while spectacular, are not classic defensive moves.

Chris Arnold, Hart (in his umpteenth and probably last chance) and Damaso Blanco followed Gallagher at third until finally Charlie Fox, after giving Kingman another shot at the job upon McCovey's return to action, settled for Gallagher. Kingman went to left field.

NOW, FOX IS toying with the idea of converting Ken Henderson from an outfielder into a third baseman. Henderson is playing left field at the moment because the right ankle Kingman sprained just before the All-Star break still is tender. But since the second half of the season started, Henderson also has been working out at third under the guidance of coach Joe Amalfitano, who tutored Kingman on third base maneuvers this spring.

"When is Henderson going to play third?" Fox was asked by one of the baseball writers traveling with the team.

"WHATEVER GAVE you that idea?" Fox parried the question. "We've had him working out there just to see what he could do."

The writer smiled at the manager's evasive answer and Fox, a fellow with a sense of humor, smiled too.

"I'll give you a better third base story," said Fox. "What about Ed Goodson at third?"

Surely, Fox couldn't be serious, not with Goodson's damaged right knee.

"I DON'T MEAN this season," said Fox, "but after a winter operation on the knee. Goodson broke in as a shortstop. He has a fine arm. And he could move left or right before injuring his knee."

Warming to the thought of Goodson on third base next year, Fox said: "That would mean we could move the big fellow (Kingman) back to first." Such a move, of course, would be contingent on McCovey's state of health. But it did indicate the future plans Fox has in mind for the 1973 Giants.

STILL, AT THE moment the third base problem is the primary one Fox faces — just as it was for his predecessors in past years since Davenport's retirement. In solving the problem, Fox isn't going to make the mistake his predecessors did — moving Tito Fuentes from second to third.

"No way," said Fox. "In Tito and Chris Speier we have a smooth working double play combination. Tito is a natural second baseman with the fastest hands and greatest range of any second baseman in the majors today. As for Speier, he finally got the recognition due him in the All-Star game. He's the greatest shortstop playing today."

Sonoma Soccer Clinic Set

A three-day comprehensive soccer clinic will be held at California State College Sonoma beginning next month, designed to provide top-flight soccer instruction for North Bay youth.

Featuring Senior Coach Marty Krumm, the first Olympic soccer player ever from the Bay Area, the camp will be held on three Saturdays, Aug. 26, Sept. 9 and Sept. 16.

The fee for the camp is $27.50, which includes the three days of instruction, a camp T-shirt, lunches, insurance coverage, and a participation certificate.

Oklahoma Lad Leads In Golf

DALLAS (UPI) — Tommy Jones of Tulsa, Okla., carried a one-stroke lead into today's final qualifying round in the U. S. Golf Association's Junior Amateur Championship.

The Oklahoma teen-ager fired a two-under-par 70 in Tuesday's opening round over the par 36-36—72 Masters Course at Brookhaven Country Club.

Injuries Shelve Pair Of Jockeys

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)— Jockeys Harris Hawkenson and John Ishihara, injured in a spill at Bay Meadows Monday night, will be sidelined six and three months, respectively.

Hawkenson broke a vertebra in the middle of his back while Ishihara had surgery on his fractured shoulder.

Larry Kilcoyne also had two homers as MacArthur's blasted Perry's Delicatessen, 21-2. In other action, New York Life whipped Industrial Credit, 10-2; Perry's other entry beat Connection Tavern, 13-2; and Suburban Auto edged Sohner Tree Service, 1-0, on a three-hitter by Joe Nystrom.

ELGIN BAYLOR

An Also-Ran Who Is A Champion

By PHIL ELDERKIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Of all the super performers who have never played on a world championship team, I think I'd have to give my vote to Elgin Baylor as the best.

Baylor's trouble was that he played for the Los Angeles Lakers when the Boston Celtics still had players like Bill Russell, Bob Cousy, Tommy Heinsohn, the Jones Boys and Frank Ramsey.

The Celtics weren't entirely without compassion. They often let Elgin and Co. get to the threshold of pro basketball's throne room before slamming the door on their feet.

One time the Lakers missed a world title because the ball hit the side of the rim with three seconds left. But they lost mostly because of Russell — his blocked shots, his rebounds and his tough defense.

Now some young men's group out in Los Angeles, the Rinky Dinks, has thrown a black-tie dinner for Baylor, honoring him for his great individual ability as a champion. It is doubtful if most of these young people, except for television, ever saw Elgin play more than a few times.

But you didn't have to be a basketball expert to know that Baylor was something extra special. One-on-one he was the best player for his size anywhere in the country. And one-on-two he was still the best. The opposition considered it a good night back in the early 1960's when it was able to hold him to 30 points.

It was surprising how many rival forwards, if they knew the coach was going to ask them to guard Elgin, would turn up with mysterious ailments on the night of the game.

Baylor had three years, 1960 through 1963, when nobody stopped him. He averaged 34, 38 and 34 points a game. And one night, against the New York Knicks, he blistered the strings for 71 points.

When the starving Minneapolis Lakers moved to Los Angeles after the 1960 season, Baylor was the franchise. Jerry West was still a rookie, Wilt Chamberlain was still in Philadelphia and Bill Sharman was still years away from being the Lakers coach.

For a man who knew only one word — attack — when a basketball was put in his hand, he could also operate with finesse. If you tried to overplay him to either side, he'd go around you. And if the opposition was foolish enough to double team him, no forward in the league was better at hitting the open man.

The only sad thing about the Lakers' first world championship this season was that Elgin wasn't part of it. He tried — making nine starts early in the fall and averaging double figures on knees which wouldn't have supported Tom Thumb.

But when he saw how much his slowness and defense were hurting the team, nobody had to tell him. He just quietly turned in his uniform for a position in the front office.

Off the court, Baylor has always dressed smartly, moved confidently and dominated everything around him. On road trips he was a self-styled expert on everything from Wall Street to tulip bulbs.

If he didn't like the rules of some card game the Lakers were playing 40,000 feet above Colorado, he instantly invented new ones. Nobody challenged him because this was Elg, who always seemed to be held in personal and professional awe by his teammates.

But the biggest thing Baylor proved in pro basketball is that a man 6-feet-5 can be just as effective on offense as a man seven feet — maybe more effective if he's also got Elgin's aggressiveness.

Mary Harkins Making Popovers For Clients Throughout State

Mary Harkins Popovers, made famous at the El Paseo Restaurant in Mill Valley, are now in full production at a new plant in Northgate Industrial Park at 48 Paul Drive, Room 4.

Mrs. Harkins, who ran the El Paseo for 15 years until she sold out last December, began freezing her popovers seven years ago. They were so well received that she decided to set up a larger plant at Northgate Industrial Park. She is distributing frozen popovers to clients from Sacramento to Palm Springs.

Mark Harkins Popovers supplies many stores including Jurgensen's supermarkets, which has a chain of 18 outlets.

Bruce

ALAN BRUCE, former Marin County Administrator, is back in town with a new job at Redwood Bank in San Rafael. He is director of economic planning for the bank.

Bruce resigned as administrator on July 1 last year. He and his wife spent nine months on a leisurely tour of six countries in Europe before returning to their home in San Anselmo.

Byron W. Leydecker, president of Redwood Bank, was a Marin County supervisor while Bruce was county administrator.

GEORGE E. LAWRENCE, who opened Lachman Bros. furniture store in San Rafael in 1960 and then munaged its successor, the Manor House, is now with W and J Sloane at Northgate Mall.

Lawrence has been in the furniture store business for 34 years. When Lachman Bros. folded in June of 1971, Lawrence managed Manor House until it closed in May of this year.

FRED P. McKILLOP Janitorial Service, with offices at 354 Hickory Lane in Terra Linda, has moved into Northgate Industrial Park to expand his rug cleaning operations.

Realtor Herman Deitch of San Rafael arranged the lease of warehouse and office space at 112 Mitchell Boulevard.

Cal Fong of San Francisco joined McKillop last month to manage the rug cleaning and tinting department, as well as upholstery furniture. Fong has 18 years of experience in this field.

McKillop, who hus been in the business for 20 years, the last 10 in Marin County, serves industry, offices and homes.

MARIN ASSOCIATION of Life Underwriters hus been cited by two national organizations for its outstanding community service efforts last year.

The Marin Association won a certificate of merit from the National Association of Life Underwriters in Washington, D.C., and from the Institute of Life Insurance in New York for production of a filmstrip called "Children in Crisis," which motivated citizens to become actively engaged in voluntary probation work.

Ross Brackenof Penn Mutual Life in San Rafael was public service chairman of the Marin Association of Life Underwriters last year. Jack G. Nixon of State Mutual Life in San Rafael was the association presidnet.

H. W. CUMMINGS of Cummings Studios in San Rafael has been elected to the executive committee of the Stained Glass Association of America. The association, headquartered in St. Louis, Mo., represents major studios in the United States in the field of manufacturing artistic windows for churches, institutional buildings and homes.

Braewood Earnings

VAN NUYS (BW) — Braewood Development Corp. has earned $195,835 or 11 cents a share for the first half ended June 30, up 175 per cent from first half earnings reported a year ago.

OIL IMPORTS GROW

Energy Crisis Endangers Dollar

NEW YORK (AP) — While the United States strives desperately to correct its foreign trade imbalance in order to save the dollar, its efforts are being undermined by a developing energy crisis.

The impending crisis, which energy experts say is now almost inevitable, is forcing the country to import millions of barrels of foreign oil and, consequently, export billions of dollars in payment.

Meanwhile, because of a web of environmental, economic and political factors, combined with a failure by industry and government to produce a unified, farwighted energy policy, corrective action is stymied.

It results in this contradiction:

The United States is estimated to have within its borders enough energy resources to meet its need for at least 200 years at current consumption rates.

But, while allegedly doing all it can to stop the dollar outflow, the country leaves much of its domestic resources untapped and, instead, imports oil and natural gas at a current rate of $5 billion a year — and growing. Moreover, energy experts claim the situation has developed so much momentum that dependence on foreign supplies will rise from 30 per cent this year to 40 in 1975.

Because of the long "lead" times needed to develop domestic supplies, and because of high costs, "the hour is now too late," in the words of one authority, John McLean, to escape the myriad effects of a vast energy problem.

The facets of that problem include power blackouts, possible higher prices, disputes between ecologists and domestic energy suppliers, and a vulnerability to the demands of the Arab producing nations.

It is the effect on the dollar, however, that probably offers the most ironic illustration of the dangers inherent in the nation's inability to coordinate corrective action among producers and 60 governmental agencies.

Despite the growing trade deficits that already have led to an unprecedented devaluation of the dollar and currency disruptions among the world's trading nations, the Federal government estimates that the deficit from energy imports alone could reach $25 billion by 1985.

Market Shows Gains In Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The market, continuing a trend begun in the previous session, moved sharply higher during the first two hours today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The rally was triggered early Tuesday when the White House announced presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was holding secret Vietnam peace talks in Paris. He was to report to President Nixon today.

Thus, the market again has demonstrated its sensitivity to Vietnam peace hopes, many analysts said. Analysts also noted factory orders were up 2.6 per cent in June.

American Motors, which had strong second quarter earnings, was the most active issue, up ⅛ at 10 ½ on 114,100 shares.

Prices also were higher on the American Stock Exchange. Omega Alpha warrants were the most active on the Amex, off ⅝ at 1 ⅞ on 102,000 traded.

Airlines continued to move higher. Delt a (ex-dividend gained 2 ⅜; Flying Tiger 1 ¼ and Eastern Airlines and UAL Inc. 1 apiece.

Honeywell jumped 1 ¼ in the mixed electronics and computers. Control Data lost 2, IBM 1 ¼, Burroughs 1 ⅛. IBM introduced a new storage system and two new computers to its System-370 computer.

Philip Morris added 2 and Corning Glass 1 ¼ in the mixed glamors. Schlumberger, despite higher second quarter earnings, lost 3 and Curtiss-Wright 1 ⅛.

Chemicals were higher. Allied Chemical added 1 ⅛; and Eastman Kodak ½.

Record Earnings

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Empire Financial Corp. has reported record six-month earnings of $1,663,877, or 81 cents per share, up 24 per cent over the $1,337,751, or 66 cents per share, for the first half of 1971.

Better Care Reduces Bills For Bicycles

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

How can you reduce the repair bills on your bicycle?

"By taking better care of it," is the advice of bicycle repairmen. If your brakes don't grab as quickly as they should, or the gears are slipping a bit, don't keep riding just because the problem doesn't seem serious at the time.

These symptoms are serious, and you will realize that when you get your repair bill. The cost of repairs would have been less if you had turned the bike in promptly.

Repairmen say that many people neglect their bikes, use them carelessly, fail to keep the tire pressure up, neglect to use the kick stand when they park, or try to repair a bicycle when they don't know how.

All this helps to create a work jam in bicycle repair shops, which are already servicing some 73 million bikes, with 10 million new ones coming onto the market this year, according to trade estimates.

Cyclists are asking for trouble when they dash into the house even for "Just a minute," and leave the bicycle leaning against a post or tree. If it tips over during that "minute," the spill may damage the gears or the brake or bend the spokes in the wheel.

Flat tires are a common problem. Many are unavoidable by the rider, but some could be avoided if tires were checked regularly for wear, air pressure, and for pieces of glass or other sharp particles.

Check the chain frequently to be sure that it is kept as clean as possible. It should have a light coating of oil at all times. If the saddle is made of leather, it should be kept waterproof with shoe polish, but rub hard to take excess polish off so it does not get on clothing.

Bike owners shouldn't attempt any major repairs on their own unless they have the right tools and know how to use them. But, for emergencies on the road, riders should carry a small crescent wrench and a screwdriver.

Don't try to save money by buying a cheap bike. Repairmen find that they require more frequent repairs, and, in the end, you may spend as much as you would have had you bought a better one in the first place.

If you can, buy your bicycle at a place that also provides service. Most repair shops have a big backlog of work, and you might stand a better chance of quick service if you were to take your bike back to home base for repairs.

For those people who want to avoid these long waits and do their own repair work, a book has been written just for them. It is called "Anybody's Bike Book, An Original Manual of Bicycle Repairs." It is a paperback, price $3 and it is in most bookstores. But if you can't find it, for 25 cents more you can receive it from the publisher, Ten Speed Press, 2513 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, Calif. 94704.

New Antibiotics Give Upjohn Lift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you tell me if there is a possibility of Upjohn Co. splitting its shares? I bought 50 shares at $100. — M.S.

A. Certainly when shares in any company move up over the $100 mark, a split is always a possibility. There are, however, a substantial number of issues which have traded at and above that level for long periods without splitticg shares. Although Upjohn has one of the lowest five-year growth rates in the drug industry, a new line of antibiotic drugs, increased chemical capacity and foreign plant expansion should reverse this trend. In the March quarter sales rose 1 per cent with net up 26.5 per cent. At the current 37x price/earnings multiple shares hare amply discounted the improved profit level.

Q. I have been advised to sell the nine stocks on the enclosed list. These I have kept since my husband's death a year ago. In addition, I hold 62 shares of American Telephone and $8,000 in American General Bond Fund both NYSE-listed. I have monthly income from Social Security and an annuity of $250 plus $42,000 in various savings accounts. Many of the stocks are well below the price paid and I would like your opinion on selling. — H.M.

A. Because your income from all sources is evidently adequate for your needs you are probably concerned with preserving or moderately enlarging your capital. Several of your holdings are entirely too speculative in your situation and these should be sold. In this category are LVO Corp. (NYSE) and Liberty Homes (OTC). In the case of Magnavox Co. (NYSE) and Technicon, your holdings are very small and sale is recommended to simplify your portfolio. Palm Beach Co. (NYSE) has recently turned earnings around; shares shouldbe held for recovery and then eliminated from your list.

As far as your funds permit I would favor rounding to 100 shares Allied Maintenance, Dymo Industries, Hayes-Albion and MONY Mortgage Investors, all listed on the Big Board.

New Agency Means More Bureaucracy?

County Administrator John F. Barrows has consistently warned against the proposed countywide regional park district, which appears headed for a decision by voters in November.

The Administrator makes some convincing points:

The purchase of open space for park purposes can be handled just as easily through existing county departments like the parks and recreation department. Therefore, creation of a countywide district with separate taxing powers would be an unnecessary and unwarranted layer of government to tax the already overburdened property owner.

"It flies in the face of sound governmental policy aiming at reduction of the number of separate taxing entities rather than increasing them," said Barrows. He supports the county's open space program but opposes this "unnecessary" district."

Barrows may be motivated by the desire to retain some control over county parks matters through the existing county government structure. But whatever his motives, his conclusions make good sense.

A similar movement for another special purpose district was launched in Marin after World War II. County roads had deteriorated becase of limited maintenance and no improvements during the war years.

Disgruntled with poor roads and impatient with lack of action, the citizens mounted a campaign for a countywide road and highway district, with the governing board independent of the county supervisors and presumably with its own taxing power.

Fortunately, this failed to get off the ground. No one today regrets the fact that we do not have an independent county highway district imposing separate taxes on us.

The same would be true of parks. Public acquisition of park land and open spaces is a slow and tedious process. However, we should not let impatience and feelings of frustration rush us into creating a new agency that we may later regret.

It is true that the present proposal calls for the county board of supervisors to be the governing board,and the tax rate ceiling to be 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation. However, new agencies have a tendency to grow into monstrous tax eaters. If that 10-cent ceiling is rigid and absolute, the inflexibility itself could be a drawback.

Furthermore, there is no provision in the countywide park district for smaller taxing zones within the county to permit communities like Upper Lucas Valley to acquire their own open sapce.

The county should heed the County Administrator's warnings and prevent the creation of another unwieldy agency in our bureaucratic hierarchy.

Single Persons Suffer Under State Income Tax

By RUS WALTON

Ask Assemblyman Bob Cline, R-Canoga Park; he'll tell you. California's income tax is taking single persons to the cleaner. And ripping off their buttons.

Cline figures that under the existing tax structure single persons subsidize the state to the tune of $168 million a year. That's the amount of tax they pay over and above what they would pay if they were taxed at the same rates as married couples with no children who file joint returns.

"THE SINGLE guy —or gal —pays anywhere from 50 per cent to 2500 per cent more state income tax than married persons with comparable taxable incomes." Tell 'em, Robert!

And he does. He pulls out a chart to back up his claims.

Here are his comparative figures on the existing tax take for a single person and a married couple filing a joint return:

Tax Income	Married	Single
$ 5,000	000	$ 70
7,000	$ 50	155
10,000	140	330
13,000	260	565
16,000	410	855

CLINE INTRODUCED AB 555 to rectify all this. It would extend the community property concept to income-splitting to the single person.

"Even though there may be only one wage earner between them, married couples can split their income for tax purposes. Under my bill, single persons would get the same break.

"It's the progressive income tax rate, that's what causes the trouble. It kills incentive to earn more and it forces single persons to cough up an unfair amount to the state." That's what Bob Cline says.

HE SANG THE same song when he testified before the House Ways and Means committee in Washington. He went back to support similar legislation at the federal level.

Cline, a former financial consultant, claims that unmarried heads of households — widows and divorcees — are getting gypped, too.

He figures they pay anywhere from 40 per cent to 500 per cent more than married couples with the same number of children and the same taxable income.

And, he's got a chart to support that contention, too. Here is his comparison of the state income tax take for a married couple with two kids, filing a joint return, and an unmarried head of household:

Tax Income	Married	Single
$ 5,000	000	$ 25
7,000	$ 34	87
10,000	124	242

EARLIER THIS year Cline introduced AB 111 to try to do something about all of that. The bill would lower the tax for the single head of a household to the same rate as the married persons filing a joint return.

Said Cline: "I see no reason whatsoever why a divorced woman or a widow should have to pay higher taxes than her married counterpart with the same number of children. It's discrimination."

Both of Cline's bills got through the Assembly. AB 555 is sitting in Senate Revenue and Tax. AB 111 got through Revenue and Tax and hit a snag in Senate Finance. It was one vote short: Senator Alan Short, D-Stockton, pledged his vote but failed to deliver, so Cline has asked for reconsideration.

BOTH BILLS should be heard this week — if the Senate is in session and if it is over its other tax hang-ups.

The main opposition to Cline's bills comes from the spenders. They say the adjusted tax rates would reduce the state's total tax take.

Isn't that just like a bureaucrat? I mean, it seems some folks never think about the wage earner. Even when there is a surplus of $456 million!

"Now if they leave it to us experts . . ."

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 2, the 215th day of 1972 with 151 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

On this day in history:

In 1858, Boston and New York installed the first street letter boxes for the collection of mail.

In 1934, Adolf Hitler proclaimed himself Germany's absolute dictator upon the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

General Lavelle Ignored His Boss

Hugh Pessner's letter (July 21) confused me. He and his compadre John Schmitz, I believe, are members of the Jack Acid Society. That organization professes a high regard for "law and order." Law and order in a military organization is called discipline. Discipline means that one follows the orders of his superiors even if he disagrees with those orders. A military organization without discipline is an armed mob, witness Kent State. General Lavelle violated discipline by ignoring and flouting the orders of his Commander in Chief. By challenging the American principle of supremacy of the civilian over the military, he has endangered the American constitutional form of government.

Thus Mr. Pessner's conclusion is 180 degrees out from the proper one. To preserve our constitutional republic, General Lavelle should not receive public acclaim, he should be court-martialled.

Excellent Article On Cancer 'Drug'

Re: Article in the July 29th issue regarding Laetrile.

Congratulations to the I-J and to Mary Leydecker for the excellent article on the controversial "drug" Laetrile. I think the article is extremely timely and well written with the exception of one minor point. It is my understanding that Laetrile is not a drug; but rather a food supplement known as vitamin B-17.

Last February, at our quarterly Board of Governors meeting in Santa Barbara, the United Republicans of California passed a resolution urging the FDA to undertake testing of Laetrile and to allow American citizens the "freedom of choice" to determine for themselves whether this compound will help or harm them. As Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. Vencius point out in Mary Leydecker's article, Laetrile certainly does not appear to have the severe side effects of other "approved" cancer treatments such as cobalt, etc. This, then raises the question of the strange reluctance on the part of the FDA to test this substance? It would also be worthwhile to hear krom the American Cancer Society on this subject.

Incidentally, this writer has stated on numerous occasions that our College of Marin has engaged in "indoctrination" rather than "educating" our students. This seminar last spring on Laetrile was an excellent example of the educational process at work. Those at College of Marin that put this seminar on are also to be commended for bringing this information to the community. Let's have a repeat and much more publicity.

Fluorides Listed As Deadly Poison

Every few years when the proponents of fluoridation of drinking water think that the opponents have forgotten about it, we find them out on the streets getting signatures to put the proposition on the ballot again. They never seem to learn that fluoridation of public drinking water is illegal in California.

Under the California Health & Safety Code, Section 20703, we find, "Schedule "A" Arsenic and Schedule "C" Fluorides soluble in water. Both are listed as deadly poisons. Section 20751 makes it "unlawful to vend, sell, give away or furnish, either directly or indirectly any poison enumerated in Section 20703 without a poison label." Penal Code Sections 347 and 182 say, "it is a felony for anyone in California to willfully put poison in any well or reservoir, and when two or more persons conspire to commit that crime, they are guilty of a felony."

We, who are opposed to fluoridation are not trying to prevent those who want it from using it. There are many good fluoride toothpastes on the market and anyone can buy fluoride tablets in a drug store to add to their drinking water at home. Under a doctor's prescription the dose can be controlled, which is impossible with the "hit or miss" method of dumping it in the public drinking water.

Park District Aim: Save Open Space

Because there seems to be some misconception surrounding the proposed Regional Park and Open Space District (Mr. Fusselman's column, I-J, July 21), we wish to clarify the intent of our efforts to create such a district for Marin County.

People for Parks and Open Space first formed last fall to plan a public forum for people to express their opinion on what would be the best method to preserva open space in Marin. At a symposium held at Alexander Hall last January, an overwhelming majority of the 200 people in attendance favored a countywide Regional Park and Open Space District. PPOS then formed a steering committee whose purpose was to work towards putting the district on the November ballot. At all times the emphasis was on the preservation of open space. It was never our intention to focus on recreational activities or even on heavy use public parks.

The Board of Supervisors, recognizing broad public support for open space preservation, then moved to create a district which would allow themselves to sit as the governing body. During deliberation by the supervisors a recreational district — which could also become involved in open space acquisition — was discussed briefly since the law already provided for boards of supervisors to sit as the governing board. This district also carried a higher tax rate than the 10 cents allowed under a regional park district and would have excluded areas which were already formed into recreation districts. That proposal was quickly discarded in favor of the regional park district which required minor legislative amendment. This may have been the cause of some confusion as to exactly what type of district the county intended to establish.

The intent, as we understand it, was always to provide open space by methods which would allow the county more flexibility in planning and funding. The supervisors have already indicated by their presentation to the Local Agency Formation Commission that the district would spend a minimum of 90 per cent of its funds on open space acquisition, that development would be strictly limited to only those things which are compatible with open space — such as trails, and that the open space program now supported by the county's general fund would cease as soon as the district is formed and functioning. This will preclude the double taxation Mr. Fusselman referred to in his column. Mr. Bagley's amendment to require the funds to be used only for new acquisition and not to be spent for development of already acquired park land is also entirely consistent with this intent.

We wholeheartedly support the creation of the Regional Park and Open Space district and hope this will help to clarify the issue.

Independent Agency Needed To Probe Presidential Health

WASHINGTON — The American people have the right and the need to know everything about the physical and mental health of all four candidates in a presidential election.

That is imperative, as the Eagleton crisis shows, regardless of whether or not he remains on the Democratic ticket.

They not only have the right to know; they ought to demand all the medical facts — not from ex parte sources which may wish to put the best possible face on the situation, but from a detached and reliable investigation.

THE PUBLIC HAS already been misled once when vital information about the ill health of a presidential candidate was concealed. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was a sick man when he ran for his fourth term in 1944. He died four months after he took office.

The public will not be protected from inadequate or misleading knowledge if it has to realy on ex parte information from inside the camps of either set of candidates.

It isn't good enough to have one or two physicians who have treated Sen. Eagleton stand up at a press conference and answer a few lay questions. It isn't good enough to have the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington issue a succinct verdict that President Nixon and Vice President Agnew are in good shape.

NOTHING LESS than an independent commission on presidential health is needed to report to the country on all four candidates.

Sen. McGovern and President Nixon ought to join in creating such a commission to do the job which so obviously and so urgently needs to be done.

It could be composed of two distinguished physicians of the highest professional and personal repute; also someone like the president of the American Bar Assn., and two others; one chosen by the President, the other by Sen. McGovern.

Perhaps a better makeup for the commission can be devised. The overriding necessity is that it be competent and trustworthy.

THERE OUGHT to be no delay. There ought to be no resistance to such an objective, independent inquiry.

If there is any resistance by either side, it can hardly fail to persuade the public that there is something to hide.

An official spokesman for McGovern-Eagleton has stated that they would not open the Eagleton medical records for the scrutiny of the press. He explained that they are not written in lay terms. But they could be read and understood and weighed by the independent commission on presidential health. And should be.

EVERYTHING WHICH has come out in the Eagleton affair cries out for an independent board of medical inquiry.

How Sen. McGovern allowed it to develop needs to be made clear, whether Eagleton does or does not remain on the ticket.

Sen. Eagleton did not level with Sen. McGovern.

Eagleton said later that he had been living in constant fear that his medical record might be raised. "When will I be asked?" he pondered. "When will somebody know?"

Sen. McGovern asked rather offhandedly — and Sen. Eagleton did not tell him. McGovern unwisely let the matter slide.

IT IS OBVIOUS that the McGovern staff made a loose, inadequate investigation of reports of Eagleton's three-time hospitalization and psychiatric treatment. They failed to get the full facts in time to weigh them before the nomination and McGovern did not get them until the day of public disclosure.

There was no disclosure until the Knight Newspapers revealed to Eagleton that they had the story.

All four candidates should be subject to exactly the same kind of objective inquiry into their physical and mental health. There should be absolute evenhandedness. Only an indepent commission car do it and meet the public's right to know.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Be Skeptical Of Candidates Who Report Crime Reduction

WASHINGTON — We should have heard the last of law and order as a presidential campaign issue, unless this time the Democrats decide turnabout is fair play. By its nature, it is an issue the outs use against the ins, as Mr. Nixon did in 1968 and he and Mr. Agnew did with such vain vigor in the congressional campaigns of 1970. However, don't be surprised if the current ins tour the country this fall, pointing with pride to figures showing how dramatically things have improved in the last four years.

Just be skeptical.

OF COURSE, the Republicans are hoping there will be just the right amount of hairy lawlessness from the street people against their convention at Miami Beach, and most of the hell-raisers will be wearing McGovern buttons big enough to be legible over TV. They could splice a few feet of that together with some shots of Jane Fonda wearing her steel helmet playing Hanoi Hannah, then coming home to urge people to vote McGovern, and run it as a paid GOP commercial every night. That way they could save themselves a lot of trouble and travel expenses during the fall.

BUT THAT IS not the kind of law and order Mr. Nixon made so much of in those previous campaigns. He specialized in talking tough about rape and robbery and safe streets, and how the appointment of some hardheaded judges would correct all that. "The truth is that we will reduce crime and violence when we enforce our laws," he said in insisting poverty was not responsible for the crime rate.

In the final week of the 1968 campaign, he said at Marion, Ill., "My friends, when 43 per cent of the American people are afraid to walk in the streets of their cities, it's time for a housecleaning, a new attorney general and a new policy to establish freedom from fear in this country . . . Let me tell you, I am an expert in this field. I pledge you I'll take personal charge . . ."

THEN HE GOT elected. We got a housecleaning, a new attorney general, a new policy. The expert took charge. The federal crime reduction budget is up to almost triple the level in Mr. Johnson's last fiscal year. Within it, funds earmarked for rehabilitation of offenders and other high-priority programs have gone up by an even greater percentage. The President's efforts to crack down on international drug traffic, for example, have been intense and apparently are beginning to take hold.

But in the judgment of specialists in the law enforcement field, Mr. Nixon's eagerness to show results has inspired the flimflamming of the public. According to investigators for Justice magazine, there is wholesale downgrading of crime statistics in city after city across the country, in an effort to make the President happy by making his program seem effective now, before it has had time to be fully felt. The fudging of figures is not primarily by officials of the national administration, but by local and state police chiefs who recognize that attractive statistics are likely to bring them increased federal funding.

IT IS NOT a new finding, in this community or that. The Baltimore Sun published a prize-winning series last year about how crimes were minimized in that city. What is new is the broad scale of it.

William R. Morrissey, reporting after a two-month study of the trend, quotes one official as saying, "Some departments don't even record certain serious crimes that are reported to them."

HERE IN Washington, the figures turned upward in 1969 because of a stricter reporting system. But a year later, they tumbled, and were down still farther by this spring. So Mr. Nixon invited chief Jerry Wilson to the White House Rose Garden, and complimented him on halving the rate of major offenses since November, 1969. He did not have to point out how that time frame ran concurrently with his own presidential term. And he did not dare point out that in the same period, the Washington Daily News was running an expose about how police reports here were being downgraded, especially on robberies.

The message here is not that Mr. Nixon has reneged on his campaign promises. It is that the American public is getting a distorted picture of crime trends because of his administration's demand for written proof of success now, before November. Thus the moral: Beware of candidates bearing crime statistics.

Aging Pappy Is Slowing Down But He's Still The Top Dog

The top dog in Fairfax is just that - top dog.

Pappy Waldorf - named for a former football coach at UC Berkeley - was adopted as the official mascot of the Fairfax Fire Department in 1964. The speckled Dalmation was given to the department by a woman in Tiburon, and he's been the pride of the Fairfax force ever since.

He's loved by young and old alike, firemen say, and can be found at any given time lounging in his den underneath the backstairs of the Fairfax firehouse.

BUT THE AGING Pappy has run into some trouble of late.

One resident complained that Pappy kicked over her garbage can and ate a batch of porch shingles on a recent nighttime outing. She demanded that the dog be tied up at night in accordance with the city's leash laws.

"I won't have him tied up because he's too old," Fire Chief Charles F. Thornton promptly declared.

There hadn't been such a flap in Fairfax since Hank the Cat was nearly banned from Harry's Mart on Bolinas Road.

AND IT LOOKS like Pappy, like Hank, will win the battle.

"We keep Pappy in at night now, but we do allow him to roam a bit," the chief said the other day.

Pappy's been the subject of similar dispute before. Several years ago, the force gave the dog away after reports of nighttime prowling. "But a woman in Sonoma brought him back because he just wouldn't eat," the chief remembers.

Pappy Waldorf, who now receives cortisone shots for arthritis and sulfodine salve for a rash, was quite a hustler in his day. He once fought off ten other dogs for the favors of one bitch, firemem recall.

HE'S A BIT slower nowadays, however.

At first, Pappy would howl, growl and generally raise a fuss on sight of anyone wearing a hat. Things were pretty noisy at the firehouse for awhile. "We broke him of that pretty quick," Chief Thornton laughed.

Eating porch shingles? The chief just won't believe it. "He gets all the dog food he can eat - and a steak once in awhile," he said.

It looks like the top dog in Fairfax is still on top.

MEANWHILE, THE town of Ross is being hounded by a problem of a different sort.

The town pays the San Rafael accounting firm of Leader, Jarbis and Keigwin for bookkeeping services as well as an audit of those books.

There's nothing illegal about the arrangement, though it is odd. Both the firm and the town deny any wrongdoing.

But the situation has aroused the ire of at least one Ross resident. "In all my years in the finance district, I've never heard of anything funnier than someone auditing his own books," declared C. J. Bradley, a retired bank cashier.

"It smells," he sniffed.

Perhaps so. It would appear that the town is leaving itself open to charges of bad business management.

Simple Method Proposed For Teaching Of Phonics

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, thinks the entire California State Department of Education should go back to school and learn to real and spell — with SPA..

SPA is the Self Pronouncing Alphabet, an invention of C. LeRoy James, a former theater owner of Beaumont, Riverside County, who served two terms on the Beaumont school board. It is a remarkably simple device for teaching phonics.

THE ALPHABET IS made self-pronouncing by adding dots to the 10 letters — the vowels plsu Y, W, X, C and G — which have two sounds in English spelling. Location of the dot shows the sound the letter takes in the word. For instance, a dot at the end of the top bar of E gives it the long sound, as in eel; when the dot is at the end of the bottom bar, E has the short sound as in elephant.

A detached dot underneath a letter shows that letter is silent. Thus the bugaboo of silent letters is quickly eliminated for the beginning reader.

James copyrighted SPA in 1967 and got it introduced in a few Protestant primary schools. "In five years of using, no reading failures have been recorded," he declares.

IN THE LAST two years, SPA has begun to gain wider acceptance, pushed by Beacon Enterprises, Inc., of Santa Cruz, which was organized to develop and publish SPA materials. About 200 schools in 17 states now are using it, according to Paul Jennings, who heads Beacon Enterprises. Most of these are church-operated schools, but about 25 public schools in California have begun using the system, Jennings reports. Inlcuded are schools in Redwood City, Richmond, Tracy, Marysville, Yuba City, Red Bluff, and several other communities.

JAMES SHOWED his system to Assemblyman Barnes (who is the best known among educators for his numerous bills to revamp the State Teachers Retirement System), and the San Diego assemblyman became an enthusiast. Early in the current legislative session, Barnes introduced Assembly Resolution 35, calling on the state Department of Education to make a study of the value of SPA and report to the Legislature within 60 days. The resolution was passed May 4 without dissent.

The 60 days went by and nothing happened. Finally, needled by Barnes and James, the department submitted a report last week.

The report, prepared by Harvey Hunt of State Supt. Wilson C. Riles's staff, concluded that there "is no proof of superiority" of SPA over current systems of teaching reading.

ASSEMBLYMAN BARNES took issue with this conclusion. But what fired him up most was that Hunt's letter of transmittal was addressed to "the Horable Richard E. Barnes," said the report will be "destributed," and contained several other misspellings.

"Man, those people need to go to school!" snorted Barnes. "They need SPA."

Despite the adverse report from the state Department of Education, the last has not been heard of businessman James's invention. American Reading Centers are using SPA materials. This month an SPA training session for teachers is scheduled at Lincoln School in Redwood City. Use of the system, according to Jennings, is "growing like Topsy."

MUCH EXPERIMENTING has been done, and much money spent, on Sir Richard Pitman's Initial Teaching Alphabet, which adds 20 letters to the Roman alphabet to enable children to learn to read phonetically. A principal objection to ITA is that it actually requires the child to learn two alphabets, and to transfer his reading from one to the other at about third grade.

The Self Pronouncing Alphabet accomplishes the same aim without adding letters. Transition from the dotted letters to those without dots poses no problem for the child, James insists.

But the Beaumont ex-theater owner is up against a familiar problem: Educators tend to ignore his innovation because he is not himself an educator.

Huge State Tax Shift Would Cut Marin Burden

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A compromise $1.2 billion tax shift and school finance bill pending in the Legislature would cut school district property tax rates in Marin by up to $1.05 next fiscal year by increasing state educational aid.

This maximum cut would occur in the Novato Unified School District, according to figures computed by the state Department of Finance and released by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Most of the cuts the first year in Marin, however, would be about 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The lowest cut would be three-tenths of a cent in the San Rafael High School district.

The complex financing plan, SB 90 by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro, is expected to clear the Assembly floor today for a return to the upper house for Senate concurrence. A similar plan, however, already has failed in the Senate, and it was uncertain whether the new try will succeed before Friday's scheduled three-month recess.

The bill is designed to start equalizing the amount each district throughout the state spends per pupil. The Novato district, for example, spends $730 per pupil, less than one-fourth the $3,283 spent in the Sausalito School District.

This equalization provision in the bill would see state aid to local districts increase in coming years, with a corresponding cut in property tax rates.

School districts at or below the "foundation program" in the bill ($770 per pupil in elementary schools and $955 in high schools) would be allowed to increase their spending at a rate equal to the annual inflation factor. Those with programs in excess of the two amounts would be more limited in annual spending increases.

The annual inflation factor would be set by the departments of finance and education and the legislative analyst.

Any spending level in excess of these limits would require voter approval.

To finance the plan, the statewide sales tax would be increased from a nickel to six cents on the dollar, bank and corporation taxes hiked, motor vehicle fees boosted and personal income taxes raised if federal revenue sharing did not occur.

The impact of the bill on each of the 19 school districts in Marin, with the anticipated property tax rate for this year compared with the rate projected for fiscal 1973-74 in parentheses, were:

Bolinas-Stinson, $2.361 ($2.206); Dixie, $4.654 ($3.620); Fairfax, $3.782 ($3.434); Kentfield, $3.204 ($3.048); Laguna, $2.544 ($2.378); Lagunitas, $4.173 ($3.488); Larkspur, $3.412 ($3.290); Lincoln, $1.951 ($1.835); Mill Valley, $3.264 ($3.211); Nicasio, $2.018 ($1.912); Novato, $4.921 ($3.870); Reed, $3.291 ($3.144); Ross, $3.259 ($3.123); San Anselmo, $3.041 ($2.860); San Rafael Elementary, $3.050 ($2.939); San Rafael High, $2.254 ($2.251); Sausalito, $3.667 ($3.407); Tamalpais High, $2.307 ($2.258); and Union Joint, $1.967 ($1.880.

Some Big Changes In New Scout Handbook

NEW YORK (UPI)—The new Boy Scout handbook, which goes on sale Sept. 1, reflects the growing concern with the problems of America, including the issues of drugs and ecology.

The 480-page eighth edition indicates the new direction taken by the more than 6 million-member Boy Scouts of America.

The major changes in the new handbook are:

—Inclusion of information on drugs.

—Emphasis on scouting in the city and community service.

—Discussion of family relationships, home health and safety and child care.

—Increased emphasis on ecology.

—A revised interpretation of the 12 points of Scout Law, eliminating archaic terms of the early 1900's but leaving basic concepts unchanged.

What the Scouts call the "old standbys" of hiking and camping are still dealt with, although gone are details on tracking, stalking and signalling which appeared in the original 1911 manual.

The Scouts have signaled the change through the handbook's cover which shows four scouts aiming a telescope at the moon while inside the book illustrations attempt to reflect an ethnic mix.

Berkeley Council Rejects Lease On People's Park

BERKELEY (UPI) — After one councilman called it a "hot potato," the city council voted Tuesday night to temporarily reject a proposal to lease embattled People's Park from the University of California.

The lease worked out in negotiations between a city committee and a committee of individuals from the Berkeley campus would require the city to pay development and maintenance costs.

By a 2-1 vote, with two radical members abstaining and the two other radicals absent, the council turned down the proposed seven-year lease at $1 a year with an option to purchase the property for $1.3 million.

Council members expressed hesitancy whether students and users of the park would participate in upkeep of the property. Conservative councilman Tom McClaren said, "This piece of property has been a hot potato."

Mayor Warren Widener, one of the abstainers from the vote, said he wasn't ready to pass judgment on the proposal which he said was still being negotiated. He said he expects the matter will be again brought up for a vote later in the summer.

Two Bills By Behr Win Final Approval

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills sought by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission have won final legislative approval and gone to the governor for signature into law.

One, SB 181, will permit county supervisors on the commission to appoint any county officials their alternates. The present requirement that only suprervissrs may represent counties has resulted in low attendance at meetings and delays for commission actions.

The other bill, SB 793, extends the commission's jurisdiction up Corte Madera Creek to the Ross-Kentfield line. Its jurisdiction now ends at Highway 101, exempting from its controls creek property subject to development.

Both bills were authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. His office predicted both will be signed.

Knifer Released After 8 Months

Mark D. Souza, 31, of Petaluma, has been released from state prison after serving eight months for assault with a deadly weapon.

Souza had been sentenced to state prison in April, but the sentence was modified Thursday in Sonoma County Superior Court to allow his release on three years' probation. Souza was convicted of stabbing his former wife, Carolyn, last Oct. 11 at their Petaluma home.

Judge John Moskowitz granted his release after favorable reports from the department of corrections and Sonoma County Probation Office. Souza said he would move to Burbank to start a new life and agreed to participate in counseling or psychotherapy for a year.

Legislation Introduced For Off Track Betting

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation ordering a study of off-track betting has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The measure, ACR 121, declared "there is an increasing need in this state for additional revenue sources, and the expansion of voluntary taxation should be closely examined."

The resolution, however, creates a joint committee on off-track betting with the sole duty to study this form of "voluntary taxation." The committee's findings would be due by March 15 next year.

Costs of the committee, according to Bagley's measure, would be financed from the contingent funds of the two hour houses. No sum was mentioned in the measure.

Petaluma Talks On Housing Set

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night took its first look at the proposed housing element and scheduled a special meeting on the subject for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The proposal suggests that more multi-family housing be encouraged since building in recent years has largely been single-family homes.

It also suggests that housing for persons in low and moderate income brackets be encouraged along with the renovation of deteriorating neighborhoods.

In other business, the commission approved the rezoning of land on Douglas Street near Hagstrom's Shopping center from residential to neighborhood-commercial as requested by Buddha's University Foundation of San Francisco.

The commission also granted the application of Petaluma Yellow Cab Co. to operate three taxis from the existing cab stand at 128 Kentucky Street.

Schmitz May Win Nomination

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., appeared today to be the front-runner for the American Party's presidential nomination.

Schmitz, a lame-duck congressman and a member of the John Birch Society, was expected to formally announce his candidacy today and then fly to Louisville to line up support.

Nearly 2,000 delegates were expected for the three-day convention which opens tomorrow.

Welfare Funds For Marin And Sonoma

Marin County has been allocated $249,600 and Sonoma $453,691 by the state Department of Social Welfare as their share of $45,932,031 in aid to counties for administering dependent children and adult programs.

Under the 1971 Welfare Reform Act, the state for the first time is assuming part of the counties' welfare administrative expense.

Theft, Drug Case Lacks Evidence

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday decided there was not enough evidence to hold James Daniel Herrero, 20, of Fairfax, for trial on charges of car theft and being under the influence of drugs.

Judge Robert A. Smallman also reduced a felony charge of possessing marijuana to a misdemeanor.

Herrero had been arrested July 6 in San Anselmo after police said they found him "in a daze" at the wheel of a beer truck which had been stolen shortly before in Fairfax.

Several grams of suspected hashish were found in his pocket.

Herrero pleaded innocent to the reduced charge, and a pretrial conference was scheduled for Friday.

Ellsberg Attorneys Ask Tribunal Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo asked the Supreme Court today to deny the government's unusual request to overturn Justice William O. Douglas' stay of their Pentagon papers trial.

Douglas stayed the trial last Saturday —48 hours before it was to begin —on grounds the defense had raised a substantial question regarding the constitutionality of government wiretapping of a conversation involving a defense attorney or consultant. The controversy could lead to a rare special court session.

"This case raises a question going to the core of the constitutional guarantee of fair trial," the defense told the court in papers filed with them, "for it is beyond dispute that a prosecution may not be used in any manner on intersection of defense counsel's conversations relevant to the case."

The attorneys also asked that Justice William H. Rehnquist Jr., who was assistant attorney general for the Office of Legal Council when the Pentagon papers issue first arose, not take part in the case.

The papers were filed by seven lawyers led by Leonard B. Boudin representing Ellsberg and Leonard I. Wineglass for Russo.

They want the stay continued until they can litigate the wiretap issue. The government has disclosed that it overheard one of the attorneys or consultants to Ellsberg and Russo on a wiretap installed at the authority of the attorney general to gather intelligence.

Douglas stayed the trial on grounds this raised the question whether the Sixth Amendment guaranteeing the right to counsel had been violated. Chief justice Warren E. Burger has advised the vacationing court members of the government's request that no decision has been made on whether they will decide to convene in special session to hear the case.

McGovern Continues To Search

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, rated a top prospect for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, said today he has urged George S. McGovern to look elsewhere for a running mate.

Asked if he would accept the nomination if it was tendered, Church said "I don't anticipate he will do that."

Church said he made several suggestions to McGovern by telephone Monday. He declined to reveal the names he suggested but said McGovern "must reach into the big cities and industrial areas to win."

As McGovern cautiously sought a candidate to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, who withdrew, the Democratic National Committee was summoned to meet in Washington next Tuesday to formally name a successor.

Although the national committee can make its own decision, it was expected to accept McGovern's recommendation.

Among those being mentioned for the post, in addition to Church, are Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 runningmate; Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law who served in two administrations; and former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Gary Hart, McGovern's campaign manager, said, in addition, "a name or two" may be considered.

Once the front-runner for the nomination, Muskie kept a discreet silence on whether he would again go on the party's ticket. He told reporters he had not been in contact with McGovern and smilingly said "I have no comment" when asked if he would accept.

A national committee spokesman said its members will begin arriving in Washington Sunday to attend meetings of the credentials committee Monday on challenges —about six at present —to committee seats. The meeting to choose McGovern's running mate will follow the next day.

The major networks cancelled a planned appearance by McGovern Tuesday night when it became evident that he would not be ready to name a successor to Eagleton.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. were asked to provide 15 minutes of prime evening air time for a "major announcement." When it developed that McGovern wanted to speak about the Eagleton decision rather than announce his recommendation for a vice presidential candidate, the networks declined to clear air time, but agreed to set up equipment that could be used either to broadcast the statement live or record it for later use on regular news broadcasts.

There is no need for McGovern to make his recommendation quickly, Hart told a reporter Tuesday. Hart also said that delaying the naming of the nominee would keep the national committee from "shooting it down in advance."

At the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, McGovern said the time he could have spent selecting a vice presidential candidate was spent fighting the California delegate challenge.

McGovern has said that this time he will move carefully and cautiously. His campaign staff said in cancelling a planned

Thousands Evacuate Big Sur Park Blaze

Flames Out Of Control; Illegal Campfire Blamed

BIG SUR (AP) — Big Sur State Park, a sanctuary for California's famed redwood trees, was threatened today by windlashed flames that have already blackened about 3,000 acres and forced the evacuation of thousands of vacationers.

The blaze, which broke out yesterday in Los Padres National Forest, raced into the confines of the state park late last night.

"The fire is critical, not contained or controlled," said Art Jaseau, fire information officer for the California Division of Forestry.

"About 30 per cent of the fire is contained, but the rest is still burning out of control," said Gary Munsey, information officer for the California Division of Forestry.

"It is unlikely that we'll get the whole thing contained today," he added.

"It has burned some small redwood stands, but the major stands — second growth redwoods, magnificent trees —are along Highway 1 near the park's entrance and some distance away from the flames. We are concentrating men and pumpers in this area to protect these groves as well as the camps and motels, but have men on all sides of the fire."

"The entire 817-acre park could be in jeopardy," said Tim Huff, another state information officer.

The fire has been blamed on an illegal campfire. Fire fighters from as far away as San Diego, about 400 miles to the south, were manning fire lines.

The firemen — who early today numbered more than 700 — have been battling the flames in high temperatures, high winds and low humidity. Similar conditions were expected to conticue throughout the day.

Shortly after the fire broke out after noon yesterday, some four miles north of here, authorities ordered the evacuation of about 4,500 persons from the park. Also evacuated were others at private campgrounds, motels and small villages in the area.

The fire danger, heavy smoke and need for access by equipment resulted in Highway 1 — the Coast Highway — being closed to all but limited local traffic for a time.

Later, the highway was open to traffic under California Highway Patrol escort.

Eleven aerial tankers have been dropping fire retardant chemicals on the flames, along with two helicopters.

At least 12 fire engines and eight bulldozers were being used on the ground and officials said more equipment was being brought in.

A crack squad of 21 U.S. Forest Service men based at Redding arrived in Monterey by air last night. One of their members, Rick Russell, said they planned to work at least 12 hours, possibly 18, today. Their last fire was against a 2,000-acre heavy timber blaze near Cedar City, Utah.

Story Of Bremer's Kill Plan—Nixon Or Wallace

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—Arthur Bremer, described by a psychoanalyst as a classic "shut-in personality," decided about March 1 to assassinate either President Nixon or Gov. George Wallace of Alabama,criss-crossing the country in pursuit of his goal.

It was 2 ½ months later that Bremer, 21, was arrested following the shooting of Wallace at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

The psychoanalyst, Dr. Eugene Brody, chairman of the psychiatry department at the University of Maryland medical school, was the first defens witness to address the jury as Bremer's trial went into its third day.

Brody said Bremer told him he had fantasized "being a big shot, perhaps because I am small."

Brody said he asked Bremer if he was referring to his stature.

Bremer answered, "No, my future is small. My past an insult to any human being."

Throughout a discussion of his mental condition, Bremer sat in his chair in the courtroom facing Brody, periodically leaning over to cradle his head in his arms on the defense table.

Brody spoke slowly and in a monotone while describing his interview with Bremer three weeks after the May 15 shooting. He said Bremer became progressively more alienated after losing his girlfriend —the only person he felt he ever had a close relationship with —in mid-January.

Bremer then fluctuated between homicidal and suicidal tendencies, his personal stress apparently ending about March 1 when he made his decision to murder either Nixon or Wallace.

The doctor said Bremer's fanatic pursuit of his goal was "impulsive and erratic," with the former Milwaukee busboy showing great attention to detail on some minor points while missing seemingly obvious major points. For example, Brady said, Bremer took his automobile through a carwash to eliminate the odor of gunpowder so that police dogs would not be alerted.

But, Brady sody said, he went through Canadian customs tracking Nixon to Ottawa, carrying a .38 caliber revolver in his pocket, and completely forgetting that he had loaded the gun so that he fired it accidentally in a motel room.

"Mr. Bremer lacked both the capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct or conform his conduct to the requirements of the law," Brody told the Prince Georges Circuit Court.

"Mr. Bremer was suffering from schizophrenia on May 15," he added.

Brody said psychological tests as much a decade ago showed Bremer felt himself to be different and isolated from others and that he behaved within a private frame of reference.

He said he fitted the classic description of a "shut in personality" who achieves stability by withdrawal, repressing feelings of disappointment, and engaging in "wishful fantasies."

Brody acknowledged that at the time Bremer wanted to commit suicide —by throwing himself under a train —but said he did this out of a feeling of inability to relate to others and not depression.

"He had the feeling of being nothing to the rest of the world," Brody said.

Defense lawyer Benjamin Lipsitz said he called Brody in an attempt to prove Bremer was insane when Wallace was gunned down during a campaign appearance.

Behr Rivers Bill Is Facing Defeat

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — A long battle by conservationists to preserve North Coast "wild rivers" today appeared facing defeat for a second year.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, whose SB 107 is backed by virtually every conservation and wildlife group in the state, conceded his bill was in deep trouble after key committee votes yesterday approving both his bill and a rival one, SB 4 by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The votes by the Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee sent both bills to the ways and means committee. The chairman of the powerful fiscal committee Willie L. Brown Jr. D-San Francisco, is close to Collier, who chairs the counterpart in the upper house.

Behr acknowledged that even if his bill survives the ways and means committee and gets to the governor's desk with Collier's bill, his bill then will confront its biggest hurdle — the state agencies opposing his bill and supporting Collier's. Only one can be signed into law and the state agency heads are certain to lobby hard for the governor's veto of Behr's bill.

The committee's approval of both bills was contrary to the scenario worked out before the meeting hastily called by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood. The Speaker, furious since Collier's committee last week rejected the Reagan-Moretti tax package, openly lobbied natural resources committee members as they arrived for the meeting.

Collier angrily told persons in the hallway that Moretti was "trying to force my vote" on the tax package by ransoming his wild rivers bill.

Committee members, many of them still waiting for Collier's committee to act on their own bills, bolted Moretti and unanimously approved Collier's bill.

Balloting on Behr's bill came first, but was deadlocked 6-6 temporarily because of the abstention of Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando. After an aide from Moretti went up and handed Keysor a note, he gave Behr the needed seventh vote to get his bill out of the committee.

Behr greeted Collier after the vote with a "congratulations, Randy." Collier's loud response: "Bullxxx."

The hearing was arranged by Moretti on an hour's notice.

The major difference between the Behr and Collier bills is in their handling of the Eel River. Behr would impose a 20-year moratorium on any planning for new dams on the river, while Collier would limit only construction of dams to five years.

Behr argued that the water bill not be needed for many years, if ever, while Collier argued new dams were needed to stop flooding.

Opposing Behr's bill and supporting Collier's were the Eel River Water Council, the state Resources Agency, Irrigation Districts Association and Metropolitan Water District of Southern California.

Sausalito To Lobby For Federal Area

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council unanimously agreed last night to ask congress to include most of the city's Wolfback Ridge in the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 6.)

The council also decied to send a delegation of city officials to Washington, D.C. to lobby for that inclusion. Who will go, for how long and what it will cost will be decided later.

The action came after Edward R. Fitzsimmons — who has been trying to develop a subdivision of 160 acres of the ridge for the past two years — suggested the city council postpone action on his tentative subdivision map which was up for consideration at the session.

Fitzsimmons, who owns the

A Hell's Angel Intruder Ends Up Pistol Whipped

A Hell's Angel, who reportedly tried to hold up several young people at their Lucas Valley home early today, was stripped of his gun and was given a thorough pistol whipping.

The Hell's Angel, who was taken to Marin General Hospital to have his scalp cuts stiched, refused to give his name but was later identified as Michael Lyn Tankersley, 25, also known as "Little Mike."

After being treated, he was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon as well as suspicion of concealing stolen property after his weapon turned out to have been stolen.

Sheriff's Deputy Robert Barner gave this account of the early morning events at 561 Idylberry Road, where eight young persons share a house.

Tankersley arrived there shortly after 5 a.m., the householders told the officer. They did not know how he got in, but they said he first woke up two

Supervisors Vote To Require Physicals Of New Employees

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted 4-0 to require that all future county employees must pass rigorous health examinations before getting a job. (Other Supervisors stories, page 8.)

However, three supervisors discovered that they were too portly to qualify for employment and promptly amended the motion to require revision of the weight limit tables recommended by the relatively lean County Administrator, John F. Barrows.

The board action overrode protests by spokesmen for the Marin County Employees Association and Social Workers Union Local 535. Both groups voiced fears that the health exam requirements might someday be made retroactive to cover employees already on the county payroll.

"This is overkill. The employees are scared," said the associations executive director, Frank X. O'Connell.

"I ran into a lot of flack from the unions," Barrows admitted. He said he had "tried to start" with requiring physicals for both new and current employees, to cut down on the county's disability insurance expense, but encountered "a great deal of concern."

Barrows said "we've got a long row to hoe" before recommendations for physical exams for existing employees will be ready for the board's discussion.

"No one goes to work for a corporation of any size without a physical exam," Supervisor John F. McInnis said. "It's reasonable for Marin County, employing 1,500 people, to have physicals."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, leafing through the bulky packet of proposed medical standards, protested that the height-weight tables were unreasonable "for anyone over 35." Amid considerable bantering, Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed the tables must be changed.

Protestant, Catholic Mobs Fight In Street

BELFAST (UPI) — Fighting broke out between Protestant and Roman Catholic mobs in East Belfast today when snipers shot two Protestant workers in the city's docks area.

Makeshift barricades sprouted in the streets and roving crowds hurled stones and bottles.

A British Army spokesman said troops poured into the area to act as a buffer, but angry Protestants flooded past their flanks to seal off a Catholic neighborhood with barricades.

The confrontation came as Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen struck back against the British Army's occupation of their strongholds Monday.

In a flurry of predawn incidents, the IRA shot at British troops at least 25 times in Belfast and Londonderry and set off seven bombs.

An Army spokesman said the gunmen missed their targets, but that soldiers returning fire claimed they hit five urban guerrillas.

In another clash, troops saw a man carrying a pistol in a Catholic funeral procession in Beflast's Ardoyne district and charged into the crowd to capture him.

As they thrust through the cortege, men and women mourners attacked the soldiers while the gunman escaped in a nearby car.

The fighting in East Belfast erupted when snipers picked off two Protestant workers on the roof of the Sirocco Engineering Plant, a predominantly Protestant factory inside a small Catholic enclave.

Infuriated by the shooting, mobs of Protestant workers quickly charged into the streets where they met rivals head-on.

Hundreds of troops plunged between the fighting factions, but not before the Protestants had sealed the Catholics in their neighborhood with barricades of stolen cars and trucks.

Sources close to the IRA said the shooting incidents were indicative of new tactics militant Catholics planned to adopt in reaction to the British takeover of their strongholds.

"The bomb attacks will probably taper off, but you are going to see more hit-and-run type guerrilla attacks in the coming days," one said.

Five leaders of Ulster's opposition Social Democratic and Labor party (SDLP) meanwhile flew back to Belfast after holding surprise midnight talks with Irish Republic Premier Jack Lynch.

Former Governor Stunned In Kansas Primary Vote

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI)— Morris Kay, 40, Kansas House majority leader, stunned former Gov. John Anderson Jr. Tuesday to win a four-way race for the Republican nominationor governor.

With 90 per cent of the vote counted, Kay, the underdog when he entered the race June 20 just before the filing deadline, got 46 per cent to Anderson's 30 per cent. There are no runoffs in Kansas primary elections. The candidate with the plurality of votes is the nominee.

Former State Farm Bureau Director Ray Frisbie managed only 15 per cent, flopping in urban areas, and Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz received 8 per cent of the total vote, finishing a distant fourth.

Kay had a 43,317-vote lead.

Kay used a barrage of television ads to place his athletic face in front of many Kansans for the first time. Professionally produced and directed, the ads bought Kay the statewide attention his older and more established opponents carried into the campaign and took for granted.

Kay, in a state where rising taxes were the main issue, said he would abolish the sales tax on food and medicine, giving citizens immediate tax relief. For the elderly, he promised a new state agency to deal with their concerns, and for the property taxpayer, he proposed a constitutional amendment to place a lid on property taxes.

Traditional Drive Pays Off In Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— The traditional campaign of Democrat Paul Franzenburg won out over some new style politicking Tuesday as the longtime Democratic leader easily captured the party's nomination for governor.

Franzenburg, 55, of Ames defeated state Sen. John Tapscott of Des Moines by nearly 23,000 votes.

The Tapscott campaign was called a people's movement, seeking support from the poor, the young and the disadvantaged. Because of its similarities to the campaign of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, the Tapscott drive was regarded by some in the state as an indication of McGovern's farmland strength.

Unofficial returns gave Franzenburg 58.2 per cent of the total Democratic vote, with Tapscott tallying 41.8 per cent. The key Franzenburg support came from rural areas. Tapscott's drive faltered when the urban areas on which he had relied most heavily failed to substantially narrow the gap.

Tapscott, 42, maintained that his campaign addressed itself to the same issues on a state level that McGovern was meeting on the national ticket. Even in defeat, Tapscott refused to fully endorse Franzenburg until he has guarantees that the nominee will incorporate certain "people priorities" into his campaign.

Franzenburg, who carried the party standard in 1968, but lost to Republican Gov. Robert D. Ray, will now meet Ray again in November. Ray was unopposed in his bid for the GOP nomination for a third straight term.

Melted down, all the iron in Paris' 1,056-foot Eiffel Tower would fill a cube only 33-feet on a side — or the size of a three-story house.

Egypt-Libya Possible Merger On Horizon

BEIRUT (UPI)—Egypt's semiofficial Middle East News Agency said today that Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Moammar Khadafy of Libya had ended talks on a possible merger of their two countries and that a "historic" statement would be issued tonight.

The agency, in a dispatch from Benghazi, Libya, where the talks were being held, said the two presidents were greeted by shouts of "Unity! Unity!" from thousands of Libyans gathered outside the guest palace and that both shook hands with many of them.

MENA said the two presidents later telephoned President Hafez Assad of Syria to tell him the results of the meeting. Syria, Libya and Egypt already are loosely associated in the Federation of Arab Republics.

Arab newspapers earlier published a reported blueprint of plans for a complete merger of Egypt and Libya which they said would enable them to face up to Israel.

In a commentary on talks under way in Benghazi between the two countries' leaders, the government-controlled Tripoli Radio said their meetings will "produce important and positive results.

North Vietnamese Skies Host Old-Time Dogfight

SAIGON (UPI) — Two Soviet-built MIG21 jet fighters shot down a U.S. Air Force Phantom F4 in a dogfight over North Vietnam and then fell victim themselves to other U.S. Phantoms, the U.S. command said today.

The dogfight occurred Saturday. A second Phantom was downed by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missiles Sunday, the command said. The four crewmen of the two downed planes were officially listed as missing and North Vietnamese news releases said the crews may be in Communist hands.

Downing of the MIGs northeast of Hanoi had been announced on Sunday. The U.S. command withheld reports of the Phantom losses pending the outcome of search and rescue operations.

The (North) Vietnamese News Agency Tuesday gave the names of four pilots it said were shot down in two aircraft. It said the men were captured Saturday and Sunday.

The U.S. command also reported the death of an American adviser, killed Saturday when the South Vietnamese air force helicopter he was riding in was shot down in Vietnam's southern delta region.

Government forces in the 35-day-old campaign to recapture Quang Tri City Saigon's northernmost provincial capital Tuesday reported killing 69 North Vietnamese soldiers one mile from the city.

The U.S. command said B52 bombers flew 14 missions Monday and Tuesday in support of the 20,000-man operation to recapture Quang Tri.

SYDNEY (AP) — An advertisement for a sparkling alkalizer in three successive issues of an Australian medical publication showed: Firstly, a pretty girl, topless, beside a waterfall; then the girl in a bikini beside the waterfall, then just the waterfall — no girl.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Irwin Retires

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — James B. Irwin, who became the eighth man to walk on the moon during the Apollo 15 mission last summer, retired from the Air Force and the space program yesterday, his career clouded by the "moon mail" incident.

Irwin announced plans to form a nonprofit evangelistic foundation called "High Flight" in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Irwin, a colonel, was reprimanded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration last month for taking 400 unauthorized stamped and autographed envelopes to the moon with the intention of selling them after the Apollo program.

Walks Death Valley

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Boris Yankoff, who says that when a child his family walked across Siberia to escape the Communist goverment, yesterday completed his fifth summer crossing on foot of Death Valley — this time to dramatize the plight of U.S. prisoners in Southeast Asia.

"I suffered here in just a few days," Yankoff said. "But I didn't suffer quite as bad as the POWs. . . ."

Yankoff, 58, a Sacramento, physical fitness buff, walked 222 miles from Scotty's Castle to Las Vegas in six days and 22 hours. He said he lost 23 pounds.

To Original Owner

DALLAS (UPI) — The Texas School Book Depository yesterday reverted back to its original owner when the Republic National Bank foreclosed on a Nashville, Tenn., businessman who had planned to turn the historic building into a Kennedy museum.

D. Harold Byrd, who sold the building to businessman Aubrey Mayhew in 1970 for $650,000, was the only bidder at the foreclosure sale.

Byrd said he planned to resell the building from which Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963.

Meals For Elderly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has set a goal of serving 10,000 subsidized meals five days a week to needy elderly persons by Oct. 1. It wants to expand the number to 250,000 by next July 1.

The program, which was approved by Congress, will allow some aged persons to use food stamps for the first time toward payment for home delivered meals.

Wider Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate last night approved 80 to 3 a bill designed to increase U.S. trade with Communist nations.

The legislation would relax export controls on U.S. products which are available to Communist countries from other western nations.

The bill directs the Commerce Department to remove controls from any item controlled unilaterally by the United States and available from other sources "unless adequate evidence is presented that decontrolling the item would threaten the national security."

Sets Rule Change

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The secretary of Harrisburg Moose Lodge 107 says it will change its rules to bar all guests rather than comply with a court order requiring it to drop its "white only" policy for guests.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Monday that if the lodge admits guests it cannot exclude any on the basis of race.

Nixon Fund Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office has asked for the campaign finance records of President Nixon's reelection committee following a reported link to the alleged bugging attempt at Democratic national headquarters.

GAO official Philip S. Hughes said the audit will be made because of a Washington Post story that one of the five bugging suspects cashed a $25,000 check apparently intended for Nixon's campaign chest.

Boom Reported In Eagleton Stickers

FERNDALE, N.Y. (UPI)— Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's withdrawal as the Democratic vice presidential candidate has sparked an unexpected boom in the sale of campaign buttons, bumper stickers and pens bearing his name.

Votes Unlimited Corp. had made half-a-million such items and "we were worried we would have to eat this stuff" when Eagleton withdrew, David Ross, president of the parent company Ross Industries, said Tuesday.

The entire inventory has been sold and another 100,000 McGovern-Eagleton buttons are being printed, he said.

Quick Assembly Nod To Tax Shift Seen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A compromise $1.2 billion bill—supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and carried by Democrats—to increase the sales tax, reduce property taxes and provide more money for schools reached the full Assembly today.

The negotiated settlement, put together by Reagan aides and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, was expected to be voted swift Assembly passage but seemed to face another struggle in the Senate as the legislature agreed to recess Friday for a three-month vacation.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, said either the Senate Revenue and Taxation or Finance Committee would first hear the bill before it could be sent to the Senate floor. The Finance Committee already has killed a similar Moretti-Reagan shift and school finance program.

The proposal, actually a hybrid grafted into a Senate-passed bill by Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena, would raise $519 million for schools during the first full year of implementation starting next July and produce $575 million in property tax relief for homeowners, businesses and renters.

Moretti forecast that under the bill the average California homeowner would recieve a $200 a year reduction in his tax burden.

Starting Jan. 1, it would increase the statewide sales tax from a nickel to six cents on the dollar (6 1-2 cents in Bay Area Rapid Transit District counties); boost bank and corporation taxes from 7.6 to 9 per cent; raise motor vehicle licnese fees from 2 to 2.85 per cent; and hike personal income taxes .35 per cent across-the-board, unless federal revenue sharing came through.

On the flip side, the current homeowner's tax exemption would be increased from $750 to $1,750 this year and to $1,850 in 1974-75; renters would be granted property tax credit on their income taxes; business inventory tax exemptions would be upped from 30 to 45 per cent next year; and welfare families would receive an extra $2 a month to offset the increase in sales taxes.

For schools, beginning next July, $454 million would be spent in extra aid to begin to equalize state support between wealthy and poor districts. The measure authorizes $25 million for early childhood education and another $40 million for big city schools such as in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

persons, Clifford Scott and Joy Simpson, who were sleeping in the living room.

They said he threatened them with a loaded 44magnum revolver and ripped out telephone and lamp cords and stereo wires forcing Scott to tie up Miss Simpson with them.

Then, they said, he went to the master bedroom, where he awakened James L. Thalhammer, 31.

Thalhammer was told to come out of the bedroom and when he asked if he could put his pants on, Tankersley allegedly took the pants and removed a wallet and about $30.

Thalhammer became angered when Tankersley hit him a couple of times, saying he was moving too slowly, so he grabbed the Hell's Angel's gun, according to Deputy Barner.

In the meantime, a young woman, thought to be asleep, phoned for help from a bedroom phone.

When the officers arrived, Thalhammer, his younger brother George and another man, Jerry Gannon, were wrestling with Tankersley on the kitchen floor. The officers said Tankersley had "been pretty well worked over."

The older Thalhammer brother told the officer that Tankersley, whom he said he had never seen before, had remarked that he had chosen this house because there were a lot of cars parked outside.

After Tankersley was arrested, officers found his car nearby. They said it bore various registrations and identifications.

Tankersley, identified from fingerprints as a man with a long criminal record, was held in jail to appear in municipal court today.

Officers said his gun had been stolen last January in a burglary in San Mateo County, where motorcycle parts were also taken.

Reed School Adopts Final Budget Plan

The Reed School District board last night adopted a final budget of $2,857,196 for 1972-1973, up about $600,000 over last year's budget.

According to District Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the tax rate has not been determined but he hopes to lower the existing rate by about six cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Currently, the tax rate is $3.615 per $100 assessed valuation.

At last night's meeting, the school board reinstated about $16,000 in expenses that had been removed from the budget during previous pruning sessions. The board restored funds to pave the parking lots and playgrounds at Belvedere, Granada, Bel Aire and Del Mar Schools and repaint the exterior of the school district's administrative offices.

In other action, the board hired Elaine Lowery as a teacher's aide at Granada School and accepted the resignation of Lorraine Anderson, a teacher's aide at Bel Aire.

Kissinger Returns From Paris Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Washington Tuesday night from his 15th private meeting in Paris with North Vietnamese negotiators, but did not immediately confer with President Nixon about the latest mission.

Both American and North Vietnamese officials were silent about the content of the talks.

land in conjunction with Frank Lynch, had presented the map which incorporates the most recent changes recommended by the council, planning commission and city open space committee. The map was approved by the planning commission last month.

But when Councilman Stephen A. Fraser and several members of the audience insisted the ridge remain completely undeveloped in public open space, Fitzsimmons asked the council to postpone its decision on the map for 90 days. The council agreed to do so.

He explained there was no reason for haste in the matter, since the foreclosure proceedings against his partner Lynch had been settled by obtaining a long-term note on Lynch's portion of the land. "Mr. Lynch is no longer in danger of immediate foreclosure," he said.

Fitzsimmons said he would be "more than willing" to defer the matter to give city officials time to see if his property can indeed be placed in the national recreation area. "If it is destined to be open space, all we want is just compensation for our land," he said.

But Fitzsimmons urged that, if the city is unable to persuade congress to include the ridge in the area, the council again consider the subdivision map and "work reasonably with us."

Prior to the request for the postponement, the council heard several statements from persons in the audience, including former mayor Alexander R. Imlay, asking the tentative map not be approved.

Imlay said the 269-unit density of the proposed development conflicts with the city's general plan for no more than one residential unit per acre on the ridge.

"The overwhelming majority of the people in Sausalito would like to keep the area in open sapce," the ex-mayor added.

Others complained that the population increase created by the subdivision would hike taxes for present residents and dilute existing city services. One man noted that the approximately 57 acres of open space proposed in the development would not be public, but for the private use of subdivision residents.

Fitzsimmons suggested the city make a study of what the development will cost the city for additional services and the like during the 90-day period.

He also offered to pay the cost of sending one person to Washington to lobby for expansion of the national recreation area over the ridge, but the council did not take him up on the offer.

Mayor Robin Sweeny warned that the 90-day defereal does not mean the council will act favorably on the subdivision plan when it is again presented.

DEMOS

"major announcement" Tuesday night that McGovern would announce his recommendation for vice president "within the next few days."

The controversy over the vice presidency, touched off by the revelation that Eagleton had a history of psychiatric treatment, already has consumed more than a week of the campaign. However, McGovern aides said the Republican National Convention will not begin for 2-1-2 weeks and the traditional Labor Day starting date for the fall campaign is one month off.

One high source in the McGovern camp listed the strengths and weaknesses of the prime candidates:

O'Brien—Former top aide to President John F. Kennedy, former cabinet officer for President Lyndon B. Johnson and former Democratic national chairman, with the strong ties to Democratic regulars and organized labor that McGovern lacks. "But he has never been elected to anything," the source said, "and he is linked to the 'old politics.'"

Muskie—The 1968 vice presidential nominee and one of McGovern's top contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. But he refused to drop out of the race before the convention and his nomination would repel a lot of McGovern supporters. He also has a certain testiness that might not wear well during the campaign.

Shriver—He is married to the former Eunice Kennedy and has been director of the Peace Corps and ambassador to France. But he never has been elected to anything either.

Lucey—An early supporter of the Kennedys and a stalwart in the recent McGovern campaigns. But he doesn't project a great image and is not a great speaker.

Church—"A good speaker and TV-type," a weakness of McGovern. But he comes from a state with few electoral votes and as an early opponent of the Vietnam war, appeals to essentially the same constituency as McGovern.

All of them are Catholics except Church.

Others took themselves out of contention, among them Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, and Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida. Hart said one reported possibility, Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, was not under consideration.

McGovern planned to spend the day at the Capitol, just as he did Tuesday.

Nader Proposes Mandatory Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader today proposed that voting in national elections be made mandatory.

Addressing a League of Women Voters meeting, Nader also proposed that election day be scheduled for Veterans Day.

But the most important step, he said, would be to make voting mandatory. In Australia, where it is, the voting percentage reaches 92 and there is no big controversy about the requirement.

"We no longer can relax in the happy belief that we need not express our voting preferences," Nader said. "We've got to consider our citizen obligations."

City Will Replace Diseased Birch Trees

Petaluma residents whose birch trees have died or been damaged by blight can receive help from the city.

Many birch trees throughout the city have been killed by a disease and city workers will remove trees that are along the street lines and will replace them. Residents may chose between the Japanese flowering plum or liquid amber trees as the replacement.

Prison To Feature Lasley Day Pow-Wow

The fifth annual Walter Lasley Day Pow-Wow will be held 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday at San Quentin Prison.

It will feature a program of Indian dancing and music.

The pow wow is a tribute to the late Walter Lasley of Oakland who helped organize the Indian Cultural Group at the prison.

Subdivision Asked

An application from Star of the Sea Catholic Church to subdivide land located at 180 Harrison Avenue will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today in City Hall. The church wishes the lot split for the site of its former church.

New York Becoming A Center Of Trees

By DAVID WINDER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — East Side, West Side, all around the town, summer on the streets of New York City now is cooler, greener, and shadier. And it has nothing to do with the thermometer.

Trees are fast becoming something of a habit — one might almost say an ecological fad — in this asphalt jungle.

Latter day Johnny Appleseeds, planting large instant trees instead of the humbler, slower-growing seeds, are at work for instance on Third Avenue just above 86th Street.

What explains the surprising sight for Manhattan of earth pits dug deep into the concrete sidewalks?

It's a project by residents that will line up with another column of commercially sponsored instant trees down that busy East 86th Street area which shelters small German shops, restaurants, and bakeries.

"Then we will try for other areas in our community," says La Follette Becker, chairman of the East Mid-Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, which vows to make the commercial area, at $100 a tree, a "prettier place for people to shop and live in."

According to Jack Mac Bean of the New York Visitors and Convention Bureau, some 4,000 citywide block associations are either onto a tree-planting project or about to begin.

Mac Bean, who knows practically every street and alley in New York City like the back of his hand, awards the ecology prize to Greenwich-Chelsea residents on the West Side "who are planting trees like crazy."

The city's parks department reports that in 1971, 750 new trees or replacements were planted in Manhattan. Brooklyn's tally was 350, Staten Island 250, Bronx 234, and Queens 124.

Turning hard concrete sidewalks into cool oases of refreshment is catching on fast.

One of the more recent gems — it is celebrating its first summer of outdoor devotees — is the Greenacre vest-pocket park. On East 51st Street between Second and Third Avenues, it gives an illusion of a forest glade as ferny-leaved locust trees and banks of shrubs lead down to a below-street-level area.

Here a high waterfall tumbles down glistening, jagged rock-simulated blocks and swirls into a pool. Water also drips through one of the side brick walls like a natural spring. Only bird calls are missing.

"I'm happiest here," says Mrs. Christine Baro in a cheerful purple dress as she sunned herself near the splashing water. "I used to have to go down to the East River on 50th Street to get a little sunshine."

Judging by the crowds which flock to the vest-pocket park, most New Yorkers are happiest here.

For those who can't make it, there are other oases like Paley Park between Madison and Fifth Avenues on East 53rd Street, a little overshadowed now by Greenacre Park.

Or, less known, the Sallie Franklin Cheatham Park, a three-tiered miniature delight with decorative iron seats, planters of pink begonias, tiny falls of water and small bubbling fountains hugging the side of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church at Park Avenue and 51st Street.

Previously it was a dingy neglected site and its rapid and skillful transformation won it one of five architectural awards last month.

Commercial enterprises too are becoming increasingly more sensitive to the need to soften the overwhelming mass of skyscraper architecture with ankle-deep green shadings of trees and shrubs.

Park Avenue aorund the 50s is a spectacular example of skyscrapers with low-level walls acting as lunchtime benches under sycamore or locust tree shade.

With low walls and seven large shade trees, the building demurely describing itself only as 345 Park Avenue at East 52nd Street could recently count as many as 150 lunchtime sandwich munchers, a girl flower seller with a cart with bright yellow daisy wheels, a hotdog vendor, and the ubiquitous good-humor man.

By 2:30 p.m. the crowd had been absorbed back into the complex of giant buildings behind it, and the good-humor man moved reluctantly on to await another day for hundreds of outdoor lunch eaters looking for a low wall to sit on and a shady tree and, hopefully, an ice cream treat to eat.

New Party Chief Eyes Campaigning

By Godfrey Sperling Jr.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — The new chairman or chairwoman (or chair-person as woman's libbers prefer) of the Democratic National Committee has made it clear that the McGovern forces will deal persuasively and courteously with dissident leaders — but not forever.

In a quiet, husky voice Mrs. Jean Westwood told a group of reporters over breakfast that "we've made a number of offers" to Richard J. Daley for a McGovern get-together with the Chicago mayor.

But, she said, the next move is up to him. In other words, she said, if nothing more were heard from Daley, there would be no "summit". (Daley has said he would support the ticket.)

She also said that "if some people think they can find a refuge in Larry O'Brien, they are entirely wrong".

By this, she said, she meant the presidential candidate will be wanting much more than communication (through his new liaison with the old guard, O'Brien) with those powerful Democrats among the mayors, governors, members of Congress, and in labor who have, up to now, been less than enthusiastic about the McGovern candidacy.

Mrs. Westwood, the first woman ever to head a major U.S. political party, said that these leaders would, at some point, have to enter enthusiastically into the McGovern campaign.

For example, she said that if Mayor Daley never really committed his organization to Senator McGovern, then the McGovern people were prepared to send in their own organization in Illinois.

Mrs. Westwood also made these disclosures on McGovern planning for the road ahead:

She estimated that there would be approximately 500,000 volunteer workers involved in the McGovern campaign. She said there were 100,000 volunteers who participated in Senator McGovern's effort in the primaries.

Without naming the states she had in mind, she said that Senator McGovern would have to win "seven out of the 10 biggest industrial states" if he were to win in November.

"We expect to take New York, California, and Wisconsin" she said. Then she added: "We will have to take some of these states — Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Texas."

She said that it was the feeling within the McGovern camp that "the old Franklin D. Roosevelt coalition — of farm, labor, and ethnic groups —is still the basis of the Democratic party."

"But," she added, "we are opening the party to others, too."

She said that the McGovern spending goal for the campaign was $20 million to $25 million. "This would be enough for us to win on," she said. She added that the McGovernites could carry on a more effective campaign if they could raise $36 million, which is about what the Nixon forces will be spending.

She said she was encouraged by "the issue" in the campaign. "I hope they try an abusive campaign," she said. "The voters react negatively to this. We found this out during the primaries."

City Named After A Vice President

CHICAGO (UPI)—The 11th U.S. vice president has the distinction of being the least known statesman with one of the best known names. Prior to the vice presidency, he had been minister to Russia and a U.S. senator. Later, at the outbreak of the Civil War, he was minister to Great Britain. But, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, George Mifflin Dallas is best known because the settlers of a Texas hamlet named the town in his honor.

Pieta Aftermath

ROME (UPI)—The recent attack on Michelangelo's "Pieta" in St. Peter's underscored the security problems of the vast basilica which is normally visited by 12,000 persons a day. Up to 500,000 persons have crowded into the church's piazza on special occasions such as Easter.

OBITUARIES

Cesarina Galetti Dies At 80

Cesarina Galetti of Fairfax died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Galetti, who was 80, was born in Tonco, Monferatto-Asti Province in Italy. She moved to San Francisco in 1912, and in 1920 came to Sausalito where her late husband, Ambrose J. Galetti operated a restaurant. Mrs. Galetti made her home for the last 42 years at 57 Dominga Avenue in Fairfax.

She is survived by her sons, Peter J. and Louie Galetti, both of San Anselmo; five grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax. Rosary will be recited at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills.

Entombment at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

Memorial gifts to the Marin Community Workshop Annex are preferred by the family.

LOIS WILKE

Lois Wilke of Mill Valley, former San Francisco restaurateur, died yesterday at her home after a long illness. She was 59.

A native of Del Norte, Colo., Mrs. Wilke had lived in California 32 years and in Marin County 21 years, residing at 345 Linda Way. With her late husband, Carl, she operated several Carl Wilke restaurants, and coffee shops in San Francisco prior to her retirement from the business. Wilke died in January 1971.

Mrs. Wilke is survived by two sisters, Ladine Woodring of Tacoma, Wash., and Mrs. Charles Goe of Roseburg, Ore., and a brother, John O. Ferguson of Columbia City, Ore.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

MRS. MAJORS

Private funeral for Lillian F. Majors, 87, longtime Petaluma resident, was held today in Petaluma.

Mrs. Majors died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born and reared in Fort Bragg and moved to Petaluma 40 years ago. She formerly lived at 1410 Skillman Lane.

She is survived by two daughters, Gladys Larson and Mildred Johnson of Petaluma; two grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

MRS. CARPENTER

Lillian E. Carpenter, 72, died yesterday at a local hospital after collapsing at her home at 5 Coady Court, Petaluma.

Mrs. Carpenter was born in Chicago and moved to Petaluma as a youngster 66 years ago. She attended business college and had worked for the J. C. Penney Co. and Denton's Apparel, Petaluma.

She is survived by her husband, Elbert J. Carpenter; a daughter, La Verne Vogensen of San Rafael; a son, Elbert J. Carpenter Jr. of Santa Rosa; a sister, Florence Brauer of San Francisco, and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Family Mix To Hold Open Forum

Family Mix, a cooperative educational center in San Anselmo, will hold an open forum tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. to discuss its role in the community. The meeting will be held at 43 Mariposa Avenue.

Among other things, Family Mix operates the Switchboard which aids callers in finding jobs, housing and solutions to other problems.

The nonprofit organization recently published a "resource director" of Marin County groups and organizations offering assistance to the public. Copies may be obtained from the Family Mix at 43 Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo.

One Bank Cuts Lending Rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—A major New York bank today shaved its prime lending rate.

Bankers Trust Co., which has a "floating" rate, said that effective immediately its lending rate would be 5 ¼ per cent, a quarter point drop from the previous rate of 5 ½ per cent.

The prime rate is available generally to top corporate borrowers. Other lending rates usually but not necessarily are keyed to this level.

Maine Governor Bets On Muskie

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)—Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis said today he believes that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will be George McGovern's choice for his vice presidential running mate.

"If I were out betting money I'd bet on Muskie today," Curtis said.

Curtis, who played golf with Muskie Monday, said talk of Muskie as a replacement for Sen. Thomas Eagleton "is more than just speculation."

Malfatti Named Marinwood Captain

Promotion of Marinwood fireman Raymond Malfatti to captain was announced at last night's meeting of the Marinwood Firemen's Association. Malfatti will succeed Robert Miller, who has retired, according to Gerald A. Falbo, association secretary.

The firemen completed plans for a public barbecue to be held Sept. 3 behind the Marinwood Community Center, Falbo reported.

Barge Dwellers Go; City Donates Guard

Residents of two dilapidated barges on the Sausalito waterfront who left their belongings behind when forced to move out by the city got a break last night when the city council agreed to allow a live-in watchman to remain on the premises. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 1.)

Gordon Wright, attorney for barge owner Byron Edwards, said the guard was needed to prevent vandalism, thefts and arson to the structures and the property of those who hope to return when the barges have been brought up to city codes.

The last remaining barge dwellers left quietly yesterday afternoon when Sausalito Police appeared with warrants for the arrest of anyone still in residence. No arrest was made, according to Police Capt. R. David Malkin, who said the displaced residents had been "very cooperative and helpful.

A request from Wright that boards blocking entrances to the barges, put up by the city yesterday, be removed was also approved. The barricades were placed at entrances to protect property left on the barges, according to City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger.

The council has ordered the barges renovated or removed after hearing sworn testimony from several city staff members and a representative of the county health department that they are hazards to health and safety.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

NAPA PIER — Voted 3-2, with councilmen Robin Sweeny and Earl F. Dunphy dissenting, to give residents of the Napa Street Pier an additional 30 days to leave the pier which the city has ordered vacated until repairs are made. A court hearing on a request by the residents for more time before moving from the pier is scheduled to be heard Thursday in Marin Superior Court, but Attorney Jordan said that hearing may not be necessary in light of the council action.

RESTAURANT — Approved a conditional use permit to allow the Harbor Inn Restaurant on Gate Five Road to expand its seating capacity by adding an outside deck and provide additional parking required on property owned by the nearby Mohawk service station.

ZONE CHANGE — Denied an appeal by Donald Dittmar on a planning commission refusal to grant him a zone change on two small parcels of land between Bridgeway and Martin Luther King School. Dittmar, who has an option to lease the land from the state division of highways, had wanted the designation changed from the current "public" zone to a neighborhood commercial district in order to build a complex of professional offices and shops on the land.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Dorothy Gibson, a Sausalito social worker, to fill a seat on the city planning commission vacated by the resignation of William McDermott.

EXHIBIT — Refused to permit the Emperor's Gate Gallery to hold an exhibition of sculpture in Princess Park. The council suggested the applicant, James R. Moffat, seek another site because of problems of traffic congestion and precedent for other businesses to hold exhibits on city land. Moffat had offered to share profits from the sale following the exhibit to the city as the beginning of a special fund to establish an art museum.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session with its attorney to discuss pending litigation.

BUSTED BUST REPLACED

A new bust of former president of Argentina Juan Peron (right), was placed in the White Gallery of the presidential palace in Buenos Aires yesterday. The bust replaces one which was destroyed after Peron was deposed in 1955. A bust of the man who deposed him, Eduardo Leonardi, is on the left. (UPI Telephoto)

Novato City Council Waits On Pacheco Ranch Plan

The Novato City Council last night heard about elaborate plans for the Pacheco Ranch, but could not decide whether to accept them. Instead, it set a tour of the property for 10 a.m. Sunday to see how the plans fit the terrain.

The council shortly before that voted to prezone to planned community and agricultural 664 acres west of Highway 101, north of Big Rock Ridge, scheduled for annexation to the city.

The 519-acre Pacheco Ranch is the largest portion of the proposed annexation which has been approved by the local agency formation commission.

Plans presented by the U.S. Development Corp. show 650 to 700 housing units on 138 acres in the valley to the west of Highway 101. The remaining 381 acres would be deeded free to the city of Novato for parks and open spaces. It was estimated that this amount of land would be valued at $2 - 3 million dollars.

The Frontage Road, Alameda Del Prado, would be extended along the property, but not connected to Marinwood just over the hill until some future date. It would also have a bicycle path beside it.

In the area nearest the highway would be offices and light industry, a motel and restaurant and convenience shopping areas. The houses would be mostly townhouses or cluster houses hidden in the trees in the valley.

The plans showed a park along the creek with houses averaging 50 feet from the creek.

Councilman David Price Jones wanted more single family homes in the project and representatives of the company said that they could alter their plans for this but it would mean moving farther up the hillsides to get the spaces. This would mean less open space for the city and more scarring of hills, they said.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said that the master plan called for 70 acres of school sites and the remainder developed into single family homes. He said that school district officials now feel that the students from the development could be accommodated in the present schools.

Mattson said that there was nothing in the master plan for offices, industry or business in the area.

The developer plans to preserve five Indian mounds on the property.

The council set the meeting Sunday to inspect the site and also continued the public hearing on the development plans until 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

McClellan Urged As Ellender Replacement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has been recommended by the Senate Democratic Steering Committee for the chairmanship of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Senate Democratic caucus and the full Senate are expected to approve the recommendation routinely. McClellan will succeed Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who died last week.

San Rafael Commission Urges Citizens To Become Involved

The San Rafael Planning Commission in an adjourned meeting last night urged more citizen involvement in the city's redevelopment plans.

The call came amid confusion on the part of some residents as to how they could contribute to the city's plan to revitalize the ailing downtown area.

"Just how do citizens' groups get any input into all this?" asked Mary Dekker, chairman of the San Rafael Historical Preservation Committee. She was told that William J. Bielser, redevelopment executive director as well as San Rafael's assistant city manager, would field all suggestions for possible projects within the scope of redevelopment.

Sue D. Lifschiz of the San Rafael Town Meeting urged appointment of a citizen redevelopment advisory board and said that she would bring the proposal before the city council, which acts as the redevelopment agency's board of directors.

Redevelopment consultants Thomas R. Owens, an Oakland attorney, and William M. Bryant, an urban planner, appeared at the meeting to brief the commission on the current status of the redevelopment proposal.

Bryant said that a redevelopment "survey area" had already been drawn up — extending roughly from Fourth and H streets in the west and along Point San Pedro Road in the north and on both sides of Francisco Boulevard in the south.

Bryant said that the next step is commission review of a preliminary project plan. The plan, along with commission suggestions, then goes to the agency's board of directors for consideration. After further review by both the commission and the board, the project plan will come up for adoption at a redevelopment agency public hearing, he said.

If adopted, the agency will file the plan with the county and freeze assessed valuation within redevelopment boundaries. Increases over the frozen level may be sued for redevelopment purposes, he said.

Bielser told a group of citizens after the meeting that acquisition of the Dollar Estate property for use as a city park will be proposed as one redevelopment project.

Commissioner Ben C. Albritton was absent from the 90-minute briefing.

Condemnation Set By Novato Council

The Novato City Council last night ordered condemnation of a piece of property to help a neighbor develop his land.

It ordered condemnation of a strip of property 15 by 30 feet, valued at $115 in the estate of Pearl L. Lieb. Her son, Wilfred Lieb of 1521 Hill Road, protested the condemnation of his property.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said that it was a "misuse of city powers" and that the city could not condemn one man's property to help another.

The other property owner is Paul Pickart who has city approval for apartments on 5.9 acres adjacent to Hill Junior High School.

The trouble is that Hill Road is only 20 feet wide where it dead ends at the Pickart property but the city requires a 24 foot width. It had asked Novato Unified School District trustees to donate the necessary right-of-way, but they refused last week.

Last night's action (start of condemnation of the Lieb property on the other side of the road) will give Pickart the required width of road into his property.

The vote was 3-1 with Sartain against and Councilman David Price Jones vacating his chair because of a conflict of interest.

The Novato City Council Also:

APPLICATION — Approved an application to housing and urban renewal for $40,000 to develop Pioneer Memorial Park for open space.

LAND DIVISION — Tabled a request by the Marin County Planning Commission for an opinion on requiring a 42-foot-road dedication in the division of 15 acres on McClay road opposite the Indian Valley Nursery for Thomas Keena. The city had asked for the dedication as an extension of Canyon Road. City staff did not have exact plans where the road would go and the council tabled the item.

TAMALPAIS AVENUE — Voted to create an assessment district on Tamalpais Avenue between Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning 18 acres at the end of Cherry Street from agricultural to planned residential for 18 dwelling units for Donald Perry.

DUST — Received a petition with 51 signatures from Steven F. Buffo of 2378 Vineyard Road complaining of the dust blowing from adjacent Tamak Estates during construction. The council ordered the city staff to see that more sprinkling was done to keep down the dust during the afternoons when the wind blows.

JOINT USE — Set 8 p.m. Aug. 21 for a meeting to discuss the joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base with the county, city and chamber of commerce airport committees.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 10 a.m. Sunday to go to the Pacheco Ranch; 8 p.m., Monday for another joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission on the master plan and Tuesday to complete items on the agenda.

New Agency Is Delayed In Novato

Creation of a redevelopment agency for the city of Novato was postponed again last night by the city council until next Tuesday night but may be delayed even more.

At the beginning of its meeting, the council voted to postpone the item for one week.

Later in the meeting, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown read a letter from Ronald D. Schenck, president of the Novato Unified School District trustees, asking for a joint meeting with all the other governing bodies to discuss the impact of a redevelopment agency.

He suggested that the meeting include not only the school district board but also the boards of the North Marin County Water District, Novato Sanitary District and the Novato Fire District.

Phillip Coady, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce said that the chamber would have representatives at the meeting.

The council asked Brown to try to set up a joint meeting of these governing bodies for next Wednesday or Thursday.

Requirement In Abortions Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—A city requirement that an abortion patient's name be included in the death certificate of the fetus is unconstitutional because it invades a woman's right to privacy, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Such a requirement was against public policy since it served "no compelling public purpose," State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Spiegel said.

"Single and married women by this directive would suffer an invasion of their right of privacy since they would be forced to identify themselves and become part of an abortion register against their will," Spiegel said.

Public Hearing For Ross School Budget

Ross School District's $622,581 1972-73 budget will be presented for adoption at a public hearing Monday at 7:45 p.m. at the Ross School library.

Trustees will also be recommended to approve four interdistrict attendance agreements, and to employ Geraldine Gottbrath as intermediate math and science teacher.

Petaluma Theft Yields Arrest

Arizona police yesterday arrested three young people in a pick-up truck that had been stolen July 17 in Petaluma according to Petaluma police.

Coconico County sheriff's deputies said they stopped the pick-up truck near Flagstaff at 2:15 p.m. and found the vehicle had been reported stolen. Arrested were William J. Denne, 19; Karin E. Pimentel, 21, and a 17-year-old boy police refused to identify.

No addresses were known, but all are believed to be from the Petaluma area. Extradition proceedings were to begin today.

The truck owned by Robert Hudson, 125 Rocca Drive, Petaluma, was stolen from the Lucky Supermarket parking lot.

See-Saw Title To Two Texans

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Two 15-year-old girls ended 200 straight hours on a see-saw Tuesday night, claiming a new world record.

Karen Jaynes and Priscilla Wittman, got off their cushioned, canopied teeter-totter at 9 p.m long after surpassing a mark of 132 hours set several weeks ago by two Tacoma, Wash., boys..

The girls were allowed five-minute rest periods every hour, but one had to remain on the board at all times. They took turns sleeping at night when they moved to another see-saw inside a house. Each got about four hours sleep a night.

Job Bias Against Handicapped Barred

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill signed into law Tuesday a bill which makes it illegal for would-be employers to discriminate against a physically handicapped person.

The measure was drafted by Deputy Attorney General Bertram P. Goltz, a cerebral palsy victim.

Millionaire Will Wed Alabama Woman

OSLO (UPI) — Millionaire Norwegian shipowner Niels Onstad, 63, and twice widowed Susan Anne Robinson Bacon, 51, of Mobile, Ala., will be married soon, a friend of the couple said Tuesday.

Mrs. Robinson Bacon was formerly married to the heir to the Goodyear fortune, Thomas R. Goodyear, and later to the banker Robert Bacon of Mobile. Onstad is the widower of the late figure skating star Sonia Heinie.

Checks By Welfare Are Held Valid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 3rd District Court of Appeal yesterday refused to halt the Reagan administration's new system of computer checks on welfare recipients' income without their permission.

The court ruled that the system does not violate federal welfare regulations on obtaining eligibility information or the recipients' constitutional right of privacy.

In May, the appellate court dissolved a Superior Court order obtained by the Golden Gate Welfare Rights Organization Inc. to halt the computer checks. The ruling allowed the state to resume the checks pending its final ruling in the case.

Under the computer system, the state Social Welfare Department sends social security numbers of Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients to the Department of Human Resources Development which matches the numbers with its files on wages paid by employers. The system is designed to make sure recipients are reporting outside income.

The appellate court today said it is "simply common sense ... for the executive branch of the State of California to verify the legality of past AFDC payments by recourse to information which it has lawfully acquired and which is lawfully available for that purpose.

Airplanes In Museum Are A Hazard

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Give a 6th grader a pad of 8 12-by-11-inch lined paper and sooner or later he is bound to make a paper airplane.

But explain to him the principles of flight, help him fold the paper into time-tested, aerodynamically sound models, and what happens?

Two members of the Harrisburg Civil Air Patrol unit took the 29 students in their summer aerodynamics class to the 45-foot high balcony of the William Penn Museum Monday to find out.

The idea was to construct a plane, zing it off the balcony, watch it glide the 75-foot path down to the floor and hit an 18-foot bronze statue of William Penn.

The prize was a citation and having the winners' names placed on the summer school honor roll.

"They are supposed to use all of the aerodynamic principles we teach them in the classroom," said Chief Warrant Officer Marshall Stauffer, 24.

He side-stepped a wayward airplane and hollered "cut it out" to a group of "junior birdmen" who had decided he was a more exciting target than the brooding William Penn.

"We showed them some designs out of a book and helped them fold the paper, but most of them used the standard design they fly in school when the teacher isn't looking," Stauffer said.

Some passersby were aghast as they ducked to avoid the paper airplanes that zoomed over the escalators and plummeted from the balcony.

Stauffer darted from side to side, covered his head and shook his fist as a white projectile crashed into his forehead and dropped to the floor, its point dented.

On the first mass attempt, 29 airplanes were shot off the balcony, only to fall straight to the floor. Stauffer then offered some advice.

"You have to throw it hard enough to avoid the turbulence coming out of the air conditioning duct," Stauffer said.

By the end of the hour, nine students had won citations and Stauffer was "all done in."

William Penn seemed to remain passive, but someone suggested that instead of clutching the symbol of an infant state to his chest, he had heartburn.

Apartment Plan Finally Approved

A proposed Tennessee Valley apartment project, kicked back and forth between county agencies for nearly a year, was finally approved yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Revised plans for the project, which is actually a renovation and expansion of the Villa Marin apartments on Tennessee Valley Road, won swift approval amid praise from several supervisors who in March rejected the development as too dense.

"I think I'm at the wrong meeting," commented architect Norman T. Gilroy of Mill Valley as the board prepared to approve the development.

Gilroy presented plans last year for expanding the apartment complex by 135 units but ran into stiff opposition from Tamalpais Valley residents.

The county planning commission rejected the plan and suggested the number be reduced to 90 new units on the 9.6 acre site which already has 41 units.

The architect returned a month later and won commission approval for 95 new units but that plan was rejected in March by supervisors who ordered the number reduced even more.

Last month, Gilroy returned to the planning commission with plans for 55 new units, most of which will be gained by remodeling buildings already on the site. The commission approved the plan after winning assurances much of the land would remain in open space.

County supervisors yesterday swiftly approved the revised plan after hearing mild objection from George W. Kemp Jr., whose home lies below the hilly Villa Marin site.

Kemp, who has maintained in the past that the development would make his home and property unsalable, requested and was given assurance by the board his land would be rezoned to allow construction of apartment buildings.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

OPEN SPACE — Continued to Aug. 15 a request to place the proposed countywide park district on the November ballot. The continuance was urged by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney who said the action should not be taken until the governor signs enabling legislation for the district.

LIBRARY FEES — Increased library fees for out-of-county residents from $5 per year to a new total of $12 per year. Also overdue book fines were raised from 5 cents to 10 cents per day for adults and from 2 cents to 3 cents for children.

OTHER FEES — Increased special election fees about 20 per cent but took no action on increasing fees charged by the planning department for processing development proposals.

TAX RATE J — Acting as the Marin County Transit District Board, set a tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation which will raise about $355,000 for the district during fiscal 1972-73.

FAIR Agreed to request $72,000 in state funds for construction of sewer and rest room facilities and the county fair grounds.

CRUSADE — Endorsed the goals of the Bay Area United Crusade and urged county employees to donate.

AGREEMENTS — Approved contracts with the Marin City Community Services District authorizing $60,000 to the district for operation of Manzanita Center and several recreation programs.

YOUTH COORDINATOR — Established hiring procedures for a new youth coordinator for the county youth commission. Applications will be accepted through Aug. 16 with final selection to be made by the commission and the director of human rights.

VETERAN — Agreed to hire Horace White, a former youth worker with the human rights department, as a three-quarter-time group counselor with the probation department. White returned after military duty to find his old job with the human rights department abolished and demanded a comparable position as provided by state law.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Lilly Whittle of Santa Venetia and Rev. J. Arton Sarjeant of the Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito to the county human rights commission and Katherine Donery to the county family and children's services advisory committee.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Geraldine Shone from the county mental health advisory board.

TRAINING — Authorized the county staff to begin developing a training program for mid-management and supervisory employees.

SURVIVAL, INC. — Again postponed consideration of the nonprofit recycling firm's request for $25,000 support in the county budget, to Aug. 8.

FLOOD ZONE — Voted unanimously to transfer $6,000 from the general fund to repay Ross Valley Flood Zone for a loan to Flood Zone 9-A. Zone 9 chairman Edward W. Colthurst protested the board's earlier decision to add a half-cent to the tax rate so all Ross Valley zone property owners could repay the sum.

SOLID WASTE — Revised and approved a proposal by Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. to establish a solid waste management committee, consisting of one county official, two appointees by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen from the ranks of the City-County Planning Council, one member of the League of Women Voters, two special district representatives and three each from private industries connected with waste, and environmental groups. The appointments will be made later.

NURSING HOMES — Adopted 15 recommendations proposed by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, for improving conditions in nursing homes through better pay for employees, more inspections, new complaint procedures and revised rules for reporting violations.

Marin Deputies Win Stay Of Demotion

Three Marin County sheriff's officers, faced with demotion because of cuts in the department's budget, persuaded county supervisors yesterday to forestall the action another six months.

The three men — Lt. Arthur Disterheft and Inspectors Garrett McDonald and Kenneth Froberg — were to have been demoted to lower ranks on Friday as a result of the board's decision last month to reduce the number of mid-level deputies and their positions.

But the trio's attorney, Christopher Burdick of San Francisco, appealed to the board yesterday to reconsider the "devastating financial effect" on the three men and their families, some of whom were seated in the audience.

For example, he said, the demotion of Froberg to a deputy II position would mean a $250 reduction in his monthly pay check and probable loss of his home.

Similar hardship would face the other two, he added. Disterheft would suffer a 7.5 per cent reduction in pay if demoted to the rank of inspector and McDonald would lose 15 per cent if reduced to a deputy II.

Burdick pleaded it was unfair to penalize three deputies for economic savings that he contended could be made through normal attrition.

The board, after mulling the situation over, agreed unanimously (supervisor Louis H. Baar was absent) to keep the men at their present ranks for six months to provide additonal time for retirements and resignations to open existing slots held by other mid-level deputies.

County Administrator John F. Barrows, who opposed the extension, cautioned that the next mandatory retirement of a mid-level deputy was four years away. Several, however, will be eligible to retire by January.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell estimated the cost of keeping the men at their present ranks for six months at about $7,000 more than if they were demoted as provided by the budget.

Supervisor John F. McInnisn, who attended yesterday's morning session, said he felt six months was reasonable if only to give the men time to adjust personal finances in case there is no retirement or resignation.

He drew support from the others including Michael Wornum who first opposed the extension and later proposed it be granted for a year.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he felt it was a fair solution for both taxpayers and the deputies while Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he didn't want the deputies to "think the board is insensitive."

Nixon Gift Due

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A 28-foot hydrofoil, a gift for President Nixon, is scheduled to arrive at the port of Baltimore Thursday aboard the Soviet freighter Bratsk.

New Limits Put On City Buildings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Limits on the height and bulk of buildings in San Francisco have been adopted unanimously by the Board of Supervisors which claimed they were a model for cities in the nation.

The city-wide controls impose a height limit of 40 feet in most residential areas and a maximum of 700 feet in the downtown area.

The Planning Commission's proposals were adopted Monday unanimously and intact after two years of study of building controls.

Several amendments that were proposed before the meeting were shelved when officials warned of legal problems that could threaten the entire ordinance.

28 Die In Boat Fire

MANILA (UPI)—A passenger boat carrying 190 persons caught fire Tuesday off the southernmost Basilan Island, killing 28 passengers, the Philippine News Service reported today.

Safety Cars Wait In Distant Future

CHICAGO (UPI)—The federal government is looking for prototype safety cars—cars that can let their occupants walk away from a 50 mile-an-hour collision "in spite of themselves."

But it will apparently be a while—if ever—before they will be within reach of the ordinary American family, a magazine published by the National Safety council reported.

The National Safety Council, in its July issue of Traffic Safety magazine, says the government has contracted with four American companies — AMF Inc., General Motors, Fairchild Industries and Ford— and signed agreements with Germany, Japan and Sweden for development of "experimental safety vehicles."

Only Ford said its safety car can be mass-produced with today's techniques. Mercedes-Benz said its model will cost twice as much as the current Mercedes-Benz. And a GM spokesman said flatly, "the cost of manufacturing a vehicle of this type obviously would be prohibitive."

So far the Department of Transportation has awarded contracts totalling nearly $7.8 million to AMF and Fairchild for their safety car models, and GM and Ford agreed to build their for a token $1 apiece.

Public Hearing Set On Nicasio Budget

Nicasio School District trustees will hold a public hearing and vote on adoption of the district's 1972-73 budget at 8 p.m. today in the Nicasio School.

The budget will be $64,250. Although some $4,000 higher than last year, the total is not expected to change the district tax rate of 88 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Beverly A. Alberigi, board secretary.

Day Care Center Plea Due Study

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will consider a use permit for a day care facility proposed for 241 Los Angeles Boulevard when it meets in city hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

Linda Hersh has applied for the permit to allow use of an existing building on the site as a day care facility for 3 to 6 year olds, according to Charles R. Leitzell, planning director.

The commission will consider an application for a three-lot subdivision on Red Hill Avenue and a two-lot subdivision at 91 Redwood Road.

14 Killed As Jet Plows Into Viet Bus

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese A37 Dragonfly jet fighterbomber trying a forced landing plowed into a civilian motorcycle bus today.

Fourteen civilians were killed, military sources said. The pilot was thrown out of the plane in the crash and badly injured.

Demand, Price Increase May Bring Gas Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The demand for gasoline has caused a price increase and may cause a shortage of gasoline by late summer, Assistant Interior Secretary Hollis M. Dole said Tuesday.

Dole told a House subcommittee the nation is "beginning to feel the pinch on energy in certain forms" and the scarcity "will widen as time goes by to include nearly every form and category of energy."

He said the price of gasoline, for example, has increased four times during recent months with demand up 6 per cent east of the Rocky Mountains and 10 per cent in western states.

"There are unmistakable signs that even gasoline — which most people take for granted just as much as the air they breathe —may become in tight supply in certain sections of the country by late summer of this year," Dole said.

Dole said total use of energy by the year 2000 may be three times more than in 1970. America is becoming increasingly dependent on foreign oil supplies.

Dole urged new efforts to find oil and gas along the Atlantic coastal plain. He said there may be 19 billion barrels of oil and 46 trillion cubic feet of gas in that area.

Another government official, Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas, said brownouts and blackouts probably will continue to plague the Atlantic seaboard and the upper Midwest.

Nassikas told a House Public Works subcommmittee that delays in construction of nuclear power plants have meant that "available capacity is not adequate to meet loads and provide satisfactory reserve margins."

The trouble spots identified by Nassikas included New England, New York, Virginia, Carolinas, Florida, northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

However, the nation as a whole "should be able to get by on the short term," Nassikas said.

CMDR. J. P. FLAHERTY JR.
Resolute's new captain

Coast Guard Ship Gets New Skipper

Cmdr. John F. Flaherty Jr., today took command of the Coast Guard Cutter Resolute in ceremonies at Yerba Buena Island.

Flaherty, 38, replaces Cmdr. John M. Wilkinson who has commanded the vessel for the past two years.

The Resolute's new captain is a 1957 graduate of the Coast Guard Academy. For the past two years he has been chief of the Readiness Branch on the staff of the commander of the 12th Coast Guard District in San Francisco.

Flaherty lives at 222 W. Kelly Drive at Hamilton Air Force Base with his wife Ruth and four children.

Cmdr. Wilkinson of Hayward will become the executive officer of the Coast Guard Training and Supply Center in Alameda.

His mother, Mrs. Grace I. Wilkinson, lives at 92 Corte Encanto in Larkspur.

Programs For Senior Citizens

Two special recreation programs for elderly people have been announced by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's Goldenaires Senior Citizen Club.

A fish and chips luncheon is set for noon on Aug. 16 at the Community Recreation Center, 1011 Fifth Avenue. Deadline for reservations is Aug. 11.

A one-day bus trip to the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum to see the Oakland A's play the Cleveland Indians is set for Aug. 28. The cost of the trip will include chartered bus transportation and reserved seats between first base and home plate.

The buses will leave San Rafael at 6:15 p.m. and return at 11 p.m. Reservations must be made by Aug. 18.

Two Burglary Suspects Plead

Two San Francisco men charged with burglary of a San Rafael restaurant last week have entered innocent pleas in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 15 for Demetrius Chris Tsiodoelus, 35, and Veselin George Radunovich, 42.

They were arrested after police went to the Jim Jam's restaurant at 810 Third Street following a report there was a burglary in progress. Police said they found Tsiodoelus and Radunovich behind the restaurant.

Although the restaurant had not been entered, police said pry marks were found on the rear door. In the men's car police said they found tools, flashlights and a pistol.

400 Women Are GOP Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost one-third of the Republican National convention delegates who will meet at Miami Beach this month to renominate President Nixon will be women.

The National Women's Political Caucus said Tuesday there will be 400 women delegates at the Aug. 21-23 convention. They will represent 29.9 per cent of the 1,337 delegates.

At the 1968 convention, 17 per cent of the delegates were women.

Courtroom Security For Redwood City

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — County officials said Tuesday they are installing a $250,000 electronic courtroom security system at the Hall of Justice here but they acknowledged they had hoped to keep it a secret.

Richard Lee, assistant building director for San Mateo County, told newsmen who noticed the closed-circuit television cameras being put in each of the 16 courtrooms that no public announcement was made because officials felt "it would serve no purpose."

"It was intended to keep the camera system mysterious from those who might interfere," Lee added.

He said contracts for the system had been let piecemeal so that no single contractor would know the overall security arrangements.

He said the closed-circuit television network, set for completion Friday, was inspired by the August, 1970, breakout attempt from the Marin County courthouse in which four persons died, including a judge.

The cameras will allow the sheriff's patrol desk to monitor all courtrooms, judges' chambers, and several corridors in the complex. In addition, each judge will be able by pressing a button alongside his bench to activate an alarm at the sheriff's headquarters.

In addition to the camera system, Lee said an "electronic intrusion detection screen" would be installed by the end of the year around the building's exterior. When this is completed, Lee said, anyone approaching the Hall of Justice at night would set off a silent alarm.

Experiment At Macomb Tried By 600 Persons

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — About 600 persons have benefitted from the 43 courses offered by a free university, an experiment in education started in Macomb the first of the year.

The free university offers continuing education to persons of any age and background who may not be able to enroll in an organized school.

It provides an alternate source of learning for students and is not designed as an anti-institutional source.

Courses range from gardening, piano and upholstering to women's studies, auto repair and winemaking.

Senior Citizens To Get Tax Help

A representative of the Franchise Tax Board will be in San Rafael from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 16 to help elderly people claim benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

The tax man will be at the Whistlestop at 930 Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael.

The law provides reimbursement of a portion of the property tax for Californians over 62 years old who live in the house they own, who have paid the property tax for the current year, and who have incomes of less than $10,000.

Claims must be filed no later than Oct. 15.

Dock Finger Pier Is Given Approval

Although it adopted a policy of not allowing finger piers on docks or floats at its June 13 meeting, the Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved a 20-foot finger pier on a floating dock for 12 condominiums on South Eliseo Drive.

The decision was on a 4-1 vote, reported Graham Lang, city community development enforcement officer. Commissioner Benton A. Sifford Jr., dissented, while commissioners Otto Hoefler, Leonard S. Rubin, Charles H. Curley and Earl O. Grady approved the architectural supervision application.

The pier is to be constructed on a floating dock at the Nara Gardens condominiums. At the July 12 meeting of the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission, Mrs. John Moran told members she felt that people buying $75,000 to $80,000 homes should be allowed to have finger piers.

And she presented photos of the Corte Madera Creek showing the difference between homes with and without docks.

Lang said commissioners came to the conclusion last night "that finger piers are not really as bad as they had thought."

Commissioners gave approval subject to the dock's width being 50 per cent of the total lot width, said Lang, and not 60 per cent as requested by Moran.

They also concurred with the architectural review committee's recommendation that a landscaping plan for the buildings' rear should be submitted for review.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

APARTMENTS — Approved an 11-unit apartment complex by Broughton and Horne at 505 Larkspur Plaza Road, subject to conditions recommended by the architectural review committee.

MILLBRAE — Referred back to the committee an architectural supervision application by Millbrae Highlands for landscape plans and revised elevations because of questions on exterior treatments.

LOCUST — Approved six apartments at 40 Locust Avenue by Otis and Miltner, with minor screen and color conditions.

SIGN — Approved an illuminated sign for Ross Valley Savings and Loan at 511 Sir Francis Drake subject to the sign's intensity not exceeding that shown by one adjacent at United California Bank.

TELEPHONE — Approved additions to Pacific Telephone and Telegraph's equipment building at 7 King Street. Conditions included four parking spaces and planting of former parking area.

FEE SCHEDULE — Recommended the city council adopt a fee schedule for architectural supervision applications with a minimum fee of $200. At present no fees are charged.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Instructed staff to work on proposed city sign ordinance and continued discussion to the next meeting Aug. 8.

Airbase Joint Use Talk Set

The joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base will be discussed by a panel and the public at a meeting of the San Marin Improvement Association at 8 p.m. Thursday at the San Marin High School library.

A panel of four persons will discuss joint use of the base. Then the general public will join in discussion, according to Diane Ryken, secretary.

Ned Dean, former president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, will speak in favor of joint use. Joseph Forest, chairman of the Novato Airport Committee; Joyce Applen, the Novato Homeowners Association's representative on the airport committee, and Arthur Knutson of Marin Conservation League will speak against.

Witness To Hit-Run Asked To Call CHP

The California Highway Patrol has issued a special request that the person who originally reported a hit-and-run accident Tuesday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — which sent a 16-year-old bicyclist to the hospital — immediately contact the patrol.

According to a patrol spokesman, Bruce Pawlotsky of Philadelphia, Pa., was injured at 6:55 p.m. on Sir Francis Drake, almost one mile east of San Geronimo Road.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken collar bone, a cut right elbow and multiple scrapes.

Pawlotsky was riding his bicycle on the right edge of the road when a car ran into the rear of the bike and threw the youth about 75 feet along the asphalt, according to the patrol.

The driver did not stop to aid the injured boy or present identification.

Moments later, the highway patrol received a call from an unidentified witness to the accident. The witness reported the details of the accident, but forgot to leave a name.

The patrol has asked that witness to aid its investigation by contacting the highway patrol office.

San Rafael School Budgets Approved

The San Rafael Board of Education last night adopted budgets totaling more than $11.6 million in the elementary and high school districts for 1972-73.

The board adopted a high school district budget of $6,007,598, up from last year's $5,337,903 high school spending program. Also adopted was the elementary school district's $5,661,985 budget, up from last year's $5,542,299 elementary budget.

The high schools tax rate will increase 2.4 cents to $2.354 per $100 assessed valuation and the elementary schools rate is up 10.2 cents to $3.417, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

He said that the high school district budget includes $4.07 million for instruction, $373,000 for plant operation and $162,000 for maintenance, while the figures in the elementary district for the same categories are $3.89 million, $370,000 and $172,000.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

CHILD CARE — Endorsed a child care project proposed by the Marin branch of the YMCA that would provide for the care of children of working parents after school hours at Gallinas and MacPhail schools, but offered no funding for the program.

SICK LEAVE — Heard personnel coordinator Jerry Gill report that employees of the two districts use 70 per cent of sick leave allotments, but that only 2 per cent use the entire sick leave allotment.

MAINTENANCE — Reported that summer operation and maintenance of the districts' school facilities was on schedule.

SPECIAL EDUCATION — Voted to apply for $140,000 in federal funds to hire special teachers for educationally disadvantaged students in the districts. If the funds are approved, three elementary specialists and 12 aides will be hired for the elementary district, as well as a school community worker and a high school psychologist for the high school district, Plank said.

TERRA LINDA HIGH — Approved the creation of a special ourse at Terra Linda High School for deaf and hard of hearing students and decided to hire a special teacher for the program. Plank estimated cost of an instructor and materials for the course to be about $15,000.

TEACHERS — Postponed until Aug. 29 consideration of a proposal by teachers that they be docked only a portion of their daily salary when absent on personal business, because no teacher appeared at the meeting, Plank said. Teachers have also requested continued tenure when transferring within the district from elementary to high school positions, he said.

PERSONNEL — Appointed Louise Latham as a Hebrew teacher in the high school district for an hour a day at $856 per year. The board approved Patricia Miller's request for a leave of absence but postponed action on Shirley Barden's request for a second year of leave of absence.

PAINTING — Awarded a $9,500 contract to North Bay Painting, Inc. for exterior painting at Santa Venetia Middle School.

LIBRARY SYSTEM — Approved a $2,400 per year lease purchase contract for four years for a library book detection system offered by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. The detection system will require small slabs of metal to be slipped into book jackets to enable a machine to detect books being taken out of the library, Plank said.

CLAIM — Rejected Richard L. Phillips' claim for $480 as compensation for a trumpet stolen in a burglary at Santa Venetia School.

NOMINEE — Nominated John Schmitz of Glenwood as the districts' candidate for a vacant position on the Marin County Committee for School District Organization.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Aug. 29.

Walker Burglary Trial Ordered

Ronald Walker, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday was ordered to stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing a Fairfax residence on May 3.

Another man, John Lauren Mott, 20, also of San Rafael, was awaiting trial in Superior Court on the same charge. Police said they found Mott and Walker, who also uses the name of Ronald Rogers, inside a residence on Cascade Drive.

Walker is to be arraigned next Wednesday in Superior Court.

He also is awaiting a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael apartment on July 2.

11 Marin Students Win Chico Honors

51-Thousand Marin teachers are asleep!

This is the book that could wake them up.
Once you've read it, you may want to make some noise...

When Marin schools open this fall, 51-thousand specially qualified teachers will not teach. They'll go to class, but they will not teach.

It will be a waste of scandalous proportions. In human resources. In tax money. And above all—in quality of education. For these 51-thousand idle teachers already know the special capacities and motivations and eccentricities of their students better than anyone else in the world. Who are these sleeping teachers?

They are the students themselves—all 51-thousand of them—and each potentially his or her own best teacher!

Academic baloney? Hardly.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are self-teaching their way through school—at all levels—right now! (Not at home—but in class, on campus). In fact, at the college level alone, over 160 thousand young men and women—on 1,203 major campuses throughout the country—are self-pacing, self-teaching, and self-testing their way to straight A's! How did it all happen?

Thousands of instructors quietly introduced a revolutionary idea into their classrooms. Victimized for voicing important educational problems—criticized without being given answers—these instructors have now found and applied a potential solution for all schools. It is a new individual learning system.

Originally conceived to meet an isolated set of teaching problems, its extraordinary potential was almost immediately evident. And soon the system was spreading—from class to class and school to school. Today it is sending rumbles throughout the entire U.S. educational system. Because it works. Because it is compatible with the existing system. Because it is welcomed by both faculty and students.

Learn about it. Read, "Learning is Getting Easier." An important book.

Fluoridation Urged For North Marin

The North Marin County Water District board last night was urged by several dentists and doctors to fluoridate the water, but took no action.

The issue may be placed on the November general election ballot after a public forum, said Mgr. Eugene Churchill.

Drs. Michael A. Harris, John Kassenbrock and William Heisler, all dentists, spoke in favor of it. Dr. Zachary Stadt, assistant health officer of Contra Costa County, who has made a study of fluoridation, presented the scientific background in favor of it, Churchill said.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer and Dr. Gregory Graham, Novato dentist, sent statements to the board in favor of it.

Joseph Doherty, vice president of the Novato Jaycees, volunteered to have that organization hold a public forum on the subject with a time and place to be set later.

After that, the board may decide to place it on the November ballot to get public opinion, Churchill said.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

AGREEMENTS — Approved in principal, agreements with the Marin Municipal Water District to connect a 24-inch aqueduct of the North Marin district to a 34-inch aqueduct of Marin Municipal District at Hamilton Air Force Base and for release from Nicasio Reservoir of a maximum of 150 acre feet per year into Papermill Creek to supply water for the north Marin system. These now go to the Marin Municipal Water District board for approval.

EMERGENCY WATER — Approved giving a limited amount of water on an emergency basis to Inverness Park water system because it is running low on water for 70 homes in the Paradise Ranch Estates.

TESTING — Approved an agreement to do the laboratory testing for Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

REPRESENTATIVE — Named Churchill as its representative to meet with representatives of Sonoma, Mendocino and Humboldt counties on diversion of water from the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. plant, now going into the Russian River, into the Eel River. The Department of Fish and Game, and Humboldt County Supervisors want the diversion to the Eel River. This would affect the supply of water to the Russian River on which Sonoma and North Marin are dependent for water.

IRRIGATION — Denied a request by Patricia Healy to irrigate two acres of organic vegetables from the Point Reyes system.

SEWAGE — Heard a report from Churchill that he is working with residents of Point Reyes Station to see if the sewer plant, to be constructed for 36 houses for the coast guard, could be enlarged to include a portion of the town.

SANTA ROSA — Sent a letter to Santa Rosa thanking the city for activating some wells to put between five and six million gallons of water into their system to help alleviate the transmission trouble during the recent hot weather.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Aug. 15 at the district office.

Michigan Expects Good Perch Year

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)— Fisherman with a taste for perch should find delightful fishing off Lake Michigan breakwaters, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources which is predicting an excellent perch fishing year as the species makes a major comeback.

The supply of perch was depleted in the lake after the population explosion of alewives robbed the perch of food. But 1969 was the best spawning year for yellow perch in Lake Michigan in more than a decade and these will be reaching catchable size this summer.

Cotati Council, Manager Discuss Communication

The Cotati City Council met in closed session last night in an effort to improve communication with City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen and planned another closed session for tomorrow to consider firing City Atty. William Cutler.

Councilman Geoffrey Dunham said the council told Salfen it wanted better communication and cooperation from him. Dunham said the council also raised some problems the police department has reported with Salfen and directed him to be more cooperative with officers.

Dunham said no move was made to fire Salfen, but that the council did give him some general directives that it hopes will bring more cooperation.

Dunham said the closed session tomorrow with Cutler will include consideration of asking for his resignation. Several councilmen have complained that since Cutler has his law offices in Santa Rosa he is not always available when needed.

During the open session at the meeting, the council continued review of the proposed 1972-73 budget of $439,136. Under the engineering department, the council refused to grant a salary increase to the part-time city engineer. His retainer fee would have gone from $2,400 to $3,000.

The council also cut $5,900 from the water department budget that would have provided a new truck and $300 from the equipment fund of the building inspection department.

The council added $2,000 to the parks department to boost funds for park development from the proposed $8,000 to $10,000.

Mill Valley Budget Is Accepted

The Mill Valley School District board last night adopted a final budget for 1972-1973 of $4,216,261, up almost $200,000 over last year's budget.

The tax rate was also increased, from $3.46 to $3.61 per $100 assessed valuation.

According to director of business services Carroll Killingsworth, the tax rate might have jumped more than 25 cents were it not for a recent increase in the assessed valuation of the school district.

In other action, the school board appropriated $7,700 to install an automatic sprinkler system under the playing field north of Corte Madera Creek at the new middle school.

It also agreed to accept completion of the middle school on Aug. 16, despite the fact that about 35 minor construction jobs remain incomplete. The school district, under terms of the contract, will withhold five times the cost of all uncompleted jobs until the entire construction job is finished.

Cave On Rocks, Music Can't Be

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — There's piped music throughout Meramec Caverns on U.S. 66 here but you won't hear any rock and roll.

Bob Hudson, cave manager, states that type of music interferes with the tours.

"When tourists hear rock and roll they tend to rush things and get in an excited mood which makes it extremely difficult for the cave guides," Hudson says. "The guides lost control of tourists.

"The cave is on the rocks and the music can't be," he adds.

MERRILL'S GUARANTEES SATISFACTION ON EVERY ITEM

NOW 6 MERRILL'S DRUG AND DISCOUNT CENTERS TO SERVE YOU BETTER - IN DOWNTOWN SAN FRANCISCO, SAN RAFAEL, VALLEJO AND NAPA

LET GUESTS slip on to skewers whatever appeals most. Label the skewers and broil over hot charcoals. The sweet and sour beef kebabs can be completed with mushrooms, pepper squares, small cooked potatoes, tomato chunks, zucchini and pineapple.

SOME VARIATIONS

Integrate Your Guests With A 'Sword' Cookout

The modern barbecue chef, with his battery of salt, seasonings and Worcestershire sauce, may seem to be a product of suburbia, but "sword-cooking," as the broiling of skewered meats is called in the Middle East, is one of the very oldest culinary arts.

Even as far back as the time of Homer's Odyssey there is mention of a king, a prince and three generals having joined forces in skewering and grilling lamb, goat and pork chunks.

Since helping is such a part of the fun of patio partying, let each guest select and slip onto the skewer whatever appeals most. In addition to the meats and vegetables mentioned in the following recipes, you can provide other favorites such as small, cooked potatoes; mushrooms; par-boiled whole onions and zucchini.

SWEET AND SOUR BEEF KEBABS

1 can (8 oz.) pineapple cubes
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 garlic clove, crushed
2 pounds lean, tender beef cubes, about 1½ inches thick
Tomato squares
Green pepper wedges
Small whole mushrooms

Drain pineapple cubes; reserve one-half cup syrup and cubes for later use. Combine pineapple syrup, Worcestershire sauce, honey, vinegar, salt and garlic. Place beef cubes in a snug-fitting bowl or double plastic bag. Pour Worcestershire sauce mixture over all. Cover or seal; refrigerate about eight hours, mixing once. Arrange meat, vegetables and reserved pineapple cubes alternately on skewers. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for five to eight minutes or until done as desired, turning once. Serve over rice, if desired. Serves six.

MEATBALL KEBABS

1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 cup dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup minced onion
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
1 egg, lightly beaten
1½ teaspoons salt
Green pepper cubes
Cherry tomatoes

Lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, onion, relish, water, Worcestershire sauce, egg and salt. Shape into about 18 meatballs. Arrange on skewers alternately with green pepper and cherry tomatoes. Broil over hot charcoal or under a preheated hot broiler for eight to 10 minutes or until done as desired, turning occasionally. Serves six.

Meat Usually Favorite Food For Charcoal Fire

The mouth-watering aroma of meat cooking over a charcoal fire is commonplace in Marin County.

Whether one uses a simple method such as a grill over a hollow spot in the ground for an elaborate rotisserie or kettle type unit, meat is usually the favorite food for grilling.

Beef, pork and lamb all are popular for outdoor cooking. Anything that can be broiled, pan fried, braised or even roasted indoors can be cooked outdoors. The same cooking methods apply.

Beef offers a great variety for outdoor cooking. From Chateaubriand to hamburger the creative cook will never run out of ideas. The new covered cookers turn out delicious meat loaf, stuffed peppers and even casserole dishes. Some of the less tender cuts of beef are delicious when flavored with a marinade and cooked in the outdoor kettles to the rare or medium stage.

PORK IS also tops for outdoor cooking. There is nothing new about roast pork. The Pacific Islanders have roasted pig for centuries. From bacon to spareribs, barbecued pork is elegant. And don't forget ham and sausages. Prepare a whole ham on a spit, slices on a grill or chunks for kabobs. Weiners, bologna, knockwurst and smoked links are other popular items.

For some people, lamb has no equal when it comes to outdoor cooking. Almost any cut of lamb can be cooked over the coals.

Variety meats, too, are at their best when broiled over charcoal. Liver and lamb and veal kidneys may be broiled from the raw state.

Each year more meat cuts are designated or suggested for the outdoor grill. In the frozen food case, one can find various combinations of kabobs especially prepared for skewer cooking.

There is an almost endless variety of herbs, spices, wines and fruit juices that can be used to add zing to marinades. With so many meats available, the possibilities are endless.

Cold Fruit Juice Drinks Ideal For Warm Weather

Cold drinks made with fruit juices are the perfect remedy for the hot weather wearies. Because fruit juices contain vitamins and natural fruit sugars for quick energy, they are a wise choice for meals, snacks and entertaining.

Serve juices over crushed ice, combined with carbonated or alcoholic beverages and in punches. Party Creme Cooler, a delicious blend of peach and apricot nectars, is perfect for guests who prefer a non-alcoholic beverage. And remember, frozen juice cubes keep drinks fresh longer. To make cubes just pour your choice of fruit juice fruit drink or nectar into ice cube trays and freeze.

PARTY CREME COOLER

2 cans (5½-oz. each) chilled peach nectar
2 cans (5½-oz. each) chilled apricot nectar
2 ounces liquid from maraschino cherries
16 ounces chilled creme soda

Combine all ingredients except creme soda. Whir briefly in blender, if desired. Pour into pitcher or punch bowl. At serving time add creme soda and frozen fruit juice cubes made with additional peach and apricot nectars. Garnish with fresh mint or maraschino cherries. Yields eight (5-oz.) or five (8-oz.) servings.

QUICK TO FIX

A Chocolate Spice Cake Excellent Outing Dessert

Chocolate spice cake offers more old-fashioned goodness that travels well on summer outings. And in keeping with the carefree mood of summer, it's quick to fix and can be frozen to have on hand for unexpected outdoor fun and food occasions.

This moist and tender cake is as fragrant as grandma's spice cupboard and mellow with buttermilk, butter and eggs. To make it unique among spice cakes, a little grated chocolate goes right into the batter.

Bake chocolate spice cake in an easy to carry pan and top with a simple butter cream frosting sprinkled with shaved or grated chocolate. Milk makes the best tote-along go-along for this delicious portable picnic dessert.

CHOCOLATE SPICE CAKE

½ cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1¼ cups buttermilk
1 square (1 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, grated

BUTTER FROSTING:

2 tablespoons butter softened
1 cup confectioners sugar
5 teaspoons milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Grated chocolate

In a mixing bowl cream butter, gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, nutmeg and cinnamon; add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk. Fold in chocolate. Spread evenly in nine inch buttered square pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 35-40 minutes. Cool completely on wire rack before frosting top of cake. To prepare Frosting: In a mixing bowl beat together butter, sugar, milk and vanilla until light and fluffy. Spread over top of cake. Garnish with chocolate.

Note: Cake may be frozen either frosted or unfrosted.

Good Soup Spice

When you are heating a can of condensed cheddar cheese soup you may want to add a little chili powder.

BACK-TO-EARTH FOOD

Modern Cook's Advantage Over Grandma

By DONALD B. THACKREY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Even the strongest back-to-earth advocates of natural foods have to admit modern cooks have advantages over Grandma in whipping up tasty treats of unblemished organic origin.

Although Grandma could get fresh, unrefined and unprocessed ingredients such as honey, fruits, vegetables, eggs and grains by taking only a short walk, she had probably never cooked with soybean products, millet or seaweeds, if indeed she had ever heard of them.

Jean Hewitt, home economiyfor the New York Times, combines the exotic and the home-grown in the 700 recipes she presents in her best-selling "New York Times Natural Foods Cookbook."

It all started several years ago when Mrs. Hewitt was doing research on natural foods for a Times story.

"PEOPLE WHO are interested in the natural foods movement are the most friendly in the world," she said recently in a San Francisco interview. "They all are most generous and want to share their discoveries and recipes with you.

"And they do. I got more than 3,000 recipes just by letting it become known in natural food circles that I was interested in them."

In addition to the well-known and the imported natural foods, the recipes in her book include such ingredients as alfalfa sprouts, wheat germ, yougurt and sunflower seed kernels, once exclusively the province of the faddists.

Mrs. Hewitt makes no claims that natural and organic foods are miracle cures for any diseases or conditions.

"They just taste better," she says. "And another thing is the texture. Natural foods have a much more pleasing texture than processed foods.

"And after all eating is — or should be — a pleasure process appealing to other senses than just taste. Food is better if it looks good. And if the texture of a food, such as a grain, is more pleasing, then the eating of that food is more pleasing."

AND, SHE insists, these are some of the advantages of natural foods without even taking into consideration their probable nutritional superiority.

"Regrettably," she writes in the introduction to her book, "there is no official well-publicized proof that all organically grown produce — that is, grown without chemical fertilizers, sprays or dusts — is nutritionally superior.

"It is hoped that extensive testing and analyses will be carried out before long by a respected independent laboratory of government agency to determine whether there are nutritional pluses to organically grown foods in addition to their proven advantages."

The book, published by the Quadrangle Press of the New York Times, sold more than 25,000 copies at $9.95 each during its firstthree months in New York alone.

But it is probable that few, if any, of the purchasers were enticed into buying it by one of the recipes for Fruit Bat Soup and starts out with: 3 fruit bats, well washed but neither skinned nor eviscerated.'

The three fruit bats are supposed to yield enough soup for four persons.

Vegetable Prices Haven't Gone Up

Consumers, concerned with the cost of food they feed their families should turn their attention toward the fresh vegetable counters of their supermarkets according to Mike Schultz, president of Western Growers Association.

"We asked our Consumer Relations Department to review the fresh produce ads for a weekend in July, and compared comparable prices for a like period over 10 years," Schultz said.

"We found that, with some variations, fresh vegetables are selling for pretty much the same price they were in 1962."

Tomatoes sell for 29 to 39 cents per pound, just about where they have been for the past 10 years. Sweet corn is up a little at about 9 cents an ear, but it is just about the same as it was four years ago.

"The most remarkable comparisons we found were in the wholesale costs. When we compared the prices vegetable growers are receiving today with 10 years ago, we found out who it is that has really been holding the line against high food costs," Schultz said.

Iceberg lettuce, at about 13 cents a head to the grower, is up a little over the 11.5 cents from last year, but it is lower than it was for most of the decade, and it only recently advanced to that price from a depressed 4.5 cents a head.

Cucumbers bring 25 per cent less to the grower today than ten years ago; celery is down; carrots about the same; cantaloupe and sweet corn are up, but just barely.

Tomatoes are down sharply from last year and are less than the level of 10 years ago for the same period of the season.

California white rose potatoes have remained steady at 4 cents a pound retail for over five years.

"The key to making sure that you are getting the best bargain is to look for the most plentiful fresh vegetables, melons and strawberries. The fresh produce industry is one of the few left which operate on a strict supply and demand basis. When produce is plentiful, it is reasonably priced. This also is the time when the quality is the highest and the produce is the best for you," Schultz said.

"The nutritional value of fresh vegetables is accepted everywhere. Consumers can prove to themselves that it also is a bargain by shopping in the fresh produce section of their markets. They will be surprised at how much they can lower their total food bill by eating more fresh vegetables," he said.

Western Growers is a trade association which represents the fresh vegetable, melon, potato and strawberry industries of California and Arizona.

Nectarines Great With Cookies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Fresh nectarines taste delicious eaten out of hand. But they also are great to serve sliced and slightly sugared with accompanying cookies.

For the cookies you might like to offer Sesame Shortbread. When we made this shortbread at our house all our tasters were enthusiastic about it. But one note: Sesame Shortbread cookies are sweeter than traditional shortbread. This way they talste particularly good with the nectarines.

SESAME SHORTBREAD WITH NECTARINES

1 cup sifted flour
¼ cup sifted cornstarch
¾ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ginger
½ cup butter
3 tablespoons sesame seeds
6 fresh nectarines
¼ cup granulated sugar
Whipped cream, if desired

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour cornstarch, confectioners' sugar, salt and ginger. With your fingers work in butter until mixture holds together.

On a large cookie sheet with a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out dough to a rectangle about 10½ by seven and one half inches. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cut into six squares each three and one half by three and one half inches. Cut each square in half and with a wide metal spatula separate slightly.

Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until a light golden brown — 20 to 25 minutes.

With a wide metal spatula remove to wire rack to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

When ready to serve cut nectarines in half and remove pits; slice and mix with granulated sugar. Top individual portions of nectarines with whipped cream, if used, and accompany with the Sesame Shortbread.

Makes six servings.

HOME PICKLE makers know that the secret to making good pickles is in the seasoning. The amount and kinds of seasoning are a matter of personal taste.

For Good Pickles The Secret Is Seasoning To Suit Taste

Strange it is that so many home pickle makers search for new recipes when all one needs is two or three up-to-date ones. The secret is in the seasoning. Mrs. A and Mrs. B use the same recipe. Both make good pickles, but the flavor is different because each seasons to her own taste.

The only cucumber worth pickling is grown for that purpose, and it is no good unless firm, strictly fresh and blessed with tiny seeds.

Persons involved in scientific research recommend that jars of pickles and relishes be processed (cooked) a few minutes in a boiling-water bath canner. Temperamental may be a strange word to apply to pickles, but that is the way unprocesses ones tend to behave. They may keep one year and spoil the next.

If you haven't been happy with your pickes, you might try our recipe. Do change the amount and kind of seasonings to please your taste, but please don't tinker with the vinegar.

EASY TO MAKE PICKLES

Leave pickles whole or cut into thick slices or "sticks" before canning. If you want them sweeter, add more sugar in installments. Adding too much at a time causes shriveling. If you want two or three more cups of sugar, add about half of it, and let stand a day or two before adding the rest.

For three or four pints of pickes use:

8 or 9 pounds 3 to 5 inch long fresh, firm, pickling cucumbers
¾ cup pure granulated salt
3 cups vinegar of 5 per cent acidity — check bottle lable
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices and 1 large clove of garlic tied in thin piece of cloth to make "spice bag"

For each pint jar of pickle you will need:

1 teaspoon light mustard seed
1 small hot red pepper
1 large or 2 small heads of fresh dill or 2 teaspoons dried dill

Thoroughly wash and drain cucumbers. Watch for and discard blossoms. Put cucumbers in a non-metallic container and cover with brine made by dissolving the three quarters cup salt in four quarts of water. Use dinner plate or glass pie pan to hold cucumbers under brine. Let stand one or two days. Pour the vinegar, sugar, and four and one half cups water into kettle. Add spice bag and let simmer 20 minutes or until well flavored. If using fresh dill, wash it in cool salted water, rinse in plain water and drain. (Omit this step and you may pickle bugs.)

Put mustard seed and dill in jars; add well drained cucumbers to one-half inch of top of jars. Pour boiling hot pickling solution over cucumbers. Solution should come to about one-quarter inch of top of jar. Wipe top and threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight. Process pints 15 minutes, quarts 20 minutes in boiling-water bath. Begin counting the time as soon as jars are placed in the boiling water.

A Hearty Mexican Dish For Big Group

For a kitchen-help-yourself party or a more formal-but-fun buffet supper, with Mexican pottery and accessories to add atmosphere, serve chili beans, south-of-the-border style. It starts with a chili bean recipe, and guests do the rest!

From bowls of shredded lettuce, green pepper rings and thin-sliced sweet onion, shredded cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese, with bowls arranged around a casserole of piping hot chili beans, party-folk serve themselves. First the lettuce, then the green pepper and onion rings, topping these with the hot beans, then a liberal sprinkling of the cheese. Corn chips, ripe olives, a cool beverage, and fruit or a custard-type dessert or sherbet and butter cookies round out this exciting but easy-to-do meal.

SOUTH-OF-THE-BORDER CHILI BEAN PLATE
(12 or more hearty servings)

First step:

2 pounds (4 rounded cups) Idaho Pink, Pinto, or Red Beans soaked in 12 cups (3 quarts) water
1 large whole peeled onion
1 large bay leaf
1 fat clove garlic, thin-sliced

Add onion, bay leaf, garlic to beans and soaking water. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat. Cover tightly. Simmer about two hours or until not quite tender. Remove onion and bay leaf.

Second step: 4 tablespoons oil or chopped suet
1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 cup water, beef stock, or tomato juice
4 teaspoons salt
3 to 4 tablespoons good chili powder
1½ teaspoons ground cumin seed

Brown meat quickly in oil or chopped suet, breaking ground beef into small chunks. Add to beans. Heat liquid in the frying pan to bring up the browning bits and drippings. Stir into beans and meat. Measure salt, three tablespoons of the chili powder, and the cumin into a small dish. Mix to a smooth paste, using some of the liquid from the bean pot. Stir into beans.

Bring to boiling point; reduce heat. Cover tightly and slow-cook for one to one and a half hours. Taste to see if more salt and chili powder are needed. May be made ahead to be heated when needed. Note: if beans need to be thicker, mix two tablespoons or so of flour with a little water until you have a smooth paste. Carefully stir into the beans and cook a few minutes longer over low heat.

Leftover Chili Beans freeze easily. But they will keep several days in the refrigerator, covered well. You may like to make a hot sandwich by heaping on a toasted hamburger bun — half the makings of yesterday's "plate." Sprinkle the hot beans liberally with cheese. Place low under broiler and broil until the cheese is melted.

INVERNESS MUSIC Festival president Carole Berg works in the office of her home in Kentfield. The two telephones on her desk often ring at the same time, and she answers questions about the festival, does the bookkeeping and makes arrangements while her three small children entertain themselves.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

NOT MUCH SLEEP

A Busy Festival President

By JOAN LISETOR

"I sleep three hours a day if I'm lucky. I do my best work between 9 at night and 3 in the morning. I get up at 6:30 or 7 to get two good hours of work done before the phone starts, which works until somebody finds out you get up at 7."

Carole Berg, president of the 1972 Inverness Music Festival, sat at the desk in the office in her home. A roll of paper is on the floor by the desk.

"If I have work to do during the day the children (Mollie, 8, Lisa, 4, and Rivka, 10 months) just pull some paper off the roll and draw pictures," she said.

With most of her efforts going into preparations for the festival, which will be held Aug. 12, 13, 19 and 20 at St. Columba's Church and amphitheater in Inverness, Carole has had to slow down on her other activities, the Environmental Action Committee and Columbia Park Boys Club. But she is involved in the formation of a Marin County Fine Arts Commission and is working on the culture platform for a Marin County supervisorial canidate.

She also is a member of the Marin Symphony Association board of directors and soon after the Inverness Festival will prepare a dinner for 20 which was bought at the last symphony association auction.

ON HER DESK are two telephones: they often ring at the same time. Callers ask for information on the festival. She answers, sends out brochures, sells advertising for the program, arranges fund-raising events, seeks donations, does the bookkeeping, organizes rehearsals, finds staff members and lodging and rides for performers.

"Maybe it's because I live in a central location," she explained.

Last year Mrs. Berg organized a successful campaign to keep Mollie's teacher from being fired from Wolfe Grade School.

"Whatever my activities, the kids are part of it," she said. "I don't take on anything in which the children cannot be involved."

A 10-year resident of Marin, Carole grew up in San Francisco. She began at College of the Pacific as a music major but soon discovered, despite eight years of piano lessons, that she didn't have musical talent, so switched her major to psychology. She graduated with a degree in psychology from University of the Pacific, the school having also made some changes while she as a student.

A year and a half in the graduate school of education at the University of California at Los Angeles followed. She is just short of a master's degree, but will probably forsake it, she said, and if she does further graduate work it will be in law. She hopes to attend Hastings College of Law next year.

"I want to enjoy the baby one more year," she said. "I applied to Hastings nine years ago and made the mistake of telling the dean I was pregnant. He said, 'Out of my office, and go home and take care of the diapers and dishes.' So that was the end of that for awhile, but I'll go back next year."

HER INVOLVEMENT in the festival began two years ago when she made a donation and later discovered the festival at no federal tax exemption. She worked for a year with the Internal Revenue Service getting the non-profit status for the festival and agreed to serve on the board in 1970. She was immediately elected president.

The following year she was unable to accept the presidency because she was pregnant, she explained, so she was elected treasurer. She now is serving her second term as president.

While working on the festival she met Sandor Salgo, director of the Marin Symphony. Through him she became a member of the symphony board. This year, when Fae McNally longtime director of the festival, resigned, Carole asked Salgo to direct the festival.

"I was driving with Sandor the other day and we were discussng music. I told him I liked Johnny Cash, and he said, 'My dear, you have such a sense of humor,'" she said. "I love music. I guess I would not be on the boards if I had the talent to be a musician."

She has discovered in recent years a hidden talent for painting. Her other hobby is cooking, and she said after law school she might like to attend a Cordon Bleu cooking school in France.

CAROLE BERG discovered a talent for art one sleepless night a few years ago. Usually she paints on canvas, but her 8-year-old daugter, Mollie, requested funny animals on her closet door. Four-year-old Lisa has butterflies painted on her walls.

FOUR WHO RETURNED

School And The Over-30 Mother

By LUANNE W. PRYOR
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LONG BEACH — "Going back to school when you're over 30 means you are serious and you really want that education," said Alison Averill, 33, mother of three and one of 3,000 "mature women students" at California State University, Long Beach.

She and her husband, Ted, moved to California nine years ago. Three years ago, Mrs. Averill decided to go back to school.

"When I started back I had to learn how to study all over again," she said. "The kids and Ted had to put up with crazy hours, my running off to the library and my miserable disposition when I had a final coming up.

"My house was a mess," she added, "But I decided that a dusty house wasn't going to matter that much.

"Of course I had to study a lot at night and often early in the morning. I have found, though, that the more I do, the more I can do.

"OUR HOME life is different. Somehow it is more valuable. We've all learned not to dissipate our time so that our activities aren't as frivolous as they used to be."

Another student at the Long Beach campus, Irene Marsi, mother of four, said, "My husband and my children make it possible for me to continue at the university and hold down a job, too."

Mrs. Marsi works daily at a parttime job from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. She already has one degree and is enrolled in an education course.

When asked how she manages all her activities, she answered: "Well, there is the sock that dangles from the chandelier — the result of an ill-aimed hook shot; there are mornings when no one but no one has clean underwear; there is the wrecking of the budget when university fees are due at the beginning of the semester; and there is the planning and organization required so that I can sit down for a relaxed chat with my husband."

She said her children leave for school when their father does. She is always home in the afternoon. The children do a large part of the housekeeping and yard work and, for the most part, do it willingly and cheerfully.

"If they did not," she said, "I simply could not manage it by myself. I have to have time to study."

Jacquelyn Kimmich commutes daily to the campus where she's working toward a master's degree and a junior high school teaching credential.

"LAST YEAR I did my student teaching while taking classes at the university, too. It was rather difficult at times, especially those nights I was up until 3 in the morning studying and grading papers," she said.

Recently divorced and the mother of two girls, Mrs. Kimmich chose school over the business world, where she once was an executive secretary.

"Sometimes the pressure is terrific," she admitted, "and then, on top of it, I have the added responsibility of being a single parent."

She is always home when her girls return from school. They swap stories about the day and then go about their business.

"The girls have activities of their own now," Mrs. Kimmich said, "and that leaves me some time to study. Sometimes, though, I'm washing the kitchn floors pretty late at night. But I don't care. You learn when you return to school that the chores aren't anywhere nearly as important as you once made them out to be."

With graduation just a few months away, Harriet Danufsky said she often feels sad that her college career is almost over.

"I've had the opportunity to do all the things I always wanted to and never could," she said. "I've sung in the college chorus, taken folk dancing, piano, swimming and sailing. Imagine all that, in addition to a full academic schedule."

Mrs. Danufsky will receive a B.A. in English from the university. She has a 3.25 grade point average — around a B-plus.

HER HUSBAND has helped her the most by not applying pressure.

"He doesn't insist upon fancy meals or a perfect house," she said.

However, she is quidk to say that her college career hasn't all been easy.

"One night I took out the typewriter — to write a letter, mind you — and the girls, Shoshana, 9, and Tomar, 7, said, 'Oh, Mom, you aren't going to write another term paper!'"

"What it amounts to," she said, "is that the kids get upset when they think my schooling interferes with them. But on the other hand, they see me as an individual instead of as a servant."

Former Treasurer Elected President Of Marin Hospital Volunteer Branch

Mrs. Robert G. Ballachey of Terra Linda has been elected president of the Poplar Branch of Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

A former treasurer of the organization, she has been a member for 11 years. The branch, through an annual fund raising activity, assists with support for the hospital's Linear Accelerator, cobalt and Nephroscope funds. In addition they have monthly luncheons and plan an annual barbecue for members and their husbands.

Residents of Sleepy Hollow are eligible for membership. Mrs. Ballachey belongs to the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, is Sleepy Hollow Bowling Team president, and honorary member of the Sleepy Hollow Guild of Sunny Hills.

The new president has lived in Marin county for 38 years. Her husband is president of the Elder Construction Supply Company. They have three grown children, Mrs. William Perry, Mrs. Joseph Womack and John Ballachey.

She enjoys playing bridge and belongs to a bridge group, and lists travel and gardening as favorite pastimes.

Other incoming officers are the Mmes. Richard Keith, first vice president; Edna Merideth, second vice president; Arthur Roth, corresponding secretary; Robert Salles, recording secretary, and Robert Bogenreif, treasurer.

Orr, Cunningham Wed In Larkspur Church

Mrs. Margaret Barry Cunningham of Larkspur and Dr. Robert T. Orr of San Francisco were married at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at Redwood Presbyterian Churchin Larkspur. Following the wedding a buffet supper was held at the home of the bride.

The bride is the widow of the late John Robert Cunningham. She was attended by her older daughter, Mrs. David Crittenden, and Miss Virginia Ross. The groom, who is Associate Director of the California Academy of Sciences, was attended by his son in law, Richard A. Davis, and Dr. George E. Lindsay. Dr. Orr's daughter, Nancy Davis, and two granddaughters from Portland attended the wedding. The bride's grandson and twin granddaughters were in the wedding party. Her other children, Mrs. Richard Bacon and James Cunningham, were unable to attend.

Following a brief wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will return to their home in Marin County for several weeks before leaving on a California Academy of Sciences tour of East Africa.

Program To Help Children In Fire

According to national surveys, small children often hide under their beds or in closets instead of evacuating the house when fire breaks out. Consequently, these children suffocate before the firemen have a chance to find them.

"Operation Red Ball" is a program to help save children's lives in the event of fire. With the knowledge and acceptance of the local fire department, the red balls are placed in a window of each child's bedroom. If a fire occurs, the red ball points out where children most liekly can be found and therefore aids in their quick rescue.

Coast Guard To Offer Course In Basic Training For Women

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — For the first time in more than 25 years, the U.S. Coast Guard is embarking on a basic military training course for enlisted women petty officers.

Applicants for enlistment in the Women's Reserve for this specialized program must be between 20 and 35 years of age and able to pass qualifying examinations as well as meet physical standards. Those selected to be SPARs — the Coast Guard's women's corps — will be given ratings as yeomen or storekeepers, commensurate with their secretarial or accounting abilities.

Each SPAR petty officer will immediately be assigned to two weeks intensive schooling at the Coast Guard's Reserve Training Center in Yorktown, Va., during August.

Following the initial familiarization with Coast Guard history, customs and its modern humanitarian missions, the SPARs will be assigned to reserve training units near their homes. One weekend a month these SPARs will assist their units. They will receive additional training during two weeks active duty each year.

The Coast Guard Reserve has recently altered its training concept by placing most of the enlisted reservists at many Coast Guard operational units rather than in classrooms for their weekend drills. This augmentation of regular forces increases the clerical workload at the units, and they are, as a result, seeking women for duty in their administrative forces.

Pucci's Uniforms For Stewardesses

Emilio Pucci, Italian fashion designer, created new uniforms for hostesses of the Braniff International Air Line.

"I could dress hostesses in plastic uniforms," Pucci said in New York, "but they would be automatons. Instead I try to inject a pleasant element on a plane; well-behaved, well-groomed, conveying the presence of a human being. With this kind of look their service is both psychological and spiritual. It conveys a sense of trust. How would people react if the plane's captain appeared in dungarees and a polka dot shirt?"

Miss Howard Grad Of Modeling School

A recent graduate of the Barbizon School of modeling in San Francisco is Mable Howard, daughter of Mrs. Willie Mae Howard of Marin City.

Mable is a student at California State University, San Francisco. She is considering a career in fashion modeling.

Fall Fashion To Feature Pump

This fall fashion has revitalized the pump, both in line and leather treatment. Many new pumps will be standing on a platform sole. Most of these are slim leather-covered platforms, though some are fairly thick.

However, the very deep "Carmen Miranda"-style platform is not being revived. Double soles, two trim platforms together, and a "stacked" platform sole look will be shown.

Dentists Emphasize Plaque Control

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — New signs that dentists are changing their views about tooth care became apparent last week on two fronts.

One was a meeting of 20 dental specialists, health educators and government officials at the headquarters of the American Dental Association in Chicago. Represented at the meeting were the ADA, the American Academy of Periodontology and the U.S. Public Health Service.

The conference was called by the ADA Bureau of Public Information in an effort to help clear up confusion caused by the clash of new attitudes against traditional concepts regarding dental care.

The group drew up a statement emphasizing the central role of plaque in tooth decay and gum disease. Plaque is a sticky, colorless film of bacteria that is constantly building up and attacking tooth enamel and gum tissues, especially where the tooth meets the gum.

After many generations of simplistic campaigns implying that proper tooth care consists of little more than brushing the teeth twice a day and seeing a dentist twice a year, leaders of the profession now want to root out the old slogans and warn the public of their dangers.

BRUSHING IS just not enough to do the job, they say now. Dental floss is also necessary, and so is the use of disclosure dye to identify the plaque.

People who can't find time to brush two or three times a day can now relax. One good thorough cleaning a day may be enough.

The statement released by the dental experts said, "To help prevent dental decay and gum diseases, bacterial plaque should be removed from all tooth surfaces a minimum of once a day. To do this thoroughly, use of dental floss and a toothbrush are necessary.

"For some people, more frequent plaque removal may be recommended by their dentist. Children and decay-prone adults should regularly use a fluoride toothpaste in addition to drinking fluoridated water. The intake of sweets, particularly sweet snacks, should be limited."

The group said it wanted to emphasize that plaque contains bacteria that are harmful and are constantly attacking the teeth and gums. It also wanted to put stress on the use of floss as the best way to clean between teeth where most decay forms.

THE STATEMENT was released a few days before the second annual convention of the American Society for Preventive Dentistry began in Chicago. Some 12,000 people attended the sessions.

Scientific papers and informal talks at the parley underscored the earlier statement on tooth care. Dr. Sumter S. Arnim, dean emeritus of the University of Texas School of Biomedical Sciences, called plaque the Number One culprit of dental disease. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the population in this country suffers from tooth decay or gum disease or both.

Like many dentists today, Dr. Arnim suggests using a soft-bristle brush so that germs near the gums may be removed without injuring the gums. And like many of the new breed of dentists, he urges use of a harmless dye, available at most drug stores, to identify plaque for complete removal daily.

Other speakers praised the value of fluorides in reducing decay and the need for proper nutrition, such as the reduction in intake of sugar and increase in calcium which many people require.

Real Vanilla

Real vanilla is derived from an orchid, "vanilla planifolia." The vanilla flavor is locked in a "bean" which develops when the beautiful flower is pollinated. This bean-like fruit undergoes a long curing process before the vanilla flavor is extracted.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Son, Girl Friend Live Together —Their Visit Will Bring Problem

DEAR HELEN:

I think this is somewhat ridiculous — when can you be completely "sure" of anything in life? But it's their decision and it doesn't bother me. At least, I've accepted it. I like his girl very much and wish she were my real daughter-in-law.

Here's the problem. "Accepting" long distance is one thing, but facing a non-marriage in my own house, where my own child is concerned, is something else. This would be saying to the younger children still at home, "Pre-marital sex is okay." I'm not that modern, or that sure.

Always before when my son has brought his girl home for short visits, they've had separate bedrooms, but now that they've tole me they're openly living together (I haven't told the kids), they'll no doubt expect just one room. Should I play the hypocrite and put them in two?

Actually, it would be so much simpler if our "liberated" offspring were a little less honest so that we could all play the game of "knowing but pretending not to know." KNOWING AND WISHING I DIDN'T

DEAR KAWID:

You won't "play the hypocrite" if you tell your son and his girlfriend your honest reasons for their separate bedrooms. And I'm sure they'll accept them, just as you accept (though you don't understand or wholeheartedly approve) their no-contract partnership.

You aren't avoiding facts when you lay down certain rules in your own home. You're simply saying, "I still vote for marriage." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband admitted to an affair with another woman but told me he ended it. We agreed to forgive and forget, but how can I forget when he still wears the clothes she gave him?

He returned the jewelry, but says it's silly not to use the shirts, ties and pants until they wear out, as she would have no use for them and why throw them away? If he replaced them, he points out, he'd have less money to spend on us.

I know he loves only me now, and she's "past" — and he does need the clothes — but they're constant reminders. Should I make an issue of it? — TRYING TO FORGET

DEAR TRYING:

Why not consider the clothes payment for past miseries? Or warnings that you'll never let it happen again?

If they still bother you, try embroidering your name on the inside labels. And remember, a man is more apt to destroy "reminders" if he is afraid of the past — not over it. — H.

John C. Faustine, Miss Noel Will Wed In Spring

A spring wedding is planned by Mary Cathrine Noel and John Carrillo Faustine, both of San Rafael, whose engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Noel of San Rafael.

Mary is the sister of Bernadette, Margaret Rose and Barney Noel of San Rafael and George and Linda Noel of Novato.

Mrs. Margaret Corcoran of San Francisco is her grandmother. She graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed by Marin Surplus in San Rafael.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faustine of San Rafael are John's parents. He is the brother of Lisa Faustine of San Rafael and Lee and Suzie Faustine of Petaluma. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paulsen of San Rafael are his grandparents.

He also graduated from Terra Linda High School. John is employed by RB Furniture in San Rafael and is a bass player with the Marin Banjo Band.

Fire Safety Instructions

Instruct family members on what to do if clothing should catch fire, the National Safety Council urges. Never run. Running fans the flame and accelerates burning. Always drop into a horizontal position wherever you are. Remaining in a standing position allows flame and smoke to rise upward over the face and to get into the lungs.

Remove clothing if possible. Roll a rug or any other heavy fabric over yourself, or simply roll on the floor or ground. Anything that can smother or extinguish the fire — such as water, sand, or a heavy fabric wrapped around the body — will help to minimize the extent of injury.

Food And Drug Asks Extention

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed that child protection packaging standards be extended to cover all human prescription drugs in oral dosage forms.

"It is apparent from available evidence that orally administered prescription drugs pose a special hazard to children, by the very nature of their availability and present packaging," Commissioner Charles Edwards said.

Under the proposal, prescription drugs for oral administration would have to be packaged with closures having a child-restraint effectiveness of not less than 8 per cent without a demonstration and 80 per cent after demonstration of the proper method of opening the closure.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Good Player Reviews His Mistakes To Avoid Disasters

All bridge players make mistakes. The good players review their blunders in order to ask the vital question: "How could I tell what to do?" If that question is answered satisfactorily, theplayer may avoid making the same kind of mistake the next time he encounters the same kind of problem. Take today's hand, played in the recent World Bridge Olympiad in the match between France and India.

FIRST ACTION

West opened the three of spades, and dummy won with the king. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and queen, cashed the ace of spades and then led the six of clubs toward dummy.

West stepped up with the ace of clubs, rather foolishly, and switched to the deuce of diamonds. East took the king of diamonds and followed with the ace of diamonds. That ended the defense, because declarer could now discard a club on dummy's established jack of diamonds.

SHOULD PLAY LOW

It's easy to see that the defenders could have defeated the contract if West had played a low club when that suit was first led or if East had shifted back to clubs on taking the king of diamonds.

In the other room of this match, in fact, Jean Paul Klotz, of the French team, played a low club with the West cards when South first led that suit. The defenders then easily took two diamonds and two clubs to defeat the contract of four hearts.

"How could I tell that South wasn't leading a singleton club?" West asked when his teammates reproached him for putting up the ace of clubs.

QUITE CLEAR

It was quite clear that South had started with six hearts and two spades. If South had a singleton club, he surely held four diamonds and could not lose more than one club and two diamonds no matter how the defense went.

This kind of careful analysis would show West what to do, but the old rule of "second hand low" would suffice if West didn't want to think too deeply.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - Q J 8 7 2
♥ - 8
♦ - A K 9 4
♣ - J 5 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Most experts would pass this borderline hand, but some would open one spade.

More would open the hand if the jack of clubs were a less doubtful point. For example, East might have three low clubs and a spade suit headed by K-J instead of by Q-J; or he might even have three low clubs and A-K-J-x of diamonds. Either such hand would be more useful than the actual hand.

Streptococcus Is Leading Disease

Streptococcus infections with 74 cases reported was the most prevalent communicable disease reported last week to the Marin County Health Department, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

Thirty four cases of gonorrhea, one case of mumps, and one case of infectious hepatitis were reported during the same period.

MUSIC REVIEW

Gifted Pianist In First Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The debut recital last night of pianist Robert Krupnick showed him to be a gifted and sensitive young musician with considerable technical facility and individuality of style marked by some unusual rhythmic idiosyncrasies.

One of a short series of summer concerts sponsored by the College of Marin theater arts department, the concert was presented at what is now known as the College of Marin Theater III. It was formerly the festival theater on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. At one time a gymnasium, the small theater is good for small productions that would be lost in the college's fine arts theater, and it is especially suited to recitals.

It made possible an intimate atmosphere that was just right for the recital last night with an audience of only 40 to 50 people.

The recital got off to a low start 15 minutes late with the Bach Partita No. 4 in D, a suite of seven parts, mostly ancient dance forms, that took a half-hour to perform. This was too long for an opening number.

Krupnick has the kind of temperament that requires physical expression in much weaving and swaying and other mannerisms and an extraordinary sense of rhythm. The partita was far from purist in style and played with a rhythm that was almost syncopated. Most successful was the final gigue in a fast tempo that allowed no time to linger over accents.

On the plus side, the young pianist played with remarkable digital dexterity with the control of each finger so necessary in Bach, and the result was a sparkling clarity of each note. This effect was enhanced by very little pedal and what little there was tastefully applied.

The same style was carried over into the next number, "Serenade En La" by Stravinsky, making for a somewhat monotonous first half of the program.

In the second half of the program consisting of the Haydn Variations in F Minor and Schubert Sonata in A Minor, Opus 43, rhythmic idiosyncrasies were again evident. Krupnick seems to have an inner compulsion toward a one-two beat or pulse with accent sometimes on the first and sometimes on the second beat. Nevertheless, he did at times produce a smoothly flowing legato in some passages.

In the Shubert sonata the first allegro giusto was too slow for that tempo marking, but the last allegro vivace was beautifully performed in the right tempo with great agility.

Krupnich closed his program with a brief Couperin work as an encore.

He played everything using the music instead of from memory — a practice I do not like in public performance.

Baritone Thomas Bruckner will present the next program in the series Tuesday at 8 p.m. in this theater.

Tracing Of Tippling To Early Teens

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— The results of a 37-year study of problem drinkers show they can be identified by personality traits in their early teens—years before the problem with alcohol surfaces.

Mary Cover Jones, a research associate at the Institute of Human Development at the University of California, said Tuesday the results of her research turned up identifiable traits centered around unstable, unpredictable, impulsive behavior.

Junior high school boys who tend to become problem drinkers in later life show too much emphasis on masculinity, possibly reflecting their concern about the male role, Mrs. Jones said.

Women who drink too much—and there are fewer of them—tend to be depressed, self-negating and distrustful as teenagers, she said.

"In our culture, we tend to protect women from becoming problem drinkers," Mrs. Jones said. "Those who do go overboard tend to be more disturbed."

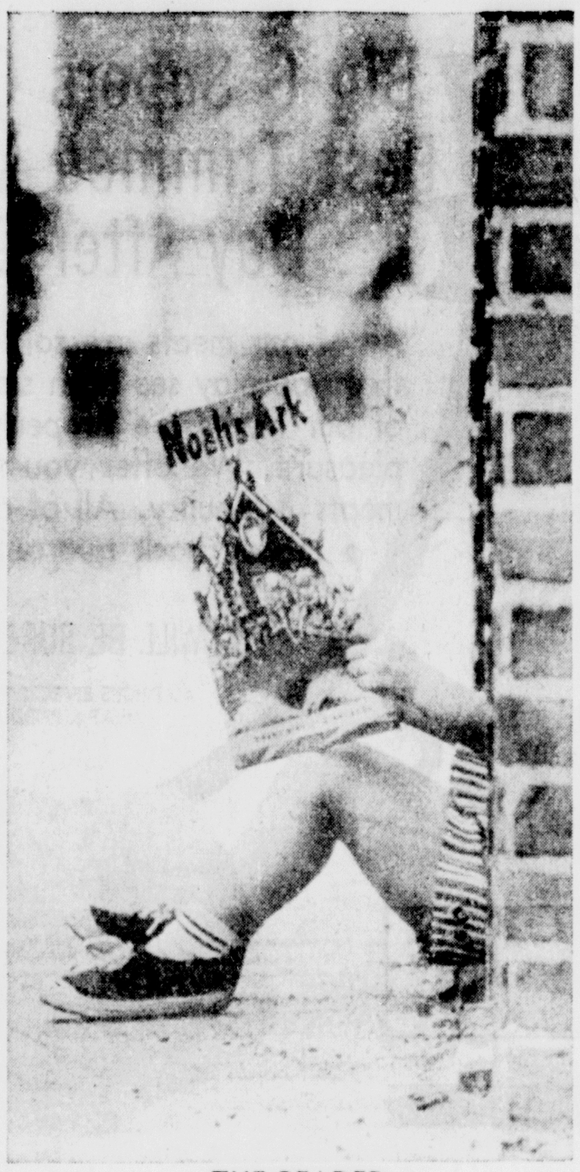
She said fewer girls may become problem drinkers because they often learn to drink under more favorable circumstances.

"Girls more often report taking their first drink at home with the family," she said. "We know from other studies that male problem drinkers report more often taking their first drink away from home to prove manliness or express rebellion, and they tend more often to become drunk on the first occasion."

"We tried to find out if the personality traits known to be associated with problem drinkers were a product of their drinking habits, or if the traits existed efore compulsive drinking began," Mrs. Jones said.

"We learned that the traits preceded the drinking."

She said prediction of later drinking problems from personality characteristics may point the way to mental health approaches that would help reduce irresponsible use of alcohol.



THE READER

Sometimes it's difficult to find a quiet place to read. This girl, though, found her spot in a window well of an Englewood, N.J., school. Maybe her thoughts are on the start of school which, once again, begins next month.

Films On Houseboats Set Friday, Saturday

"The Youniversal Joint Effort" and "Waldo Point," two houseboat films, will be shown at 8 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Sausalito Art Center, 630 Nevada Street.

"Joint Effort," by Dian Allen and Seth Hill, is a documentary depicting a young couple's attempt to build a houseboat out of salvaged materials. "Waldo Point," which won awards at the Monterey and Ann Arbor film festivals, is the story of a Sausalito houseboat community which forms a "people's navy."

$1 Million Hijackers May Not Gain Asylum

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian authorities have impounded the record $1 million ransom brought here by the air pirates who hijacked a Delta passenger jet from Miami, an Information Ministry official said today.

The official said the money, in $50 and $100 notes, was "in a safe place" and that Algerian government officials would now decide whether to hand it back to Delta Airlines. "It is under seal," he said.

There was still no official word if Algeria would grant political asylum to the seven black hijackers—three men, two women, and two children.

They were whisked away to an unknown destination after conferring with Algerian officials at the airport where the commandeered DC8 jet made a safe landing Tuesday morning.

Members of the exiled Black Panther group here said they feared for the welfare of the hijackers, who apparently requested asylum after handing over the ransom in a blue suitcase to armed Algerian officials.

"We are concerned about the welfare of our comrades," Peter O'Neill, director of the Algiers "International Section" of the Black Panther party, said.

The United States called for the return of the hijackers as well as the money, and a Panther official in New York said she was informed the Algerians were "seriously considering" meeting the first request.

As for the return of the ransom, Alan Davis, U.S.Mission chief in Algiers said, "We have high hopes they'll do the right thing."

When two young hijackers diverted a Western airliner to Algiers June 3, the government handed over the $500,000 ransom to the airlines but let the hijackers live with the Panthers pending investigation of a political asylum request.

Asked if he had an idea of the whereabouts of the latest hijackers, O'Neill replied "None whatsoever. We were there (at the airport), but we were not allowed to talk with them."

He called for the hijackers, identified as Detroit members of the Black Liberation Army, military arm of the Panthers, to be treated with respect.

The Delta DC8 crew of four men and three hostesses stayed in Barcelona, Spain, Tuesday night before a scheduled morning departure for home. Capt. William May of Miami, Fla., said he and his crew were under orders not to discuss the hijacking.

Spanish police ringed the plane after it landed in Barcelona Tuesday afternoon from Algiers and let no one except airline and consular officials get closer than 300 yards.

The air pirates took control of the plane Monday night over Florida, picked up the ransom and released the passengers in Miami, then forced the flight to Algiers by way of Boston.

Highway Work Slated For 101

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways. Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Waldo Grade, northbound near Marin City, inside lane closed 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for guard rail work.

2. Near Greenbrae, near Sir Francis Drake off-ramp, northbound outside lane closed 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for slab removal.

3. South of Cotati, northbound between Railroad Avenue and Sierra Avenue, outside lane closed 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for slab removal.

Russians Share Cancer Chemical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of American cancer specialists has returned from the Soviet Union with Russian chemicals that may be helpful in treating cancer.

Elliot L. Richardson, the secretary of Health Education and Welfare, reported the development Tuesday.

Richardson said the chemicals have been tested and tried by Soviet scientists and "are new to us and seem to have promise."

Four Marinites On Colorado Honor List

Four students from Marin County have been named to the President's Honor List at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.

The students are Danuta P. Rylko of Greenbrae, Donna J. Dorward of Kentfield, Ann Elliott of Ross and Michael J. Slottow of Tiburon.

BART Real Estate Has Earned $4.4 Million

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Bay Area Rapid Transit's real estate operations have earned it $4.4 million so far, directors were told Tuesday.

District real estate manager Wallace D. Mersereau said that figure should rise to $7.6 million by the end of the current fiscal year.

The real estate income comes from sales and leases of property which, after original negotiations or because of subsequent changes in plans, BART found it did not need for its own rapid transit system.

For example, a piece of land only 75 feet square above part of BART's subway at Ninth and Webster Streets in Oakland was leased for 55 years at a starting rate of $275 a month, subject to periodic future reappraisals, Mersereau said. The same piece of land, if sold today, would be worth only $40,000, BART directors were told. Lease income at the beginning rate would return $181,500 over the period of the lease.

Mersereau said the district still has 20 more pieces of property that should be leased this year for another $200,000 of annual income, and another 200 parcels are expected to be sold by mid-1973, for an additional $3 million.

Four Marinites Called By Draft

Four men were inducted into the armed services in July by the Marin Selective Service Board, executive secretary Joy M. Kinzer reported today.

Forty six men had been ordered to report for induction July 19.

Mrs. Kinzer said 20 of these failed to report, one refused induction, five were canceled, nine were rejected after physical examinations, two delayed pending physicals, two postponed, one reordered and two enlsited.

Names of those who failed to report or who refused induction were withheld pending possible court action.

The four men inducted were Jacque London and Robert Vogensen of Novato, Russell Hecht of San Rafael and Ricky Kafka of Corte Madera.

Would-Be Customer In Long Road Test

A most finicky customer showed up at Stan Wisnes GMC-Honda at Fourth and E streets in San Rafael yesterday and insisted upon road-testing a car he said he wanted to buy.

According to police, neither the customer nor the bright orange Mustang he took with him have returned from the test run.

VINEYARD NEAR HAMILTON

Bringing Back A Bit Of Old Marin

By JEFF GREER

With jets roaring overhead and freeway traffic nearby, Herbert Rowland Sr. is toiling to restore some of Marin's gracious past.

Rowland has planted 1,200 grapevines, with an eye toward Cabernet Sauvignon wine, on acreage almost opposite the main gate of Hamilton Air Force Base. The vineyard is planned to grow around two sides of the elegant Victorian mansion built in the 1880s by Gumesindo Pacheco, Rowland's grandfather.

Rowland — if the weather, tax officials and deer cooperate — expects to market his first crop next summer. Already the bright green vines are boasting fat clusters of grapes, but there won't be enough of a harvest this year to interest the vintners in buying, Rowland said.

Only one other true vineyard exists in Marin — on the steep slopes on Quail Hill above Northgate shopping center. Deer and grass fires have dealt it severe blows.

Rowland has built an eight-foot-high chain link fence around his vineyard, and takes great care to see that the big gate to his driveway always is closed.

"The deer come right down the road here to check out that gate about three times a week," Rowland said, chuckling and puffing on an old briar pipe.

Rowland, his wife and son Herbert Jr. toiled in the hot sunshine over the weekend to water the young vines, hauling water by tractor from an old spring.

Once the vines mature, "I won't give them any more water . . . the grapes will be better," Rowland explained. He said he chose Cabernet grapes after much discussion with such wine experts as Louis Martini, and help from the county farm adviser in picking a variety suited to Ignacio's weather.

Hamilton Air Force Base weather records for more than three decades helped in the decision, Rowland noted. "We almost never get frost here," he said.

It's not the first time grapes have grown next to the mansion. "My grandfather had a couple acres of grapes" at the base of the hill west of the home, Rowland explained. Gumesindo Pacheco also had a large experimental orchard with "apples, pears, lemons, oranges, you name it," his grandson said. Most of the orchard was wiped out by highway land acquisitions.

A gnarled, 20-foot lemon tree beside the driveway still produces thin-skinned, juicy lemons that intrigue experts at University of California at Davis. They have no name for the variety. The Rowlands believe the tree to be at least 80 years old, like the towering Norfolk pine and other ornamental trees that shadow the big old mansion.

The mansion, its vineyard and the horse pastures on the steep, oak-studded slopes above, are in danger of being engulfed by the City of Novato. Other, adjoining portions of former Pacheco family holdings are scheduled for residential development. Rowland wants to keep his home and acreage as open space and a reminder of Marin as it was in his grandfather's time.

The fate of the vineyard, according to Rowland, depends on whether the county assessor agrees to designation of the land as open space and allows the correspondingly lower assessment than for residential land.

The house itself is full of history. When it was constructed of heavy redwood about 90 years ago, it was expected to cost between $3,500 and $4,000, but actually cost nearer $6,000, according to yellowed newspaper clippings of the day. Gumesindo Pacheco's new two-story home was one of the first in Marin with two indoor bathrooms.

"The electrician almost went crazy" wiring the house, Mrs. Rowland said. "He said there was enough lumber in the walls to build two more houses.'" The home originally was lighted with gas lamps burning carbide gas such as miners' lamps once used. The Rowlands were unable to find any of the old gas fixtures, which were ripped out when electricity first was installed prior to World War I.

But they did find in the attic two brass and glass oil lamps that now grace the high ceilings of two sitting rooms. They blended perfectly with Victorian furniture that originally furnished the mansion or was collected by Mrs. Rowland.

Many mementos of the mansion's first owner have gone into museums, including the purple and white racing silks the Pacheco jockeys wore on Bay Area racetracks. Gumesindo was married to a daughter of the Tanforan family, who owned much land on the San Francisco Peninsula. Pacheco was a county supervisor for some 14 years.

Pacheco's stables were west of the mansion and a training track was located on what now is the air base.

The Rowlands also no longer have any original portraits of Ignacio Pacheco, Gumesindo's father and pioneer Marin landowner.

But the whole Rowland family is steeped in the history and charms of early Marin, and determined to see them preserved in their home, Rowland and his wife said. The grapes are one way of keeping the old days alive.

CABERNET, SOMEDAY — Herbert Rowland examines some of the grapes he has planted in hopes of returning vineyards to Marin County.

WATERING TIME — Mrs. Herbert Rowland drives a tractor hauling a watering tank through the carefully tended grapevines growing opposite Hamilton Air Force Base. In the background, the elegant Gumesindo Pacheco mansion, now the Rowlands' home, is seen above a high, dense cedar hedge.

Dixie School Adopts $5,266,938 Budget

Dixie School District board last night adopted its fiscal 1972-73 budget of $5,266,938 after a public hearing at which no member of the public appeared.

The budget total is made up of $4,799,000 total expenditures plus a reserve of $467,938, and requires a tax rate of $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation, the same as the rate for 1971-72.

Dist. Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the budget includes provisions for 13 fewer teachers than the current year and one less administrator, due to continued dropping enrollment within the district.

Board members spent considerable time discussing the district's decentralized budget for schools, reported Supt. Campbell. Under this system, unique in elementary schools, principals of individual schools are allocated funds to spend on specialized teachers, field trips, supplies, conferences and projects.

The decentralizing system, whicp allocates approximately $450,000 to the district's ten schools, was judged eminently successful, he said.

Fairfax School Budget Expected To Trim Tax

Fairfax School District trustees last night adopted a budget for 1972-73 totaling $1,308,114, following a final public hearing.

Although the budget is higher than last year's $1,186,279, reduced override costs and an increasej tax base are expected to trim a few cents from the property tax rate, according to Gwyneth R. McGee, secretary to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

Last year's tax rate was $3.93 per $100 assessed valuation.

The final tax rate will be computed by the county auditor after the state delivers the assessment roll for public utilities in the district later this month.

The Fairfax School District Board Also:

BIDS — Awarded a contract to build a new, prefabricated district warehouse behind the district offices at 58 Park Road. Low among five bidders was Romac-Pacific Co. of San Rafael, with a total bid of $14,616.

TRACTOR — Opened three bids for a tractor for the district and awarded the contract to the low firm, Central California Equipment Co. of Delano.

DELEGATE — Seconded other Marin school district boards in nominating Sally Ann Rakow of Ross as delegate to the California School Boards Association.

ROOF — Received a report that rock patterns are being tested on the roof of Manor School. The white roof — designed to cut down heat in the classrooms — had brought complaints of glare from hillside neighbors above the school.

Law Books Are Source For Humor

VANCOUVER (AP) — Gouging humor out of the law is like digging for gold — tough but rewarding, says David Huberman, professor of law at the University of British Columbia.

He's devoted years to sifting out what little humor there is in the mills of justice and plans to write a book about it.

At one time he was chairman of admissions to the UBC law faculty and he recalled a couple of answers to admission questions, turned in by law students and student accountants.

Question: Define union check-off dues.
Answer: "A famous European author."
Question: "Define a quorum."
Answers: "A place for crushing rock." "A place where the Romans used to sacrifice the Christians." "For a quorum, the directors have to be odd."

"If you really want to laugh," he said, "you'd better remember that some of these people might be your lawyers, your accountants."

Prof. Huberman also has a file devoted to letters addressed to lawyers. One says:

"Thank you for offering to represent me in court, but I don't need a lawyer. I'm going to tell the truth."

$1,000 Settlement In Kennedy Shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ira M. Goldstein, a reporter wounded in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, accepted a $1,000 settlement of his suit against the Ambassador Hotel.

Goldstein was hit in the left leg by a bullet in the barrage of shots that cut down Kennedy at the hotel on June 5, 1968. Goldstein, covering Kennedy for the Continental News Co., sued for $250,000, charging the hotel failed to provide protection for Kennedy and those around him.

The suit was to have gone to trial this month.

Magazine Advertising Up Over Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The first four months of 1972 saw magazine advertising revenue up 8 per cent over the same period a year ago, according to the Magazine Publishers Assn.

Stephen E. Kelly, president of the association, said this was the largest January-to-April revenue in magazine history. He said the number of advertising pages for the same period totaled 25,738, up 852 pages, or 3 per cent. The revenue figure was $394,745,864, a gain of $30,674,167 over '71.

Tax Election Conflict Hits School Board

The Petaluma Board of Education last night heard conflicting recommendations on whether to call another tax rate increase election.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said teacher organizations recommended the board try another election, saying it would probably be the only way the district will get the money it needs for operation.

Meyer said that lay organizations, however, advised against another election predicting it would fail as two others have. They said they would join the educators in urging the state legislature to pass the revised school finance bill to increase state support for local school districts.

Meyer said the board also received a petition with 300 names calling for an increase in psychological services for students if additional state funds are received.

Representatives of the Northern District advisory board urged the board to use extra funds to resume busing services for students at Penngrove School. They said narrow country roads in the area would make walking to school very dangerous for children.

American Tourists Are In For Treat

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Americans who visit Florence this summer will have the opportunity to enjoy a view of the most comprehensive exhibition ever staged of the works of Henry Moore, widely regarded as the world's greatest living sculptor.

Fifty years of Moore's productive effort — including 160 sculptures and 100 drawings dating from 1922 to 1971 selected by the artist himself — have been assembled and transported with infinite effort (considering their size and value) by the Commune of Florence and are magnificently displayed on the lawns and terraces and within the palace of the historic Forte di Belvedere.

Teacher Job Ruling Held Unconstitutional

CINCINNATI (UPI)—It is unconstitutional to make pregnant public school teachers take an extended leave of absence from their jobs, a federal appeals court has ruled.

Two Cleveland teachers had contested the regulation of the Cleveland Board of Education that pregnant teachers quit classroom work at least five months before childbirth and not resume instruction for at least three months after giving birth.

Meeting Set To Discuss Civilian Use Of Base

The Marin County Aviation Commission deferred action last night on a proposed plan for joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base pending completion of a study by the county planning and public works departments.

Commission Chairman William W. Schwarzer said today a special meeting has been tentatively set for Aug. 29 to consider the staff study.

The study, which deals with the environmental impact of joint use among other things, is to be considered by the county planning commission Aug. 28.

A preliminary draft of the study indicates the county planning department has no serious objection to limited civilian use of the air base (20 flights per day) but recommends the matter be studied further with an eye on long-range projections.

Schwarzer said his commission will meet earlier than Aug. 29 if the study is finished earlier than expected.

Joint use of the air base has stirred controversy for years and lately has prompted protest from some Novato residents who say the city should have a voice in joint-use planning.

Other residents and groups oppose civilian use of the air base as promoting noise and air pollution.

Jury Fails To Reach Verdict In Shooting Of Two Cousins

A jury in Marin Superior Court failed to reach agreement yesterday on whether William Jerry Williams, 45, of no fixed address, was guilty of shooting two cousins during a San Rafael bar argument last March.

Judge E. Warren McGuire declared a mistrial after it was reported the jury was hung 10 to two after two days of deliberation. It was not reported whether the majority favored conviction or acquittal.

Williams was accused of shooting Harvey M. McGuire, 23, of Ohio, and his cousin, James R. McGuire, 29, of Kentucky during a disagreement which took place at the Fleur De France Tavern on March 6.

Both men recovered from their wounds.

Williams has served time in a federal prison for the 1969 robbery of the Point Reyes Station branch of the Bank of America.

He is to return to court Aug. 14 for resetting of his case.

Sesame Street Has Started In Poland

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sesame Street" has gone behind the Iron Curtain for the first time.

The prize-winning television show for preschoolers, which is already being seen in nearly 50 English-speaking countires, is being viewed this year in experimental showings in Poland and Yugoslavia, where the titles are translated "Ulica Sezama," and "Sessam Ulica," respectively.

The national television networks of both countries superimpose occasional brief narration over the English sound track to set the stage for various scenes, but the shows are otherwise unchanged from the form in which they were first seen in the U.S.

Jobless List For Major Cities Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The list of major U.S. cities with substantial unemployment of 6 per cent or more declined by one to 53 during July.

It matched the lowest point in the past 15 months, a Labor Department report showed Monday.

Dropped from the list when their jobless rates fell below 6 per cent last month were Canton and Youngstown-Warren, Ohio. However, Boston was added when its unemployment rate went over the mark.

Scholar Is Studying Yiddish Relationship

NEW YORK (AP) — An Irish scholar is studying Yiddish at Yeshiva University to determine whether there is any relation between the fate of the Irish language and the trend in usage of Yiddish in the United States.

"There has been a clearly discernible trend in America for the Yiddish-English bilingual (person) to abandon Yiddish in favor of English," says Alan J. Hudson, the Irish scholar.

"In Ireland a similar development has been occurring; that is, the adoption of English over the Gaelic language."

The scholar says, "I would like to expand this investigation into the history and current status of the Irish language situation with a view to helping formulate national language policy."

The student, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, of Baile Atha Cliath, Ireland, has been doing graduate work here since 1968.

Col. Williams Is Retired At Presidio

Col. Robert C. Williams of 62 Calypso Shores Novato, retired from the Army this week after 30 years of military service.

In ceremonies at the Presidio of San Francisco Thursday, he received the Legion of Merit for service as Deputy Chief of Public Affairs, Sixth U.S. Army and was honored at a Retreat Honor Guard ceremony.

Williams began his military career as an aviation cadet in 1942.

During World War II, he flew 51 combat missions as a bombardier and received two Distinguished Flying Cross awards and six awards of the Air Medal.

During the Korean War, he served with the 65th Infantry Regiment of the 3rd Infantry Division.

He also has served as chief of protocol, United Nations Command and U.S. Forces Korea, and planner and management analyst in the Office of the Army Chief of Staff in the Pentagon.

Playground Trip To Reef Planned

The San Rafael Playground Program has scheduled a trip to Duxbury Reef off Bolinas Beach for Aug. 10, according to Tina Slosky, program aide.

Other events planned are a "splash day" on Aug. 15, a trip to a San Francisco Giants' game on Aug. 16 and an overnight campout at Headland State Park on Aug. 17 and 18.

She said information on the program is available at the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, city hall.

Here's a really clean one-owner little Volkswagen squareback station wagon that we just took in trade on a new Buick Skylark.

Retired Marin couple originally took delivery in Europe and toured for over a year before returning home. Clean as a whistle inside and out. A real buy at this price. Kelley blue book shows this wagon should sell for over $1400 but we'll sell for only $895. ZIW 349.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 10 a.m., Tuesday, August 22, 1972, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for the installation of approximately 3,770 lineal feet of various size pipe, fittings, valves and appurtenances, fire hydrants and service connections. The work to be done lies in various city streets, roads and rights-of-way all located in the cities of Belvedere and Tiburon, Marin County, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) per cent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Bond Project No. 7" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

3 Youths Jailed In Sniper Killing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three teen-agers were arrested today in connection with the death of a carpenter who was hit by a sniper's bullet while repairing a roof.

Jerry Sowers, 36, was working with two other carpenters Tuesday on the roof of a home that had been gutted by arson.

After the shooting nearly 200 police hunted for the sniper and found a number of empty 22-caliber shell casings in a nearby yard.

Officers were refused permission to search the house and returned later with a warrant. Inside they confiscated two .22-caliber revolvers.

When Donald R. Ballard, 18, returned to the home with two juvenile companions after a swimming excursion at the beach, all were arrested and booked on suspicion of murder.

The victim's two fellow workers, Webster Knox, 45, and John Wagner, 58, told police they heard a series of sharp noises and remarked that it sounded like firecrackers popping.

"It sounds like shots to me," they quoted Sowers.

The men said a moment later Sowers staggered and fell, saying "I've been shot" just before he died from a bullet wound in the back.

Sounding Board Schedule Set

Whether the level of flouride in the Marin municipal water supply should be raised will be discussed tomorrow at 9 a.m. on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program.

Dentists John T. Smith and G. A. Darling will speak in favor of flouridation and opposed will be Dr. Stephen A. Duff, a former member of the Marin County Pure Water Committee, and Wynn Westover, a scientist who at one time did research for the United States Public Health Service.

Questions may be phoned during the broadcast which will be repeated by tape-recording, Sunday at 10:05 a.m.

FAA Announces Hijack Measures

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Aviation Administration, declaring an emergency exists, has ordered airlines to search any passenger who fits the "profile" of a hijacker.

The FAA also said it plans to begin Monday placing metal detecting devices that will eventually protect 9,000 air terminal gates.

The search order Tuesday followed the year's 28th hijacking, in which five adults and three children commandeered a Delta Airlines plane and demanded a record $1 million ransom.

There were 27 hijackings in 1971.

FAA Administrator John Shaffer said in a statement:

"Because of the continuing menace of air piracy and other crimes aboard aircraft and because of the serious nature of this threat to the safety of persons and property. I find that an emergency exists requiring immediate action."

Shaffer said airlines will be required to prevent from boarding a plane any ticket holder who fits the FAA's "security profile" unless he submits himself and his luggage to a search.

FAA officials have refused to disclose what constitutes the profile, but a spokesman said Tuesday that, "We don't rely on the fact that someone thinks a guy looks sneaky."

The metal detectors will be coupled with the searches and the profiles to increase security measures, Shaffer said.

The detectors will be installed first at the busiest airports. They will be placed at the remaining air terminals after Congress approves about a $3.5 million bill to pay for them, Shaffer said.

The FAA had to move ahead on the detectors because of the slowness of airlines in taking the protective step unilaterally. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has asked the airlines to cooperate in the past.

Fruit Rots In Port As Strike Continues

LONDON (UPI)—Fruit vendors at London's Covent Garden displayed signs saying: "Yes, we have no bananas today."

Bananas and other fruit began rotting in the holds of hundreds of idled ships. In the Channel Islands farmers discarded tons of tomatoes. But West German wine flowed into the country.

Government sources said Tuesday Prime Minister Edward Heath's administration has decided to proclaim a state of emergency if no end to Britain's six-day-old longshoremen's strike is in sight within a week.

The sources said the decision does not mean the government is seriously alarmed about essential food supplies. They said the decision was "precautionary" because of the coming parliamentary recess.

Employment Secretary Maurice MacMillan told Parliament Tuesday: "The docks stoppage is a very serious and damaging problem. But it is not yet a disaster—and don't let us pretend it is so."

But the National Federation of Fruit and Potato Trades said the supply of perishable food is rapidly dwindling. A spokesman said most vendors at Covent Garden sold their last banana today and supplies of the fruit would run out in other shops Thursday. Grapes and oranges were expected to run out by the end of the week.

A state of emergency would give the government powers to use troops to unload ships, control food prices, conserve food supplies and requisition transport to move esential goods.

Britain's 42,000 longshoremen walked out to back demands for guarantees they will handle all cargo unloading and loading at the nation's growing number of container depots.

The Ministry of Agriculture said huge quantities of fruit are close to rotting in the holds of about 600 cargo ships idled by the strike.

In the Channel Island of Guernsey, heavily dependent on British markets for its farm produce, 240 truckloads of tomatoes have been dumped on a rubbish heap because growers have been unable to ship them to British ports.

But at London's Tilbury docks, longshoremen unloaded thousands of gallons of wine from West Germany Tuesday when experts warned that it would soon start giving off gas and could explode unless it went to bottling sellers in London.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Fate Of Milk Depends On Sterilization And Refrigeration

Milk properly refrigerated keeps its flavor and stays fresh longer. It takes more than six hours for pasteurized milk to sour at room temperature (72 or more degrees Fahrenheit). Milk delivered to homes, schools, or restaurants usually arrives at its destination at about 40 degrees.

The fate of milk depends upon sterilization and refrigeration. Pasteurization reduces the bacterial content of raw milk by 97 to 99.9 per cent. Modern dairies are sanitary and most milk is of high quality. The bacteria that remain grow slowly and take at least six hours to multiply sufficiently at room temperature to induce souring. The majority of these organisms are not harmful to man and are well tolerated.

These germs do not reproduce when milk is chilled, but they are not killed. The critters start increasing in number when the milk warms. Therefore, the longer the container is kept out of the refrigerator, the sooner it loses flavor and palatability, and it sours.

HOMEMAKERS SHOULD keep in mind that refrigerators vary; some are warmer than the recommended 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit. In addition, every time the door is opened, the temperature rises.

The situation changes when bacteria, such as streptococci or staphylococci, get into the milk after the container has been opened. They are deposited by breathing on or coughing over the milk or touching it with contaminated fingers. These microorganisms also increase in number when the milk is warm and hibernate when the milk is cold. They become a threat when they multiply enough to induce food poisoning.

WHAT HAS BEEN said of milk applies also to other dairy products. Butter, cheese, ice cream, fresh evaporated milk, and dry milk must be handled properly by producer, merchandiser, and housewife. Evaporated and dry milks last much longer, but once the can is opened or the dry milk is liquefied, the product ought to be refrigerated.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

HEART AWARENESS

N. L. writes: Since recovering from a heart attack, the slightest touch on the left side of my body gives me creeping chills. Is this sensation related to the heart condition.?

REPLY

Only in that the attack has made you extremely conscious of your heart. The symptom is not cardiac in origin and pressure will not cause further damage to the old ticker.

STANDING ON THE HEAD

A reader writes: Is it true that standing on the head would help a person whose hair is thinning out?

REPLY

No. Improving the circulation to the scalp does not stop the balding process. And more important, standing on the head does not necessarily improve the circulation.

EATS FROZEN FOOD

S. S. writes: My sister, who is 21 years old, constantly eats frozen foods, such as orange juice, frozen strawberries, and all kinds of ices. Is there any harm in eating items that have not been thawed or reconstituted?

REPLY

No, provided the cold does not lead to gastrointestinal distress.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Man Recovers After Accident

A man from New York City was injured at 7:10 a.m. yesterday on Shoreline Highway, about 1,200 feet south of the Green Gulch Ranch, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Robert D. Russell, 26, was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital after being treated for a broken ankle, bruises and a cut face.

According to the highway patrol, his car ran off the road, skidded over an embankment and rolled over.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Penal Institution Proposals Cleared

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A four-bill package designed to upgrade the training and status of correctional officers in California was given final legislative approval Tuesday by the Senate.

The package was sent to the governor after its author, Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, declared "this legislation is long overdue and sorely needed."

The keystone proposal would create a state Commission on Correctional Manpower Development to regulate the training and qualifications of correctional employes in local and state facilities. It was approved on a 23-0 vote without debate.

But a second measure, which appropriates $450,000 to set up a training program for prison personnel, was criticized by one senator before winning 31-4 approval.

"You are going to have a dissension problem in the ranks of correctional officers if you pass this bill," warned Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia.

He charged the bill does not guarantee that the 300 persons to be appointed by the Department of Corrections to supervise the training would come from the ranks of correctional officers.

"It opens the way for college graduates with social-welfare backgrounds to become supervisors instead of correctional officers who have the experience," Richardson said.

The other bills appropriate $175,000 to the California Youth Authority to create a training program for its personnel and require the authority and the Department of Corrections to set up a joint training program. They were approved on 34-0 and 25-0 votes, respectively.

CUTS COUNCIL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —With some reluctance, the Senate has approved a bill replacing the 30-member, part-time California Council on Criminal Justice with a full-time, five-member board.

Republicans, led by Sen. George Deukmejian of Long Beach, defended the current council but said passage of the measure was crucial because of tricky lacguage in the 1972-73 budget.

The language, composed by the legislature's budget conference committee, states that if the council is not replaced, the entire California crime control program would be scuttled.

With only one vote to spare, the measure by Assemblyman Robert D. Crown, Alameda, was approved on a 22-13 vote and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

FATHER AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The all-male Senate has passed a measure making it easier for fathers to secure custody of their children in divorce cases.

Current law provides that the mother will become the guardian instead of the father, if "other things" are equal.

Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, noted Tuesday that the law makes it extremely difficult for a father to keep his children unless he proves that his ex-wife would be a totally incompetent guardian.

Under the bill by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa, Moscone said the court would make the decision on which parent would keep the offspring on the basis of which person could make the better home for the child.

TEEN CHECKS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has narrowly passed a bill allowing teen-agers to obtain contraceptives without parental consent.

The measure by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was sent to the Assembly Tuesday night on a 21-17 vote, the bare minimum required. Similar versions of the proposal have been vetoed twice by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Beilenson's bill allows minors determined by a doctor to be "sexually active" to obtain pills and other birth control devices without consent of their parents.

WORKERS DROP

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Water Resources Director William R. Gianelli reports civil service work for the department has been reduced more than 40 per cent since 1967 as construction of the State Water Project nears completion.

Gianelli announced Tuesday that the number of civil service employes was cut by 412 during the last fiscal year, bringing to 1,859 the reductions made since 1967 to coincide with the decreasing Water Project workload.

At the peak staffing level in July, 1967, the department had 4,476 employes.

PRISON MAIL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill designed to insure that convicts have the right to engage in personal correspondence was defeated by the Senate Tuesday after an opponent argued it was a matter prison authorities should decide.

The Senate refused on a 10-15 vote to accept Assembly amendments to the measure by Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, who said the proposal would "allow prisoners to correspond with their friends in a humane fashion."

A two-house conference committee will be named in an effort to iron out differences.

PHONE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has unanimously passed a bill requiring cities and towns to establish 911 emergency telephone systems.

Under the 911 systems, a person needing emergency assistance by police, firemen or other rescue officials could dial the telephone number 911 and be connected almost instantly to the proper authority.

A person dialing for help from a phone booth also would not be required to deposit a dime to call the 911 number.

Stinson Fire Board Will Have Survey

The Stinson Beach Fire Protection District board agreed yesterday, at a special meeting, to pay up to $3,500 for a survey of the Stinson Beach water Company's distribution facilities, properties and rates.

Commissioners John L. Jones said the study will be made by the Marin Municipal Water District which has been asked by several community organizations to take over operation of George P. Leonard's water company.

The fire district and other groups, including the Stinson Beach County Water District, favors the sale because the water company system does not have enough water pressure to provide adequate fire protection.

Leonard has offered to sell the firm to the water district for approximately $100,000, cost of improvements made to the system since he purchased it in 1956.

'n May, Marin Municipal di- ctors said the district could t consider the purchase until tudy of the system had been npleted. It was first thought at the county water district would pay for the survey, but Jones said it has since been determined that the fire district is better able to pay the cost since the water district has many outstandin debts for plans for a proposed sewage disposal system for Stinson.

Workers Back On Job In Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP) — Settlement of a 21-day city employees strike, which idled 400 persons and left streets lined with garbage, has been announced by negotiators for the city council.

Members of three striking unions reported back to work today, city officials said.

Mayor Warren Widener said yesterday that wage increases for striking garbage collectors, meter maids, park and public works employees, health and librarian workers and city electricians will cost between $500,000 and $750,000.

Union spokesman Paul Varacalli said the 250-member United Public Employees Local 390 voted 7-1 yesterday to approve the proposed settlement.

He saidthe monthly income of union members ranges from $600 to $1,000 and the settlement averages a 6 per cent increase. Pay for garbage collectors will be boosted to $837 a month nd $892 for drivers.

City negotiators said a $67.50 raise for refuse collectors was designed to bring them in line with employees "doing comparable work in neighboring communities."

The pact provides a $45 monthly pay hike for most other city employees. Librarians get a $32.50 monthly increase, and electrical workers get $48.

The raises are retroactive to July 1 in a one-year contract.

Under the contract, part-time workers will receive fringe benefits for the first time.

State GOP To Go After The Young 'Blue Collars'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A group of California Republicans have launched a voter registration drive aimed at capturing the "blue collar" youth vote to help reelect President Nixon.

Leaders of the Young Voters for the President also declared at a news conference Tuesday that Sen. George McGovern is losing his "Pied Piper" hold on the youth vote and predicted many college students would support Nixon in November.

But Tom Hayden, chairman of the group, said the organization would focus its registration effgrt on the working, nonstudent youth vote.

"That's the only thing that's left," Hayden said. "Most of the students on the campuses are registered."

Hayden, 31, a Los Angeles film producer, also said nonstudents "more easily identify with the President because they are concerned about the economy and taxes."

Kent Clemence, 21, University of Southern California student body president, said many students were switching from McGovern to Nixon.

However, Harry Lehmann, a University of San Francisco law student, said young Nixon supporters were encountering some hostility on campuses because of "peer group pressure."

Hayden said the GOP youth organization was "encouraging" Nixon to campaign on California campuses, "and we've received some indications that he might do this."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and Assembly minority leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy appeared at the news conference with leaders of the young voters organization.

"We aren't the radicals. We aren't beating to get out of Vietnam," Reinecke said. "But I think young people are realizing the Republican party offers a great deal more for them in terms of the future."

Democrats in California have initiated a drive to register 1 million new voters, primarily young people, minorities and senior citizens.

Grover McKean, press secretary for the Democratic State Central Committee, said Democrats don't have a formal youth organization because "the young people are incorporated into the regular party structure so they don't need their own organization."

Innocent Plea Entered In Two Bank Robberies

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Sammi Lee Smith, whose banking habits don't necessarily make him a good customer, has pleaded innocent in San Francisco Municipal Court to two counts of bank robbery.

Smith is being held on suspicion of robbing a branch of the Bank of America on July 21 and a branch of Wells Fargo July 25.

The 29-year-old New York musician was freed from federal custody after being judged insane three weeks ago at the time of a series of successful and attempted bank holdups in Marin and San Francisco.

A preliminary hearing was to be held today in San Francisco Municipal Court for Smith's latest alleged robberies.

Innocent Plea In Felony Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — La Pierre Harvey, 24, of Marin City, has pleaded innocent in San Francisco Superior Court to felony narcotics charges.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that Harvey had pleaded guilty to selling $250 worth of heroin to a police informant.

He is to appear in Superior Court for trial Sept. 25.

Five Persons Sentenced On Drunken Driving

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Friday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Odas Wayland Griffin, 41, of San Francisco, arrested May 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Leslie Jeff Howard, 47, of 3 Capri Court, San Rafael, arrested May 11 in Terra Linda, placed on probation for six months, and fined $302.

Harry Wilson Sundt, 40, of Tucson, Ariz., arrested June 21 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Sentenced Monday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Thomas Arthur Peterson, 23, of North Mankato, Minn., arrested July 29 in San Rafael, given a suspended 30-day jail sentence and a suspended $500 fine, placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Ralph Dennis Snow, 27, 1111 Second Street, San Rafael, arrested July 24 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Spaak Buried

BRUSSELS (AP) — Paul-Henri Spaak, the Belgian statesman who ranked as an early pioneer of European unity and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was buried today at a private family ceremony in suburban Braine l'Alleude. Spaak died Monday at age 73.

Eagleton's Ordeal Made Him 'Stronger'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If the Democratic Presidential nominee in(61976 asks Sen. Thomas F Eagleton to be his running mate, Eagleton will say, "Do you know about my health problem?"

His joking response to a question during an interview Tuesday reflected both his mood and his only regret after a harrowing week that ended with his resignation as Sen. George S. McGovern's running mate.

Eagleton said he might have regretted more a decision to reject McGovern's offer at the convention and continue to keep his medical past a secret.

"If I had declined the offer, I think I might have gone through the rest of my life kicking myself. I think I would have ruminated."

His decision to quit now history, his transition back into regular Senate duties begun, Eagleton leaned back in his chair, propped his feet against his desk, chain-smoked and spoke with a few newsmen in his office Tuesday.

The past week had been his "trial by fire," he said, but he feels he emerged with more pluses than minuses. "I feel I am a stronger person than I was a week ago today."

He said, "not that I have become smuggly complacent with myself, but I feel better having undergone some degree of adversity and I survived it rather well."

A furor that eventually led to his resignation from the McGovern-Eagleton ticket developed last week when Eagleton revealed to newsmen in South Dakota he had been hospitalized three times in the 1960s for psychiatric treatment, including shock therapy.

Many of those who supported him in the controversy nevertheless criticized him for not telling McGovern ahead of time.

"If I made a mistake, it was on the intensity of how it would have been publicized," Eagleton said in the interview. "I probably wanted to believe that it wouldn't be that much of an issue. Call it wishful thinking, perhaps."

His leaving the ticket probably would have no adverse effect on McGovern's chances for election three months away, he said. "I should think by that time the Eagleton story will have become history."

Some of the telegrams received by Eagleton's office after his Monday night announcement show, however, that many Eagleton supporters believe differently.

Eagleton himself appeared to be taking the situation cheerfully, constantly joking with newsmen and describing himself as "relaxed, not morose." Even his staff members appeared relieved the ordeal was over.

Innocent Plea To Smuggling

Ruby Bonita Medina, 35-year-old Santa Rosa woman accused of smuggling drugs and liquor into San Quentin during a visit with her inmate husband, entered an innocent plea yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 22.

She was arrested after she was reportedly found carrying a half-consumed bottle of bourbon and three balloons of what appeared to be cocaine.

The arrest occurred July 24 when Mrs. Medina and her infant daughter were on a family visit at the prison.

Napa Man Treated After Tar Accident

A workman was burned by hot tar yesterday at 11:15 a.m. at a construction site on La Cresta Drive, Petaluma.

Edward Fisk, 21, of Napa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for tar burns of the face and arms. He was transferred in satisfactory condition to Queen of the Valley Hospital, Napa. No details on how the accident occurred were available.

Burglary Suspect Changes His Plea

One of the two men charged with burglarizing a Novato market June 4 has changed his plea to guilty in Marin Superior Court.

Admitting that he had burglarized the Cala Market on Center Road was William Guy Pannell, 24, of San Pablo.

Another man similarly charged, Warren Arthur Rhodes, 36, of no known address, is due for pretrial conference tomorrow.

Pannell was told by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner that if a probation report shows no further criminal record than one prior felony conviction, he will receive nine months in the county jail.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 11.

A Mobile Home Plea By Romney

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Housing Secretary George Romney asked 31 governors today to relax their state highway laws so that government-purchased mobile homes can be delivered quicker to East Coast victims of Hurricane Agnes.

Betweem 10,000 and 15,000 house trailers bought by the Department of Housing and Urban Development as emergency housing for flood victims will be heading toward the Atlantic Seaboard in the next three months, the department said.

Romney asked the governors in a telegram to waive traffic restrictions so that trailers can roll without waiting for special permits, escort vehicles and the proper hours. Laws on hauling trailers vary from state to state.

Holtzman Heading Toward 1st 20-Win Season

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI)—Ken Holtzman is back on schedule toward a 20-victory season, something he'd like only a little less than helping the Oakland A's win the American League pennant.

Holtzman, the stylish lefthander the A's got from the Chicago Cubs last winter in exchange for Rick Monday, pitched a three-hit 4-0 shutout over the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night for his 14th victory.

Holtzman lost two starts in a row before notching the victory which put him in good shape toward his first big league 20-victory season. Winning 20 games is something Holtzman doesn't often talk about because it's his second goal.

"Winning the pennant is bigger than any individual record," he said after beating the Royals. "Sure, I'd like to win 20 games. Who wouldn't?"

This is Ken's seventh year in the majors. His previous six all were spent with the Cubs and his victory high stands at 17.

"I had a shot at 20 twice before," he said, "but something always happened. Now, I think I have a chance to do it. For me, the perfect season would be if the team wins the pennant and I get my 20 victories."

The A's treated Holtzman to 11 hits against the Royals. But more important, they got him an early 2-0 lead on a two-run single by Sal Bando in the third. Then Reggie Jackson drilled his 21st homer with Joe Rudi aboard in the fifth to make it easy.

"In my last four or five starts I've had little to work with," said Holtzman. "It seems that I never had more than a run lead or was in a scoreless tie. This time they got me the lead and I was able to go from there."

A pair of singles by Paul Schaal and a double by Lou Piniella were the only hits Holtzman gave the Royals, who lead the American League in batting with a team mark of .261.

But the Royals are one team Holtzman has been able to handle. He's had three starts against them now and has beaten them all three times.

"I don't know why I do so well against them," said Holtzman. "It's just one of those baseball things you can't explain."

There has been some criticism of A's batters of late for not delivering in the clutch, but no one can pin that rap on Bando or Jackson. Bando's two RBIs Tuesday gave him 54 for the season and Jackson's two increased his total to 61. Jackson's homer gave the A's 91 for the season, which is tops in the A.L.

Jim Hunter tries to match Holtzman's victory total tonight when he pitches against Dick Drago in the windup game of the two-game series with the Royals.

The A's will be idle Thursday and then go on the road for four games with Minnesota and three with Kansas City.

Fuentes Rubs Salt In Dodger Wound

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tito Fuentes, who scored the winning run, rubbed a little salt in the wound.

After the San Francisco Giants overcame a 3-0 deficit to edge Los Angeles 4-3 Tuesday night, Fuentes said: "The Dodgers are playing very badly and that's the way it was going for us early."

For the Giants, it was their 23rd victory in 32 games. For the Dodgers, it was their fifth loss in a row.

"Our entire club is playing the game a lot better in every way, shape and form," said Giant Manager Charlie Fox. "Fuentes, in particular, has been playing great ball. Since the bad start for us, the bullpen has been outstanding."

San Francisco scored its winning run in the eighth inning and it was unearned as the Dodgers committed their 101st error of the season. Fuentes opened with a bloop double off reliever Jim Brewer and Alan Gallagher sacrificed the runner to third. But Dodger second baseman Lee Lacy, covering first, dropped Brewer's throw and Gallagher was safe.

After Dave Rader popped out, Ken Henderson hit a dunker that Lacy caught with his back to the plate. Fuentes scampered home to snap a 3-3 tie.

Frank Robinson was coming in on the play but Los Angeles skipper Walter Alston refused to fault his rookie second baseman.

"Lacy made a great play just getting to the ball," Alston said. "I don't think Robinson would have caught it."

Fuentes said he hit a Brewer screwball, adding: "I normally don't him him that well so I was happy to take anything I could get. I broke my bat on that pitch."

Coupled with pace-setting Cincinnati's 3-1 victory over Houston Tuesday night, the loss dropped the Dodgers, preseason favorites in the National League West, 9 1-2 games back

NORTH-SOUTH GRID

Eight Added To Rosters

While the players have been lifting weights to develop their strength, the coaches for the upcoming North-South all-star football game apparently have been juggling rosters to develop their agility.

Five replacements have been added to the South and three to the North for the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club's annual game, scheduled for Aug. 18 at San Rafael High School.

A team of top graduated seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League area will meet a team from the four southern schools.

Additions to the South are guard Rick White and end Steve Urban from Drake High, fullback-end Jay Lehman and end Gary O'Neal of Redwood and end Jack Stahl of Marin Catholic.

The new Northerners are backs Terry Johnson and Leo Magers from Novato and lineman Bob Brown of San Rafael.

Previously selected to play for the North, but unable to make the game, are guards Greg Amussen of Novato and Mike Couch of San Marin.

Southern players who dropped out are fullback-linebacker Marc Asiano and endlnebacker Steve McGee of Redwood and three Tamalpais players — backs Clifford Hall and Pat Locey and end Greg Biber. Hall signed a professional baseball contract in June.

The North now has a full squad of 25 players. South coaches have 24 and may pick one more man at a later date.

Ross Valley Kiwanis also announced the officials for game would be referee Dick Hart, umpire Bob Fitzhenry, linesman Mike Convis and field judge Verle Sorgen.

Tickets for the game cost $3 for adults and $2.50 for students and are available at 17 locations throughout Marin County. Locations include Big Five Sporting Goods in the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael and the 7-Eleven food store in Corte Madera, instead of the Sports Land Corp. and the San Anselmo 7-Eleven, as previously announced.

VICE PRESIDENT

Glover Returns To Seals

OAKLAND (UPI)—It's hard to tell how the other owners in the National Hockey League feel about the new World Hockey Association, but one man who doesn't expect to stand still is Charlie Finley of the California Golden Seals.

Finley, who lost two players to the Cleveland Crusaders of the WHA in four days, got a measure of revenge and added a little egg to his face Tuesday when he signed Fred Glover on as executive vice president.

If you came in late, Glover worked three and a half seasons as coach of the Seals for Finley only to get fired last year. Glover hooked on as coach of the Los Angeles Kings and then "jumped" to the Crusaders as director of player personnel.

But after only three weeks with the Crusaders, Glover figured he had enough of the new league and quit. He no sooner became unemployed when Finley hired him back.

In signing Glover Finley couldn't resist the opportunity to get in a shot at the Crusaders in particular and the WHA in general.

"Here they get a fine man like Glover," said Finley of the Crusaders, "and they couldn't keep him around for more than three weeks. That ought to give you an idea of what a league that is. They'll be hearing from us, I'll guarantee you that much.

Finley is especially disturbed that Cleveland grabbed "jumpers" Gerry Pinder (a wing) and Paul Shmyr (a defenseman) from his Seals, and he promised that the situation is not closed.

"That's only the first round," said the outspoken Seals owner. "Don't be surprised if I get them back. I don't plan to stand by and watch what has been going on lately."

Still, Finley of all the NHL owners has been hurt the most. In all, six of his players have jumped to WHA teams, and he also doesn't have a coach as of the moment.

Getting a coach is the No. 1 item on Finley's schedule. He said he will sit down with Glover and general manager Garry Young in the next few days and decide on a coach. Then, he plans to go after the WHA, but he didn't say how.

Novato's Ruth '9' Triumphs

I-J Special Report

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Novato pecked away for single runs in five different innings and pitcher Bill Parmenter made the tallies stand up for a 5-4 victory over Lompoc yesterday in the Babe Ruth 13-year-old Northern California State baseball tournament here.

Novato, the only remaining unbeaten team in the double-elimination tourney, will face San Carlos tonight at 7:30.

Phil Sorenson walked, stole second and scored on a two-out double to right center field by Tim Wilson as Novato broke a 4-4 tie with a run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The right-handed Parmenter struck out 10, walked two and scattered five hits. He gave up only one earned run and survived seven errors behind him.

Novato scored in the first on an RBI single by Kurt Sears, in the second on a single by Bob Haskell, in the third on a balk and in the fourth on an infield out by Matt Listman.

If Novato wins tonight, it will play again Saturday for the championship. If it loses, it will play Friday.

Lutz In Stunner Over Newcombe

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—For thousands of tennis fans, Bob Lutz of Tiburon will always be known as a doubles player—the "little man" who teamed with fellow Californian Stan Smith to clinch the Davis Cup for the U.S. three times between 1968-1970.

But while those fans have looked the other way, that little man—who is only an inch under six feet and weighs 180 pounds—has become one of the best singles players in the world.

The 24-year-old Lutz demonstrated that fact again Tuesday when he fought off two match points and the won a tiebreak game in the final set to upset top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 7-6, in the $50,000 U.S. Professional tennis championships at the Longwood Cricket Club.

In another three-set struggle Tuesday, third seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., eliminated defending champion Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5.

The 37-year-old Rosewall, who has been off form since winning the world's title in May, showed his shotmaking was below par.

Riessen had triple match point on Rosewall's serve in the 10th game of the third set, but the Australian won five straight points to take the game.

However, Riessen rallied to win the set, 7-5, and capture the match. Rosewall netted a backhand in the 12th game of the third set to give the American the victory.

Between them, Rosewall and fellow Australian Rod Laver have lost eight of the last nine U.S. pro titles, and Laver too almost went down to defeat Monday.

But the redhaired left-hander, who is one week away from his 34th birthday, fought back brilliantly to defeat eighth seeded Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

It was Lutz' first victory over over Newcombe, a three-time Wimbleton champion, but the Californian bristled at the suggestion that the victory should lay to rest the idea he is only a doubles player.

"If people want to think of me as a doubles player, that's their business," he said. "I think my record speaks for itself. I earned more than $50,000 on the tour last year. I have won plenty of big matches.

Sanderson To Sign For $2.625 Million

BOSTON (UPI) — Center Derek Sanderson of the Boston Bruins will sign a five-year contract with the Philadelphia Blazers of the New World Hockey Association on Thursday, his attorney announced Tuesday.

Robert Woolf said published reports that Sanderson would receive $2.625 million for five years were "reasonably close," but he declined to discuss details of the contract.

"There is no question in my mind that he will be the highest paid athlete in America today and conceivably in the world," Woolf said. "It would be absurd not to accept it."

Woolf said details of the contract were worked out in Philadelphia Monday night. The Blazers scheduled an 11 a.m. news conference for Thursday to formally announce the signing.

49ers Get Ready For Jets Game

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—The work load starts decreasing today for the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Since camp opened last month the squad has been worked twice a day in an effort to weed out the players who won't be around when the season starts on Sept. 17.

Starting today, the work will be cut in half, mostly because the exhibition season begins on Saturday.

A long workout is on tap for today and then on Thursday the team flies to Jacksonville, Fla., for Saturday night's game against the New York Jets.

"I couldn't be happier with the condition of the squad," said Head Coach Dick Nolan. "They've all worked pretty hard and now we start playing games. That should give us a good idea of who will stick and who won't."

Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner who has been playing in John Brodie's shadow for five seasons, will start against the Jets at quarterback Saturday and Joe Reed will be used in what Nolan calls "special situations." That means Brodie will watch from the sidelines and offers suggestions.

All 58 men on the squad will make the trip to Jacksonville, but three of them — veteran defensive end Cedrick Hardman, rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley and second year linebacker Marty Huff — won't see action.

Hardman is coming back from off-season knee surgery while Huff is being kept out of Saturday's game because of bumps and bruises. Beasley has a broken toe.

Raiders Loading Up On Wide Receivers

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The Oakland Raiders diversified briefly into the shipping and receiving business — dispatching two players and getting five — as they prepared for Saturday night's preseason opener against the New England Patriots at Oakland.

One of the trades will increase Coach John Madden's wealth of wide receivers.

The Raiders picked up wide receiver Gloster Richardson, a six-foot, 200 pounder, from the Dallas Cowboys for a future draft choice.

Sent to Houston was wide receiver Rod Sherman, who has not signed a contract, did not report for training and asked to be traded. In exchange, Oakland gets 6-8, 290-pound tackle Gene Ferguson who also has been having contract difficulties.

Along with Richardson, Madden now has Warren Wells, Fred Biletnikoff, Drew Buie, Mike Siani and Cliff Branch to choose from in giving opposing secondaries headaches.

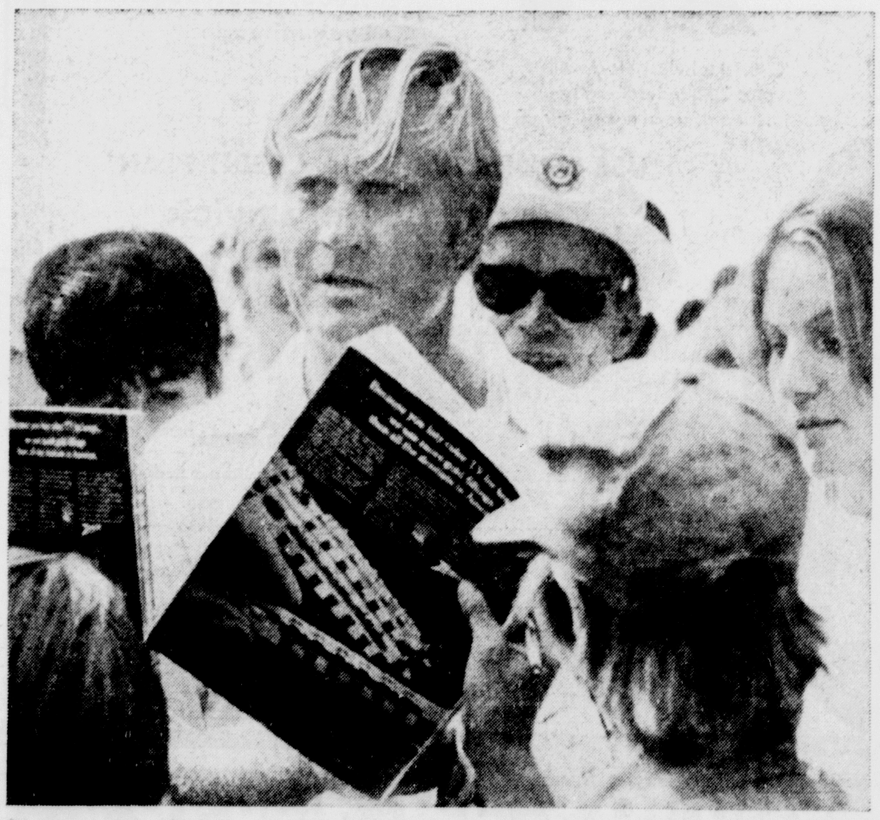
The other departure was that of veteran linebacker Duane Benson, 27, to the Atlanta Falcons in return for a future draft choice. Benson had started in the last six games in the previous season.

The Raiders got Jeff Queen, running back and tight end who led San Diego in rushing two years ago, by giving the Chargers a No. 3 draft choice next year.

Quarterback Don Milan, with the Raiders most of last year's training season, came back from Kansas City for "future consideration."

Rookie defensive end Otis Sistrunk was picked up from the Los Angeles Rams for a draft choice.

The Raiders also got some draft selections in the transactions.



MAN AND MOB — Golfer Jack Nicklaus was surrounded by autograph seekers as he tried to play a practice round yesterday at the Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham, Mich., site of the 54th Professional Golfers Association championship, which begins tomorrow. Story on page 35.

Playful Ali Toys With Peralta

BARCELONA (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali Monday night toyed with Argentina's ageing Goyo Peralta in a 16-minute exhibition which left his face make-up perfectly preserved.

Nobody got hurt, nobody got knocked down, and the estimated 15,000 fans who paid between $2.50 to $33 seemed to think Ali gave them their money's worth.

The best comedy in the exhibition of eight two-minute rounds with 13 oz. gloves came when Ali, wearing an old white and yellow robe and his lips painted a bright red, was asked to shake hands with European heavyweight champion Jose Manuel Ibar Urtain, one of several European fighters introduced before the bout.

Ali refused to greet the huge Basque, a former weightlifter, and ran away from him in mock disgust.

Utain grabbed Ali and lifted him into the air. Ali wiggled lose, he faked an attack and helpers had to "restrain" him from hitting Urtain.

Palacio Shoots 86

Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael shot 43-43—86 yesterday in the first round of the Pacific Coast Amateur golf tournament in Pauma Valley. The leader is Doug Ruland of Los Angeles, 33-34—67.

Record Night For Colbert

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Nate Colbert's record-setting performance Tuesday night rekindled fond childhood remembrances for the San Diego slugger but for Atlanta Manager Luman Harris, it was the kind of night that leads to premature aging.

Colbert set a major league record when he drove in 13 runs on five homers, including a grand slammer, and a single in leading the Padres to a doubleheader sweep over the Braves, 9-0 and 11-7.

The old major league record of 11 RBIs in a doubleheader was held jointly by Earl Averill, Jim Tabor and Boog Powell. Jim Bottomley once drove in 12 runs in a single game on Sept 16, 1924, as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. Colbert's five home runs tied him with Stan Musial for most home runs in a doubleheader.

Colbert, originally from St. Louis, was in the old St. Louis ballpark, Sportman's Park, the day that Musial set the record. "When I hit the last homer I knew it was the record and all I could think of was remembering Musial's five homers. It was unreal," said Colbert. "He was my first baseball hero."

Colbert's feat, which gave him the major league lead in home runs with 30 and in RBIs with 82, saw him hit two homers in the first game and three in the second, driving in five runs in the opener and eight in the nightcap.

The San Diego first baseman, who has hit 16 homers in the past 32 days, remarked earlier in the season that Atlanta had the sort of ballpark he would enjoy playing in on a daily basis.

"I would like to play one season in New York, Philadelphia or Atlanta and see how many home runs I could hit. It's a lot easier in those parks than it is in ours (San Diego Stadium)," Colbert said.

In other National League games New York and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, the Mets winning the opener in 18 innings 3-2 and the Phillies capturing the nightcap 4-1, Montreal edged Chicago 3-2 in 10 innings, Cincinnati downed Houston 3-1, St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 7-4, and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 4-3.

Joe Morgan, traded to the Reds during the off-season, hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning to support the seven-hit pitching of Wayne Simpson. The Reds, who have beaten the Astros seven out of 11 times this season, lead the second place Astros by six ull games in the National league West.

Bill Robinson's three-run double in the ninth and Steve Carlton's five-hit pitching earned the Phils a split of their doubleheader with New York after the Mets won the opener on a bases-loaded single by Cleon Jones. It was Carlton's 16th victory and his 11th in a row.

Matty Alou drove in three runs in leading St. Louis past Pittsburgh. Alou's double highlighted a six-run Cardinal fifth. He also doubled in St. Louis' first run in the third inning.

Tim Foli's sacrifice fly drove home Carl Morton with the winning run with two out in the 10th inning to lead Montreal over Chicago. Morton was running for Ron Fairly, who had gotton on base on a fielder's choice after Clyde Mashore had opened the inning with a single.

Dodgers Put Dietz On Disabled List

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Catcher Dick Dietz has been put on the disabled list by the Los Angeles Dodgers after it was discovered he had a fractured right wrist.

Dietz was hit on the wrist by a foul tip Sunday in a game at Atlanta. While he is on the disabled list for three weeks his spot on the roster will be filled by catcher Steve Yeager, brought up from Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Perry Sets Sights On Feller's Mark

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

While Mickey Lolich is trying to catch Hal Newhouser, Gaylord Perry is zeroing in on Bob Feller.

Lolich and Perry, dueling for the American League lead in victories the way Newhouser and Feller did a generation ago, both stand at 18 this season. Lolich made it Monday night and Perry followed in his footsteps Tuesday with a two-hitter that gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and boosted his record to 18-8.

Lolich and Perry both have outside shots at the 30-victory mark although Denny McLain had 21 victories at this point in 1968 when he went on to 31 victories.

But Lolich and Perry have other marks in their grasp. Lolich, who won 25 last year, can become the first American Leaguer to turn in back-to-back 25-game victory seasons since Newhouser did it in 1944, 45 and 46.

Perry can break the Cleveland record for most victories set by Feller in 1940 when he won 27.

"This is the sharpest game I've pitched all year," Perry said, "I feel I've pitched more consistently this year than I have ever pitched before."

Perry was obtained by the Indians from San Francisco in the Sam McDowell deal last November. He never won more than 23 for the Giants and last year he won only 16.

"Last year I pitched only once a week but I like to pitch every fourth day which I'm doing this season," Perry said.

Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte said, "I'm not going to project how many games Perry will win this season because I don't want to jinx him. I just hope he has a fantastic year. He's a great pitcher. He's not the type who gets tired. As the game goes on, he picks up momentum and gets tougher. He thrives on three days rest and I told him before the season started that's how I would pitch him before the season started."

Rookie Buddy Bell gave Perry all the help he needed by hitting a two-run homer off Dave McNally, who's now 10-9 and may have his string of four straight 20-game victory seasons snapped.

In other AL games, Milwaukee blanked Detroit 9-0 in a six-inning rain-abbreviated game, New York ripped Boston 10-4, Minnesota blanked Texas 3-0, Oakland beat Kansas City 4-0 and the California at Chicago game was rained out.

Skip Lockwood pitched a one-hitter as Milwaukee beat Detroit. Mickey Stanley's sixth-inning double was the only Detroit hit. The game almost turned into a travesty in the rain in the fifth inning when Milwaukee, which had a 7-0 lead, was trying to speed up the game while Detroit was trying to slow it down. The umpires finally had to call out both managers so Milwaukee would stop trying to make outs and Detroit would stop deliberately making errors.

The Yankee-Red Sox game was scoreless for five innings but New York scored 10 runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings to rout Boston. Roy White singled in a run in the sixth and stole home, John Callison hit a two-run single in the five-run fifth and Bobby Murcer hit a three-run homer in the eighth.

Dick Woodson pitched a three-hitter for his first shutout and Danny Thompson hit a two-run triple as Minnesota topped Texas. It was the 15th time this season the Rangers have failed to score.

Satchel's Mark

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Satchel Paige is the only pitcher in baseball's Hall of Fame who has a less-than.500 won-lost record for his career. Paige's major league totals were 28-31.

GIANTS

in the division race, only two games over .500.

Los Angeles piled up a 3-0 lead and seven hits off San Francisco starter Ron Bryant in the first three innings but only could get three more hits off Randy Moffitt and Jerry Johnson in the last six.

Johnson checked the Dodgers on two hits over the last four innings for his seventh victory against five defeats. Brewer, who replaced Dodger starter Al Downing in the eighth, was tagged with the loss to make his record 6-5.

The Dodgers had men at second and third with none out and failed to score in the seventh. Manny Mota lined into a doubleplay to end the inning.

The Dodgers scored on a two-run single by Wes Parker in the first inning and singles by Mota, Parker and Bobby Valentine in the third.

Singles by Fuentes, Rader and Henderson earned the Giants their first run in the fourth. Batting for Moffitt in the sixth, Bernie Williams slammed his third homer with Henderson on base.

In the second game of a three-contest televised series tonight (Channel 2, 8 o'clock), Don Sutton (12-6) goes for Los Angeles against Steve Stone (4-7).

LPGA To Rule In Palmer Case

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Ladies Professional Golf Association today will discuss the case of pro golfer Sandra Palmer, in the doghouse with the LPGA for her vocal support of fellow pro Jane Blalock.

Miss Palmer was to be represented by Atlanta Attorney Gene Partain at the hearing.

The LPGA suspended Miss Blalock for a year for alleged violation of the group's code of ethics. Affidavits were filed accusing Miss Blalock with illegally moving her ball on the putting surface during tournaments.

Miss Palmer was quoted as saying she did not believe the charges and that one of the affidavits was false.

A $5 million suit was filed against the LPGA by Miss Blalock because of the suspension. She won a restraining order against the suspension pending trial of the case in court.

The lady pros continued to practice on the 6,300-yard Deane Hill Country Club course, site of this weekend's $25,000 Knoxville Ladies Golf Classic.

Tennis

CINCINNATI — Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong breezed through her first match in the 85th Western Tennis Championships last night, beating Cathie Anderson of Lafayette, Calif., 6-0, 6-1.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — Defending champion and top ranked Gus Palafox of Little Rock, Ark., and second seeded Bobby Riggs of Newport Beach, Calif., moved to easy wins yesterday in the opening round of the National Senior Clay Court Championship.

Palafox won, 6-0, 6-1, over Frank Sample of Arlington, Va., while Riggs topped Ray Stratton of Springfield, Tenn., 6-2, 6-3.

The biggest upset of the day game when fourth seeded Al Bunis of Cincinnati lost to Phillippe Ness of Washington, D.C., 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Baseball

NEW YORK — Willie Mays and Rusty Staub of the New York Mets were selected yesterday as co-winners of the New York Catholic Youth Organization's annual "Most Popular Met Player Award" in voting among the 301,000 CYO members of the New York Arch Diosesan CYO.

Another Met, first-baseman outfielder Jim Beauchamp, was reactivated from the disabled list yesterday and catcher-first baseman Bill Sudakis was optioned to Memphis in the Texas League.

Basketball

DETROIT — Jimmy Walker was traded by the Detroit Pistons to the Houston Rockets for Stu Lantz yesterday in exchange of guards by the National Basketball Association teams.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Most Windshields Have Tender Skin

You could describe the windshield found on most runabout pleasure boats as a thermoplasticacrylic, platen pressed, duo-curved, multi-axially stretched superstructure. It may have a tough body, but it's got a tender skin.

This tender skin often makes it the most abused fixture on a boat. And this is especially true of boats that are trailered.

It's not uncommon to find at the end of a long haul, that the windshield is covered with dead bugs, dust, grit and oil.

I've seen skippers try to remove this guck with a dirty old rag they haul out of the trunk of the car. It's easy to take five years off the life of the windshield with such abuse.

The plastic scratches easily under even the slightest abrasive, and although the scratches may not be too noticeable at the time, they will finally destroy the usefulness of the windshield.

Scratches aren't bad when the light is coming from behind, but try heading into the sun with a scratched and scuffed windshield and you'll be blinded by the reflection and refraction.

All this concern for windshields was brought on by a couple of odd questions I've been asked this summer:

Q. How do you wash a Plexi windshield?

A. Don't use a cloth. Use your bare hands to splash on water and detergent. Then you can feel any damaging grit or abrasive, adhering to the plastic. Polish it up with a clean damp chamois or a very soft cloth. It's a good idea to keep a soft cloth just especially for the job in a plastic bag somewhere in the boat.

Q. I trailered a boat 1,870 miles. On the last 20-mile stretch the windsh ield crumbled into pieces about the size of a dollar. What gives?

A. Two manufacturers of plastics tell me this just couldn't happen. (The only trouble is, it did.) Other "experts" believe it's due to internal stresses created in the plastic by the tightness of the frame. After a lot of vibration, the stresses just shatter the entire structure.

Q. The plastic "glass" portholes on my sailboat developed small cracks which are called "crazing." Why?

A. The same "experts" mentioned above think this is just a modification of the shattering phenomenon.
tioned above think this is just a modification of the shattering phenomenon.

Q. Is it possible to stop cracks developing in plastic windshields?

A. Check the neoprene weatherstripping around the frame. If it becomes hardened, its cushion effect is lost, and vibration will start cracks. If a crac should develop it can be stopped by drilling a fine hole with a No. 30 or 50 drill at the tip of the fracture. The crack won't run any farther.

Q. Can I restore the "sparkle" to my windshield?

A. If it isn't too scratched a thin coat of water emulsion wax (the stuff sold as "self-polishing") is a help. But if it has to be resurfaced, there is a very fine abrasive cloth sold for the job.

Q. Is there a right and wrong cleaner and wax for plastic?

A. The aircraft industry has done a lot more research on plastic "glass" than anyone else, and I use the material sold at airports for cleaning and polishing the windshields of light aircraft.

Nicklaus Not Upset By Idea Of Letdown

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI —It's beginning to sound as though the only letdown Jack Nicklaus can suffer will come if he doesn't win the 54th annual Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Nicklaus and his highly scrutinized no-pain right index finger look for their third straight "pretty good" practice round today in the final tuneups for Thursday's tournament start.

"I'm surprised," Nicklaus said after his second tournament week tour over Oakland Hills Country Club's 7,054-yard layout for which par has been set at 70. "I'm coming along quite good. I played pretty good again."

Will there be a letdown because the grand slam possibility is gone? Nicklaus then destroyed his built-in alibi as calmly as he's decimated golf courses on his way to becoming the game's all-time leading dollar accumulator.

"I learned a long time ago when I lost an entire season because of a letdown," Nicklaus said. "It was 1964, when I finished second in the Masters. It was a letdown mentally thereafter.

"I feel each tournament stands on its own two feet," he said.

So he clearly feels he has a decent chance to sweep the PGA off its feet and supplant Bobby Jones as the winner of the most major tournaments with his 14th such triumph.

Thundershowers which were expected to slow up the greens and lower the practice scores hit the course during the night. More were forecast for today and a partly cloudy prediction was made for the start of the $200,000 tournament.

"This is the greatest course they've ever had the PGA on," Gary Player. "It's a fair test. It's very difficult but very fair. I think scoring will be very high," said Player, who many figure has an excellent chance because the course is complementary to his game.

"I think a 284 will win it. They say that's four over par, but I think it's really four under."

Namath Signs Rich Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the fairest quarterback of them all?

Joe Namath took a good look in the mirror Tuesday and, with all due modesty, he gave what he considers is the truthful answer.

"I think I'm the best quarterback in football and those who don't think so, well, we'll wait and see," Namath said as he signed a contract that is supposed to make him football's highest paid player.

Terms weren't revealed but it is a two-year pact in the neighborhood of $250,000 a season. That may be only pocket money for sports' newest millionaires like Bobby Hull and Derek Sanderson but it is supposed to be a record salary for pro football.

If Namath stays healthy, the Jets are supposed to be in the Eastern Division race with Miami and Baltimore.

Elsewhere, Harland Svare seems to be determined to take George Allen's title as the NFL's No. 1 wheeler-dealer. The San Diego Chargers' coach has now made 15 deals.

His most celebrated was the 12th one when he picked up controversial Duane Thomas from Dllas. But he continued by giving up his No. 1 1973 draft choice to Philadelphia for linebacker Tim Rossovich. He then dealt running back Jeff Queen to Oakland for a thirdround draft choice and then picked up defensive tackle Dave Costa from Denver for fullback Eddie Ray and a third round pick.

Svare can now trade only with AFC teams since the deadline for deals with NFC clubs was midnight Monday.

The new San Diego head seems to be specializing in players who were having problems with their old clubs. Costa, for example, had been suspended by Denver Coach John Ralston for complaining about training camp. And no one needs to be told about Thomas' problems.

Svare said, "my gut reaction was to take a chance on Thomas. You have to roll the dice. Thomas is a rare talent, a superior player."

If Thomas gets the kind of contract he wants, it may not be a gamble at all. Contract troubles started all the problems with Dallas and a change of scenery could mean all the difference in the world.

Minnesta, which is considered a leading contender to win the Super Bowl, managed to come to terms with four free agents—John Henderson, Gene Washington, Clint Jones and Charlie West. They all signed their 1972 contracts and are expected to be in camp today.

Dempsey Leads Marin Drivers In Petaluma

Jack Dempsey, fighting his way back to the top, will be seeking his third feature victory in his six-week-old comeback Friday in modified sportsman auto racing at Petaluma Speedway.

Dempsey led an impressive San Rafael contingent last Friday with his triumph. Roy Victor was second, Gary Ramsier eighth and Kirk Edison 10th.

In addition to the sportsmen, Friday's card will have early model stockers and Bay Cities Racing Association super midgets. Qualifying on the quarter-mile dirt oval is set for 7 p.m., with the first race slated for 8.

Basketball Results

In Drake Summer League high school basketball games yesterday, Shaw's Ice Cream defeated Bob's Cats, 46-34; the Crusaders beat the Wildcats, 56-26; and McGillicuddy Construction downed Chuck Moore Insurance, 61-52.

Deadline Sunday For Mill Valley Net

Deadline for entries for the 14th annual Marin County Junior Hardcourt Championships, scheduled for Aug. 14-18 at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, will be Sunday at 6 p.m., tournament officials have announced.

Play will be held in boys and girls singles and doubles. Entry fee is $4 for singles players and $5 for doubles teams, and should be sent to Mrs. Kenneth Stevens, 8 Vasco Dr., Mill Valley, 94941.

Greenbrae Girl Wins In Tennis

Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae won her girls 16 match in the Blossom Hill Junior tennis tournament in Los Gatos yesterday, overwhelming Ann Drew, 6-0, 6-0.

In the same tournament, Andrea Goldfien of Mill Valley was beaten by Stacey Naugle, 6-1, 6-0.

Elsewhere in tennis, John Zwieg of Greenbrae is seeded fourth in men's singles for the San Francisco City championships, which open Saturday in Golden Gate Park. Sue Beatty of Tiburon is seeded third in girls 18 and fourth in girls 16 in the tournament.

Triton Regatta Set On Bay Sept. 2-4

The seventh annual national Triton Regatta boat race, hosted by the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere, will be held Sept. 2-4 on San Francisco Bay.

A total of five races, each of about 10 miles, will be held for the 28-foot sloops — two each on Sept. 2 and 3 and one on Sept. 4. Social events connected with the regatta begin Sept. 1.

Auto Rallye Slated

The Marin Ralley Association will stage an automobile rallye Saturday from 6-9 p.m., beginning at the Corte Madera Center and ending at the Straw Hat Pizza Parlor in Novato. Trophies will be awarded in five classes ranging from expert to first-timer. For further information, contact Tom Dillon at 88 Western Drive, Novato, or Richard Lowenthal, 140 Del Casa Drive, Mill Valley.

Third Base Problem Still Plagues Giants

CINCINNATI — Ever since Jim Davenport retired, third base has been a defensive problem for the Giants. Beginning with Jim Ray Hart, there's been a steady stream of third base candidates. And the search still goes on.

Dave Kingman started at third this season. The big fellow, with the big bat, moved to first after the fourth game in which Willie McCovey's right arm was broken.

ALAN GALLAGHER then moved back to third. Dirty Al's third base style delights the fans but his dives into the dirt for grounders, while spectacular, are not classic defensive moves.

Chris Arnold, Hart (in his umpteenth and probably last chance) and Damaso Blanco followed Gallagher at third until finally Charlie Fox, after giving Kingman another shot at the job upon McCovey's return to action, settled for Gallagher. Kingman went to left field.

NOW, FOX IS toying with the idea of converting Ken Henderson from an outfielder into a third baseman. Henderson is playing left field at the moment because the right ankle Kingman sprained just before the All-Star break still is tender. But since the second half of the season started, Henderson also has been working out at third under the guidance of coach Joe Amalfitano, who tutored Kingman on third base maneuvers this spring.

"When is Henderson going to play third?" Fox was asked by one of the baseball writers traveling with the team.

"WHATEVER GAVE you that idea?" Fox parried the question. "We've had him working out there just to see what he could do."

The writer smiled at the manager's evasive answer and Fox, a fellow with a sense of humor, smiled too.

"I'll give you a better third base story," said Fox. "What about Ed Goodson at third?"

Surely, Fox couldn't be serious, not with Goodson's damaged right knee.

"I DON'T MEAN this season," said Fox, "but after a winter operation on the knee. Goodson broke in as a shortstop. He has a fine arm. And he could move left or right before injuring his knee."

Warming to the thought of Goodson on third base next year, Fox said: "That would mean we could move the big fellow (Kingman) back to first." Such a move, of course, would be contingent on McCovey's state of health. But it did indicate the future plans Fox has in mind for the 1973 Giants.

STILL, AT THE moment the third base problem is the primary one Fox faces — just as it was for his predecessors in past years since Davenport's retirement. In solving the problem, Fox isn't going to make the mistake his predecessors did — moving Tito Fuentes from second to third.

"No way," said Fox. "In Tito and Chris Speier we have a smooth working double play combination. Tito is a natural second baseman with the fastest hands and greatest range of any second baseman in the majors today. As for Speier, he finally got the recognition due him in the All-Star game. He's the greatest shortstop playing today."

Sonoma Soccer Clinic Set

A three-day comprehensive soccer clinic will be held at California State College Sonoma beginning next month, designed to provide top-flight soccer instruction for North Bay youth.

Featuring Senior Coach Marty Krumm, the first Olympic soccer player ever from the Bay Area, the camp will be held on three Saturdays, Aug. 26, Sept. 9 and Sept. 16.

The fee for the camp is $27.50, which includes the three days of instruction, a camp T-shirt, lunches, insurance coverage, and a participation certificate.

been limited at 100 to insure a pupil-teacher ratio of 10 to 1. Checks should be made out to: California State College, Sonoma Soccer Camp.

Oklahoma Lad Leads In Golf

DALLAS (UPI) — Tommy Jones of Tulsa, Okla., carried a one-stroke lead into today's final qualifying round in the U. S. Golf Association's Junior Amateur Championship.

The Oklahoma teen-ager fired a two-under-par 70 in Tuesday's opening round over the par 36-36—72 Masters Course at Brookhaven Country Club.

Injuries Shelve Pair Of Jockeys

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)— Jockeys Harris Hawkenson and John Ishihara, injured in a spill at Bay Meadows Monday night, will be sidelined six and three months, respectively.

Hawkenson broke a vertebra in the middle of his back while Ishihara had surgery on his fractured shoulder.

Larry Kilcoyne also had two homers as MacArthur's blasted Perry's Delicatessen, 21-2. In other action, New York Life whipped Industrial Credit, 10-2; Perry's other entry beat Connection Tavern, 13-2; and Suburban Auto edged Sohner Tree Service, 1-0, on a three-hitter by Joe Nystrom.

ELGIN BAYLOR

An Also-Ran Who Is A Champion

By PHIL ELDERKIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Of all the super performers who have never played on a world championship team, I think I'd have to give my vote to Elgin Baylor as the best.

Baylor's trouble was that he played for the Los Angeles Lakers when the Boston Celtics still had players like Bill Russell, Bob Cousy, Tommy Heinsohn, the Jones Boys and Frank Ramsey.

The Celtics weren't entirely without compassion. They often let Elgin and Co. get to the threshold of pro basketball's throne room before slamming the door on their feet.

One time the Lakers missed a world title because the ball hit the side of the rim with three seconds left. But they lost mostly because of Russell — his blocked shots, his rebounds and his tough defense.

Now some young men's group out in Los Angeles, the Rinky Dinks, has thrown a black-tie dinner for Baylor, honoring him for his great individual ability as a champion. It is doubtful if most of these young people, except for television, ever saw Elgin play more than a few times.

But you didn't have to be a basketball expert to know that Baylor was something extra special. One-on-one he was the best player for his size anywhere in the country. And one-on-two he was still the best. The opposition considered it a good night back in the early 1960's when it was able to hold him to 30 points.

It was surprising how many rival forwards, if they knew the coach was going to ask them to guard Elgin, would turn up with mysterious ailments on the night of the game.

Baylor had three years, 1960 through 1963, when nobody stopped him. He averaged 34, 38 and 34 points a game. And one night, against the New York Knicks, he blistered the strings for 71 points.

When the starving Minneapolis Lakers moved to Los Angeles after the 1960 season, Baylor was the franchise. Jerry West was still a rookie, Wilt Chamberlain was still in Philadelphia and Bill Sharman was still years away from being the Lakers coach.

For a man who knew only one word — attack — when a basketball was put in his hand, he could also operate with finesse. If you tried to overplay him to either side, he'd go around you. And if the opposition was foolish enough to double team him, no forward in the league was better at hitting the open man.

The only sad thing about the Lakers' first world championship this season was that Elgin wasn't part of it. He tried — making nine starts early in the fall and averaging double figures on knees which wouldn't have supported Tom Thumb.

But when he saw how much his slowness and defense were hurting the team, nobody had to tell him. He just quietly turned in his uniform for a position in the front office.

Off the court, Baylor has always dressed smartly, moved confidently and dominated everything around him. On road trips he was a self-styled expert on everything from Wall Street to tulip bulbs.

If he didn't like the rules of some card game the Lakers were playing 40,000 feet above Colorado, he instantly invented new ones. Nobody challenged him because this was Elg, who always seemed to be held in personal and professional awe by his teammates.

But the biggest thing Baylor proved in pro basketball is that a man 6-feet-5 can be just as effective on offense as a man seven feet — maybe more effective if he's also got Elgin's aggressiveness.

Mary Harkins Making Popovers For Clients Throughout State

Mary Harkins Popovers, made famous at the El Paseo Restaurant in Mill Valley, are now in full production at a new plant in Northgate Industrial Park at 48 Paul Drive, Room 4.

Lawrence

Bruce

Mrs. Harkins, who ran the El Paseo for 15 years until she sold out last December, began freezing her popovers seven years ago. They were so well received that she decided to set up a larger plant at Northgate Industrial Park. She is distributing frozen popovers to clients from Sacramento to Palm Springs.

Mark Harkins Popovers supplies many stores including Jurgensen's supermarkets, which has a chain of 18 outlets.

ALAN BRUCE, former Marin County Administrator, is back in town with a new job at Redwood Bank in San Rafael. He is director of economic planning for the bank.

Bruce resigned as administrator on July 1 last year. He and his wife spent nine months on a leisurely tour of six countries in Europe before returning to their home in San Anselmo.

Byron W. Leydecker, president of Redwood Bank, was a Marin County supervisor while Bruce was county administrator.

GEORGE E. LAWRENCE, who opened Lachman Bros. furniture store in San Rafael in 1960 and then munaged its successor, the Manor House, is now with W and J Sloane at Northgate Mall.

Lawrence has been in the furniture store business for 34 years. When Lachman Bros. folded in June of 1971, Lawrence managed Manor House until it closed in May of this year.

FRED P. McKILLOP Janitorial Service, with offices at 354 Hickory Lane in Terra Linda, has moved into Northgate Industrial Park to expand his rug cleaning operations.

Realtor Herman Deitch of San Rafael arranged the lease of warehouse and office space at 112 Mitchell Boulevard.

Cal Fong of San Francisco joined McKillop last month to manage the rug cleaning and tinting department, as well as upholstery furniture. Fong has 18 years of experience in this field.

McKillop, who hus been in the business for 20 years, the last 10 in Marin County, serves industry, offices and homes.

MARIN ASSOCIATION of Life Underwriters hus been cited by two national organizations for its outstanding community service efforts last year.

The Marin Association won a certificate of merit from the National Association of Life Underwriters in Washington, D.C., and from the Institute of Life Insurance in New York for production of a filmstrip called "Children in Crisis," which motivated citizens to become actively engaged in voluntary probation work.

Ross Brackenof Penn Mutual Life in San Rafael was public service chairman of the Marin Association of Life Underwriters last year. Jack G. Nixon of State Mutual Life in San Rafael was the association presidnet.

H. W. CUMMINGS of Cummings Studios in San Rafael has been elected to the executive committee of the Stained Glass Association of America. The association, headquartered in St. Louis, Mo., represents major studios in the United States in the field of manufacturing artistic windows for churches, institutional buildings and homes.

OIL IMPORTS GROW

Energy Crisis Endangers Dollar

NEW YORK (AP) — While the United States strives desperately to correct its foreign trade imbalance in order to save the dollar, its efforts are being undermined by a developing energy crisis.

The impending crisis, which energy experts say is now almost inevitable, is forcing the country to import millions of barrels of foreign oil and, consequently, export billions of dollars in payment.

Meanwhile, because of a web of environmental, economic and political factors, combined with a failure by industry and government to produce a unified, farwighted energy policy, corrective action is stymied.

It results in this contradiction:

The United States is estimated to have within its borders enough energy resources to meet its need for at least 200 years at current consumption rates.

But, while allegedly doing all it can to stop the dollar outflow, the country leaves much of its domestic resources untapped and, instead, imports oil and natural gas at a current rate of $5 billion a year — and growing. Moreover, energy experts claim the situation has developed so much momentum that dependence on foreign supplies will rise from 30 per cent this year to 40 in 1975.

Because of the long "lead" times needed to develop domestic supplies, and because of high costs, "the hour is now too late," in the words of one authority, John McLean, to escape the myriad effects of a vast energy problem.

The facets of that problem include power blackouts, possible higher prices, disputes between ecologists and domestic energy suppliers, and a vulnerability to the demands of the Arab producing nations.

It is the effect on the dollar, however, that probably offers the most ironic illustration of the dangers inherent in the nation's inability to coordinate corrective action among producers and 60 governmental agencies.

Despite the growing trade deficits that already have led to an unprecedented devaluation of the dollar and currency disruptions among the world's trading nations, the Federal government estimates that the deficit from energy imports alone could reach $25 billion by 1985.

Better Care Reduces Bills For Bicycles

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

How can you reduce the repair bills on your bicycle?

"By taking better care of it," is the advice of bicycle repairmen. If your brakes don't grab as quickly as they should, or the gears are slipping a bit, don't keep riding just because the problem doesn't seem serious at the time.

These symptoms are serious, and you will realize that when you get your repair bill. The cost of repairs would have been less if you had turned the bike in promptly.

Repairmen say that many people neglect their bikes, use them carelessly, fail to keep the tire pressure up, neglect to use the kick stand when they park, or try to repair a bicycle when they don't know how.

All this helps to create a work jam in bicycle repair shops, which are already servicing some 73 million bikes, with 10 million new ones coming onto the market this year, according to trade estimates.

Cyclists are asking for trouble when they dash into the house even for "Just a minute," and leave the bicycle leaning against a post or tree. If it tips over during that "minute," the spill may damage the gears or the brake or bend the spokes in the wheel.

Flat tires are a common problem. Many are unavoidable by the rider, but some could be avoided if tires were checked regularly for wear, air pressure, and for pieces of glass or other sharp particles.

Check the chain frequently to be sure that it is kept as clean as possible. It should have a light coating of oil at all times. If the saddle is made of leather, it should be kept waterproof with shoe polish, but rub hard to take excess polish off so it does not get on clothing.

Bike owners shouldn't attempt any major repairs on their own unless they have the right tools and know how to use them. But, for emergencies on the road, riders should carry a small crescent wrench and a screwdriver.

Don't try to save money by buying a cheap bike. Repairmen find that they require more frequent repairs, and, in the end, you may spend as much as you would have had you bought a better one in the first place.

If you can, buy your bicycle at a place that also provides service. Most repair shops have a big backlog of work, and you might stand a better chance of quick service if you were to take your bike back to home base for repairs.

For those people who want to avoid these long waits and do their own repair work, a book has been written just for them. It is called "Anybody's Bike Book, An Original Manual of Bicycle Repairs." It is a paperback, price $3 and it is in most bookstores. But if you can't find it, for 25 cents more you can receive it from the publisher, Ten Speed Press, 2513 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, Calif. 94704.

Market Shows Gains In Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The market, continuing a trend begun in the previous session, moved sharply higher during the first two hours today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The rally was triggered early Tuesday when the White House announced presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was holding secret Vietnam peace talks in Paris. He was to report to President Nixon today.

Thus, the market again has demonstrated its sensitivity to Vietnam peace hopes, many analysts said. Analysts also noted factory orders were up 2.6 per cent in June.

American Motors, which had strong second quarter earnings, was the most active issue, up ⅛ at 10 ½ on 114,100 shares.

Prices also were higher on the American Stock Exchange. Omega Alpha warrants were the most active on the Amex, off ⅝ at 1 ⅞ on 102,000 traded.

Airlines continued to move higher. Delt a (ex-dividend gained 2 ⅜; Flying Tiger 1 ¼ and Eastern Airlines and UAL Inc. 1 apiece.

Honeywell jumped 1 ¼ in the mixed electronics and computers. Control Data lost 2, IBM 1 ¼, Burroughs 1 ⅛. IBM introduced a new storage system and two new computers to its System-370 computer.

Philip Morris added 2 and Corning Glass 1 ¼ in the mixed glamors. Schlumberger, despite higher second quarter earnings, lost 3 and Curtiss-Wright 1 ⅛.

Chemicals were higher. Allied Chemical added 1 ⅛; and Eastman Kodak ½.

Record Earnings

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Empire Financial Corp. has reported record six-month earnings of $1,663,877, or 81 cents per share, up 24 per cent over the $1,337,751, or 66 cents per share, for the first half of 1971.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

New Antibiotics Give Upjohn Lift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you tell me if there is a possibility of Upjohn Co. splitting its shares? I bought 50 shares at $100. — M.S.

A. Certainly when shares in any company move up over the $100 mark, a split is always a possibility. There are, however, a substantial number of issues which have traded at and above that level for long periods without splittieg shares. Although Upjohn has one of the lowest five-year growth rates in the drug industry, a new line of antibiotic drugs, increased chemical capacity and foreign plant expansion should reverse this trend. In the March quarter sales rose 1 per cent with net up 26.5 per cent. At the current 37x price/earnings multiple shares hare amply discounted the improved profit level.

Q. I have been advised to sell the nine stocks on the enclosed list. These I have kept since my husband's death a year ago. In addition, I hold 62 shares of American Telephone and $8,000 in American General Bond Fund both NYSE-listed. I have monthly income from Social Security and an annuity of $250 plus $42,000 in various savings accounts. Many of the stocks are well below the price paid and I would like your opinion on selling. — H.M.

A. Because your income from all sources is evidently adequate for your needs you are probably concerned with preserving or moderately enlarging your capital. Several of your holdings are entirely too speculative in your situation and these should be sold. In this category are LVO Corp. (NYSE) and Liberty Homes (OTC). In the case of Magnavox Co. (NYSE) and Technicon, your holdings are very small and sale is recommended to simplify your portfolio. Palm Beach Co. (NYSE) has recently turned earnings around; shares shouldbe held for recovery and then eliminated from your list.

As far as your funds permit I would favor rounding to 100 shares Allied Maintenance, Dymo Industries, Hayes-Albion and MONY Mortgage Investors, all listed on the Big Board.

New Agency Means More Bureaucracy?

County Administrator John F. Barrows has consistently warned against the proposed countywide regional park district, which appears headed for a decision by voters in November.

The Administrator makes some convincing points:

The purchase of open space for park purposes can be handled just as easily through existing county departments like the parks and recreation department. Therefore, creation of a countywide district with separate taxing powers would be an unnecessary and unwarranted layer of government to tax the already overburdened property owner.

"It flies in the face of sound governmental policy aiming at reduction of the number of separate taxing entities rather than increasing them," said Barrows. He supports the county's open space program but opposes this "unnecessary" district."

Barrows may be motivated by the desire to retain some control over county parks matters through the existing county government structure. But whatever his motives, his conclusions make good sense.

A similar movement for another special purpose district was launched in Marin after World War II. County roads had deteriorated becase of limited maintenance and no improvements during the war years.

Disgruntled with poor roads and impatient with lack of action, the citizens mounted a campaign for a countywide road and highway district, with the governing board independent of the county supervisors and presumably with its own taxing power.

Fortunately, this failed to get off the ground. No one today regrets the fact that we do not have an independent county highway district imposing separate taxes on us.

The same would be true of parks. Public acquisition of park land and open spaces is a slow and tedious process. However, we should not let impatience and feelings of frustration rush us into creating a new agency that we may later regret.

It is true that the present proposal calls for the county board of supervisors to be the governing board,and the tax rate ceiling to be 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation. However, new agencies have a tendency to grow into monstrous tax eaters. If that 10-cent ceiling is rigid and absolute, the inflexibility itself could be a drawback.

Furthermore, there is no provision in the countywide park district for smaller taxing zones within the county to permit communities like Upper Lucas Valley to acquire their own open sapce.

The county should heed the County Administrator's warnings and prevent the creation of another unwieldy agency in our bureaucratic hierarchy.

Single Persons Suffer Under State Income Tax

By RUS WALTON

Ask Assemblyman Bob Cline, R-Canoga Park; he'll tell you. California's income tax is taking single persons to the cleaner. And ripping off their buttons.

Cline figures that under the existing tax structure single persons subsidize the state to the tune of $168 million a year. That's the amount of tax they pay over and above what they would pay if they were taxed at the same rates as married couples with no children who file joint returns.

"THE SINGLE guy —or gal —pays anywhere from 50 per cent to 2500 per cent more state income tax than married persons with comparable taxable incomes." Tell 'em, Robert!

And he does. He pulls out a chart to back up his claims.

Here are his comparative figures on the existing tax take for a single person and a married couple filing a joint return:

Tax Income	Married	Single
$ 5,000	000	$ 70
7,000	$ 50	155
10,000	140	330
13,000	260	565
16,000	410	855

CLINE INTRODUCED AB 555 to rectify all this. It would extend the community property concept to income-splitting to the single person.

"Even though there may be only one wage earner between them, married couples can split their income for tax purposes. Under my bill, single persons would get the same break.

"It's the progressive income tax rate, that's what causes the trouble. It kills incentive to earn more and it forces single persons to cough up an unfair amount to the state." That's what Bob Cline says.

HE SANG THE same song when he testified before the House Ways and Means committee in Washington. He went back to support similar legislation at the federal level.

Cline, a former financial consultant, claims that unmarried heads of households — widows and divorcees — are getting gypped, too.

He figures they pay anywhere from 40 per cent to 500 per cent more than married couples with the same number of children and the same taxable income.

And, he's got a chart to support that contention, too. Here is his comparison of the state income tax take for a married couple with two kids, filing a joint return, and an unmarried head of household:

Tax Income	Married	Single
$ 5,000	000	$ 25
7,000	$ 34	87
10,000	124	242
13,000	244	457
16,000	394	732

EARLIER THIS year Cline introduced AB 111 to try to do something about all of that. The bill would lower the tax for the single head of a household to the same rate as the married persons filing a joint return.

Said Cline: "I see no reason whatsoever why a divorced woman or a widow should have to pay higher taxes than her married counterpart with the same number of children. It's discrimination."

Both of Cline's bills got through the Assembly. AB 555 is sitting in Senate Revenue and Tax. AB 111 got through Revenue and Tax and hit a snag in Senate Finance. It was one vote short: Senator Alan Short, D-Stockton, pledged his vote but failed to deliver, so Cline has asked for reconsideration.

BOTH BILLS should be heard this week — if the Senate is in session and if it is over its other tax hang-ups.

The main opposition to Cline's bills comes from the spenders. They say the adjusted tax rates would reduce the state's total tax take.

Isn't that just like a bureaucrat? I mean, it seems some folks never think about the wage earner. Even when there is a surplus of $456 million!

General Lavelle Ignored His Boss

Hugh Pessner's letter (July 21) confused me. He and his compadre John Schmitz, I believe, are members of the Jack Acid Society. That organization professes a high regard for "law and order." Law and order in a military organization is called discipline. Discipline means that one follows the orders of his superiors even if he disagrees with those orders. A military organization without discipline is an armed mob, witness Kent State. General Lavelle violated discipline by ignoring and flouting the orders of his Commander in Chief. By challenging the American principle of supremacy of the civilian over the military, he has endangered the American constitutional form of government.

Thus Mr. Pessner's conclusion is 180 degrees out from the proper one. To preserve our constitutional republic, General Lavelle should not receive public acclaim, he should be court-martialled.

Excellent Article On Cancer 'Drug'

Re: Article in the July 29th issue regarding Laetrile.

Congratulations to the I-J and to Mary Leydecker for the excellent article on the controversial "drug" Laetrile. I think the article is extremely timely and well written with the exception of one minor point. It is my understanding that Laetrile is not a drug; but rather a food supplement known as vitamin B-17.

Last February, at our quarterly Board of Governors meeting in Santa Barbara, the United Republicans of California passed a resolution urging the FDA to undertake testing of Laetrile and to allow American citizens the "freedom of choice" to determine for themselves whether this compound will help or harm them. As Mr. Hutchinson and Mrs. Vencius point out in Mary Leydecker's article, Laetrile certainly does not appear to have the severe side effects of other "approved" cancer treatments such as cobalt, etc. This, then raises the question of the strange reluctance on the part of the FDA to test this substance? It would also be worthwhile to hear krom the American Cancer Society on this subject.

Incidentally, this writer has stated on numerous occasions that our College of Marin has engaged in "indoctrination" rather than "educating" our students. This seminar last spring on Laetrile was an excellent example of the educational process at work. Those at College of Marin that put this seminar on are also to be commended for bringing this information to the community. Let's have a repeat and much more publicity.

Fluorides Listed As Deadly Poison

Every few years when the proponents of fluoridation of drinking water think that the opponents have forgotten about it, we find them out on the streets getting signatures to put the proposition on the ballot again. They never seem to learn that fluoridation of public drinking water is illegal in California.

Under the California Health & Safety Code, Section 20703, we find, "Schedule "A" Arsenic and Schedule "C" Fluorides soluble in water. Both are listed as deadly poisons. Section 20751 makes it "unlawful to vend, sell, give away or furnish, either directly or indirectly any poison enumerated in Section 20703 without a poison label." Penal Code Sections 347 and 182 say, "it is a felony for anyone in California to willfully put poison in any well or reservoir, and when two or more persons conspire to commit that crime, they are guilty of a felony."

We, who are opposed to fluoridation are not trying to prevent those who want it from using it. There are many good fluoride toothpastes on the market and anyone can buy fluoride tablets in a drug store to add to their drinking water at home. Under a doctor's prescription the dose can be controlled, which is impossible with the "hit or miss" method of dumping it in the public drinking water.

Park District Aim: Save Open Space

Because there seems to be some misconception surrounding the proposed Regional Park and Open Space District (Mr. Fusselman's column, I-J, July 21), we wish to clarify the intent of our efforts to create such a district for Marin County.

People for Parks and Open Space first formed last fall to plan a public forum for people to express their opinion on what would be the best method to preserva open space in Marin. At a symposium held at Alexander Hall last January, an overwhelming majority of the 200 people in attendance favored a countywide Regional Park and Open Space District. PPOS then formed a steering committee whose purpose was to work towards putting the district on the November ballot. At all times the emphasis was on the preservation of open space. It was never our intention to focus on recreational activities or even on heavy use public parks.

The Board of Supervisors, recognizing broad public support for open space preservation, then moved to create a district which would allow themselves to sit as the governing body. During deliberation by the supervisors a recreational district — which could also become involved in open space acquisition — was discussed briefly since the law already provided for boards of supervisors to sit as the governing board. This district also carried a higher tax rate than the 10 cents allowed under a regional park district and would have excluded areas which were already formed into recreation districts. That proposal was quickly discarded in favor of the regional park district which required minor legislative amendment. This may have been the cause of some confusion as to exactly what type of district the county intended to establish.

The intent, as we understand it, was always to provide open space by methods which would allow the county more flexibility in planning and funding. The supervisors have already indicated by their presentation to the Local Agency Formation Commission that the district would spend a minimum of 90 per cent of its funds on open space acquisition, that development would be strictly limited to only those things which are compatible with open space — such as trails, and that the open space program now supported by the county's general fund would cease as soon as the district is formed and functioning. This will preclude the double taxation Mr. Fusselman referred to in his column. Mr. Bagley's amendment to require the funds to be used only for new acquisition and not to be spent for development of already acquired park land is also entirely consistent with this intent.

We wholeheartedly support the creation of the Regional Park and Open Space district and hope this will help to clarify the issue.

Independent Agency Needed To Probe Presidential Health

WASHINGTON — The American people have the right and the need to know everything about the physical and mental health of all four candidates in a presidential election.

That is imperative, as the Eagleton crisis shows, regardless of whether or not he remains on the Democratic ticket.

They not only have the right to know; they ought to demand all the medical facts — not from ex parte sources which may wish to put the best possible face on the situation, but from a detached and reliable investigation.

THE PUBLIC HAS already been misled once when vital information about the ill health of a presidential candidate was concealed. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was a sick man when he ran for his fourth term in 1944. He died four months after he took office.

The public will not be protected from inadequate or misleading knowledge if it has to realy on ex parte information from inside the camps of either set of candidates.

It isn't good enough to have one or two physicians who have treated Sen. Eagleton stand up at a press conference and answer a few lay questions. It isn't good enough to have the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington issue a succinct verdict that President Nixon and Vice President Agnew are in good shape.

NOTHING LESS than an independent commission on presidential health is needed to report to the country on all four candidates.

Sen. McGovern and President Nixon ought to join in creating such a commission to do the job which so obviously and so urgently needs to be done.

It could be composed of two distinguished physicians of the highest professional and personal repute; also someone like the president of the American Bar Assn., and two others; one chosen by the President, the other by Sen. McGovern.

Perhaps a better makeup for the commission can be devised. The overriding necessity is that it be competent and trustworthy.

THERE OUGHT to be no delay. There ought to be no resistance to such an objective, independent inquiry.

If there is any resistance by either side, it can hardly fail to persuade the public that there is something to hide.

An official spokesman for McGovern-Eagleton has stated that they would not open the Eagleton medical records for the scrutiny of the press. He explained that they are not written in lay terms. But they could be read and understood and weighed by the independent commission on presidential health. And should be.

EVERYTHING WHICH has come out in the Eagleton affair cries out for an independent board of medical inquiry.

How Sen. McGovern allowed it to develop needs to be made clear, whether Eagleton does or does not remain on the ticket.

Sen. Eagleton did not level with Sen. McGovern.

Eagleton said later that he had been living in constant fear that his medical record might be raised. "When will I be asked?" he pondered. "When will somebody know?"

Sen. McGovern asked rather offhandedly — and Sen. Eagleton did not tell him. McGovern unwisely let the matter slide.

IT IS OBVIOUS that the McGovern staff made a loose, inadequate investigation of reports of Eagleton's three-time hospitalization and psychiatric treatment. They failed to get the full facts in time to weigh them before the nomination and McGovern did not get them until the day of public disclosure.

There was no disclosure until the Knight Newspapers revealed to Eagleton that they had the story.

All four candidates should be subject to exactly the same kind of objective inquiry into their physical and mental health. There should be absolute evenhandedness. Only an indepent commission car do it and meet the public's right to know.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Be Skeptical Of Candidates Who Report Crime Reduction

WASHINGTON — We should have heard the last of law and order as a presidential campaign issue, unless this time the Democrats decide turnabout is fair play. By its nature, it is an issue the outs use against the ins, as Mr. Nixon did in 1968 and he and Mr. Agnew did with such vain vigor in the congressional campaigns of 1970. However, don't be surprised if the current ins tour the country this fall, pointing with pride to figures showing how dramatically things have improved in the last four years.

Just be skeptical.

OF COURSE, the Republicans are hoping there will be just the right amount of hairy lawlessness from the street people against their convention at Miami Beach, and most of the hell-raisers will be wearing McGovern buttons big enough to be legible over TV. They could splice a few feet of that together with some shots of Jane Fonda wearing her steel helmet playing Hanoi Hannah, then coming home to urge people to vote McGovern, and run it as a paid GOP commercial every night. That way they could save themselves a lot of trouble and travel expenses during the fall.

BUT THAT IS not the kind of law and order Mr. Nixon made so much of in those previous campaigns. He specialized in talking tough about rape and robbery and safe streets, and how the appointment of some hardheaded judges would correct all that. "The truth is that we will reduce crime and violence when we enforce our laws," he said in insisting poverty was not responsible for the crime rate.

In the final week of the 1968 campaign, he said at Marion, Ill., "My friends, when 43 per cent of the American people are afraid to walk in the streets of their cities, it's time for a housecleaning, a new attorney general and a new policy to establish freedom from fear in this country . . . Let me tell you, I am an expert in this field. I pledge you I'll take personal charge . . ."

THEN HE GOT elected. We got a housecleaning, a new attorney general, a new policy. The expert took charge. The federal crime reduction budget is up to almost triple the level in Mr. Johnson's last fiscal year. Within it, funds earmarked for rehabilitation of offenders and other high-priority programs have gone up by an even greater percentage. The President's efforts to crack down on international drug traffic, for example, have been intense and apparently are beginning to take hold.

But in the judgment of specialists in the law enforcement field, Mr. Nixon's eagerness to show results has inspired the flimflamming of the public. According to investigators for Justice magazine, there is wholesale downgrading of crime statistics in city after city across the country, in an effort to make the President happy by making his program seem effective now, before it has had time to be fully felt. The fudging of figures is not primarily by officials of the national administration, but by local and state police chiefs who recognize that attractive statistics are likely to bring them increased federal funding.

IT IS NOT a new finding, in this community or that. The Baltimore Sun published a prize-winning series last year about how crimes were minimized in that city. What is new is the broad scale of it.

William R. Morrissey, reporting after a two-month study of the trend, quotes one official as saying, "Some departments don't even record certain serious crimes that are reported to them."

HERE IN Washington, the figures turned upward in 1969 because of a stricter reporting system. But a year later, they tumbled, and were down still farther by this spring. So Mr. Nixon invited chief Jerry Wilson to the White House Rose Garden, and complimented him on halving the rate of major offenses since November, 1969. He did not have to point out how that time frame ran concurrently with his own presidential term. And he did not dare point out that in the same period, the Washington Daily News was running an expose about how police reports here were being downgraded, especially on robberies.

The message here is not that Mr. Nixon has reneged on his campaign promises. It is that the American public is getting a distorted picture of crime trends because of his administration's demand for written proof of success now, before November. Thus the moral: Beware of candidates bearing crime statistics.

Aging Pappy Is Slowing Down But He's Still The Top Dog

The top dog in Fairfax is just that - top dog.

Pappy Waldorf - named for a former football coach at UC Berkeley - was adopted as the official mascot of the Fairfax Fire Department in 1964. The speckled Dalmation was given to the department by a woman in Tiburon, and he's been the pride of the Fairfax force ever since.

He's loved by young and old alike, firemen say, and can be found at any given time lounging in his den underneath the backstairs of the Fairfax firehouse.

BUT THE AGING Pappy has run into some trouble of late.

One resident complained that Pappy kicked over her garbage can and ate a batch of porch shingles on a recent nighttime outing. She demanded that the dog be tied up at night in accordance with the city's leash laws.

"I won't have him tied up because he's too old," Fire Chief Charles F. Thornton promptly declared.

There hadn't been such a flap in Fairfax since Hank the Cat was nearly banned from Harry's Mart on Bolinas Road.

AND IT LOOKS like Pappy, like Hank, will win the battle.

"We keep Pappy in at night now, but we do allow him to roam a bit," the chief said the other day.

Pappy's been the subject of similar dispute before. Several years ago, the force gave the dog away after reports of nighttime prowling. "But a woman in Sonoma brought him back because he just wouldn't eat," the chief remembers.

Pappy Waldorf, who now receives cortisone shots for arthritis and sulfodine salve for a rash, was quite a hustler in his day. He once fought off ten other dogs for the favors of one bitch, firemem recall.

HE'S A BIT slower nowadays, however.

At first, Pappy would howl, growl and generally raise a fuss on sight of anyone wearing a hat. Things were pretty noisy at the firehouse for awhile. "We broke him of that pretty quick," Chief Thornton laughed.

Eating porch shingles? The chief just won't believe it. "He gets all the dog food he can eat - and a steak once in awhile," he said.

It looks like the top dog in Fairfax is still on top.

MEANWHILE, THE town of Ross is being hounded by a problem of a different sort.

The town pays the San Rafael accounting firm of Leader, Jarbis and Keigwin for bookkeeping services as well as an audit of those books.

There's nothing illegal about the arrangement, though it is odd. Both the firm and the town deny any wrongdoing.

But the situation has aroused the ire of at least one Ross resident. "In all my years in the finance district, I've never heard of anything funnier than someone auditing his own books," declared C. J. Bradley, a retired bank cashier.

"It smells," he sniffed.

Perhaps so. It would appear that the town is leaving itself open to charges of bad business management.

Simple Method Proposed For Teaching Of Phonics

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, thinks the entire California State Department of Education should go back to school and learn to real and spell — with SPA..

SPA is the Self Pronouncing Alphabet, an invention of C. LeRoy James, a former theater owner of Beaumont, Riverside County, who served two terms on the Beaumont school board. It is a remarkably simple device for teaching phonics.

THE ALPHABET IS made self-pronouncing by adding dots to the 10 letters — the vowels plsu Y, W, X, C and G — which have two sounds in English spelling. Location of the dot shows the sound the letter takes in the word. For instance, a dot at the end of the top bar of E gives it the long sound, as in eel; when the dot is at the end of the bottom bar, E has the short sound as in elephant.

A detached dot underneath a letter shows that letter is silent. Thus the bugaboo of silent letters is quickly eliminated for the beginning reader.

James copyrighted SPA in 1967 and got it introduced in a few Protestant primary schools. "In five years of using, no reading failures have been recorded," he declares.

IN THE LAST two years, SPA has begun to gain wider acceptance, pushed by Beacon Enterprises, Inc., of Santa Cruz, which was organized to develop and publish SPA materials. About 200 schools in 17 states now are using it, according to Paul Jennings, who heads Beacon Enterprises. Most of these are church-operated schools, but about 25 public schools in California have begun using the system, Jennings reports. Inlceuded are schools in Redwood City, Richmond, Tracy, Marysville, Yuba City, Red Bluff, and several other communities.

JAMES SHOWED his system to Assemblyman Barnes (who is the best known among educators for his numerous bills to revamp the State Teachers Retirement System), and the San Diego assemblyman became an enthusiast. Early in the current legislative session, Barnes introduced Assembly Resolution 35, calling on the state Department of Education to make a study of the value of SPA and report to the Legislature within 60 days. The resolution was passed May 4 without dissent.

The 60 days went by and nothing happened. Finally, needled by Barnes and James, the department submitted a report last week.

The report, prepared by Harvey Hunt of State Supt. Wilson C. Riles's staff, concluded that there "is no proof of superiority" of SPA over current systems of teaching reading.

ASSEMBLYMAN BARNES took issue with this conclusion. But what fired him up most was that Hunt's letter of transmittal was addressed to "the Horable Richard E. Barnes," said the report will be "destributed," and contained several other misspellings.

"Man, those people need to go to school!" snorted Barnes. "They need SPA."

Despite the adverse report from the state Department of Education, the last has not been heard of businessman James's invention. American Reading Centers are using SPA materials. This month an SPA training session for teachers is scheduled at Lincoln School in Redwood City. Use of the system, according to Jennings, is "growing like Topsy."

MUCH EXPERIMENTING has been done, and much money spent, on Sir Richard Pitman's Initial Teaching Alphabet, which adds 20 letters to the Roman alphabet to enable children to learn to read phonetically. A principal objection to ITA is that it actually requires the child to learn two alphabets, and to transfer his reading from one to the other at about third grade.

The Self Pronouncing Alphabet accomplishes the same aim without adding letters. Transition from the dotted letters to those without dots poses no problem for the child, James insists.

But the Beaumont ex-theater owner is up against a familiar problem: Educators tend to ignore his innovation because he is not himself an educator.

Huge State Tax Shift Would Cut Marin Burden

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A compromise $1.2 billion tax shift and school finance bill pending in the Legislature would cut school district property tax rates in Marin by up to $1.05 next fiscal year by increasing state educational aid.

This maximum cut would occur in the Novato Unified School District, according to figures computed by the state Department of Finance and released by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Most of the cuts the first year in Marin, however, would be about 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The lowest cut would be three-tenths of a cent in the San Rafael High School district.

The complex financing plan, SB 90 by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro, is expected to clear the Assembly floor today for a return to the upper house for Senate concurrence. A similar plan, however, already has failed in the Senate, and it was uncertain whether the new try will succeed before Friday's scheduled three-month recess.

The bill is designed to start equalizing the amount each district throughout the state spends per pupil. The Novato district, for example, spends $730 per pupil, less than one-fourth the $3,283 spent in the Sausalito School District.

This equalization provision in the bill would see state aid to local districts increase in coming years, with a corresponding cut in property tax rates.

School districts at or below the "foundation program" in the bill ($770 per pupil in elementary schools and $955 in high schools) would be allowed to increase their spending at a rate equal to the annual inflation factor. Those with programs in excess of the two amounts would be more limited in annual spending increases.

The annual inflation factor would be set by the departments of finance and education and the legislative analyst.

Any spending level in excess of these limits would require voter approval.

To finance the plan, the statewide sales tax would be increased from a nickel to six cents on the dollar, bank and corporation taxes hiked, motor vehicle fees boosted and personal income taxes raised if federal revenue sharing did not occur.

The impact of the bill on each of the 19 school districts in Marin, with the anticipated property tax rate for this year compared with the rate projected for fiscal 1973-74 in parentheses, were:

Bolinas-Stinson, $2.361 ($2.206); Dixie, $4.654 ($3.620); Fairfax, $3.782 ($3.434); Kentfield, $3.204 ($3.048); Laguna, $2.544 ($2.378); Lagunitas, $4.173 ($3.488); Larkspur, $3.412 ($3.290); Lincoln, $1.951 ($1.835); Mill Valley, $3.264 ($3.211); Nicasio, $2.018 ($1.912); Novato, $4.921 ($3.870); Reed, $3.291 ($3.144); Ross, $3.259 ($3.123); San Anselmo, $3.041 ($2.860); San Rafael Elementary, $3.050 ($2.939); San Rafael High, $2.254 ($2.251); Sausalito, $3.667 ($3.407); Tamalpais High, $2.307 ($2.258); and Union Joint, $1.967 ($1.880.

Some Big Changes In New Scout Handbook

NEW YORK (UPI)—The new Boy Scout handbook, which goes on sale Sept. 1, reflects the growing concern with the problems of America, including the issues of drugs and ecology.

The 480-page eighth edition indicates the new direction taken by the more than 6 million-member Boy Scouts of America.

The major changes in the new handbook are:

—Inclusion of information on drugs.

—Emphasis on scouting in the city and community service.

—Discussion of family relationships, home health and safety and child care.

—Increased emphasis on ecology.

—A revised interpretation of the 12 points of Scout Law, eliminating archaic terms of the early 1900's but leaving basic concepts unchanged.

What the Scouts call the "old standbys" of hiking and camping are still dealt with, although gone are details on tracking, stalking and signalling which appeared in the original 1911 manual.

The Scouts have signaled the change through the handbook's cover which shows four scouts aiming a telescope at the moon while inside the book illustrations attempt to reflect an ethnic mix.

Berkeley Council Rejects Lease On People's Park

BERKELEY (UPI) — After one councilman called it a "hot potato," the city council voted Tuesday night to temporarily reject a proposal to lease embattled People's Park from the University of California.

The lease worked out in negotiations between a city committee and a committee of individuals from the Berkeley campus would require the city to pay development and maintenance costs.

By a 2-1 vote, with two radical members abstaining and the two other radicals absent, the council turned down the proposed seven-year lease at $1 a year with an option to purchase the property for $1.3 million.

Council members expressed hesitancy whether students and users of the park would participate in upkeep of the property. Conservative councilman Tom McClaren said, "This piece of property has been a hot potato."

Mayor Warren Widener, one of the abstainers from the vote, said he wasn't ready to pass judgment on the proposal which he said was still being negotiated. He said he expects the matter will be again brought up for a vote later in the summer.

Two Bills By Behr Win Final Approval

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills sought by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission have won final legislative approval and gone to the governor for signature into law.

One, SB 181, will permit county supervisors on the commission to appoint any county officials their alternates. The present requirement that only suprervissrs may represent counties has resulted in low attendance at meetings and delays for commission actions.

The other bill, SB 793, extends the commission's jurisdiction up Corte Madera Creek to the Ross-Kentfield line. Its jurisdiction now ends at Highway 101, exempting from its controls creek property subject to development.

Both bills were authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. His office predicted both will be signed.

Knifer Released After 8 Months

Mark D. Souza, 31, of Petaluma, has been released from state prison after serving eight months for assault with a deadly weapon.

Souza had been sentenced to state prison in April, but the sentence was modified Thursday in Sonoma County Superior Court to allow his release on three years' probation. Souza was convicted of stabbing his former wife, Carolyn, last Oct. 11 at their Petaluma home.

Judge John Moskowitz granted his release after favorable reports from the department of corrections and Sonoma County Probation Office. Souza said he would move to Burbank to start a new life and agreed to participate in counseling or psychotherapy for a year.

Legislation Introduced For Off Track Betting

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation ordering a study of off-track betting has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The measure, ACR 121, declared "there is an increasing need in this state for additional revenue sources, and the expansion of voluntary taxation should be closely examined."

The resolution, however, creates a joint committee on off-track betting with the sole duty to study this form of "voluntary taxation." The committee's findings would be due by March 15 next year.

Costs of the committee, according to Bagley's measure, would be financed from the contingent funds of the two hour houses. No sum was mentioned in the measure.

Petaluma Talks On Housing Set

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night took its first look at the proposed housing element and scheduled a special meeting on the subject for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The proposal suggests that more multi-family housing be encouraged since building in recent years has largely been single-family homes.

It also suggests that housing for persons in low and moderate income brackets be encouraged along with the renovation of deteriorating neighborhoods.

In other business, the commission approved the rezoning of land on Douglas Street near Hagstrom's Shopping center from residential to neighborhood-commercial as requested by Buddha's University Foundation of San Francisco.

The commission also granted the application of Petaluma Yellow Cab Co. to operate three taxis from the existing cab stand at 128 Kentucky Street.

Schmitz May Win Nomination

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., appeared today to be the front-runner for the American Party's presidential nomination.

Schmitz, a lame-duck congressman and a member of the John Birch Society, was expected to formally announce his candidacy today and then fly to Louisville to line up support.

Nearly 2,000 delegates were expected for the three-day convention which opens tomorrow.

Welfare Funds For Marin And Sonoma

Marin County has been allocated $249,600 and Sonoma $453,691 by the state Department of Social Welfare as their share of $45,932,031 in aid to counties for administering dependent children and adult programs.

Under the 1971 Welfare Reform Act, the state for the first time is assuming part of the counties' welfare administrative expense.

Theft, Drug Case Lacks Evidence

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday decided there was not enough evidence to hold James Daniel Herrero, 20, of Fairfax, for trial on charges of car theft and being under the influence of drugs.

Judge Robert A. Smallman also reduced a felony charge of possessing marijuana to a misdemeanor.

Herrero had been arrested July 6 in San Anselmo after police said they found him "in a daze" at the wheel of a beer truck which had been stolen shortly before in Fairfax.

Several grams of suspected hashish were found in his pocket.

Herrero pleaded innocent to the reduced charge, and a pre-trial conference was scheduled for Friday.

Tourism Gaining

LONDON (UPI)—The number of tourists visiting Britain in the off-season first four months of the year jumped 18 per cent this year over 1971, according to the British Tourist Authority.

Ellsberg Attorneys Ask Tribunal Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo asked the Supreme Court today to deny the government's unusual request to overturn Justice William O. Douglas' stay of their Pentagon papers trial.

Douglas stayed the trial last Saturday —48 hours before it was to begin —on grounds the defense had raised a substantial question regarding the constitutionality of government wiretapping of a conversation involving a defense attorney or consultant. The controversy could lead to a rare special court session.

"This case raises a question going to the core of the constitutional guarantee of fair trial," the defense told the court in papers filed with them, "for it is beyond dispute that a prosecution may not be used in any manner on intersection of defense counsel's conversations relevant to the case."

The attorneys also asked that Justice William H. Rehnquist Jr., who was assistant attorney general for the Office of Legal Council when the Pentagon papers issue first arose, not take part in the case.

The papers were filed by seven lawyers led by Leonard B. Boudin representing Ellsberg and Leonard I. Wineglass for Russo.

They want the stay continued until they can litigate the wiretap issue. The government has disclosed that it overheard one of the attorneys or consultants to Ellsberg and Russo on a wiretap installed at the authority of the attorney general to gather intelligence.

Douglas stayed the trial on grounds this raised the question whether the Sixth Amendment guaranteeing the right to counsel had been violated. Chief justice Warren E. Burger has advised the vacationing court members of the government's request that no decision has been made on whether they will decide to convene in special session to hear the case.
